"Renovations to Sterling are not off the table," he said. Sterling won't be considered for state funding until the moratorium is lifted, he said. Many city and state officials believe the formula for calculating the state's reimbursement will be changed when the moratorium is lifted. Phelan said the rate of reimbursement for Sterling is unknown at this time.

A move by the mayor's office to advertise the bond on Aug. 16, two days ahead of the council meeting, puzzled some councilors.

"What was the point of having a special council meeting to vote on a bond if the bond was already advertised?" said Ward 6 Councilor and mayoral candidate Joseph Newton. "I thought it was the council's role to vote whether to advertise a bond. I'm questioning the legality of it. There is an appearance that the council was circumvented on the issue."

Ward 5 Councilor Doug Gutro said the decision to advertise the bond without the council's consent "mystifies me."

"I received no phone call, no memo, no fax, no e-mail about this. It hit me out of the blue, and it mystifies me," he said.

But Phelan said the early advertisement was designed to give councilors a bit more flexibility regarding the approval of the bond. The bond request appearing in advertisements is an updated version of a financing plan approved in 1997 for the renovation of Point Webster Middle School.

Gutro and Ward 1 Councilor Greg Hanley are co-sponsoring a neighborhood meeting to address the design of the new Quincy High School on Aug. 25 at 7 p.m. in the Thomas Crane Public Library.

Hanley said the design team will make a full presentation and answer questions from residents.

Traffic, Flooding Issues Raised Over Quincy H.S. Plan

By WILLIAM TRAYNOR

About 60 residents packed a meeting room at the Thomas Crane Library Monday night to hear about the city's plans to build a new Quincy High School and transform the existing school into Central Middle School.

Sponsored by Ward 1 Councillor Greg Hanley and Ward 5 Councillor Doug Gutro, the public forum gave residents the opportunity to express concerns and provide input on the proposed $110 million plan.

Monday night's meeting was designed to present residents with an overview of the entire project, located on Coddington St. and Faxon Field.

City officials and engineers received an earful from those in attendance, who voiced concerns regarding traffic, flooding and parking.

Under a modified plan ironed out by city and state officials, about two and a half of the six acres of wetlands would be preserved on the Faxon Field site. Outdoor basketball courts have been eliminated to make way for the wetlands. And tennis courts have been relocated to the roof of one of the proposed parking garages.

City Solicitor Monica Conynham told residents the design plan "is very much a work in progress."

"There may be quite a bit of site realignment," she said. Conynham said public input would be incorporated into the final plan.

Along with the proposed construction, the city will undertake a $9.5 million project to alleviate flooding and drainage problems in the surrounding neighborhoods. The project includes the replacement of water mains and on-site wetland replication.

City officials and project engineers assured residents that the new drainage system would be a vast improvement over the current one. The proposed drainage plan is designed to withstand flooding conditions associated with a 10-year storm, officials said.

Residents heard from representatives of Camp, Dresser & McKee, the engineering consultant hired to study and design a flood relief plan. The firm is also studying projections of traffic flow if the new high school and middle school are located on Coddington St.

Some residents complained that the proposed flood relief plan would be inadequate.

Robert Cerasoli of 54 Russell Park, who said his residence suffers from sewer-related problems, criticized

Cleanup Continues On Quincy Center Gas Spill

By WILLIAM TRAYNOR

Cleanup crews will continue to work around the clock this week in an effort to rectify any damage to the environment after a massive gasoline spill sent thousands of gallons of flammable liquid onto the city's streets and into the sewer system.

Remnants of gasoline continued to linger in Quincy Center this week after the flammable liquid spilled from a crashed tanker Thursday night.

Approximately 10,000 gallons of fuel spewed from an 18-wheeler that overturned trying to navigate the corner from Temple St. to Washington St. The 10 p.m. crash sent gasoline flowing into the city's sewer system and along Coddington St. The situation was so dangerous that a single spark could have ignited a devastating explosion, safety officials said.

Despite the massive spill, a potentially lethal situation was contained without serious incident, officials said. No one was injured, officials said. State and local officials said Quincy schools would open as planned. The situation posed no health or safety threat to students, officials said.

The state Department of Environmental Protection (DEP), the United States Coast Guard, the Quincy Fire Department Hazardous Materials division and Clean Harbors are involved in the cleanup effort.

Delahunt Resolution Calls For UN Role In Iraq

Congressman William Delahunt says the recent bombing of UN headquarters in Baghdad underscores the urgency of greater UN and NATO involvement in the reconstruction of Iraq.

"A stable, peaceful and democratic Iraq is obviously in the interests of the entire world," said the Congressman, who is planning to file a resolution calling on the world to help in the remak-tion between the US and the international community," Delahunt wrote to his House colleagues. "Neither should we.

"Congress authorized the use of the US military against Iraq to enforce UN resolutions calling on Saddam Hussein to disarm and the Administration continues to point to these UN resolutions as part of its justification for the war.

"Yet since the toppling of Saddam's regime, the Administration has resisted letting the international community — and specifically the UN — contribute significantly to the occupation and reconstruction."

Delahunt noted that the US continues to deal with Iraq singlehandedly "at a steep price in blood and treasure — an average of one American death a day and approximately one billion in US taxpayer dollars a week."

"Today's (Aug. 21) news that the Administration will request greater support from the UN is welcome," he said. "However, the Administration should seek to fully internationalize the situation, not just hoist a UN flag over US troops in Iraq."

"The UN and NATO have experience and credibility in peacekeeping and humanitarian work and ought to be playing a key role."

The non-binding legislation will be filed when the House session resumes after Labor Day. Joining Delahunt as sponsors are Congressmen Neil Abercrombie of Hawaii, Rahm Emanuel of Illinois and Joseph Hoeffel of Pennsylvania.

The four Democrats, known as the "Iraq Watch" group, began a weekly series of public discussions on the House floor about United States policy toward Iraq.

7 Mini-Buses Added This School Year

City To Provide Bus Transportation To All Special Ed Students

By WILLIAM TRAYNOR

All special education students attending school in the district this fall will receive city transportation now that the school department has added seven new mini-buses to its lineup.

School committee member Elaine Dwyer, who led the effort to obtain the buses, said the additional vehicles will ensure that every special education student can get to and from school. The new purchase should accommodate about 239 special education students who attend school in the city, she said.

Approximately half of those students were guaranteed transportation last year, she said.

"This is a great deal for the city," said Dwyer, who last year introduced a plan for purchasing the mini-buses in the school committee's health and safety subcommittee. "Not only are we saving a substantial amount of money for the city, but we are taking care of our special needs students - this is a win-win situation for Quincy."

The city entered into two, three-year lease purchases for 14 mini-buses. Last year, the first lease purchase went into effect, giving the city the first set of buses. The second lease purchase followed this year, and an additional seven mini-buses arrived last week in time for the beginning of school.

Each bus holds 14 passengers, and four are designed to transport students in wheelchairs.

Dwyer said the city will own the buses when the leases expire. This should save the city approximately $500,000 over the next six years and an additional $600,000 per year thereafter, she said.

Prior to the plan, the city was using private contractors for transportation services. But Dwyer said cost savings estimates, coupled with negative feedback from many parents of special needs students, prompted her to propose the change.

"I'm thrilled about the eventual savings, and then it became an issue of safety for the kids," she said. "I was hearing complaints about the drivers, the vendors, and the service in general. I was horrified with some of the stories from parents."

In addition, the mini-buses will be staffed with city employees that will be assigned to a specific route, she said.

"It is important for students to see the same bus driver every day," she said. "Private contractors were changing drivers quite often, so there was no continuity and the students weren't comfortable."

Approximately 136 students attend special education classes in schools outside the city, she said. The school committee will be looking into accommodating those students with a combination of contractors and more mini-buses.

If several students attend a particular school it would be cost effective to use additional mini-buses, Dwyer said. In those cases where one or two students attend a school it would make more sense to use a contractor, she said.

New Police, Firefighters

Veteran Opposes Battle Of The Bulge Monument

A monument planned for outside City Hall to honor veterans of World War II's Battle of the Bulge is drawing some flak.

And where it is coming from may be somewhat surprising: Elmer (Mike) Fagerlund — Quincy veteran of the Battle of the Bulge.

Members of the national organization, Veterans of the Battle of the Bulge, Inc. (VBOB), hope to have the monument up at McIntyre Mall for dedication during their reunion here Sept. 4-7.

Four members recently visited Mayor William Phelan's office and said they would provide a six-foot Vermont granite monument called "Triumph of Courage."

They proposed it be sited at McIntyre Mall with the city providing a foundation for it.

The mayor's office indicated its approval and support.

But Fagerlund, former chairman of the City Board of Assessors, is strongly against the idea.

Even though as a veteran of that crucial battle, the monument would be honoring him, too.

"We already have enough monuments and memorials to World War II and other wars," he says.

"And one battle shouldn't be singled out for special recognition over other battles of World War II. There were a lot of other crucial ones. In fact, every battle was important."

Fagerlund was a captain and commanded a Yankee Division infantry company in the Battle of the Bulge fought in bitter cold and deep snow from Dec. 16, 1944 to Jan. 25, 1945 in the thickly forested Ardennes region of eastern Belgium and northern Luxembourg. It was a turning point for the Allied forces in the war.

Fagerlund entered the Army "for a year" in April, 1941. But then came Pearl Harbor.

"It turned out to be four years, eight months and two days," he now muses.

He was in three other battles in Europe in addition to

The Bulge, picking up three Bronze Stars, the Purple Heart and a unit commendation.

"We got shot at plenty," he says. "So did everyone."

He feels, however, that World War II veterans like himself are well remembered and honored already.

"We don't need monuments all over Quincy," he says.

And he adds:

"One of the finest memorials to World War II veterans already exists in Mount Wollaston Cemetery bearing the names of Quincy men lost from 1941 to 1945. No finer monument could ever be built. It is beautiful and inspiring."

And, there is the new World War II Memorial Statue dedicated Veterans Day last Nov. 11 "In Honor of All Who Served in World War II 1941-1945."

But plans for the Battle of the Bulge monument appear to be going forward. And more than 200 veterans of that battle and family members are expected to attend the reunion at the Quincy Marriott Hotel.

But Fagerlund doesn't plan to be there.

"I just don't believe we need another monument and one dedicated to a single battle," he says.

Fagerlund feels that if those who fought in the Battle of the Bulge are honored with a special monument or memorial, then those who fought in other battles of World War II should be equally honored.

Battles like Normandy, Anzio, Salerno, Berlin, and in the Pacific, such as Pearl Harbor, Coral Sea, Bataan, Midway, Guadalcanal, Iwo Jima, Okinawa, etc.

"All the battles were important," he says. "But we just can't erect a monument to every one of them."

"And we shouldn't slight those who fought in those other battles by selecting just one."

Though he fought in it and remembers the hardship well, he says: "There really is no need for a monument to the Battle of the Bulge."

Noting the existing monuments, he adds: "Enough is enough."

Wonder how other veterans of World War II feel about it?

Taxpayers Group Launches Web Site With Opposition To QHS-Central Project

Alan Cousin, president of the Quincy Taxpayers' Association, announces the group has its first Web site, at www.data-commander.com/qla.

The site will be under construction for some time, but it debuts with a page devoted to the new Quincy High School/Central Middle School project.

Cousin said the Web space for the site was donated by his technology consulting firm, DataCommander, Inc. He said that while he has very little time for Web design, he felt it important to use every tool available to promote opposition to the current high school plan.

Cousin said he plans to keep the QHS/CMS page updated as new developments occur. He said that for now the site is best viewed in Microsoft Internet Explorer.

"The QTA opposes the high school plan because we are not convinced that it's the best and most cost-effective plan for meeting our school facilities needs," Cousin said. "That's what we want, but because no alternatives were explored, we have no reason to believe this plan is it. We also don't really know how much it will cost, but we know that with inflation, cost overruns and bond interest, it will be a lot more than $110 million."

"Also, we have no idea what we will really get back in state reimbursement. The city is just guessing. The Mass. Department of Education won't tell us."

The Web site is only the latest approach Cousin has used to promote opposition to the plan. He recently appeared on WJDA Radio's Party Line program and expects to appear again Aug. 25.

He has issued mailings and press releases encouraging taxpayers to contact their city councilors to oppose the plan. He has sent the councilors mailings on the plan's finances, as well as addressing the council directly Aug. 18, with QTA members in attendance wearing stickers expressing their opposition to the plan.

ELSIE'S - Where Good Fellows Meet
304 Beach St., Wollaston, 70 Mass.

THIS IS A 1930's postcard view of the interior of Elsie's Restaurant at the corner of Beach Street and Wollaston Boulevard. Elsie Spooner opened this Wollaston Beach landmark just after prohibition ended. The building was originally the G.W. Peterson Grocery and Provisions store, Elsie's was a favorite spot for dining and dancing. Baked stuffed lobster was the specialty. It also had a popular men's bar. Some of the other restaurants along the Boulevard at the time were Smitty's, the Anchor Inn, Sally's, Bowen's, Olsen's The Best Bet, Fitz's and Bonin's Grille. This rare postcard was a gift from Mary Johnson of Wollaston who worked at Elsie's.

READERS FORUM

Against High School Plan

Regarding the high school building situation - I live near the high school field. I would not want to see a new high school built on this land. Environmentally, this is a very unwise decision. There is little open space in Quincy - I don't want to see this shrink even further.

The present high school should be renovated and remain Quincy High. If this means double sessions at North Quincy High School for a few years, then so be it. Also the Central Middle School can be renovated, if this is necessary, but it should remain a middle school.

Support The Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon

This Labor Day weekend I hope the people of Quincy will tune in to the Jerry Lewis Telethon, which will raise money for the Muscular Dystrophy Association and its commitment to assisting people with more than 40 neuromuscular diseases.

As someone with a neuromuscular disease, I deeply value the help of MDA and its clinic at the New England Medical Center and Children's Hospital in improving my everyday life.

MDA also continues to search for cures and treatments with an exciting research program, assist with the cost of key medical equipment and offer a variety of support groups. Those are just some of the programs made possible when people support the MDA Telethon.

The Telethon will be broadcast Sunday, Aug. 31, beginning at 9 p.m. at WCVB-TV Channel 5. You can also see it on the Internet at www.mdausa.org.

Thank you in advance for watching and supporting this important cause. It means so much to people right here in Greater Boston and the South Shore.

Bible Condemns Homosexuality

My opinion regarding the Rev. V. Gene Robinson, the divorced clergyman to become the first openly gay Bishop in the Episcopal Church is, God created Adam and Eve, not Adam and Steve.

The Bible does not condone homosexuality, it condemns it. In fact, the Bible clearly states, numerous times, that such "unnatural acts" are indeed "sins against nature."

I have nothing against two consenting same-sex adults doing what they feel compelled to do sexually, but for them to imply that their behavior can be Biblically substantiated as acceptable in the eyes of God may be "politically correct," but religiously unsubstantiated. And, for the Episcopal Church to allow a man who clearly misunderstands God's written will and direction for us, to be placed in a position where he is responsible for teaching Biblically how to live a moral, Christian life is incomprehensible.

Quincy's Yesterdays First Islamic Mosque In N.E. Planned Here

The Arab American Banner Society of Quincy announced plans for the construction in Quincy Point of the first Islamic Mosque in New England.

The $25,000 mosque would serve the two-fold function as a house of worship and to perpetuate the rich heritage of Arabic culture.

Prominent Arabic-speaking citizens of Quincy Point of the Moslem faith were taking the leadership in raising funds. Officers of the Arab society were Abdo Hassan, president; Frantal Hassan; treasurer and Aziz Abraham, secretary.

Quincy Point, with some 200 Arabic-speaking Moslems, had one of the largest groups of Moslems in this section of the country.

COUNCILLOR AUSTIN URGES CITY HALL SITE COMMITTEE

Councillor Edna Austin announced that she would introduce a resolve asking the city manager to appoint a committee to recommend a site for a new city hall.

Councillor Austin pointed out that the present city hall was more than 100 years old and housed a comparatively small part of the various municipal operations.

"The rent which the city now pays for office space would go far toward amortizing a loan for a new city hall," she said.

NAVY SHIFTS HOUSING UNITS FROM WEYMOUTH TO SQUANTUM

The 150-family units housing development which the U.S. Navy originally planned to build at the South Weymouth Air Facility would instead be built at the Squantum Naval Air Station.

The site change was made because with the expansion of the South Weymouth facility there would not be enough room for the housing development.

'AT THE MOVIES' will present six cabaret performances at Raffael's Restaurant in North Quincy. Left to right, Michael Ricca, Nina Vansuch, Brian Patton and Will McMillan.

'At The Movies' To Bring Cabaret To Raffael's

"At The Movies," a quartet that celebrates music from the silver screen in cabaret-style, will present six dinner-theatre performances at Raffael's Restaurant in North Quincy next month.

The presentation includes matinee and evening performances Sept. 3, 4, 10 and 11 and evenings only Sept. 4 and 11. Matinees will begin at 1 p.m. with lunch at 12 noon and evenings will begin at 8 p.m. with dinner at 6:30 p.m.

Tickets are $35 for matinees and $45 for evening. The price includes dinner, tax, gratuity and show. Groups of 20 or more may contact 617-328-1600 for special group rates.

"At The Movies," which has performed as a group since 1999, is made up of Will McMillan, Brian Patton, Nina Vansuch and Michael Ricca, who grew up in Quincy, the son of Paul and Marion Ricca, and a graduate of Quincy High School and Emerson College.

Ricca, who comes primarily from a stage background, spent many years in New York before returning in 1994 to Boston, where he appeared in plays at the Huntington Theatre Company, Boston Playwright's Theatre and the New Repertory Theatre.

He joined up with McMillan and Vansuch, whom he met at the 1999 Eugene O'Neill Theater Center's Cabaret Symposium, and they in turn joined with Patton, singer and pianist, to devote their full efforts to cabaret singing.

A cabaret, by definition, is a form of theatrical entertainment consisting of skit, songs, improvisations and the like, frequently accompanied by food and drink.

"At The Movies" is fresh from winning a 2003 IRNE for Best Cabaret Group Performance from the Independent Reviewers of New England and releasing their first CD, "Reel One," to a sold out audience at Scullers Jazz Club in Boston.

Beechwood Walking Group Clocks 2,000 Miles In Year

The Walking Group of Beechwood Community Life Center recently celebrated a year of three-mile walks, during which time the members collectively walked well over 2,000 miles.

Each year, the group leader, Nancy Randall, drafts "certificates of achievement" acknowledging individual miles walked and the group holds a "celebration of fitness" party at Beechwood.

"We are not competitive, but enjoy tracking our own number of miles walked," said Randall. "We have been walking since 1982. We meet at the Center two times a week.

"Some do a full three miles each time, while others do less. We walk year-round, some days there are 10 to 12 walkers and other days there may be 20 to 25. All levels of walkers are invited to join us."

The walkers meet at the Center Wednesday and Friday at 9 a.m.

Quincy Teachers Gain First-Hand Business Experience In Extern Program

Four teachers from Quincy and North Quincy High Schools recently spent part of their summer vacation on the job at Blue Cross Blue Shield of Massachusetts (BCBSMA).

BCBSMA is coordinating the Teacher Extern Program with the Quincy School-Community Partnership to provide business and technology teachers with an inside look at work environment to which their students will one day apply.

The goal of the Teacher Extern Program is to provide high school teachers with the first-hand experience of a real work situation in a large business.

"We all worked in business," said Jerry Quintiliani, head of the Career Technology Education Department at North Quincy High School, in reference to himself and the other teachers, "but that was a long time ago. Coming here (to BCBSMA) we got to see how a business gets its employees today; how it screens them and interviews them."

"These teachers seek to gain a better understanding of the world of business and how school relates to the future careers of their students," said Sylvia Stevens-Edouard, director of Community Relations at BCBSMA. The teachers will take what they learned during their four days at BCBSMA offices and incorporate those insights into their classroom lessons.

The teacher externs spent four days touring three of BCBSMA's Boston-area offices. "In a big organization there are a wide variety of jobs and personalities. It's a fact that certain positions just fit better with certain personalities and competencies. After sampling the variety of jobs at BCBSMA, we hope that the teachers will be able to help their students develop some degree of awareness for which skill sets they possess and what sort of jobs they might be best suited for," said Stevens-Edouard.

Teacher externs attended New Employee Orientation at the company headquarters in the Landmark Center. They also conducted online job searches, underwent behavioral interviews and performed skill assessment tests with Human Resources personnel. The teachers enthusiastically explained how their experiences were helpful.

"This will impact my lesson plan tremendously," said Gingy Fidalgo, a teacher from North Quincy High School, referring to the curriculum for her business and marketing classes. "To be able to say to students that I spent a week at Blue Cross this summer and saw first-HUMAN RESOURCES REPRESENTATIVE Jennifer Killman (far left) of Blue Cross Blue Shield of Massachusetts explains to Quincy teachers the results of a behavioral interview test they took as part of the Teacher Extern Program. hand how things are done; that I didn't just read it in a book - that I took their tests and answered their interview questions. This was incredibly valuable to me."

The other teachers agreed that the empirical nature of the extern experience will give them greater credibility with their students when it comes to lessons about getting - and retaining - jobs in the "real world."

"We do practice interviewing and career building with the students; we tell them that being tardy and having poor attendance are not the sorts of things that will be tolerated in a workplace," said Fidalgo. "We tell them, but they don't believe us. Now we can say 'This is how Blue Cross interviews; this is what they expect - not what I think they expect.'"

Quintiliani, a business and technology teacher for the last 30 years, agreed that re-entering a business setting offered some practical insights on how the interviewing and hiring processes have changed over the years.

"It's more about computers now than when we did it; there is applying online now and taking all the computer-based tests," said Quintiliani.

While time and technology may have altered some practices, all of the teachers were in agreement that other things never change.

"As teachers, we try to instill in our students that being tardy, having poor attendance and dressing inappropriately are things that you can't do in the business world," Fidalgo said.

For Quintiliani and the other three teachers, speaking with the BCBSMA managers and interviewers brought a sense of validation for their efforts in the classroom.

"Companies are having the same problems we have," he said. "If we can go back into the classroom and say 'business isn't going to take this' (behavior), maybe we can help correct some of the problem."

The teachers explained that this sense of validation would "allow them to deliver with more confidence their lessons about the workplace."

"We were able to see the soft skills and the competencies that the marketplace is looking for, and we saw that the competition has changed in today's marketplace," said Lucy Spellman, a teacher at Quincy High School. "You have a more competitive field of applicants and many more experienced people today; with the new testing processes, you can't afford to slide. Seeing all that helped us and validated what we are teaching."

WILLIAM J. PHELAN

City of Quincy, Massachusetts
City Hall

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR

August 27, 2003

On behalf of the historic City of Quincy, I want to express my heartfelt thanks to all who participated in the recent Babe Ruth World Series held at the newly-refurbished Adams Field. To the public who supported the project, and to the City Council who voted to fund the improvements – thank you for your civic commitment. To the dozens of union trade workers who volunteered their talents and expertise so that the field could open on schedule – thank you for your generosity. To the employees of the City of Quincy Park Department who worked far above and beyond the call of duty – know that I am grateful and proud. I am proud as well of all the city departments and employees who helped make this wonderful event a reality.

The City of Presidents shone brightly during the Series. So many people used their vacation time to volunteer to take tickets and flip burgers, so many families opened their homes to host players from all around the world, so many businesses contributed resources to ensure the success of the event. To these volunteers, sponsors, and host families – thank you.

The organizers of the event deserve special recognition as well; at both the local and national level, the Babe Ruth League proved to be a professional and courteous promoter. Our youth are well served by this fine organization.

I am confident that all who attended the games enjoyed them as much as my family and I did. I congratulate the fine young athletes who participated for their skill and sportsmanship – and I welcome them and their families back to Quincy in future years.

The Babe Ruth World Series was so successful because so many people were generous with their time and resources. I am grateful to you all, and grateful as well that the Series served as a forum to highlight what we have all known for so long — that it is the people of Quincy who make it a wonderful place to live, work, and play!

Sincerely,

William J. Phelan

Gardner Meets With Seniors To Hear Concerns

Alicia Gardner, Ward 6 city council candidate, recently met with residents at Marina Place to discuss municipal issues that senior citizens have concerns about.

One of the concerns expressed, she said, is maintaining sufficient police and fire services. Residents were pleased to hear Gardner tell them she is committed to maintaining fire and police staffing and agreed the city's first responders are crucial to senior citizens.

In addition, seniors asked when the Thomas Crane Public Library bookmobile service might be restored.

The Gardner committee also held a "coffee and shortcake reception" for the residents of the senior housing complex at Naval Terrace.

"It was a wonderful opportunity for me to meet and speak with the residents," Gardner said. "Many folks expressed to me their concern that the city move forward with improvements in the downtown area."

Gardner also discussed the planned development of affordable housing for seniors at the Squantum Gardens and Naval Terrace site.

Holbrook Man Pleads Innocent

Alleged Getaway Driver Held In Shooting Murder

A 23-year-old Holbrook man pleaded not guilty to murder charges in Quincy District Court Monday in connection with a shooting at the Burger King restaurant on Quincy Ave.

The Friday night shooting left Matthew Nelson, 25, of Rockland, dead and set off a police chase into Dorchester. The chase ended when police shot and killed the suspected gunman. Raymond Campanale of Brooklyn, N.Y.

Ronald LeClair, the alleged getaway car driver, was arraigned on Monday. Quincy District Court Judge Mark Coven set LeClair's bail at $20,000. Coven refused Norfolk County District Attorney William Keating's request to hold him without bail.

Norfolk Superior Court

Judge Charles Healy denied a request by the defense Tuesday to reduce bail.

The case has been continued to Sept. 24 in Quincy District Court, according to Keating's office.

Police said Campanale received a ride from LeClair to the Burger King parking lot at approximately 7:30 p.m. Friday. Campanale jumped into another car where Nelson was sitting, police said. The pair exchanged words in the car, and Campanale fired upon Nelson, police said. Two women were also seated in the automobile, but neither was hurt, police said.

After the shooting, Campanale jumped into LeClair's car and they headed toward the Southeast Expressway.

Quincy Police gave chase

after spotting the vehicle on Route 93. State Police joined the hunt as the vehicle approached the Granite Ave. exit. Police said LeClair crashed through the closed gates at the Granite Ave. drawbridge entering Dorchester.

The ensuing chase ended when the car overturned at Woodrow Ave. and Johnson Terrace in Dorchester. State Troopers and Quincy Police exchanged gunfire with Campanale, who was shot and killed.

Campanale was on parole for the murder of a 24-year-old man in the Bronx in 1987.

A Quincy police officer who was at the scene of the shooting was placed on paid administrative leave during the investigation.

Dan Taylor Graduates From Banking Course

Dan Taylor, assistant vice president and manager of the Scituate branch of the South Coastal Bank, recently received a diploma from the Massachusetts Bankers Association's School for Financial Studies.

Taylor was a member of the Class of 2003 at Babson College in Wellesley, where the graduation ceremonies were held following the two week-long resident sessions on the Babson campus.

Taylor has been manager of the Scituate branch since June 2002. The bank has other branches in Quincy, Carver and Braintree and headquarters in Rockland.

Set For Sept. 14

St. Chrysostom's To Break Ground For Townhouses

St. Chrysostom's Church at Hancock and Linden Streets, Wollaston, is set to break ground Sunday, Sept. 14, for 10 townhouses it plans to build on land at 523 Hancock St. next to the church.

The Parish plans to sell nine of the two-bedroom townhouses and put the funds into a trust to be used for church maintenance. The 10th townhouse will be kept in case it is needed for a future rectory.

Ron Iacobucci, senior warden, said the project won praise and support from the community at a recent meeting called by Ward 5 Councilor Doug Gutro.

"We are very pleased that our neighbors support to project," he said. "It was our intention from the beginning to build something that would not have an adverse impact on the community."

Some residents at the meeting expressed concern about traffic in the area but Iacobucci said the impact on traffic from the project is minimal.

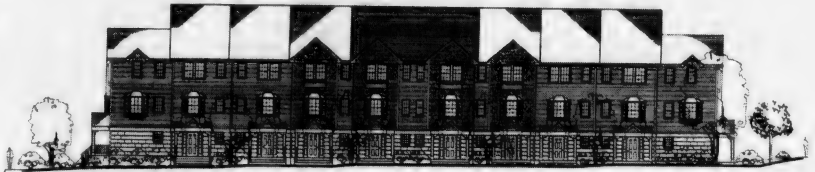

Nevertheless, he added, he will meet with the city's traffic engineer to resolve any traffic issues regarding access and parking.

"The church will work with its neighbors to try to resolve pre-existing parking problems in the area," he said. "Hopefully, we can make a difference."

The church will oversee construction of the townhouses but, once they are built and sold, they would be managed by a condo association.

"We are working to save our church so we have to maximize the resources we have," said Iacobucci. "A vacant rectory and an unused back lot can make a difference."

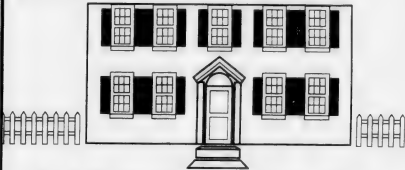

BUILDING ELEVATION - FRONT

TOWNHOUSE CONDOS planned by St. Chrysostom's Church for land next to the church in Wollaston will look like this architect's drawing when they are finished.

Chief One Bear Speaker At Beechwood Center Breakfast

Chief One Bear of the Chippewa Nation (Raymond Tremblay of Weymouth) will be the guest speaker at the Current Events Breakfast Wednesday, Sept. 3, at 9 a.m. at Beechwood on the Bay.

He and his wife, Little Fawn (Margaret Tremblay) have been the driving force in founding the Order for the Preservation of Indian Culture (TOPIC) in the South Shore area.

The Chief, a disabled veteran of World War II who serves as chaplain of the Weymouth Veterans Council, will discuss American

The 86-year-old Chief One Bear was recently honored by the Weymouth Historical Commission and American Legion Post 79 at ceremonies at Wessagusset Memorial Garden. He was named Elderpreneur of the Year by the South Shore Chamber of Commerce in 1998.

He has presided over the annual PowWow, a two-day celebration of the Great Spirit and Mother Nature sponsored by TOPIC for the past 27 at the base of the Blue Hills.

The Chief is no stranger to Quincy, having lived as a youngster in West Quincy and in recent years participated in No Place for Hate observances at Quincy City Hall.

Only last November he invoked the prayer of the Chippewa Native American Indian at a breakfast of the Quincy Jewish War Veterans Post.

Reservations for the Current Events Breakfast must be made by calling the Beechwood Community Center at 617-471-5712.

A DISPLAY OF nearly 500 "Images of Honor and Memory" filled the Ruth Gordon Amphitheatre in Pageant Field during last year's Marie Curry Walk. The tribute is again planned for this year's walk on Sept. 7.

'Images of Honor And Memory' Planned For 6th Annual Marie Curry Walk Sept. 7

The Marie Curry Walk Committee announces the second annual "Images of Honor and Memory" visual tribute as part of the 6th Annual Marie Curry Walk on Sept. 7 at Pageant Field in Merrymount Park.

"Images of Honor and Memory," beginning at 8:30 a.m. at the Ruth Gordon Amphitheatre, is a visual tribute representing the impact of cancer on the South Shore community. The tribute contains pink and white sand-filled containers, each inscribed "In Memory of" someone who has lost their life to cancer or "In Honor of" a cancer survivor.

Last year, the first year of the tribute, a path of nearly 500 pink and white "Images of Honor and Memory" filled the Ruth Gordon Amphitheatre in Pageant Field during the Marie Curry Walk.

The "Images of Honor and Memory" are available with a $5 donation. Donation forms are available at Quincy Medical Center, 114 Whitwell St., Quincy, and at Ace Curry Hardware, 370 Copeland St., Quincy. Donation forms can also be requested by mail by calling 617-376-4020.

City Stands To Save $300,000 In FY 2004

The city will save approximately $300,000 in fiscal 2004 by taking out a revenue anticipation note with low interest to pay for the city's retirement obligation in full this month, according to Mayor William Phelan's office.

The city pays more than $15 million annually into the retirement system for its employees over the course of 12 months. By taking a revenue anticipation note for $10 million and utilizing available cash flow of $5 million, the city has made an advance payment to the retirement system this month, saving monthly interest charges of $300,000 over the coming fiscal year, according to the mayor's office. The interest rate on the note will be 1.089 percent, according to the mayor's office.

For fiscal 2004, the annual assessment for employees' retirement is set at approximately $15.3 million.

Previously, the amount was paid monthly by the city at eight percent interest per month on existing debt. Under Phelan's plan, the city will be paying this sum up front in August 2004 and saving in the eight percent interest costs over the remainder of the year.

The mayor's office estimates that savings would be more than $300,000 in Fiscal 2004. Each year, the city will stand to save this amount if interest rates continue to rise, the mayor's office said.

Phelan plans to utilize this move each fiscal year.

Daniel Raio Assistant Marketing Director For South Shore Plaza

Simon Property Group has named Daniel Raio of Quincy as the new assistant marketing director for South Shore Plaza in Braintree.

As assistant marketing director, Raio will be responsible for organizing and implementing mall merchandising programs and promotional events. He will also assist in all marketing, public relations and community outreach programs for the mall.

Prior to joining South Shore Plaza, Raio worked as marketing secretary at Walt Whitman Mall in New York. During that time, he was also named field coordinator for the Simon Youth Foundation, where he raised sponsorships and improved the sales of tenants.

Raio graduated from the State University of New York at Albany.

- Member, Retired Boston Police Patrolman's Association
- Member Retired State, County and Municipal Employees Association of Massachusetts

The people of Ward 6 deserve a Councillor who has the dedication, education, experience and availability to represent their interests.

I am the one candidate possessing all of these qualities and more.

As a parent with three children in the Quincy School system and member of the Squantum School Council I am fully aware of the needs of our children and what is required to provide them with a solid education.

As an attorney and business owner I deal with issues that affect our business community on a daily basis.

I own commercial and residential property and I am fully aware of the tax issues that face both types of property owners.

Civic involvement is an important element for a Councillor to have. I am currently a member of the Quincy Conservation Commission, the Mayor's Fair Housing Committee and the Open Space Committee. It has been my privilege to serve on these committees. Becoming your Councillor would also be my privilege.

Currently I also coach a girls youth softball team, am a member of the Squantum Community Association and the Robert Nickerson Post.

I am a former and current member of labor unions and have been on contract negotiating teams. This experience allows me to have a full understanding of labor contracts and how they affect the working people of our Ward. This experience is a valuable asset for a Ward Councillor.

Public safety is an important issue that affects all of us in Ward 6. As a former police officer I am aware of the importance of public safety. My experience in this field gives me a full understanding of these issues.

Availability is one key element for a Ward Councillor. Being self-employed allows me to have the flexibility necessary to perform the tasks required as your Councillor.

I am asking that you cast your vote for me, William H. Keener, number one of the ballot and number one for the people of Ward 6.

Thank you,

Bill

Eastern Bank Donates $2,500 To QCAP First Home Buyers

A donation of $2,500 from Eastern Bank to Quincy Community Action Programs (QCAP) will be used to support first time homebuyers in Quincy and surrounding towns.

"We are pleased to again to be making a donation to QCAP," said Jean Kenney, assistant vice president for Eastern Bank's mortgage lending on the South Shore.

"QCAP's high quality homebuying counseling services for first time home buyers is a perfect match for the mission of Eastern Bank."

QCAP Executive Director Beth Ann Strollo hailed the "generous donation enabling us to deliver an essential educational resource for first time home buyers."

"Eastern Bank is a wonderful example of community banking — serving low and moderate income customers and assisting those customers through home ownership programs like ours," she said.

Since 1990, QCAP's

Housing Program has provided first time homebuyer counseling services to more than 3,000 families.

Workshops focus on the buying process from start to finish. Workshop participants may be eligible for down payment and closing cost assistance and a variety of mortgage options.

"Our workshops help demystify the home buying process for first time buyers," said Trish Appert, QCAP housing director.

Three More Unions Endorse McNamee For Ward 6 Council

Brian McNamee announces three more unions have endorsed him for the Ward 6 City Council seat.

The three latest endorsements came from the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America-Pile Drivers Local Union 56, the International Association of Iron Workers Local 7 and the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers of America.

Previous endorsements received by McNamee came from the Roofers & Waterproofers Local Union 33, the Boston Allied Printing Trades Council and the Graphic Communications International Union (CCIU) Local 600-48M.

The recent endorsements cited McNamee's dedication to the citizens of Quincy and his commitment to the concerns of Organized Labor as well as the issues affecting working men and women.

"I am most grateful to receive this valuable support," McNamee said. "I do not take lightly the responsibility assumed by a candidate who receives these endorsements."

Delahunt To Host Forum On Service Academies

Congressman William Delahunt will host an informational forum Thursday, Sept. 11, at 7 p.m. at Marshfield High School for district high school students interested in attending one of the service academies.

The two-hour forum was scheduled for Sept. 11, the second anniversary of the terrorist attacks on New York and Washington, as a call to young people to get involved in national service.

Admissions representatives will be on hand from the US Military Academy at West Point, N.Y.; the US Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md.; and the US Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs, Colo.

There will also be officials from the Coast Guard Academy at New London, Conn.; the Merchant Marine Academy at King's Point, N.Y.; as well as Norwich

University in Northfield, Vt., and Mass Maritime Academy in Buzzards Bay.

Residents of Delahunt's 10th Congressional District who graduate from high school by next June are eligible to apply for appointments through the Congressman. The deadline for applications is Nov. 1, 2003.

All applicants are evaluated over a period of several months by a panel of local residents who make up the district's Academy Nomination Selection Committee.

Delahunt then forwards to the appropriate Academy those names the committee recommends and the applicants compete for appointment against other nominees from across the country.

For more information on the forum or the nominating process, call Delahunt's office at 1-800-794-9911.

Morrissey, Ayers Greet Marguerite Lamb On 90th

Sen. Michael Morrissey and Rep. Bruce Ayers recently called on the home of Marguerite Lamb on Williams Street to wish her well on her 90th birthday.

They presented Mrs. Lamb with House and Senate citations to commemorate the milestone occasion.

Mrs. Lamb, whose birthday was July 2, 1913, is a longtime Quincy resident and has lived on Williams Street for 60 years.

Gas Expansion Work On Channing St.

KeySpan Energy Delivery started work Monday on maintenance and expansion of the natural gas distribution system in the vicinity of 4-66 Channing St., North Quincy.

The work will continue Monday through Friday from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. and continue for about five weeks.

The road will be open to the public but parking may be limited. A construction foreman will be on site to address individual parking needs.

The work may require some digging in the area of the foundation of homes on the street and the foreman on site will notify customers of any interruption of service.

There may be a lag between temporary and permanent restoration of the street and sidewalk, depending on the weather and ground conditions.

Any further questions about the project should be addressed to Lynne M. Holton, community relations coordinator, at 781-466-5100.

BACK TO SCHOOL

Back-To-School Safety Rules

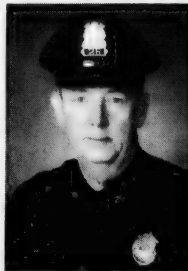

By ROBERT HANNA
Crime Prevention Officer

It's that time of year again. Time to send your children back to school. It can be a frightening time for parents, but if you prepare your child for the big world you may help save them from getting into trouble.

• Make sure your children are taking the safest route to school and friends' houses, one that avoids danger spots like alleys, new construction, and wooded areas.

• Encourage your children to walk and play with friends, not alone, and to stay in well-lighted, open areas where others can see them.

• Don't hang a house key around your child's neck. It's a telltale sign that you won't be at home when they return from school. Put it inside a pocket or sock.

• Teach children to walk confidently and stay alert to what's going on around them.

• Encourage your children to look out for other kids' safety and report anything they see that doesn't seem right.

• Tell your children to stay away from strangers who hang around playgrounds, public restrooms and empty buildings.

• Rehearse with children their full name, address, and phone number (including area code) and how to make emergency phone calls from home and public phones.

• Tell children never to accept gifts or rides from someone they don't know well.

• Check your neighborhood for areas that threaten children's safety, like brush in wooded areas, overgrown shrubbery, abandoned buildings, bad lighting, vacant lots littered with debris, no sidewalks or bike paths next to busy streets.

• Teach children to go to a store clerk or security guard and ask for help if you become separated in a store or shopping mall. Tell them never to go into the parking lot alone. Accompany your children to public restrooms.

• Teach children no one, not even someone they know, has the right to touch them in a way that makes them feel uncomfortable. Tell them that they have the right to say "No" to any adult in this situation.

If you teach the above tips to your children, they will be better prepared to survive in this great big, sometimes crazy, world.

As College Tuition Rises, Scholarships Fill the Financial Aid Gap

(ARA) - In her senior year of high school, Rachel Melson realized that federal financial aid alone wouldn't be enough to pay for her college education. Seeking more options, she headed to the Internet to search for scholarship opportunities.

"I had two boxes full of [applications] that I sent out," Melson said. Her hard work paid off. This fall, Melson will enter her freshman year at Florida A&M University with three scholarships totaling $80,000.

With rising college costs, more students are turning to scholarships to supplement their financial aid package. Scholarships are frequently offered by sources such as companies and organizations. In addition, many colleges and universities offer awards exclusively for their students.

Like Melson, many students take advantage of free online scholarship databases such as FastWeb.com, the largest scholarship search site on the Internet. Web sites like these match students' profiles to various scholarships for which they may be eligible.

"It's a very efficient way to look for aid," said Patti Cohen, vice president of the Coca-Cola Scholars Foundation. "Scholarship search sites have a staff that is always updating the scholarships. We always encourage students to look online for scholarships."

Keep in mind that students shouldn't ever have to pay for a scholarship service. The best and most legitimate scholarship databases are free and available on the Web.

Scholarships can also be as close as city hall. Many community and civic organizations offer college scholarships for students, as do lo

AAA Reminds Motorists To Be On Alert With Opening Of School

As area students get ready to return to school, AAA Southern New England reminds motorists to slow down and watch out for school-age pedestrians.

"Children get caught up in the excitement of back-to-school season and forget to look out for cars," said Robert P. Murray, AAA Southern New England Senior Vice President of Corporate Affairs. "Many youngsters have trouble making accurate judgments about speed and distance, so drivers have to be particularly aware."

One fourth of all children 14 years of age and younger who die in motor vehicle crashes are pedestrians, according to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration. The majority of these pedestrian fatalities happen in the afternoon hours when school is letting out.

AAA's annual School's Open - Drive Carefully campaign encourages motorists to stay alert in areas where children are present, paying special attention during the morning and afternoon hours while children are coming to and from school. Drivers should look out for children who may dart out into the street near school zones, playgrounds, bus stops, and in neighborhoods.

As part of the School's Open - Drive Carefully campaign, AAA offers drivers tips to keep school children safe:

- Slow down in or near school and residential areas.

- Drive with your headlights on — even during the day — so children and other drivers can see you.

- Look for clues such as school safety patrol members, crossing guards, bicycles, and playgrounds, which indicate children could be in the area.

- Scan between parked cars and other objects for signs that children could dart into the road.

- Practice extra caution in adverse weather conditions.

- Pay particular attention near schools during the morning and afternoon hours.

- Always stop for school buses that are loading and unloading students.

Organization Can Get Your Child An 'A' In School And In Life

By LILLIAN VERNON

(ARA) - It takes intelligence, hard work and dedication to get ahead in school and in life. I know how hard it was for me when I moved to America and had to learn the English language and fit in at school.

Later, I started my own business which presented a whole new set of challenges. I could not have done any of these without organizational skills.

When my children were growing up, I observed that most parents placed great emphasis on grades yet overlooked organizational skills. These important life skills should be taught at an early age. Children today are challenged with more homework and responsibilities than ever before, and since many parents work, less time is spent together. To become self-sufficient, children must learn to organize themselves. When it comes to excelling in school, organizational skills are just as important as reading, writing and arithmetic. Here is some advice I gained from years of organizing myself and my children:

- Your child's room should have a workplace that is cheerful, comfortable, well lit, and conducive to studying and doing homework. It may not be a good idea to put a computer in their room since children will be tempted to play computer games, surf the Internet or e-mail their friends instead of studying. Include a calendar of upcoming homework assignments, after-school events and sports activities.
- Empty your child's

backpack every night, then help them organize all materials and books. This will avoid lost or neglected homework assignments, misplaced papers and important school notices sent home to parents that can lower their grades. Have your child carry a separate homework folder for all completed assignments. This will ensure that completed assignments can be found easily.

- Teach your child to keep a notebook with them to write down all assignments and tasks for every class along with their due dates. When the school day is over and they return to their locker, have them to check their notebook and decide what needs to be brought home to complete their homework or study for an exam.

• After dinner, discuss short and long-term assignments and break them down into a manageable schedule. A child, especially of elementary age can easily become overwhelmed with work if they don't know to prioritize tasks. Completing tasks a few at a time will lead to a sense of accomplishment so they will want to complete the rest.

- Discuss what books can be kept at home as references and what needs to be returned to school. Misplaced textbooks can impact a child's grade and result in fines, or in some cases, delayed graduation. A lighter backpack means less back strain.

- Set aside a specific time each night to complete homework. Encourage your child to develop a routine. Don't force a child to complete homework right after school. Children need time to rest after a long day at school. Have a snack break or play date with friends before starting homework.

• Remind your child that homework assignments should be neat and legible. Neatness counts in the grading process, especially in the elementary grades when children are learning proper penmanship. It's important to know how to write, even in this age of computers when the pen is less important than the keyboard.

- Teach your child to set aside school clothes and pack all belongings the night before. This will reduce worrying about locating misplaced school materials or being late for the school bus. Starting the day on the right foot helps put children in a positive mood.

Scholarships Fill Aid Gap

ships for students, as do local firefighter and police departments. And don't forget about cultural institutions, which frequently offer grants to talented aspiring artists.

Eligibility

A widespread myth about scholarships holds that only students with high grades will win. In fact, many of the best scholarship programs are designed for students with talents and interests in fields as diverse as music, community service, science and writing, to name just a few. Frequently, these programs are entirely "grade blind" or use a grade point average strictly as a preliminary cutoff point — say, a 2.0 minimum GPA.

The key to finding scholarships is to think broadly. What is the student's college major or field of interest? What are his or her career goals? Is he or she involved in any extracurricular activities, student organizations or volunteer work?

In addition, a student's state of residence can open up a number of scholarships. Many state governments offer financial assistance to in-state students, and some scholarships are specific to certain counties or cities.

But don't stop there.

Scholarship seekers should also take inventory of their parents' background and affiliations. Many companies offer scholarships for the children of employees, as do the military and organizations such as the Elks Association.

Applying for Scholarships

Some students make the mistake of thinking that they maximize their chances of winning by pouring all their energy into one or two scholarships. Applying for scholarships is partially a numbers game — the more you apply for, the better your odds of winning.

Roger Schweda of Plymouth, the driver of the truck, has not been charged yet, but Police Lt. George Clark said investigators believe speed and equipment violations contributed to the rollover. The Quincy Police traffic collision unit and the state police truck investigation team are probing the matter.

The truck driven by Schweda is owned by Brewer Petroleum Services Inc., of Revere. Lt. Clark said the driver and owner of the truck will be fined for the incident.

Thomas Largey, the mayor's executive secretary, said criminal charges are a possibility.

In addition, the truck company will be held responsible for the cleanup costs, Largey said.

"You cannot expect taxpayers to foot this bill," he said. Largey said the city will be compiling a cost estimate, but an exact dollar amount was not yet known.

In addition, Largey said the city is reviewing truck routes used by commercial haulers.

"We are aggressively reviewing the routes used by commercial haulers of hazardous materials with an eye towards instituting policies to minimize the risk to citizens of accidents involving those materials," Largey said Tuesday. Fire Chief Paul O'Connell said the city is also reviewing truck routes that involve Water St., Franklin St. and Independence Ave.

During a press conference Tuesday, Largey praised state and local crews for a speedy and efficient response to the emergency.

After the spill, cleanup crews focused on an area where Town Brook empties into Town River. Crews used foam, vacuums, sand, and other floating nets in the water to contain the spill. Gasoline fumes were evident near Father Bill's Place, officials said. Absorbent pads were used to prevent the liquid from reaching Quincy Bay.

Water was pumped into the drainage line that runs from Quincy Center to Town River, with environmental technicians working to catch the gasoline as it was flushed out of the sewer pipes. A cluster of utilities in the Quincy Center area hampered the process, officials said.

Anthony Delfuto, a senior project manager at Clean Harbors, said the cleanup will continue for a few more weeks. Crews will continue to test the water, soil and air quality in the surrounding areas, he said.

"The levels have greatly diminished in the past three or four days," he said Tuesday.

John Fitzgerald from the DEP's Bureau of Waste Site Cleanup, said: "The system is basically free of explosive vapors."

"We don't see an issue with public safety," Fitzgerald said.

Gas-fumes were still apparent in the Faxon Field area, but officials believe the liquid did not seep into the wetlands.

Delfuto said gasoline leaked into the asphalt on some of the streets. This will prompt crews to remove and replace some asphalt and pavement.

After the rollover, O'Connell said he estimated that the truck was spewing 50 gallons of gasoline per minute. Two tears were visible on the truck after the crash, he said.

O'Connell said firefighters furiously attacked the spill with foam and sand to absorb the gasoline.

Quincy firefighters were assisted by the Massport Fire Department and the Braintree Fire Department, O'Connell said.

The rollover prompted Quincy Police to shut-down Quincy Center for more than 12 hours.

Safety officials evacuated a number of businesses, including bars.

the proposed new flood control system. "In my mind, this project is going to rise and fall on what happens with the drainage system," said Cerasoli, a former state representative and state Inspector General. "People want solutions, that's all they want. They want to hear representatives from the city say they will get to the bottom of this and do something about it."

Conynham said the city would present an Environmental Impact Report to the state in approximately six weeks. The city will also ask the Massachusetts Environmental Protection Agency for a comment period from residents about the report. The city is still months away from securing the necessary environmental permits to build on the site.

School Supt. Dr. Richard DeCristofaro praised the new high school plan as a "$111 million investment in education."

"This investment will mean brighter futures for Quincy's children," he told residents.

DeCristofaro said new school buildings provide a more positive learning environment for students.

"Most students learn better in new school settings," he said. "The age of a school does affect performance."

Allison Lamie of 32 Edgewood Circle criticized a proposal to place tennis courts on the roof of a parking garage.

"Putting those tennis courts on top of the garage is the most ridiculous thing I've ever heard – it's silly," she said.

David Portesi of 33 Whitney Rd. called Faxon Field the "ideal site" for the new Quincy High School, but said he was concerned with the costs of the proposed parking garages.

"I don't want my tax dollars going to parking garages for Quincy College or the YMCA," he said.

Conynham assured him that the parking garages will be used for students, faculty and "school building-related events."

She admitted that the location of the proposed high school garage near Southern Artery could pose traffic problems.

"The second garage near the high school is of concern regarding impact on traffic – we recognize this issue," she said.

Thomas Largey, Mayor William Phelan's executive secretary, said the second phase of the concourse plan will alleviate traffic throughout the downtown area, and in particular, Coddington St.

John Casey of 15 Cedar Place expressed concern about the prospect of mixing middle school and high school students.

"The proximity of these two schools makes me nervous," he said.

Next week, the city council is expected to vote on a financial package for the project.

Struck By MBTA Bus

Houghs Neck Woman Dies In Sea St. Accident

A 66-year-old Lithuanian woman, who fled the brutality of her Communist homeland for the safety of Houghs Neck, was struck and killed Monday by an MBTA bus on Sea Street about three blocks from her home.

Graznia Vaitkus, who lived alone in a condo on Fensmere Avenue, was crossing Sea Street at Winthrop Street when she was hit by the bus and her body flipped in the air onto a nearby lawn.

Vaitkus was a little girl when her family escaped from their village in Lithuania. The extreme cold on their escape route cost Graznia her hearing. The family immigrated to Houghs Neck in the early 1950s.

She was a familiar sight in Houghs Neck, walking her dog and enjoying the day's first cup of coffee at Bernie's General Store on Sea Street. She was hurrying to make an appointment at Brigham & Women's Hospital in Boston when she was hit.

The MBTA, which did not release the name of the woman who was driving the bus, and Quincy Police started an investigation into the accident, including a routine test of the driver for alcohol and drug.

A section of Sea Street was closed to traffic for a few hours while investigators took photos and measurements of the accident scene. The bus, which came to a stop a block from the accident scene, was impounded.

Anthony Califano On Dean's List

Don't Be Stuck With Stuck Valve Handles

(NAPS)—If you've been plagued by faucets that have rusted or corroded into position, now you can do more than just blow off steam.

When outdoor sillcocks become rusted, corroded and hard or impossible to turn — and worse, get sharp edges when they're broken or chipped — an easy solution can be at hand. Broken handles can be truly dangerous, especially to a child or older person, but now you don't have to take it any more.

Other valve handles of all kinds, outdoor and indoor, like gate valves, waste valves, boiler drain valves, and that long line of valve handles in the basement, tend to become hard to turn over time, too. The next thing you know, you're trying to get two hands around it (almost impossible) or using pliers or a big wrench and hoping you don't break the handle or skin your hands.

Another problem with indoor valves is identifying what they're for. Even if you start with some kind of system, after a while you may no longer recall what pipe goes where, so getting the right valve on or off requires two people: a "turner" in the basement and a "yeller" looking at the faucet. Now you need no longer worry about closing off the wrong pipe by mistake.

One solution to all these problems is new Faucet Mitts from Superior Tool Company. Made of highly durable plastic, they fit over metal valve handles and keep moisture and corrosion away. They're color-coded — for example, red mitts can be used for hot pipes and blue for cold ones — and there's a room on each mitt for you to add a label identifying what the valve controls.

The mitts fit most half-inch and three-quarter-inch handles and can be applied easily. You simply soak the Faucet Mitt in hot — but not scalding — tap water for 30 seconds and place it over the supply valve handle for a secure fit. You'll be set for years.

Century 21 Annex Announces Top Realtors

Century 21 Annex Realty in Quincy and Hanover announces several of its Realtors were recognized as top agents for the second quarter.

The award is based on the total number of successful transactions an agent closes each month. The top agents achieved winning sales figures from April through June. Gus Confalone of Quincy achieved the top agent distinction twice. In April, he closed transactions totaling $2 million. In June, he closed $2.5 million in successful transactions.

Ken Huang of Newton had $7 million in total sales during May.

Art Foley, Owner, Broker and Owner, Century 21 Annex Realty, congratulated the agents.

Curtains Can Change The Look, Feel Of Rooms

(ARA) - One of the quickest, simplest and most affordable ways to change the whole look and feel of a room is to change the window treatments.

Wallpaper, fresh paint, or new furniture will, of course, nicely do that too. But changing the window treatments is something you can do yourself in no time at all, and the visual rewards are immediate. And when you work with ready-made curtains, it's a snap to personally create the feeling you want in a room. "There's nothing like fabric at the window to soften the angular lines of a window, to reduce the noise level in a room, or to frame, filter or control the light entering a room from outdoors," says Jane Fitzpatrick, founder of Country Curtains. And with today's choices in ready-made window treatment styles, colors and fabrics, there's no end to the different looks you can create.

If you prefer to have the focus of your room be away from the windows, and toward, for example, your furniture, or a colorful rug or wall hanging, the obvious choice for the window is a natural or neutral color, and a relatively simple style.

Even a simple style, however, can be graceful and pleasing. Plain curtains can be tied back in the middle, down low or up high, depending what looks best to you. Some people prefer more of the room focus to be on the windows, to complement or contrast with neutral color in their furnishings, or to emphasize a view out the window. In this case, perhaps more color or a bolder style in the window treatments is called for. Layering a top treatment over a curtain or a sheer, for example, definitely makes more of a statement at the window.

Choosing Colors

Colors in window treatments always play an important role in your overall decorating scheme.

"It's common today to mix naturals and whites, or prints, stripes and solid colors," notes Fitzpatrick. Warm shades of reds, yellows, and pinks will add life to a quiet room. Cool colors — gray, white or blue — are restful tones. Greens and browns are pleasing earth tones.

The key is to pick colors that make you feel good, and that coordinate with or complement the other colors in your room. An easy way to help decide what colors or fabrics will work well in your room is to buy a half-yard of fabric, and live with it for a while.

Place it at your window; step back, or even across the room and notice how distance influences the appearance of the print, pattern or color. Notice how the color and texture changes the mood in your room. Also observe the mood and effect created in the daylight and how it changes at night when illuminated by the lamps in your room. Use this technique to choose something you enjoy.

Curtain Length

Curtain length is yet another factor to consider. Longer curtains will visually lengthen a window and add perceived height to a room. Curtains to the floor generally lend a more formal feeling to a room. Shorter curtains, to the sill, to the apron, or between the apron and the floor, feel more casual.

Holding curtains back with fabric or rope tiebacks, or with holdback hardware, can visually widen a window. Light Control Then there's the issue of light control. To soften and filter the incoming light, laces or sheers produce a wonderful effect, and lend themselves nicely to layering.

To block out the light, consider a lined or insulated curtain, or a fabric shade. The latter choices will also afford privacy when you want it, and allow you to let in lots of light when you want that.

Rods and Hardware Next

Remember that hardware — curtain rods in various shapes, styles, and materials; finials; swag holders; etc — can help you to easily create the silhouette you want.

"Whether it's tailored or ruffled curtains on continental or mesa rods, or tab curtains on wooden or wrought iron rods, or swags draped over wood, ceramic or glass swag holders, there's a look available for every taste," Fitzpatrick assures.

Fun And Satisfaction

This is one of the keys to decorating your windows with ready-made curtains. Have fun with your decorating projects and enjoy the pride and satisfaction that comes with making your own personal design statement in your home. For more curtain ideas, call (800) 456-0321.

Quincy Eyes Return Of Babe Ruth World Series

By CHRIS POISSON

After running around non-stop leading up to and during the 2003 14-Year-Old Babe Ruth World Series, Quincy Babe Ruth President Dick Lombardi said he crashed Sunday afternoon at home.

Of course, he'd do it all over again. And sooner, rather than later.

"Although I fell asleep Sunday, I could go another two weeks," Lombardi said. "It was a great time. It was all positive, let's put it that way."

"I'm hoping we get it back in 2005. If not then, hopefully soon after that. It's definitely going to come back. The tournament director and task force had nothing but positives. In another month, I should know better."

The World Series concluded last Saturday afternoon at Adams Field with Youngstown, Ohio, knocking off Willamette Valley, Ore., 3-1, in a well-played game for the national championship.

tracted 56,647 fans over the 29 games spanning nine days, Aug. 15-23. Lombardi believes the event could've topped the 60,000 mark if it weren't for a thunderstorm that invaded the area before the Quincy-Italy matchup the night of Aug. 16.

"That Saturday night we probably had between 6,000 and 6,500 people an hour before the game with more people coming in," he said. "If it didn't rain, we would've went over 60,000."

For many of those fans, Adams Field served as a meeting ground for reunions and family outings.

"People ran into a lot of old friends," Lombardi said. "And the family aspect. Mothers and fathers coming down with little kids in strollers. It was a family outing and they were sad to see it end."

Many people were involved with making the Babe Ruth World Series a success in Quincy, between the park department, the world series committee, local unions, host families, local businesses and the countless volunteers.

"I think it was the best thing in the city — ever," Lombardi said. "Just the way everyone in the community came together."

Of all the memorable moments that took place, one of the best stories happened before the first pitch was ever thrown — the renovation of Adams Field under a fierce deadline, which was still being completed less than an hour before the first game.

"That was just an amazing story," Lombardi said. "The people loved Adams Field. That Wednesday when the teams arrived, some of the coaches came up to me and said, 'I don't think we're going to play here. Where are we suppose to play? There's no stands, no infield.'"

"Tom Koch and the guys at the park department were just phenomenal. And the local unions donated their time. After their job was over,

City Tennis Tourney Starts Sept. 13

Entry forms are now available for the Quincy Recreation Department's 33rd annual City Tennis Tournament, which will be co-sponsored by the Quincy Municipal Credit Union.

They can be picked up at the Quincy Municipal Credit Union, the Recreation Office, City Hall and at various tennis courts throughout the city.

The deadline for entry is Sept. 5. The tourney will start the weekend of Sept. 13. The draw will be posted at the Russell Park tennis courts Sept. 11 and 12 from 5 to 8 p.m.

Cost is $12 for adults and $8 for children under 16. Matches are played nights and weekends at the Russell Park tennis courts on the grounds of the Center for Technical Education.

"This is the 33rd consecutive year we have supervised this event and are grateful to the credit union for its eighth year as a co-sponsor," said Recreation Director Barry Welch. "This is a wonderful activity for Quincy residents of all ages to take part in a tournament that has no equal in tradition, size and quality of play."

The tournament, which features events for men, women, boys and girls as well as mixed doubles, is believed to be the largest municipal tournament in New England. It will be directed by John Franceschini, who has guided the event for over 21 years.

Events scheduled are:

men's singles, women's singles, men's 50 and over, men's 35 and over, women's 35 and over, women's doubles, men's doubles, boys' 16 and under, girls' 16 and under, mixed doubles.

There is a special event, the Men's "B," which is open to all participants in the men's singles who are defeated in the first round of play. Also, there is a division for men or women who are city employees.

For more information call the Quincy Recreation Department at 617-376-1394.

Basic Boating Course Sept. 10

The United States Coast Guard Auxiliary will sponsor a basic boating and seamanship course beginning Wednesday, Sept. 10, at 7 p.m. at the Town River Yacht Club, Quincy.

Registration for the 12-week course will begin at 6:30 p.m.

For more information contact Fran McDonald at 617-846-8887 or Marie Conlin at 781-335-9985.

Jim Bottary Committee

To Host Golf Tournament Sept. 5

The committee to elect Jim Bottary for Ward 1 councilor will host a golf tournament fund-raiser at Presidents' Golf Course Friday, Sept. 5.

Donation is $100, which includes 18 holes of golf, golf cart, prize money, steak dinner at The Granite Rail Cafe, 16 Cottage Ave.

The tournament, Florida style format, will begin with an 8 a.m. shotgun start.

For more information call 617-479-3616.

they came down and worked three or four hours a night donating their skills and services."

Now that the dust has settled at Adams Field, with all the visitors having left the city and no more games to be played, Lombardi reflected back on the event that was two years in the making.

"What I'll remember is when the Italy kids came in that Tuesday," he said. "You knew that the World Series was really here. You knew the next day the rest of the kids were coming. And then that Friday when I went down to the field and saw the job that they did."

"The World Series was better than what I thought it would be," he added. "It was successful. One thing I know is that when we do it again, it will be a lot easier."

In the championship, Youngstown struck first in the fourth inning when Nick Turco ripped an RBI double down the left-field line.

Willamette Valley answered in the bottom half. Anthony Kreitz reached on an error and stole second base. Alex Besaw hit a sacrifice fly to right field, but a throwing error on the play allowed Kreitz to cross the plate with the tying run.

In the fifth inning Youngstown reached pitcher Jared Thompson for a pair of two-out runs. Anthony Brunetti stroked an RBI single and Corey Collins blasted an RBI triple over the center fielder's head to make it 3-1.

Collins, who named the Worlds Series' Most Outstanding player, notched the win with a complete-game performance. He allowed an unearned run on five hits while striking out four and walking none.

Quincy Fans Appreciate Local Team's Efforts

By CHRIS POISSON

The Quincy faithful, among the 5,472 in attendance, began to cheer loudly and stomp on the third-base side bleachers like they are a part of the Blue Man Group.

There's two outs in the bottom of the seventh inning with runners on first and third. Cleanup hitter Paul Doolan steps into the box, fights off blazing fastballs and knee-bending breaking balls before going down on strikes to end the game.

Final score from last Tuesday night's fourth and final game for the host team: Willamette Valley, Ore., 12; Quincy 5.

Not even the Rally Monkey could've helped Quincy pull out its first victory in the 14-year-old Babe Ruth World Series at Adams Field.

Knowingly, the fans were simply showing their appreciation for the team's effort, the countless hours of work they clocked over the past two seasons and the way they represented their city.

"The people were proud of this team and their effort," said manager Bob Griffin inside the dugout following the game. "These kids gave us everything they had. What I'll remember the most is the support of the community. It was overwhelming."

And there will be other World Series memories, too.

"I'll have memories of this team and being a host family," Griffin said. "I'll have vivid memories of Kevin Bossart's bases-clearing triple, and just the overall super play of Tom Power."

Power, who was named to the All-Defensive Team as a center fielder, had all three of his team's hits in the final game against Willamette Valley, going 3 for 3 with a triple, walk, run scored and three RBI. At the end of pool play, Power ranked fourth in the World Series in hitting with a .571 average (8 for 14).

Quincy opened the tournament with a 9-0 loss to Waterford, Conn., in front of a World Series-high 7,041 fans. It dropped a 9-6 decision to Italy the next game and followed that with a 7-6 heartbreaker to La Crescenta, Calif.

"Even though we did lose four games, I'm glad we were in the World Series," said left fielder Wendell Cosgrove. "It was an awesome experience. I liked the opportunity to play teams from across the country and around the world."

"We went out and did the best we could," said pitcher first baseman Jon Pelleiter. "We didn't win any games, but we had fun."

"It's a little disappointing, but I'm proud of the effort we gave," said third baseman Chris Rooney.

Against Willamette Valley, Quincy seemed as if it was headed toward victory lane. It reversed a World Series trend by actually getting off to a good start rather than burying itself in a hole and spending the rest of the game trying to climb out of it.

Quincy jumped out to a 5-1 lead after two innings. In the first, Power led off with a walk. Rooney laid down a sacrifice bunt, but a throwing error on the play allowed the runners to reach second and third. Catcher Kevin Bossart, who was also named to the All-Defensive Team, executed a suicide squeeze to get the first run home and Doolan followed with a sacrifice fly to right field for the second run.

In the second, right fielder Joe Ferris and Cosgrove walked with one out. John Allen reached base when the Willamette Valley third baseman fielded his groundball and missed tagging Ferris heading to third base. With the bases loaded, Power blasted a ball to left field that got by the fielder and rolled all the way to the fence for a bases-clearing triple and a 5-0 advantage.

In the bottom half, Willamette Valley pushed across one run and threatened for more before Doolan snared a screaming line drive at shortstop with the bases loaded to escape the inning.

"We came out very aggressive in the first two innings," Griffin said. "The key was getting first batters on. But the problem was we only got three hits. Small ball can only take you so far."

The game quickly unraveled after the second inning. Quincy mustered two base runners (single, walk) against starter Alex Besaw, who left after six strong innings. Meanwhile, Willamette Valley tallied five runs in the third—thanks to three walks, an error and two hits—to chase starter Allen from the game.

Willamette Valley tacked on a run in the fourth inning and busted the game open in the fifth frame with five more runs for a 12-5 cushion. Willamette Valley strung together five straight hits after a leadoff walk and also benefited from an error in the knock-out inning.

"It was a disappointing way to end the series, losing the way we did after a strong start," said Griffin, who will not coach the team as 15 year olds next year. "I told the kids after the game that it's another passage in life, another lesson. I hope it was a positive experience for them. They all got to play. We're the only team that played every player every game. The kids deserved to be there. It was a fun two years and I wish them all well."

The 1975 Red Sox defeated the 1967 Red Sox, 7-4, in the recent Babe Ruth International 15-year-old All-Star Game.

Tim Randall earned MVP honors, as he tripled, scored three runs and played a great defensive game. D.J. Andrews collected two hits and Joe Connelly doubled. Dave Courvels pitched three strong innings for the win and also had a hit.

For the 1967 Red Sox, Kevin Sullivan and Paul Farina led the offense with singles, while Justin Boyd doubled. Joe Courvels pitched two scoreless innings. Center fielder Bob Leahy and left fielder Mike Saville made good catches to keep the game close.

The league would like to thank the Baintree Moose Family Center for donating its time and effort in helping make the all-star game a success.

An "All League Team" was selected: Taylor Brean, Mike Saville, Paul Farina, D.J. Andrew, Joe Connelly, Joe Courvels, Bob Leahy, Dave Cordeiro, Rob Gardiner, Kevin Sullivan, Anthony Black, Pat Dunn, Dan Mulligan, Justin Boyd and Matt Boyle.

Mini-Fenway Working To Sign Long-Term Lease

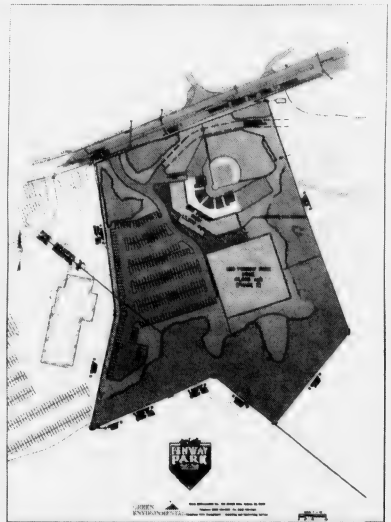

The Mini-Fenway Park project team received the proposed long-term lease this week from the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

"Since we received a legislative mandate eight months ago and a letter of intent from the Commonwealth six months ago to build Mini-Fenway, we have been working to satisfy all of the Commonwealth's requirements in order to sign this long-term lease," said Ron Iacobucci, CEO of Mini-Fenway's parent organization.

The Mini-Fenway team has completed a site assessment, appraisal, survey and executed a management agreement with the MDC — all necessary components to finalizing a long-term lease agreement. The final step now is the completion of an environmental review.

"An ENF was filed at the end of July and the comment period will close on Aug. 29," Iacobucci said. "We have worked very hard to resolve any environmental concerns and hope to receive a certificate from the Secretary of Environmental Affairs by Sept. 8."

mental submission, a revised site plan was also submitted that details the location of the Mini-Fenway Park replica which will be phase one of the project.

"The certificate will be the final component in the lease document and then the entire matter will be reviewed by the inspector general."

Iacobucci said. "We hope to sign a 50-year lease during the last regular season homestand at Fenway Park."

"The lease signing will be another important milestone in building Mini-Fenway. It is an important part of the public/private partnership to make this dream come true."

Quincy Legion Fall Baseball Program

Registration is ongoing for the Quincy Legion Fall Baseball Program.

It's an eight-week long program open to any player ages 8-17 who wants to improve their baseball skills by playing more games in a competitive and fun atmosphere, where learning will be stressed more than winning.

The program will be directed by Mark Jaehning and Lenny Seitz, the current manager and coach of Quincy Legion baseball. They have coached baseball at the Little League, AAU and American League levels for many years. There will be three divisions:

- Ages 8-11 will play Tuesday and/or Thursday afternoons from 4 to 6 p.m. at McCoy/Mitchell fields starting Thursday, Sept. 4

- Ages 12-14 will play Saturday afternoons at O'Rourke Field starting at 1 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 6.

- Ages 15-17 will play Saturday afternoons at O'Rourke Field starting at 3:30 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 6.

Registration will be held at the first sessions (see above schedule) if space is available. Cost is $50 per player.

For more information and/or registration forms, call Mark Jaehning at 617-472-3311.

Whirlwind Week For Bossart Host Family

By CHRIS POISSON

When Trish Bossart looked around her vacant and quiet house last Friday, she could not help from feeling a bit sad.

The image signaled the end of the Bossart family's involvement in the 2003 14-Year-Old Babe Ruth World Series — nine busy days full of friendships, thrills, disappointments and memories.

"It was like the calm after a storm," Trish said. "It was sad."

And there may not have been a family in Quincy more involved than them with the World Series.

The father, Bob, was a coach on the Quincy team; a son, Kevin, was the starting catcher; the daughter, Katherine, was a team hostess; and Trish worked as a photographer for The Quincy Sun in addition to her motherly duties. Another son, Jeff, was going to be a volunteer but it would've conflicted with his work schedule.

And on top of all that, they were among the many host families, housing three kids from the Gibbsboro-Voorhees, N.J., team from the Middle Atlantic region: B.J. Merriam, Matt Baer and Wes Sweet.

"We actually followed the regionals on the Internet," Bobsaid. "We were assigned the Middle Atlantic region, but we didn't know what team. I was hoping to see Levittown, Pa., because I grew up in the area."

"We were shocked when New Jersey won. We were like, 'Oh my God, we're going to be hosting Yankee fans.' It turned out they were really great kids. And it turned out they weren't Yankees fans at all. They were all Phillies fans."

The family had previous experience serving as a host family. Two years ago, they hosted an Austrian hockey team and also a New Hampshire team in a New England regional baseball tournament for 12 year olds.

This time around, though, it was a lot different. "This was a national event, a lot longer and more hype," Trish said. "The others were on the local level. Another difference was there was two years of preparation involved with this. It was a long road."

"It was a lot longer and we had three kids," Bob said. "I think we got a lot closer to these kids. We were under the impression teams that made the single-elimination round would be here until Sunday. They lost Thursday and left Friday morning. It was heartbreaking to see them leave."

"They were all really great kids," Trish said. "I can't say enough good things about them. If you have to add three teenage kids in our house, on top of the three we have, these were the kids to have."

The three New Jersey kids and Kevin bonded well, especially when they all learned they hated the Yankees.

"They turned out to be cool, and they didn't even like the Yankees," Kevin said. "We were always joking with each other. They came to my games and I went to theirs. We were all cheering for each other."

"I was going to go back down with them but it didn't work out with school and football. We're planning on it. We're thinking about the long weekend in October."

There was plenty of confusion in the Bossart household during those nine days, with six teenagers under one roof, just one bathroom, conflicting schedules, late nights, early mornings, juggled sleeping arrangements, loads of laundry and neglected house rules.

"It was kinda of chaotic," Bob said. "I had a color-coded schedule. Red was for the events for the New Jersey kids. Blue was for Quincy. Black was for both. There was a lot of overlapping. A lot of confusion, but it all worked out wonderfully."

"It was pretty hectic in the beginning," Trish said. "It was a constant, rotating schedule. Something was going on all the time."

"And I did hear more than once throughout the week, 'We need another bathroom.' But it was all in good humor. No one got testy or aggravated. Every one got along well."

"My house rules slacked a little, too. There's supposed to be no snacks or drinks in the den or living room. I saw empty wrappers and Gatorade bottles everywhere. Whatever made them happy."

When the World Series ended and the kids returned to New Jersey, the family said it welcomed getting back to a normal schedule, a regular routine. But they'll always look back at those nine busy days in August with fondness and appreciation.

"In the beginning I thought how we are going to do this for nine days," Trish said. "It turned out every day was as good as the next. It just flew by. It was easy. We would do it all over again in a heartbeat."

GETTING HOSED

When it comes to the hoses beneath the hood of your vehicle, what you cannot see may hurt you. Electrochemical degradation (ECD) refers to the invisible damage that can result in unexpected failure. Hoses are made of ethylene-propylene rubber compounds, which have good resilience and flexibility. They are susceptible to electrochemical attack, however, due to the combination of hose material, the coolant, and the metal fittings, which combine to form a galvanic cell. This attack results in tiny cracks in the inner tube and a weakening of the surrounding reinforcement. Given the existing heat and flexing, the stage is set for problems ranging from a pinhole leak to complete rupture. This can be diagnosed with a simple squeeze test.

Hoses soft? They should be replaced before you have an on-the-road problem. To help you do this rely on the ASE Certified service time at LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO, at 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree (781-843-1550). We are "A Place Where Your Car Can Live Longer." Sunoco and most major credit cards honored. We use the AllData CD-ROM based system for the very latest in maintenance and service bulletins for all makes of cars.

HINT: A squeeze test consists of using your thumb and one or two fingers to pinch a hose near the connectors, with the engine cool. You may feel voids, cracks, and/or mushy weakness, which indicate the need for replacement.

Fall Brings New Relief Options For Heartburn Sufferers

CARA - If you have ever avoided some of your favorite foods in order to reduce the pain of heartburn, you're not alone. More than 60 million Americans experience heartburn at least once a month. And an estimated 50 million Americans suffer from frequent heartburn, heartburn occurring two or more days per week.

Heartburn occurs when acid-containing stomach contents back up and out of the stomach into the esophagus causing a burning sensation in the chest or throat. The pain and discomfort of heartburn is very real, limiting daily activities and productivity for many. Although heartburn usually can be controlled with over-the-counter medicine, half of heartburn sufferers mistakenly believe it is impossible to live heartburn-free.

Now, frequent heartburn sufferers will have another treatment option following the Food and Drug Administration's recent approval of Prilosec OTC.

Nicknamed the "purple pill," Prilosec has been prescribed by doctors for years to treat acid-related conditions in millions of people safely and effectively and will soon be available over-the-counter without a doctor's prescription. It is part of a family of medicines known as acid (or proton) pump inhibitors which stops acid production at its source.

With this new heartburn treatment option soon hitting the market, heartburn sufferers may have some confusion over which treatment is right for them. Consumers with questions about heartburn and treatment options can seek answers at their local Wal-Mart pharmacy.

"Selecting the right heartburn medicine can be hard, but your pharmacist can help," said Lori Mendoza, registered pharmacist at Wal-Mart.

"We can advise you how to best use an over-the-counter product to treat your symptoms, when to use it, and what other health conditions, drugs, diet, level of physical activity, and lifestyle concerns may affect its use."

Wal-Mart pharmacies provide the following answers to these frequently asked heartburn questions:

What is heartburn?

Heartburn is a burning discomfort usually felt in the chest just behind the breastbone. Other symptoms can include a feeling that food or liquid is coming back into the mouth or throat, or an acid or bitter taste at the back of the throat.

What foods trigger heartburn?

Eating foods such as citrus fruits, chocolate, peppermint, spearmint, tomatoes or tomato-based products, raw onions, garlic, black pepper, vinegar and fatty or spicy foods can set off heartburn.

How can I treat occasional heartburn?

You can reduce your risk of getting heartburn by avoiding the trigger foods and behaviors that affect you most. The next line of defense is medications. A wide variety of medicines are available without prescription. Check with your pharmacist to see what's right for you.

What classifies heartburn as frequent?

Frequent heartburn occurs two or more days a week. It can be very painful, interfere with sleep, and impair productivity.

How do drugs like Prilosec OTC treat frequent heartburn?

Prilosec OTC reduces the amount of heartburn-causing acid by shutting down active acid-producing pumps at the source, which is unlike other over-the-counter remedies. It is the first medicine of its kind available without a prescription.

How do I know which treatment is right?

Check with your Wal-Mart pharmacist, who can help you determine which medicine is best for your heartburn symptoms.

Several factors need to be considered when choosing an appropriate treatment, including other prescription and non-prescription medicines you are taking, health problems, the frequency and severity of heartburn episodes and other personal triggers.

Always read medicine labels thoroughly, follow the directions carefully and consult your pharmacist if you have questions.

For more information about treatments for frequent heartburn, ask your Wal-Mart pharmacist or go to www.prilosec.com.

Quincy's Ken Coleman 'Voice Of Red Sox,' At 78

By TOM HENSHAW

When Ken Coleman started broadcasting high school football on WJDA a half century ago he was paid $25 a week and sometimes he worked alongside the owners seven days a week.

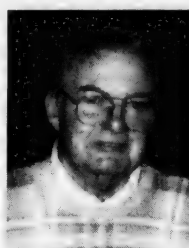

"It was always a thrill for me to do high school football on the South Shore," said the North Quincy native who was known as "the voice of the Red Sox" for more than 20 years until his retirement in 1989. He was inducted into the Red Sox Hall of Fame in 2000.

A funeral mass was celebrated Monday at St. Bonaventure Church in Plymouth for Mr. Coleman, who died Thursday in Jordan Hospital, Plymouth, at the age of 78. Burial was in the Massachusetts National Cemetery in Bourne.

It was a high school football game on the South Shore in 1950 that shifted his career into high gear as a broadcaster for football's Cleveland Browns and baseball's Cleveland Indians and Cincinnati Reds as well as the Red Sox.

Weymouth was playing Brockton and Mr. Coleman was broadcasting that day when Bill Cunningham, the premier Boston sports columnist of the day, decided that college football in these parts was not good enough for him so he'd cover the game at Weymouth instead.

Cunningham sat in the glass-enclosed radio booth at Legion Field as befits a premier Boston columnist, listened to Mr. Coleman's description of the game and the next day in his column called it to most accurate that he had ever heard.

Two years later Mr. Coleman was calling the Cleveland Browns football games and his career was off and running.

He started with WJDA in December, 1947, working alongside owners Jim Asher and Joe Tobin on such non-sports programs as "Flying Discs," "Stump the Staff," "Battle of the Baritones," and the "1300 Man," a contest in which listeners heard a recorded message and guessed the identity of the well-known South Shore figure who spoke.

"It was probably the most fun I ever had in all the years I've done radio," he once recalled.

After 14 years of broadcasting for the Browns, Reds and Indians, Mr. Coleman returned to Boston in 1966 with the Red Sox, just in time to do the games of the 1967 "Impossible Dream" team

SCOTT DEWARE

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Labor Day is one of the youngest of our national holidays. It is an important day, not only for those in the ranks of labor, but for every citizen in this land. It took labor of all kinds to carve this nation out of a wilderness; to carve roads through the trackless forests; to clear lands and build towns.

Today many do not celebrate the day as it was originally dedicated for. There are, of course, the parades, but for many Labor Day marks the beginning of Fall. By Labor Day, autumn's trappings are much in evidence. Pumpkins are ripening. School is starting. Nights are cooler. Football is re-asserting its claim to be the national game. . . In resort areas, vacationers are having their last fling. In the cities, people are shaking off their apathy of summer.

We're glad the Knights of Columbus invented the idea in the 1880's and Congress made it official in 1894. Today maybe it isn't what they had in mind, but they gave us a day on which to say a hearty "Welcome back," to Fall. . . And as we say a welcome to Fall, let us stop and think about our nation that was molded out of people from all sorts of backgrounds - provided they were willing and ready to work today.

HERE IS A PLEASANT LITTLE GAME that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner and check one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Your honesty might upset some people, but you inevitably win more admirers for having the courage to tell the truth when others are more likely to scramble for cover.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Your efforts to defend your project begin to show favorable results. You should soon be able to win over even the most determined detractors who had lined up against it.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) You win praise for your selfless efforts in a very difficult situation. But be careful not to allow your generous nature to be exploited by those who have their own agenda.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) A trusted colleague sheds light on a recent spate of puzzling workplace situations. This should give you the information you need to bring to your superior's attention.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) A shift in workplace management could be helpful for talented Leos and Leonas who have been waiting to have their accomplishments rewarded by receptive leadership.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) A misunderstanding between you and someone you care for should be corrected immediately. This relationship is too important to lose over a bruised ego.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) A welcome piece of good news helps clear the air in a family situation. A job-related incident also eases a more information provides a clearer focus on the problem.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Quick action to heal bruised feelings pays off in a big way. Now you'll be able to move forward with your plans without that problem holding you back.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Your creativity combined with a positive attitude should give you a considerable edge in finding a way to get around the negativity you've run into.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) That sudden streak of stubbornness could cause some problems. Try to be more open to helpful suggestions and more flexible in making needed changes.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Now that that special relationship appears to be well and truly restored, you can spend more time dealing with those long-needed workplace changes.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) A new opportunity sounds promising. But watch out for any conditions that might be attached. Before making a decision, ask that each one be explained in detail.

BORN THIS WEEK: You can be distracted by promises of good times, yet you ultimately reach the goals you set for yourself.

Part Of $70 Million Restoration

Comments Asked On Wollaston Beach Sand Project

The Army Corps of Engineers is seeking comment from the public on a plan to add clean, medium-to-coarse sand in two separate places below the high tide line as part of a project to enhance Wollaston Beach for recreational use.

Area 1 covers about 3.5 acres across Quincy Shore Drive from West Elm Avenue and Area 2 covers about 2.1 acres across from Rice Road.

The project is part of a $7 million beach restoration program devised by the State Department of Conservation and Recreation, once known as the MDC, that calls for new traffic signals, water fountains, showers, new catch basins and other amenities.

The sand will be placed to a maximum depth of four feet and an average depth of two feet. The clean sand will be placed over the existing beach sediments.

The placement of the new sand in eroded sections of the beach needs the approval of the Army Corps of Engineers and the National Marine Fisheries Service since the proposal involves about 5.6 acres of essential fish habitat for 31 species.

The habitat consists of intertidal rocky cobble coastal beach, the loss of which may adversely affect the current community at the site. Time of year restrictions may be required in order to minimize impacts during construction.

The Corps of Engineers has determined that site impacts may be substantial. The Corps will submit an expanded Essential Fish Habitat assessment to the National Marine Fisheries Service, which will provide conservation recommendations to the Corps.

Once the work gets underway, it is expected to take from 18 months to two years to complete the beach restoration program.

Public comments in the form of written statements should be sent to the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, New England District, Regulatory Division, 696 Virginia Rd., Concord, MA 01742-2751, no later than Sept. 22.

Some Reservations Expressed

City Council Seen Approving $110M New High School Bond

By WILLIAM TRAYNOR

Despite reservations from some members, the city council Tuesday night was expected to sign off on a $110.3 million bond issue for the construction of a new Quincy High School and the renovation of the existing school to a new Central Middle School. The council's vote allows the city to make a Sept. 2 deadline set forth by state Education Commissioner David Driscoll. Originally, Driscoll had asked the city to approve a funding package by Aug. 29, but later agreed to extend it.

"I have a strong belief that this is going to be approved," said Ward 3 Councillor Kevin Coughlin. "But there are certain trepidations regarding this project, including the permit process and what the ultimate project is going to look like. But the 90 percent reimbursement and the presentation by bond counsel led to a validation that we can afford this."

Councillor Frank McCauley said the 90 percent reimbursement rate is too enticing.

"Unless I hear something that I haven't heard before, the state has made us an offer we can't refuse," McCauley said prior to the council meeting. "The alternative is to do nothing, and I don't see that as an option."

At presstime, Ward 6 Councillor and mayoral candidate Joe Newton said he was undecided about the bond. Although he supports the notion of building a new high school, he doubts it will be built at Faxon Field.

"I don't see how we will get environmental approval for this site," said Newton. "We are putting the cart before the horse. By putting the high school at this site we have been forced to downsize it. I still believe the DPW site is the best site for the new high school, and the most cost effective.

Council President Dan Raymond said the council may seek to amend the bond issue, including inserting language that ensures a 90 percent reimbursement rate for Sterling Middle School.

"It is troubling for the administration to pay so little

Cost Of Marriage Going Up

Unless the City Council acts post haste to catch up, the city of Quincy will be losing $11 for every marriage license issued by City Clerk Joe Shea.

That's because of the $46 fee imposed by the state legislature on marriage licenses issued by the cities and town. In the past, Quincy has charged only $35.

"City and town clerks around the Commonwealth are dismayed," said Shea. "We feel this is a tax on young married folks.

"But we have to go up to meet the demands of the state. The governor may veto it but it would pass again in November."

The raise in fee was on the agenda for consideration by the City Council Tuesday night.

Legal Control Over Buildings Judge Rules For City On College Rent Issue

By WILLIAM TRAYNOR

The City of Quincy and the school committee have legal control over the buildings occupied by Quincy College and may evict the college if it does not pay the rent, a Superior Court judge ruled.

The ruling means the school committee can evict the college if it does not pay $450,000 in rent because the city is designated as the landlord, the judge ruled.

Judge Patrick F. Brady dismissed the Quincy College Board of Governors' request seeking legal control of the buildings, located at 50 and 58 Saville Ave. and Coddington Hall.

Brady, however, characterized an eviction move by the city as "drastic."

"Presumably, the parties will resolve the question of the amount of rent to be paid by negotiation just as the pertinent legislation requires the parties to resolve other issues of payment," Brady wrote. "I have no doubt, however, that the city and school committee have the lawful authority to establish the rent and evict the college," he ruled.

Quincy Soldier Killed By Land Mine In Iraq

By TOM HENSHAW

A 38-year-old native of Quincy, who was married only last February on the eve of his callup by the Army, was killed by a land mine in Iraq Monday.

Lt. Charles Todd Caldwell of North Providence, R.I., died when the Humvee in which he and two others were riding struck the mine north of Baghdad.

He was the son of Charles and Gladys Caldwell of North Quincy. His father is a retired science teacher at Central Middle School.

His brother, Kipp, is the volleyball coach at North Quincy High School.

"We prayed for God's will for Todd and we have to believe that this is God's will," said Gladys Caldwell. "That is a comfort, quite a comfort.

"One thing that is really nice is that, in life, you don't always say the loving words you should tell to each other as much as you should.

"But through the last month we have exchanged letters that were just full of thankfulness and loving words and we feel good

Because Emergencies Don't Happen on a Schedule. Milton Hospital E.R.

Things happen from minor mishaps to major situations, just when you least expect it. That's why Milton Hospital is ready to provide the emergency and urgent care you need 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. We understand the trauma of a medical emergency and we want you to know that we're here to provide compassionate, personalized medical care for any emergency.

Extra Coverage - Extra Care

In addition to providing extra coverage on weekends, our emergency department has physician assistants on duty every day. This enables us to direct emergency cases to our skilled emergency physicians, while our physician assistants treat less critical conditions. The result: Shorter waits and more personal attention for our patients. It's the kind of personal care that has earned us high marks in recent independent patient satisfaction surveys.

West Nile Virus In Birds 'No Cause For Alarm,' Says Health Commissioner

By WILLIAM TRAYNOR

"People should not be alarmed," said Drew Scheele, the city's health commissioner, after the West Nile Virus was detected in three dead birds found in the Quantum and Wollaston areas last week.

"If people take simple precautions, there is no need to worry," he said following the discovery of two infected birds on Dundee St. and Trevor St. in Quantum and another on Highland Ave. in Wollaston.

Scheele said the Norfolk County Mosquito Control Project will continue spraying on the city's weekly schedule, which is 3 to 6 a.m. on Thursdays. If residents want additional spraying on their streets they should contact the health department, he said.

Although no more birds will be tested for West Nile in the city this year, Scheele said residents should continue to report dead birds to the state Department of Public Health (DPH) or to the health department. Reports of dead birds are used by DPH to track virus activity in the state, he said.

Scheele said the city's Animal Control Officer will continue to collect and dispose of dead birds reported to authorities.

If disposing of a bird, residents should not touch a bird with bare hands. Instead, the birds should be placed in double plastic bags. Once sealed in a double plastic bag, a dead bird can be placed in the trash. Hands should be washed with soap and water after disposal, according to the health department.

Scheele said bird-biting mosquito traps are set up in Wollaston and Quantum.

If those mosquitoes are found to have the virus then traps for human-biting mosquitoes will be set up, Scheele said. Those traps, called CDC traps, emit carbon dioxide to simulate the gas exhaled by humans, according to David Lawson, assistant director of the Norfolk County Mosquito Control Project in Norwood.

To date, no mosquitoes tested in Quincy have registered positive for the West Nile Virus, he said.

Last year, 17 birds found in Quincy tested positive for the virus.

There is no evidence to suggest that birds, or any mammal found to have the disease, can transmit the virus to humans, according to the health department. People over the age of 50 are at a higher risk for severe infection, the health department said.

Scheele less than one percent of all people bitten by an infected mosquito will show symptoms, which are similar to the flu.

Residents may take a number of steps to avoid contracting the West Nile Virus, according to the Quincy Health Department. They are:

- Avoid outdoor activities at dawn and dusk when mosquitoes are most active. If you must be outdoors, wear long-sleeved shirts, long pants and use mosquito repellent that contains DEET (N-N-diethyl-metaltolamide) and follow the directions on the label. Repellents should not be used on infants.

- Cover up the arms and legs of children playing outdoors near swampy areas.

- When outdoors, cover babies' playpens or carriages with mosquito netting. Don't camp overnight near freshwater swamps where mosquitoes are most active.

- If camping outdoors, make sure the tents are equipped with mosquito netting.

- Fix any holes in screens and make sure they are tightly attached to all doors and windows. Inspect weather stripping around all doors.

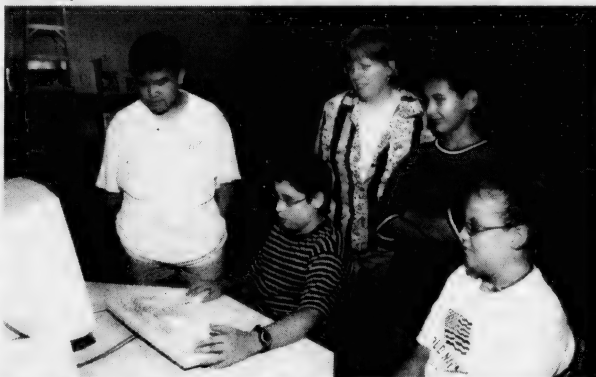

- Eliminate standing pools of water where mosquitoes can breed.

For more information contact the City of Quincy's web page, www.ci.quincy.ma.us or the health department at 617-376-1273.

Scheele said the health department also has fact sheets about the virus available to the public.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Sept. 1, 1807, former U.S. vice president Aaron Burr is acquitted of plotting to annex parts of Louisiana and Spanish territory in Mexico to be used toward the establishment of an independent republic. Nevertheless, public opinion condemned him as a traitor, and he fled to Europe.

• On Sept. 5, 1877, Oglala Sioux chief Crazy Horse is fatally bayoneted by a U.S. soldier after resisting confinement in a guardhouse at Fort Robinson, Neb. A year earlier, Crazy Horse was among the Sioux leaders who defeated George Armstrong Custer's Seventh Cavalry at the Battle of Little Bighorn in the Montana Territory.

• On Sept. 3, 1935, a new land-speed record is set by Britain's famed speed demon Sir Malcolm Campbell. On the Bonneville Salt Flats of Utah, Campbell and his 2,500-horsepower motor car, Bluebird, made two runs over a 1-mile course at speeds averaging 301 mph.

• On Sept. 7, 1936, rock music pioneer Buddy Holly is born in Lubbock, Texas. Holly popularized the standard rock band format of two guitars, a bass and drums.

• On Sept. 2, 1945, aboard the USS Missouri in Tokyo Bay, Japan formally surrenders to the Allies, bringing an end to World War II.

• On Sept. 6, 1966, the architect of apartheid is assassinated when South African Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd is stabbed to death by a deranged messenger during a parliamentary meeting in Cape Town. The assassin, Demetrio Tsafendas, was a Mozambique immigrant of mixed racial descent — part Greek and part Swazi.

• On Sept. 4, 1972, U.S. swimmer Mark Spitz wins his seventh gold medal at the 1972 Summer Olympics in Munich. No other athlete has won so many gold medals at a single Olympiad.

Largey's Necktie Caught Their Eye

Did you ever hear of a dangerous necktie? Security screeners at Logan Airport suspected they saw what could have been one.

It was around the neck of Tom Largey, the mayor's executive secretary, who was at Logan for a recent flight to Washington, D.C.

A tie you would have to at least say has a rather unusual color scheme: a bright yellow front and a dark blue with polka dots back panel.

It almost looks like two different ties.

And maybe that's why it caught the eye of a woman screener at a checkpoint.

"It's the new style," Largey told her.

"Take it off," she told him.

She then ran a detector up the inside of the back panel just to be sure there wasn't something up there that shouldn't be there.

After all, concealed knives and other potential weapons have been known to be found in cigarette lighters, canes, lipstick cases and in other ordinary every day harmless items.

And reportedly nearly 650,000 potential weapons were taken from passengers at checkpoints in airports throughout the nation in July alone.

So, who knows, a necktie could be a new wrinkle in the weapons department.

The screener, of course, found nothing in the tie and handed it back to Largey.

But she was impressed with it.

"Nice tie," she told him. "Where did you get it? I'd like to get one for my son."

Largey told her it was a gift from his wife, Kelly, who bought it at Filene's.

"Obviously they (the screeners) just weren't up with the latest style," says Largey, defending his tie.

But, apparently they are now.

And maybe the tie is a sign that security is getting tighter at Logan.

FR. BILL MCCARTHY has bounced back from a recent setback and certainly hasn't lost his fastball.

He has long been a champion of the homeless and needy and doesn't let inevitable criticism from some quarters get in his way.

But he took exception to some of the opposition to a 24-hour shelter in Hyannis.

And, he fired off the following letter to the Cape Cod Times:

"I have been in the homeless business for 20 years. As the founder of Father Bill's Place, a homeless shelter in Quincy, I have seen clients turn their lives around and become productive members of society.

"Many are in shelters through no fault of their own but due to circumstances beyond their control. At Father Bill's Place we treat people with respect and kindness, always remembering that we don't know what baggage they are carrying.

"I take offense at the local businessman's comment referring to these people as 'bums.' They are human beings — some with physical or mental problems that need help and are not being taken care of in the public sector.

"The homeless problem is growing, with the working poor unable to afford high rents. I have worked with some homeless shelters on the Cape and understand the growing problems.

"By providing a 24-hour shelter, we will see a transformation for the good in these clients.

"We should work together to restore self-respect and dignity to these less fortunate."

A BIRTHDAY REMEMBRANCE

for Paul Harold will be observed Saturday at the 4 o'clock Mass at his home parish, Our Lady of Good Counsel, Sea Street, Merrymount.

Paul was 53 when he died last year Aug. 12 just short of his 54th birthday. Saturday's Mass will mark his 55th birthday.

His distinguished public service career spanned a quarter century as city councillor, city council president, state senator and Norfolk County register of deeds.

His death in the prime of his life was a major blow and major loss to the community to which he had given so much and to which he would have given much more.

But we were fortunate to have had him as those few years we did.

A NOTE FROM Edward Gerstel of Marina Drive regarding last week's column on the Battle of the Bulge Memorial planned for McIntyre Mall.

Gerstel, a World War II veteran, agrees with Elmer (Mike) Fagerlund, a veteran of that famed battle, that no one battle should be singled out for special recognition.

The Veterans of the Battle of the Bulge, Inc. (VBOB) is providing the monument called "Triumph of Courage" with the city providing the base for it.

Members of VBOB are holding a reunion this week at the Quincy Marriott Hotel and plan to dedicate the memorial Sunday at 2 p.m.

World War II veteran Leonard Morris, who fought in the Battle of the Bulge, supports the memorial but thinks it should be placed in an area other than McIntyre Mall. His letter to the editor appears on Page 5.

Gerstel has these comments:

"I agree with Mr. Fagerlund. We have enough veterans monuments. I was in the U.S. Navy in World War II. I was in on the D-Day invasion in Normandy. I also served in the Pacific, winding up with the occupation of Japan.

"We should not single out certain battles. They were all bloody.

"And I do hope the mayor will have our great World War II Memorial in its proper place by Veterans Day, next Nov. 11. I am a lifelong citizen of the city that I love."

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1910 postcard from the Harvard Aeronautical Society's airmeet in Atlantic, 93 years ago this week. Over $60,000 in prizes were offered for propeller driven aircraft to set records at the airmeet. Other contests attracted a primitive helicopter, two man-kites and this dirigible. Cromwell Dixon, who was only a teen-ager, commandeered it. He is shown here with his mother and sister. Dixon was to fly this balloon from Squantum to Beacon Hill but he mistook the Christian Science Mother Church as the dome of the State House and lost the contest. This airmeet was only seven years after the Wright brothers' first flight and it was only the second held in the United States. It drew thousands of visitors to Quincy from around the world including President William Howard Taft, New York State Senator Franklin D. Roosevelt and Boston Mayor Honey Fitzgerald. Now the site of the Squantum Gardens housing and Beechwood-on-the-Bay, the 500-acre field for this airmeet later became Dennison's Airport and then part of the Squantum Naval Air Station.

Signal Mixup Snafus City's Test Blackout

A rest air raid blackout in Quincy turned into chaos when a worker at the Quincy Electric Light and Power Co. misinterpreted a signal from the Fire Department and turned street lights on in the middle of it.

Residents in turn, thinking the air raid drill was over, turned on the lights in their homes and some air raid wardens were reported to have packed their gear and left their posts.

E.J. MacEwan, the Civil Defense coordinator for the region, said he will ask state authorities for permission to hold the test again until Quincy got it right.

Meanwhile, the Quincy Defense Council received word that the new blackout mobilization signal would be a five-second whistle blast, a two-second pause, a five-second blast repeated for four minutes.

SCRAP IRON SOUGHT

The Quincy Salvage Committee moved to reclaim for the war effort some 150 tons of scrap iron from six rusting hulks that had been eyesores in the Town River for many years.

Chairman D. Foster Taylor inspected the many old barges and boats abandoned in the river and selected for salvage three dredging scows, two towboats and one coastal shipping barge.

SCHOOL CLOSING

The School Committee, after hearing petitions by two Quincy Point residents, voted unanimously to reaffirm its decision to close the 84-year-old Washington School.

City Councillor Louis A. George questioned the legality of the closing and asked the city solicitor for an opinion.

"It is my personal opinion," said George, who was also a lawyer, "that the School Committee has no legal right to close or abandon a public school once it is established."

QUINCY-ISMS

Ruth H. Kerr, daughter of Harry Kerr, president of the Boston Gear Works, was one of the first WAACs (Women's Auxiliary Army Corps) commissioned at Des Moines, Iowa.

Perley E. Barbour, chairman of the Quincy Rationing and Price Control Board, announced that he would not be a candidate for mayor.

Richard D. Allen, the first member of the Patriot Ledger editorial staff to leave for the Army, was given a farewell party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Scrivener in Braintree.

Turkeys were 43 cents a pound at the First National Store, 567 Washington St., Quincy Point.

Sixty-four girls, ages 17-25, were in training to become machinists at the Quincy NYA Machine Shop, 106 Washington St.

Dr. Joseph P. Leone, superintendent of Quincy City Hospital, was named chairman of the 1943 Red Cross War Fund and Roll Call Drive.

Miss Ellen J. Peterson, 14 North Payne St., South Quincy, was repatriated by the Japanese aboard the SS Grisholm after 29 years as a missionary in China.

Mayor Burgin said draft officials told him there would be no blanket deferments for police officers and firefighters but each case would be handled on its own merits.

Staff Sgt. Charles N. Ross, son of former Mayor Charles A. Ross, returned to duty with the 26th Infantry at Fredericksburg, Va., after a furlough at home.

Montclair children staged a show to raise money for defense stamps in the garage of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Picard, 256 Fayette St.

The businessman's lunch of escalloped ham and macaroni au gratin with green beans was 50 cents at the Howard Johnson Restaurant at the Granite Trust building.

Mrs. Herbert Robbins of Wollaston was in charge of the newly opened salvage depot at 1155 Hancock St., near Foy's Market.

Fred B. Murphy, owner of the Quincy, Strand and Alhambra Theaters, announced that Dorothy Lamour, the movies saronig girl, will be in Quincy Sept. 12 to promote the national war bond drive.

A house in Adams Shore with six rooms and run room, steam heat and a heated garage was for sale at $4,200 with Flavin and Flavin Real Estate, 1601 Hancock St.

Ann Sheridan and Ronald Reagan were starring in "Juke Girl" at the Wollaston Theater.

Mrs. Frank Lindberg, general chairman, was seeking 300 women volunteers for the Quincy Red Cross canteen services.

Sgt. C.J. Della Barba, son of Mr. and Mrs. Salvatore Della Barba, 12 Mill St., Quincy Point, was stationed at MacDill Field, Tampa, Fla.

Quincy College Thanks The Quincy Sun For Charlie Sweeny Remembrances

On behalf of the students, faculty and staff of Quincy College, I wish to thank The Quincy Sun, and Henry Bosworth in particular, for the warm and thoughtful remembrances of Charlie Sweeny, which appeared in the Aug. 21 issue of The Quincy Sun.

Readers of the Sunbeams column learned much about Charlie, and the obituary filled with reflections from his friends and colleagues was also a fitting tribute.

Few colleges are fortunate to have their founders still alive. Even fewer college presidents can enjoy the continuous and vigorous support and counsel of longtime patrons, so I was particularly pleased to have a friend like Charlie. Charlie was a Dartmouth College graduate, but insisted on wearing a Quincy College hood when he participated in our commencement ceremonies. Charlie was very proud of Quincy College and the community it served.

Perhaps even more remarkable than his dedication to Quincy College was his love of our country and his repeated willingness to provide public service. His tenure with the school committee, the veteran's administration, the board of registrars of voters are just highlights from a remarkable life.

Those of us who attended the wake saw the Purple Heart Charlie earned during the Second World War. This was particularly poignant since he never spoke of it to us. Although many years may have passed since his name was on a ballot, and despite the fact that he was not often in the limelight, Charlie is a part of the contemporary history of our city, and was a distinguished citizen worth remembering.

Thank you, Quincy Sun, for taking the time to help us all appreciate Charles T. Sweeny, one more time.

Responds To Opposition To Battle Of Bulge Memorial

Regarding Mr. Fagerlund's comments in The Sun about the memorial for the Veterans of the Battle of the Bulge, it is almost similar to his negative statements about the WWII memorial/statue now resting in front of City Hall.

Mr. Fagerlund's comments were very similar to those stated by the Quincy Veterans Service Officer which appeared in The Patriot Ledger. As for the memorial being recognized over others in WWII, the Battle of the Bulge was the greatest land battle ever fought. I don't agree that it should be at McIntyre Mall but at some other area of the city.

Since Mr. Fagerlund was in the 26th Division and fought in the Bulge but records show that the 26th arrived in Europe late in the war and participated in the battle for about three weeks when the battle began on Dec. 16, 1944 and ended Jan. 25, 1945.

The paper stated he was a captain of a company and earned three Bronze Stars, a Purple Heart and a unit commendation. Well, even though I was not a company commander, I was awarded a CIB, three Bronze Stars, seven Purple Hearts, five Battle Stars with an arrow indicating I was also in on the invasion at Omaha Beach with the Devil's Brigade and a Presidential Unit Citation.

I take exception to most of his comments.

Evelyn Johnson, a long-time former resident of Quincy, celebrated her 100th birthday Aug. 25.

Friends and family joined her in the celebration at the home of her daughter and son-in-law, Beverly and Frank Larson in Eascham where she now lives.

Mrs. Johnson lived for 75 years on Colby Road in North Quincy and was an active member of Covenant Congregational Church in Quincy during

She remains a member of the church and many former and current members with whom she maintains an active correspondence were on hand to celebrate her milestone.

Longevity runs in her family but when asked to what she attributes her lively disposition and active lifestyle, she replied:

"Expecting a surprise every day — be it a flower blooming, a postcard, a phone call or a visit from a butterfly."

And, she says she is looking forward to what tomorrow will bring.

For Women, Children

QMC's Nutrition Program Ranked Best In State

Quincy Medical Center's Women, Infants and Children Supplemental Nutrition Program (WIC) was ranked the state's best performing WIC program, following a recent audit by the Massachusetts Department of Public Health's statewide WIC office.

The annual audit of the state's 37 WIC programs measures each against statewide operational benchmarks.

"In this day and age, it is very important for a community hospital to offer programs that meet the needs of women and their families," said Christine Schuster, RN, MBA, president and CEO at QMC.

WIC programs provide free food and nutrition counseling to income-eligible pregnant, breastfeeding and postpartum women, infants and children under age five who are determined to be at medical and/or nutrition risk.

Last year, the WIC program at QMC served more than 3,600 women and children living throughout Norfolk and Plymouth counties. In addition to the QMC location, the program operates additional sites in Quincy, Weymouth, Hull, Randolph, Norwood and Foxboro.

Raymondi said Mayor William Phelan has done very little in the past year and a half with respect to the school projects.

"Why aren't these projects on line now?" he asked. "Architects and plans should have been in place. Applications should have been submitted. All of this could have been done before the Education Department declared a moratorium on the program. Someone dropped the ball and hopefully the taxpayers will not be stuck holding the bag."

Raymondi also wants some recognition of labor agreements and working conditions built into the language regarding the bond.

"This bond should spell out the obligations of contractors and sub-contractors," said Raymondi. "We have to make sure this project is built in a timely manner and there are no work stoppages or anything to interfere with this project moving forward."

Plans for a new high school have been a controversial issue for nearly seven years. Former Mayor James Sheets launched the move in 1997 by seeking to locate it on a former industrial property on Quincy Ave. That site was abandoned after opposition from parents.

A second option - the city's Department of Public Works headquarters on Sea St. - was dropped from consideration when a new location for the DPW could not be found. A special siting committee favored the Sea St. location.

Including principal and interest, the total cost of the high school/middle school project would top $206M, according to the administration's plan. The city would pay off the debt in a 27-year period, from 2006 to 2033.

Under Phelan's proposed plan, it is estimated the state's reimbursement would total $145 million, leaving the city with a $61 million bill for the project.

Under the financial plan, the city would begin paying off the bond for the high school in 2013. Payments for the Middle School project start in 2016.

Phelan's plan calls for the city to take out Bond Anticipation Notes (BAN) beginning in 2006. This allows the city to borrow funds for the project and begin paying off interest only.

According to Auditor Rick Fitzpatrick, the final construction costs will vary from the administration's numbers due to fluctuations in interest rates and other economic conditions.

The City of Quincy is trying to take advantage of legislation sponsored by state Sen. Brian Joyce of Milton. Under Joyce's measure, any community with a racially imbalanced school - a school with more than 50 percent nonwhite enrollment - would receive 90 percent reimbursement from the state regarding school building and renovation projects. The Parker Elementary School in Quincy - with a high Asian student population - allowed Quincy to qualify under the Joyce legislation.

Quincy will not receive state reimbursement for the $30 million drainage project or the parking garages, because such work is not covered under the school building assistance program.

In a letter to Mayor William Phelan dated Aug. 4, 2003, Driscoll stated that the Quincy High School plan would not be added to the list of reimbursement projects until all regulatory and environmental permits have been secured.

City officials have indicated that it may take another 18 months to secure all environmental permits.

Delahunt Joins Congress Effort To Save Bedford VA Hospital

Congressman William Delahunt has joined the rest of the Massachusetts delegation in an effort to shield the Bedford Veterans Hospital that would reduce in-patients health care for area veterans.

The Department of Veterans Affairs is currently accepting comments on its draft Capital Asset Reassignment for Enhanced Services (CARES) plan, which recommends consolidating veterans care services.

The VA proposes moving in-patient services from the Bedford Hospital to facilities that lack its research and rehabilitation programs

"Veterans who risked life and limb for us earned and were promised quality health care," said Delahunt. "This proposal reneges on that promise."

Dr. Stanley Potrude Joins South Shore Mental Health

Dr. Stanley Potrude, a psychologist who is fluent in American Sign Language, has joined South Shore Mental Health as a clinician in the Deaf Community Behavioral Health program.

Previously employed as a psychologist with the Chicago-Read Mental Health Center, he will provide counseling for deaf and hard of hearing individuals and their families.

"Dr. Potrude brings over 20 years of experience working in the field of mental health for individuals who are deaf or hard of hearing," said Paul Shaw, vice president of Outpatient Services at Bayview Associates, a program of SSMH.

"His wealth of knowledge and experience will be an asset to our clients as well as to our organization as a whole."

Dr. Potrude holds a doctorate in psychology from the University of St. Thomas in St. Paul, Minn., and completed his doctoral level internship training at the University of Rochester Medical Center in Rochester, N.Y.

He makes his home in Somerville.

Four Eighth Graders Win Legion Awards Recaps Year's Activities

The Quincy Legion Post presented four eighth grade students from two Quincy middle schools with American Legion Awards for "courage, honor, leadership, patriotism, scholarship and service" at recent ceremonies.

Charmaine Rivera and Brian Thomas of Point/ Webster Middle School were presented with their awards at ceremonies June 11.

Post Commander Edward Sherman and Service Officer Joseph Brooker presented the Legion Award plaques with lapel pins, donated by David Wood, another member of the post.

Nickerson Post Installs Officers, Elects Delegates

The Nickerson Legion Post recently installed officers and elected delegates for this year.

Michael McCauley Jr., for the third time, was installed as commander. Also installed were:

Tony Wolowicz, vice commander; Robert Verney, adjutant; Frank Iantosca, judge advocate; Glen Buscher, chaplain; Joseph Fallon, sergeant at arms; and Don Ross, finance officer.

Elected delegates were Anthony Wolowicz, Joseph Fallon, Don Pitts and Robert Verney as an alternate.

The post also recapped its activities — civic, legion, charitable and volunteerism — for the year:

The post again staffed a color guard and participated in the Memorial Day Parade, the Quantum 4th of July parade and will be in the Veterans Parade Nov. 11.

The post presented school awards to Cheaslie Broadeur and Andrew McCarthy of the Squantum School; Bryant Tran and Meghan Therrian of Atlantic Middle School. The three high school scholarships were won by Colby Morrissey, the Carol Pitts Memorial Award; Katherine Loughmiller, the G/Sgt. Francis J. Thorpe Award; and Gregory Minozzi, the L/Cpl. Christopher C. Donahue Award.

The post also participated in the NQHS-ROTC awards program. This year's ROTC awards went to David Law for scholastic excellence and to Sam Lam for military excellence.

On Flag Day, two post members, Don Ross and Jack Clark, gave a flag demonstration at the Squantum School.

The post also hosted bingo for the veterans of Jamaica Plain VA Hospital and hosted the Shriners kids cookout at the post home.

The annual Memorial Mass was held May 18 to honor fallen comrades. The Mass was followed by a breakfast at the post home.

On Flag Day the post had its first annual Flag Day Cookout. All members, families and friends were invited. Proceeds went to the post scholarship fund.

Last Christmas morning Past Commander Tony Wolowicz and his daughter, Jane, brought to the Squantum Fire Station a turkey and all the fixings for the firefighters who had to work that Christmas.

Any veteran with at least one day activity duty in the following dates is eligible to join the Nickerson Post. The dates of eligibility are:

WWII: Dec. 7, 1941 to Dec. 31, 1946.

Merchant Marines: Dec. 7, 1941 to Dec. 31, 1946.

Korean War: June 25, 1950 to Jan. 31, 1955.

Vietnam: Feb. 28, 1961 to May 7, 1975.

Panama: Dec. 20, 1989 to July 31, 1990.

Persian Gulf: Aug. 2, 1990 to currently open to all active duty.

Anyone interested, call the post at 617-328-9824 or Mike McCauley at 617-773-2957.

Elaine Dwyer

Longtime advocate of students and teachers

Elaine For Education

Elaine has been working for you in many ways:

- Chairperson of the Health and Safety Sub-Committee
- Member of the Budget and Finance Sub-Committee
- Member of the Special Education Sub-Committee
- Member of the QPS Teacher and Secretary Negotiation Contract Teams
- Appointee to the Quincy College Board of Governors Appointing Committee

In Elaine's first 18 months on the job, she was honored to receive the Distinguished Educator Award in 2003.

Accomplishments:

- Listened to parents, analyzed transportation needs, introduced the purchase of 14 mini buses for the safe transportation of our special needs students. This will save our school system $527,000.00 over the next 6 years.
- Led effort to keep alcohol out of our High School functions by instituting an alcohol detection system.
- Worked on the Committee to implement the Crisis Guidelines and Safety Procedure Manual in all schools after 9/11
- Negotiated the first QPS teachers' contract to be settled on time in over 20 years
- Conducting review of all schools' facilities to improve safety
- Advocated and maintained small class size during 2002 budget crisis
- Working tirelessly for a new Quincy High School and a Central Middle School

As an active Quincy resident of Adams Shore and parent of two daughters in the Quincy Public School System, Elaine's commitment to public education started long before her seat on the School Committee:

- Merrymount PTO President; Citywide Representative
- Broad Meadows PTO President; Citywide Representative; School Council Co-Chair
- Quincy High School PAC member; Citywide Representative

Elaine needs your support to finish the job she has already started. Imagine what she can accomplish in four more years!

Wesner Contract Extended As Woodward Headmaster

The Woodward School Board of Trustees has voted unanimously to extend the contract of Headmaster Thomas I. Wesner for another four years.

Under Wesner's direction since 1998, the school received a glowing report from the New England Association of Schools and Colleges.

The NEASC committee praised "Mr. Wesner's leadership over the past years in improving the school" and cited "the model he has presented in his hard work, tenacity, grace and respect, which is the best kind of teaching, by example."

Woodward has achieved financial stability, increased its enrollment and brought the historic school building to life with more than $700,000 worth of improvements.

The curriculum has been enhanced with new electives, an honors program and an advanced placement program and students activities expanded.

Wesner, a graduate of Boston College High School, Boston College and New England School of Law, joined Woodward in 1998 after serving as lead teacher at the Boston Renaissance Charter School.

Golden Fund-Raiser Sept. 9 At Wollaston Yacht Club

Stephen Golden, a candidate for School Committee, will hold a countdown to the primary election day fund-raiser Tuesday, Sept. 9, from 6 to 9 p.m. at the Wollaston

Yacht Club, 692 Quincy Shore Drive.

Suggested donation is $25 per person or $40 a couple.

Donations accepted at the door or may be sent to "The Committee to Elect Stephen Golden," 32 Ridgeway St., Quincy, MA 02170.

St. Ann's Holding Boy Scout Signup

Boy Scout Troop 20 at St. Ann's Church, Wollaston, will have three signup nights this month for boys interested in joining the Boy Scout of America.

The signups will be held on Thursdays, Sept. 11, 18 and 25 at 7 p.m. on the first floor of the Scally Center, next to St. Ann's School on St. Ann's Road.

Any boy in the 11 to 12 age group or in the sixth grade is invited. Previous membership in the Cub Scouts is welcomed but not required.

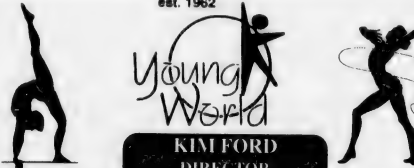

The program includes weekly Thursday meetings from 7 to 8 p.m. as well as monthly outdoor hiking and camping trips, service projects, first aid, safety and care for the environment.

At least one parent from each household is expected to participate or otherwise help out with troop activities, meetings fund raising and the adult troop committee.

There is a one time initiation fee of $30 at the time of signup.

- New England School of Law, Juris Doctor

Current Civic Appointments:

- Quincy Conservation Commission
- Mayor's Fair Housing Committee
- Quincy Open Space Committee

Community Involvement:

- Squantum School Council
- Squantum Community Association
- Robert L. Nickerson Post
- Coach, Squantum Girls Softball

Employment:

- Boston Police Officer (Retired)
- Attorney, Keener & Benson, Quincy Center

Other Achievements:

- Recipient, George L. Hanna Medal of Valor
- Recipient, Boston Police Department Medal of Honor
- Recipient, Walter Scott Medal of Honor

Labor Background:

- Former Member Boston Police Patrolman's Association Local 6807 IUPA & AFL-CIO
- Member, Retired Boston Police Patrolman's Association
- Member Retired State, County and Municipal Employees Association of Massachusetts

The people of Ward 6 deserve a Councillor who has the dedication, education, experience and availability to represent their interests.

I am the one candidate possessing all of these qualities and more.

As a parent with three children in the Quincy School system and member of the Squantum School Council I am fully aware of the needs of our children and what is required to provide them with a solid education.

As an attorney and business owner I deal with issues that affect our business community on a daily basis.

I own commercial and residential property and I am fully aware of the tax issues that face both types of property owners.

Civic involvement is an important element for a Councillor to have. I am currently a member of the Quincy Conservation Commission, the Mayor's Fair Housing Committee and the Open Space Committee. It has been my privilege to serve on these committees. Becoming your Councillor would also be my privilege.

Currently I also coach a girls youth softball team, am a member of the Squantum Community Association and the Robert Nickerson Post.

I am a former and current member of labor unions and have been on contract negotiating teams. This experience allows me to have a full understanding of labor contracts and how they affect the working people of our Ward. This experience is a valuable asset for a Ward Councillor.

Public safety is an important issue that affects all of us in Ward 6. As a former police officer I am aware of the importance of public safety. My experience in this field gives me a full understanding of these issues.

Availability is one key element for a Ward Councillor. Being self-employed allows me to have the flexibility necessary to perform the tasks required as your Councillor.

I am asking that you cast your vote for me, William H. Keener, number one of the ballot and number one for the people of Ward 6.

Thank you,

Bill

Gardner Endorsed By IBEW Local 2222

Alicia Gardner, candidate for Ward 6 city councillor, has been endorsed by IBEW

Local 2222, Greater Boston telephone workers.

In announcing the endorsement, Local 2222 said: "As a labor union, we are concerned not only about our members' working conditions, but the continuous improvement of the neighborhoods in which our members live. Alicia understands this struggle and is committed to all of the working families of Quincy."

The union said its choice to endorse Gardner was clear after meeting with the Ward 6 candidates.

The Local 2222 union cited Gardner's "passion for public service" which it said should be rewarded in the Sept. 16 preliminary election.

"I am extremely honored to receive the endorsement of the hardworking men and women of IBEW Local 2222," Gardner said. "It means a great deal to me and I am proud to stand with organized labor."

Veterans Gather Here

Patton's Grandson Guest At Battle Of Bulge Reunion

Benjamin Patton, grandson of Gen. George Patton, will be an honored guest Sunday, Sept. 7, at 2 p.m. when the Veterans of the Battle of the Bulge raise a statue to the men who fought the battle in the winter of 1944-45.

Gen. Patton was commander of the troops that raced across France and Belgium in the dead of winter to relieve their embattled comrades who were besieged by the Germans in the Ardennes Forest.

The veterans who fought in that battle are holding their reunion in Quincy over the weekend, including the dedication of the six-foot statue of Vermont granite called "Triumph of Courage" in McIntyre Mall by City Hall.

The veterans themselves are supplying the statue while the city is providing the foundation for it.

The weekend reunion will commence tonight (Thursday) with a wine and cheese reception at the Boston Marriott Quincy, the headquarters for the reunion.

The veterans will tour Boston by bus from 9 a.m.

to 4:30 p.m. Friday, then Salem, Gloucester and Rockport Saturday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. with the tour including a traditional lobsterbake lunch.

The general membership of the Veterans of the Battle of the Bulge will meet Sunday morning at 8 a.m. in the Marriott and a bus tour of Quincy will start at 9:30 a.m.

The monument will be dedicated in ceremonies from 2 to 3:30 p.m. Sunday and the annual banquet at the Marriott will wind up the reunion at 7 p.m. Sunday night.

6th Quincy ArtsFest To Be Held Sept. 13-14

The 6th annual Quincy ArtsFest will be held Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 13-14, at the Richard J. Koch Family Park and Recreation Complex, 1 Merrymount Parkway, Route 3A, Quincy. Hours Saturday will be 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sunday 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Admission is free.

The Quincy ArtsFest features a juried art show, juried photography show, Quincy Art Association members' show and a young artists' show. Awards will be given in each category, including a $500 Best in Show prize.

"The quality of the art work this year truly will not make the judging process an easy task," said Anet Paglierani, president of the Quincy Art Association. "Each year the talent this event attracts exceeds our expectations, and the Art Association is proud that local artists and photographers choose to showcase their work at our signature event."

There will also be live entertainment all weekend long, featuring the Forbes School of Irish Step Dance, Joe Lundbohm, Swing-A-Chord, Masquerade and David Polanski.

"The Quincy Park Department is proud to co-sponsor such a fine, family-oriented event," said Thomas P. Koch, director of Park, Forestry and Cemetery Departments. "The Quincy ArtsFest boasts a wide range of demonstrations, activities and entertainment for the whole family to enjoy. I strongly encourage you to join us for a great weekend in the park to experience all that this event has to offer."

The Quincy ArtsFest is sponsored by the Quincy Art Association, Best Western-Adams Inn, the Quincy Park and Recreation Department and Boston Financial Data

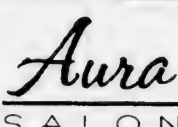

Services, the newest sponsor to the event.

"We are pleased to welcome Boston Financial Data Services as a sponsor to our event," Paglierani said. "Without their support and the continued support of the Best Western-Adams Inn, this event would not enjoy such a great success."

Demonstrations and activities for children will occur all weekend, including mini-sailboat decorating, shell painting, cookie decorating and much more.

Barry Welch, director of the Quincy Recreation Department, said, "The Quincy ArtsFest continues to build upon success from year to year. Hosting such a cultural event in our park system welcomes a unique contrast to the recreational function they serve."

For more information on the Quincy ArtsFest, contact the Quincy Park Department at 617-376-1251.

Federal, State Tax Workshop At Library Sept. 18

A free federal and state tax workshop for small businesses will be held Thursday, Sept. 18, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington St., Quincy Center.

The seminar, sponsored by the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) and the Massachusetts Department of Revenue (DOR), will show business owners how to reduce tax liabilities by taking advantage of tax write-offs such as office in the home and automobile expenses.

Other items covered include calculating payroll taxes, record-keeping and how to handle estimated and self-employment taxes. Participants can also learn how to sign up to make federal tax deposits electronically.

"We will do a special presentation on Internet Web sites, including IRS and other business-related sites, to increase awareness for the resources available for small businesses," said Lloyd Clemons, the tax specialist who is organizing the workshop. "In our Internet surfing session, we'll demonstrate how to download free tax forms and publications and how to search for topics to find the information you need."

Due to limited space, participants are asked to pre-register. To register, e-mail the workshop date, name, address and phone number to Richard Arruda, Massachusetts DOR, at: arrudarm@dor.state.ma.us, or call him at 508-678-2844, ext. 37319.

To Help Women Fight Breast Cancer

6th Annual Marie Curry Walk Set For Sunday

The sixth annual Marie A. Curry Walk, a four-mile, non-competitive rally against breast cancer, will be held Sunday, Sept. 7, starting and finishing at Pageant Field in Merrymount Park.

The Walk is held each fall to raise funds to insure that women without health insurance or underinsured have access to screening and diagnostic breast care services.

Last year, the Walk, which is sponsored by the Quincy Medical Center and the Mayor's Commission on Women, drew more than 700 walkers and raised more than $130,000.

The day will include the four-mile walk, an interfaith sunrise service and a post-walk celebration, featuring family-friendly entertainment and lunch catered by the Outback Steakhouse.

Momentum for the Walk has grown each year as it has become an annual tradition for many South Shore families and businesses.

This year more than 3,600 postcards were distributed to previous walkers and sponsors urging them to save the date for the annual walk. Nearly 11,000 pledge sheets and sponsorship brochures were distributed.

The city of Quincy granted permission for banners promoting the Marie A. Curry Walk to be installed on light poles along Hancock Street in Quincy Center and signs were also displayed at prominent intersections.

The Marie A. Curry Fund, for which the money is raised, is expanding its field of services.

In addition to providing screening mammography, the Fund will now provide diagnostic mammography, breast ultrasonography and breast biopsy services at Quincy Medical Center.

"The Marie A. Curry Fund has always filled a void and we hope that expansion of the Fund will help meet the health care needs of more women on the South Shore," said Christine Schuster, president and CEO of Quincy Medical Center.

One in four women in the United States were without health insurance for all or part of the past year and women without health insurance are twice as likely never to have had a mammogram.

Curry Fund to honor the memory of his wife, who died of breast cancer in 1995.

Last year, the Fund received the prestigious Sullivan Award from the Massachusetts Society of Clinical Oncologists, presented annually to an individual or organization that has made a significant contribution to cancer care.

Golden Attends WWII China Marine Convention

The annual convention of the World War II China Marine Association in Washington gave Stephen Golden of Quincy and his family an opportunity to connect with fellow Marines.

Golden, who served eight years in the Reserves, was accompanied to the nation's capital by his father in law, John Mahar, who served in China in 1944-45, and Jack Mahar, who served eight years.

The more than 500 members of the China Marine Association meet yearly in various cities to permit the China Marines of long ago to make contact with the young Marines of today.

The trip to Washington allowed the Golden family the opportunity to visit USMC headquarters, the Silent Drill Team and the President's own Marine Corps Band.

Other highlights of the trip included visits to Arlington National Cemetery, the Iwo Jima Memorial, the Lincoln and Washington Memorials and Quantico, Va., where the Marines train officers.

Brady's ruling is a victory for the city and school committee, which doubled the college's rent for the buildings to $450,000 from $217,000. The school committee threatened to evict the college if it did not comply with the increase.

"It means the city and school committee were correct when they asserted they own the buildings and can charge rent they feel appropriate," said Assistant City

Solicitor Jay MacRitchie.

Stephen McGrath, attorney for the college, said the board of governors has been in touch with the city and is attempting to iron out issues regarding mediation. Several issues need to be addressed at mediation, according to McGrath, including the rent dispute and the amount of money paid by the college to the city for services rendered by the city.

"It is our position that the rent amount is high, and a mediator will help us work through it," McGrath said Tuesday.

McGrath said the college utilizes certain city services from the auditor's and treasurer's offices. He said the college was paying $33,000 annually for those services, but Mayor William Phelan wants to increase that number.

Teresa Lord-Piatelli, chairwoman of the Quincy College Board of Governors, said the board will address the issue at their next meeting.

The school committee was expected to meet last night (Wednesday).

The city entered into a two-year lease with the college in 1994. The lease expired in 1995, but the college continued to pay $217,000 per year to the school committee. The college has been paying the same amount since 1994.

The college paid the $217,000 for fiscal 2003, but has not paid the difference in the increase, an additional $233,000.

Later in 1994, the Legislature established a board of governors to oversee and govern the college as a "municipal junior college and a department of the City of Quincy" in place of the school committee.

"The Legislature's creation of the board of governors to govern the college...does not change the basic fact that the city continued to own the buildings," Brady wrote in his decision.

The Legislature also authorized the city to establish a "revolving fund" for the school department that was to be kept separate and from other city accounts. This account was used for rental payments by the college, together with buildings, fixtures and equipment located on the properties.

Caldwell and his wife, Margaret, were married Feb. 4, the wedding moved up from June shortly before he was called up for active duty.

Two other members of the Rhode Island National Guard's 115th Military Police Company were with Caldwell when the Humvee struck the mine.

Staff Sgt. Joseph Camara of New Bedford was killed and Spec. Edmund Aponte of Providence was seriously wounded.

All three were National Guardsmen assigned to the Army's 2nd Battalion of the 220th Military Police Brigade.

Caldwell and Camara were the 285th and 286th U. S. soldiers to die in the Iraq war, 148 of them since the heavy fighting ended.

To Accommodate McCafferty Softball Tournament

QYS Season Opener Delayed One Week

Opening weekend for Quincy Youth Soccer's 24th season will be one week later than usual.

This year the season will start the weekend of Sept. 13.

The U-6 program as well as U12G, U14B and U14G divisions will begin Saturday, Sept. 13. All other divisions will begin Sunday, Sept. 14.

"Normally we start the weekend after Labor Day," said QYS President Malcolm MacNeil. "This year we were asked by the Parks Department to delay for a week to accommodate the J. McCafferty Memorial Softball Tournament at Kincaide Field. Since it's such a great cause and since Parks has worked so hard with the QYS over the years, we were thrilled to be able to help."

The men's slo-pitch tournament to benefit the J. McCafferty Memorial Fund will be held at Kincaide Field from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. Sixteen teams are participating.

The fund will provide educational benefits to Mr. McCafferty's children. Players and parents of Quincy Youth Soccer are encouraged to lend their support.

Tough Times Require Extraordinary Creativity

(ARA) - Teaching is now competing with testing, leaving less classroom time for hands-on, experienced-based learning.

With record debt — upwards of $200 billion — and school funding dependent on compliance and performance, programs promoting creative thinking have become unaffordable luxuries.

"It's not just P.E. hours and pencil allotments being cut," says Susan Singer, president and founder of Field Trip Factory (FTF), a company which provides free, experiential learning adventures to U.S. schools. "We're seeing less active learning in classrooms despite research showing a direct correlation between the learner's involvement and learning retention."

Studies have demonstrated 40 to 60 percent increases in retention when students have an opportunity to test previously learned facts and theories, revise assumptions, and derive new and first-hand knowledge.

The growing success of Singer's company is a testament to the overwhelming demand for creative, affordable ways to reinforce curriculums and engage all kinds of learners.

Last year, Field Trip Factory took 200,000 pre-K through 8th grade students out of the classroom — into the field — to teach lessons in nutrition, fitness, creative problem-solving, teamwork, eye science, biology, recycling and geography.

Students were able to taste their way up the Food Pyramid, suit up with sports safety gear, plan birthday parties using time and budget allotments, examine the similarities linking living beings, and much more.

According to Chicago public school teacher and field trip participant, Mee Soohoo, "The interaction between the students and the community professionals on-the-job had a real impact on students' learning and behavior."

In a survey done following a recent nutrition field trip, student participants reported eating 38 percent healthier and increasing their consumption of nutritious foods by 12 to 18 percent.

This past spring, 600 schools signed up for FTF's new in-school Creative Break program, which promotes self-expression and creative problem-solving, while supporting cross-curricular instruction. Teachers embraced the Break's art-based, "no wrong answer" activities and students eagerly exchanged their number two pencils for colored markers.

Interest in experiential learning has ebbed and flowed since the late 19th century, but is growing by leaps and bounds today. Cost has always been a consideration but now Singer and Field Trip Factory have taken that consideration off the table. Educational psychologists support hands-on learning not only for learners who'd be left behind by traditional classroom instruction, but for all students. In an ever-changing, highly competitive global market, children must be ready to apply flexible, creative strategies to practical, real-world problems.

For more information about any of Field Trip Factory's programs, call (800) 987-6409.

Plan for Asthma And Allergies at School

"When a child with chronic illness such as asthma or food allergies enters school, it is important to form a positive partnership with the school that will allow your child to fully participate in all aspects of school life," says Sharon Schumack, Health Education Coordinator for the New England Chapter of the Asthma & Allergy Foundation of America.

"This is the time to meet with the school nurse, if you haven't already done so, and explain your child's asthma and/or allergies and treatment plan."

It is helpful to use a form such as the "Asthma and Allergy Action Card" to clearly communicate your child's:

- Triggers (e.g., allergies, viral infections, exercise, cold air, weather fluctuations, and any foods that must be avoided)

- Symptoms (e.g., coughing, shortness of breath, wheezing, runny nose, hives, paleness)

- Treatment plan (e.g., list all medications that are taken at home and at school with their expected effects and side effects, when and how they should be taken, and if the child may self-administer medications. If your child uses a peak flow meter, note his/her norms.)

- Emergency Action Plan.

If your child has life-threatening food allergies, AAFA/New England further suggests that you work with the school nurse and a multidisciplinary team from the school to develop an Individual Health Care Plan that will clearly spell out how to avoid accidental exposures to food allergens in all school-related activities and how to deal with emergencies.

For a free copy of the "Asthma and Allergy Action Card," call 1-877-2-ASTHMA (toll free) or send an e-mail to aafane@aol.com.

City Tennis Tournament Starts Sept. 13

Entry forms are now available for the Quincy Recreation Department's 33rd annual City Tennis Tournament, which will be co-sponsored by the Quincy Municipal Credit Union.

They can be picked up at the Quincy Municipal Credit Union, the Recreation Office, City Hall and at various tennis courts throughout the city.

The deadline for entry is Sept. 5. The tourney will start the weekend of Sept. 13. The draw will be posted at the Russell Park tennis courts Sept. 11 and 12 from 5 to 8 p.m.

Cost is $12 for adults and $8 for children under 16. Matches are played nights and weekends at the Russell Park tennis courts on the grounds of the Center for Technical Education.

"This is the 33rd consecutive year we have supervised this event and are grateful to the credit union for its eighth year as a co-sponsor," said Recreation Director Barry Welch. "This is a wonderful activity for Quincy residents of all ages to take part in a tournament that has no equal in tradition, size and quality of play."

The tournament, which features events for men, women, boys and girls as well as mixed doubles, is believed to be the largest municipal tournament in New England. It will be directed by John Franceschini, who has guided the event for over 21 years.

Events scheduled are: men's singles, women's singles, men's 50 and over, men's 35 and over, women's 35 and over, women's doubles, men's doubles, boys' 16 and under, girls' 16 and under, mixed doubles.

There is a special event, the Men's "B," which is open to all participants in the men's singles who are defeated in the first round of play. Also, there is a division for men or women who are city employees.

For more information call the Quincy Recreation Department at 617-376-1394.

Delahunt To Host Forum On Service Academies

Congressman William

Delahunt will host an informational forum Thursday, Sept. 11, at 7 p.m. at Marshfield High School for district high school students interested in attending one of the service academies.

The two-hour forum was scheduled for Sept. 11, the second anniversary of the terrorist attacks on New York and Washington, as a call to young people to get involved in national service.

Admissions representatives will be on hand from the US Military Academy at West Point, N.Y.; the US Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md.; and the US Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs, Colo.

There will also be officials from the Coast Guard Academy at New London, Conn.; the Merchant Marine Academy at King's Point, N.Y.; as well as Norwich University in Northfield, Vt., and Mass Maritime Academy in Buzzards Bay.

Residents of Delahunt's 10th Congressional District who graduate from high school by next June are eligible to apply for appointments through the Congressman. The deadline for applications is Nov. 1, 2003.

All applicants are evaluated over a period of several months by a panel of local residents who make up the district's Academy Nomination Selection Committee.

Delahunt then forwards to the appropriate Academy those names the committee recommends and the appli-

Fall: The Best Time To Plan Next Spring's Landscape Project

(ARA) - Fall is the smartest time to plan next year's landscaping project because you can save time, money and headaches.

"By approaching your landscape contractor during the off-season, you can be sure to get their full attention while the back-log is minimal," said Bill Gordon, spokesman for Mid-America Green Industry Council. "By planning ahead, you can get a jump on your landscaping project and have the entire summer to enjoy your new surroundings."

Robert Allan (Bob) Gravier, landscape expert and president of Allan Block Corporation, a national manufacturer of stackable landscape blocks, suggests the following schedule for developing next spring's landscaping project:

Plan — Contrary to many homeowners' habits, fall is the best time to begin planning for upcoming landscaping projects. Homeowners should assess their yards for "needs" such as a retaining wall to help control erosion or "wants" such as an outdoor patio.

Design — Use fall and winter downtime to contact a landscape designer. During this off-season, landscape specialists generally can draw up plans more quickly and cost-effectively. Or, if you have the skills, use your creativity to design your own landscaping plans.

Build — Early spring is also the best time to hire a landscape installer, before they become overbooked and begin increasing bid prices. When spring arrives and the ground thaws, your planning and design work is already done. Because you planned ahead, you'll be at the top of your contractor's list and can begin building a new retaining wall, outdoor patio or courtyard.

Ron and Lynn McCormick of Magnolia, Texas, utilized the "Plan, Design, Build" process. The McCormicks conducted their product research and then carefully designed their project with help from design manuals and advice from their Allan Block dealer. With that complete, they installed a retaining wall, three sets of stairs and two terraces all on their own. They undertook the project out of necessity — to protect the soil around their home from erosion.

"With the literature and technical manuals Allan Block provided, we were able to successfully complete this project," said Ron McCormick. "It is an addition to our home that we are very proud of and enjoy every day."

Allan Block has more advice on how homeowners can plan, design and build to enhance their outdoor living experience. For additional information, email info@allanblock.com, call (800) 481-2909 or visit www.allanblock.com.

Stock Your Toolbox For Basic Home Repairs

(ARA) - Whether you are a first-time homeowner or have owned a home for years, unless you can afford to have every maintenance chore taken care of by a handyman or professional tradesman, there's probably a long list of to-do tasks just waiting to be tackled.

Your degree of success in completing projects fast enough to still enjoy a round of golf or the kids' soccer games can depend on your skills, the project knowledge you have and what's in your toolbox.

"Having the right tools for home maintenance and repair makes it so much easier to complete the work," says Lou Manfredini, Ace Hardware's Helpful Hardware Man and home improvement expert. "But you don't have to go overboard. You can tackle most simple repairs with a collection of tools that will fit into a 5-gallon bucket."

The following are 15 of the essential tools Manfredini recommends you keep in that toolbox tool kit to get you through most basic home repair projects:

- A good screwdriver: One will do if it's the kind onto which you can fit a number of different heads, including the basics of a Phillips and slotted.
- An adjustable wrench, which will eliminate the need for an entire set of socket wrenches.
- Three types of pliers: ordinary, needle-nose and wire cutters.
- A set of Allen wrenches, used to tighten bolts that have six-sided holes on top.
- A level, which will help with everything from hanging a picture or curtain rods to shelving. Select between a 2-foot standard level or a 6-inch "torpedo" style.
- A retractable tape measure. One that is 25-feet long should be sufficient.

- A stud finder, which will help locate behind-the-wall or ceiling structural boards.
- A good hammer. Select a 16-ounce claw hammer with a good-fitting grip.
- A small handsaw with a 12-inch blade that fits into a sheath for safety.
- A plunger to clear clogged drains.
- A chisel, which can help chip out wood to reset a door hinge or adjust a sticking latch.
- A utility knife with a retractable, replaceable blade.
- An assortment of screws and nails.
- A cordless drill. This is the only power tool you'll need unless you become serious about home renovation. Look for one that drills holes and can be fitted with screwdriver attachments. The cordless feature allows you to use the drill anywhere without dragging along an electrical cord.

• Stick-it stuff: A bottle of carpenter's glue and rolls of electrical, masking and duct tape. In a recent poll of Ace Hardware retailers on the one item people should keep on hand for emergency repairs, the overwhelming answer was duct tape, cited by more than half (52 percent) of the retailers.

Manfredini says you can assemble these tools inexpensively, but that you should not skimp on quality. "The only other thing you'll need is the 5-gallon bucket in which to carry the tools, or, better still, a sturdy tool box," Manfredini said. "My favorite is one that doubles as a step stool."

For more advice on home improvement, visit your local Ace Hardware store or log on to www.acehardware.com.

A Few Simple Tips

Change The Look Of Your Bathroom To Reflect The Seasons

(ARA) - You do a red, white and blue theme for the Fourth of July and decorate with bunnies and plastic eggs for Easter... obviously, you're the type of person who loves the holidays and making your home festive. You've got the holidays covered, but did you ever think about changing your bath's look with the change of the seasons?

"We all go to great lengths to give our homes a fresh look for the holidays, but the one room that gets the most traffic typically receives the least attention," said Sharon Hanby-Robie, who has appeared on NBC's "Today Show" and is the author of the My Name Isn't Martha series of books.

"Due to the small size of most powder rooms or non master baths, many homeowners don't realize they can make a significant decorating impact with little time and expense, and can change out the look every season so that it never gets old."

Soft Goods

Consider adding a new color scheme to the room using soft goods.

For example, new towels, a new shower curtain or throw rugs in seasonal colors will make a huge statement in the room. Each season retailers roll out items such as a florals with light pinks, greens and blues for the spring or paisley designs in oranges, golds and browns for the fall.

Perhaps there are even tropical fish shower curtains to help fit in with the warmer summer months.

You can even enhance your current window treatments with tiebacks in colors of the season. Check your local fabric store for patterns in seasonal colors or themes that might be just the thing to put a seasonal touch on the room.

You won't believe what a difference a change in soft goods can do to get you in the spirit of the season.

Accessories

Another place where changes in the powder room can be made inexpensively is in accessories such as toothbrush holders, soap dishes and drinking cups.

These items also come in a host of different colors that can be matched to the hues of the season. With so many styles of accessories available today, why not have some fun changing from a modern look in the summer to a traditional look in the winter.

You may even consider new towel bars and robe hooks to complete the look of the room. Seasonal variations can keep the room from looking tired and help you make the leap from season to season.

Faucets

One component of the bath not normally considered for seasonal changes, but one that certainly shouldn't be overlooked is the faucet. Moen has made it quick and easy to change for the seasons with its decorative line of Asceri Accents. These faucet "accent" pieces allow homeowners to change their faucet's look by screwing off the old trim and screwing on the new from above the sink deck — all in just minutes.

Recently, the company added to its Accents collection by having student members of the American Society of Interior Designers (ASID) submit designs in the "Accent on Design" contest. The contest, open to more than 8,000 ASID students nationwide, produced some cutting-edge seasonal designs for fall, summer, winter and spring.

The grand prizewinner, Elaine Dominguez of West Nyack, N.Y., created a design for fall inspired by the 1970s look in fashion, including love beads, florals and geometric patterns. In the spring category, Emily Black of Chicago, Ill., produced a winning design featuring flowing willows with lilac brushstrokes running through the background.

Dominguez also claimed top honors in the contest's summer category with a faucet design that picks up on the current bath craze of mosaic tiles in cool blues inspired by water. In the final design category, winter, Karen Ann Davis of Houston, Texas, provided a design with soft blues that mimic falling snow.

The grand prizewinner's design will be available for consumers later this year. This new design adds to the 10 already existing Asceri Accents that the company offers from traditional chinas to florals and wild animal prints — there is something to complement every season... and every bathroom.

Scents of the Season

Consider adding a few arrangements of fresh flowers to your bath in the spring, fresh lavender in the summer, a few cornstalks in the fall, or a pine wreath in the winter. We identify certain smells with seasons and being able to bring that aroma into the bathroom will help complete a seasonal transformation.

Further spruce up the bath with arranging candles and scented potpourri around the room. Make sure these items have a tie to the season — in the spring, buy candles with fresh spring scents in light pinks, blues, purples and greens, while in the winter look for jewel tones such as emerald green, burgundy and navy in heavier scents.

Personalize the Space

If you don't already have one, hang a small shelf in your bath to hold items that will make the powder room truly your own. Purchase some new picture frames in the latest color of the season and change out the photos as the season's change. For summer, show off your latest vacation photos or in the winter display family holiday photos. Shots of the kids at the beach or in last year's Halloween costumes make great seasonal statements.

Use this space to also display seasonal decorations. For summer decorate with sea shells and kids' sand pails, for winter, change the look by having snowmen sitting in the midst of faux snow. Shelving will also give you added functionality in the room.

Last but not least, baskets have made a big comeback in today's decorating styles. Fill a basket full of items of the season — pinecones in the winter or potpourri in the fall. Baskets in the bath also can play a functional role in holding towels or toilet tissue.

According to Hanby-Robie, homeowners are always looking for ways to modify their home décor to reflect seasonal changes, "The powder room may not be the first on the list when we think of decorating, but it can leave quite an impression with guests. Remember to continue your spruce-ups into the bath and you'll be surprised at the compliments you receive."

Exciting Season For Under 14 Girls Soccer

The Quincy under 14 girls division one travel soccer team recently concluded an exciting and successful season under coaches Peter Coleman and Don Martin.

Starting the season off with careless mistakes, the talented group found itself in last place after three quick losses to Brockton, Bridgewater and Weymouth. Quincy changed to a 4-4-2 formation following the third game and it started to win games, beating Easton twice and tying Brockton.

The switch allowed the team to take advantage of its speed and scoring abilities up front by forwards Courtney Hall and Lauren Stille, who combined to score most of the goals during the season. Their goals were set up by the skillful through passes from Mary Burke, Jen Pettiti and Genevieve Olson, who controlled the offense in the middle of the field.

Quincy's midfield was so deep that whenever it substituted players there was no loss of talent on the field.

Center midfielders Emily Milone and Jillian Benn controlled the field with very intelligent play and strong, accurate passes to open players and space.

Outside midfielders

Natalie Djerf, Megan Therrien, Kerriann Cabral and Jess Cashman used their speed, skills and intelligent play to support the defense and overlap into the offensive third, creating scoring opportunities as well as confusing the opponent's defense.

At this point in the season, Quincy went on to win both the Rockland Tournament in April and the Sandwich Tournament during Memorial Day weekend.

Mary Kate Stille was the team's utility player and was asked to play everywhere. On offense she assisted on goals; she played a strong midfield as needed and also did a great job filling in at stopper and outside defender.

Quincy's defense was the toughest in the league. Sweeper back Melissa Mendall and stopper back Bridget Coleman shut down the middle of the offensive attack, while outside backs Tara Whooley, Allison Russell and converted defender Devin Cahill kept the opposing outside wings out of scoring range.

When the opponents did penetrate they had to get the ball past goalie Alicia Hemenway, who posted four

Yellow Cab Wins Softball Title

Sammy Bonanni and Maria DiPietro turned in stellar pitching and fielding performances as Yellow Cab recently beat the Tobin Club, 5-3, to win the Abigail Adams Division softball crown.

Yellow Cab, led offensively by MVP Emily Boyd's two RBIs and Emily Kelly's two runs, took an early lead and never looked back.

The team's fine pitching and defense came to the rescue in the final inning, stifling a Tobin Club rally with two runners on base and one out.

The Tobin Club got strong performances from its battery of pitcher Jess Ainsley and catcher Kate Sheridan. Emma Ainsley and Emma Manning starred at the plate.

Fore River, O'Rourke 6-On-6 Soccer Winners

The Quincy Recreation Department recently held its annual 6 on 6 Soccer Tournament at Russell Park.

Approximately 75 children attended the event from 10 different playgrounds throughout the city. The double-elimination tournament was divided into three groups.

"Despite the scorching hot afternoon, sports specialists Joe MacRitchie, Billy O'Toole and Jonathan Brillo ran the citywide tournament to perfection," said Recreation Leader Colleen Nichol.

In the Midget Division, the children from Fore River, led by recreation leader Shannon Paine, didn't break a sweat as they sailed through the tourney undefeated.

In the Junior Division, O'Rourke easily controlled the competition after an early first-round loss to secure the championship. Entering the finals, it needed to defeat Squantum twice — and did just that, winning 2-1 and 4-1.

In the Senior Division, O'Rourke coasted through the tournament without a loss. After beating Pond Street and Adams Park in early round action, the co-ed O'Rourke team knocked off Pond Street in sudden death overtime for the title.

Recreation leaders Dan DiNardo and Erin McFarland coached the two O'Rourke teams.

With a fourth-place league finish, Quincy went on to defeat Brockton, 1-0, in the South Shore League semifinal, followed by a convincing 2-0 win over Weymouth — the SSL first-place finisher — for the South Shore League championship.

By winning the league championship Quincy qualified for the Massachusetts Tournament of Champions held the following weekend at UMass-Amherst. The tourney featured all league champions throughout Massachusetts.

At U-Mass, Quincy suffered its first loss since mid April with a 1-0 defeat to Lenox. In its fashion of never quitting, Quincy came back and beat Marshfield, 2-0.

Needing to win the final qualifying game against Danvers, Quincy did what it has shown to do best and possessed the ball for most of the game. Danvers — a tough, physical team — managed to foul Quincy six times in the first half.

Milone, fouled five times in the first half, picked herself up after the fourth time inside the penalty box and Quincy was awarded a penalty kick. Milone struck gold by neatly sliding the ball past a diving Danvers keeper, allowing this Cinderella team to advance to the state finals.

Unfortunately, the weather did not hold up and the finals were canceled. Coleman and Martin were convinced Quincy would have won the tournament and gone on to be state champs.

The coaches said it was a great season and that the girls worked extremely hard to reach the final. They also thanked all the parents and fans and others who helped make it a special season for Quincy.

The 2003 Broom Classic was recently held at Quarry Hills in Milton at the Granite Links layout.

After a two-year hiatus, the charity fund-raiser, which began in 1980, attracted 80 participants and raised $2,000 for the Huling Children Scholarship Fund.

The tournament, which benefits a different local charity each year, was held in honor of former participant Paul Huling, who passed away after a long battle with cancer.

The team of Lou Venturilli, Richard Berry, Jay Sarson and Bob Bradley received the first-place prize from Tournament Director Brian Buckley for the 14-under-par 56. The awards were presented at Brigadoon's.

The second-place team finished at 12-under-par 58 and featured Red Sox legend Louis Tiant, Brad Buckley, Jack Raymer and Jim Kelly. The third-place team also finished at 12-under-par but lost a tie-breaker. They were Sam Abraham, Jamie Walsh, Gus DeBoer and Pat Lane.

The closest to the pin winners were Lou Picutto and Brian Buckley. Barry Sullivan won the longest putt made and Brian Buckley also won longest drive. Best costume in the comeback theme category was Dave Haight, who dressed as cyclist Lance Armstrong.

"We had great weather, the Quarry Hills staff was super, everyone had a great time, Louis Tiant played and we helped a great cause," Buckley said. "It doesn't get much better than this."

THE BROOM CLASSIC costume contest featured many outfits before the first foursome teed off.

BILL BILTON of Quincy wore his Superman outfit but it still did not help his team at the recent Broom Classic.

Teen Mothers Golf Tournament Sept. 29

The Quincy Teen Mothers Program will hold its third annual golf tournament Monday, Sept. 29, at Granite Links Golf Club at Quarry Hills Golf Course.

Registration will begin at 7:45 a.m. followed by an 8:30 a.m. shotgun start.

Cost is $100 per person, which includes 18 holes of golf, cart, continental breakfast, steak or pork chop dinner at Quincy Elks, prizes and also a chance to win a new car provided by South Shore Ford of Rockland on a hole-in-one event. All golfers must be pre-registered and paid by Sept. 12.

All net revenues from the tournament will benefit the Quincy Teen Mothers Program, a non-profit organization. The program is an alternative program for pregnant girls and young mothers, which allows them to finish high school while being provided with free daycare, parenting classes and counseling.

Milton Hospital Tee-Off Fundraiser At Pinehills Golf Club

Listed as one of the "Top Ten you can play for 2002" by Golf Magazine, Pinehills Golf Club in Plymouth and Milton Hospital are gearing up for the 9th Annual Tee-Off fundraiser to be held Wednesday, Sept. 17.

Milton Hospital's players will be playing on The Nicklaus Course at Pinehills. The championship course boasts a dramatic rolling topography, with glacially carved kettles and ravines throughout.

Opened in 2002, this championship track is the result of collaboration between Rees Jones and the Nicklaus Design Group. The fairways are tree lined but generous, and lead to large, challenging greens.

Milton Hospital will also hold a live auction to accompany the raffle that annually takes place. A select group of high-end items will be auctioned off during the cocktail hour including an all-inclusive SailBoston 2004 package, a pair of box-seat New England Patriots tickets worth $1200 and a week's stay at a beach house that sleeps 10 in Matunuck, Rhode Island.

Additional auction items are currently being secured. Foursomes and sponsorships are filling up fast. To secure a spot or to sponsor the tournament, call Milton Hospital Development Office at 617-696-4600.

CLEAR VIOLATIONS

Since the early 1990s, most vehicle manufacturers have painted their vehicles with basecoat/clearcoat finishes, which are subject to many potential problems. Alkaline spotting, one such problem, is caused by alkaline rain or hard water from sources such as lawn sprinklers, and it cannot be removed with just soap and water. Then, there is industrial fallout, which results from airborne particles falling on the vehicle and eating through the paint over a period of time. Chemical etching, or acid rain, is the result of sulfur dioxide or nitrogen oxide being released into the atmosphere and mixing with water to create either sulfuric or nitric acid. Typical acid-rain damage may look like water droplets that have dried on the paint and caused discoloration.

Fight Disease -- Wash Your Hands

(ARA) - One of the most effective methods for preventing the spread of disease-causing bacteria and other germs is a simple act most of us perform everyday: washing our hands.

What we don't do is perform this act properly or often enough. In this age of SARS and other serious diseases that are spread by human contact, practicing good hand washing habits can provide an effective extra line of defense for you and everyone around you.

"With over 80 percent of infectious disease being spread by human contact, it's amazing how little care most of us take when washing our hands," says Dr. Philip M. Tierno Jr., author of The Secret Life of Germs. "When researchers put cameras in public restrooms to track people's behavior, the numbers of those who don't wash their hands properly, or don't wash them at all, is staggering, often over ninety percent."

Dr. Tierno recommends the following regimen:

- Effective hand washing requires both soap and water. Merely rinsing the hands with water alone is next to useless.
- Wet your hands thoroughly and lather them with soap.
- Rub the soapy water all over the hands and fingers for at least 20-30 seconds.

- Don't forget to wash under fingernails.
- Rinse and repeat.

As for frequency, you should wash your hands several times a day, before eating, after using a bathroom facility and after coughing or sneezing on them. After shaking hands with someone, you should avoid touching your face or mouth until an opportunity presents itself to wash up. It also makes sense to wash whenever coming in from outside.

In public bathrooms, you should wash your hands before using the toilet if you have had to touch a doorknob or other surface on the way in. When you wash your hands afterward, use a paper towel or tissue to shut off the faucet and open the door.

For an added layer of protection, use an anti-bacterial soap containing a germicide such as Triclosan. "It seems to me that germicides can be a valuable support to good health, especially for groups who are at extra risk when it comes to infectious diseases," says Dr. Tierno. "Children, pregnant women, the elderly and those with depressed immune systems are particularly vulnerable. While germicides are no substitute for conscientious hygiene, they fight bacteria, have no side effects and have not been shown to contribute to increased bacterial resistance."

Even if you don't fall into one of the higher risk groups, you owe it to others to be more conscious of hand washing to avoid transmitting germs. Also, habits are best formed early on. If there are any children in your home, take the time to set a good example and teach them how to wash their hands properly.

DENTISTRY for the 21st Century

by Steven A. Brustin, D.M.D.

THE EVOLUTION OF THE CAVITY

Harmful bacteria in the mouth, especially (Streptococcus mutans) thrive on a steady supply of carbohydrates, especially sugars. Poor oral hygiene enables them to feed and grow without interference. The acid the bacteria produce when metabolizing sugar can demineralize (dissolve) the tooth surface. Ordinarily, this process happens slowly, giving the body time to replenish (remineralize) the enamel. Bacterial accumulation can outpace the body's ability to rebuild enamel, however, resulting in the first stage of tooth decay (dental caries), which appear as spots discernible only to the dentist or an x-ray. The dentist may arrest this process by applying fluoride, an antiseptic, or a sealant. Once the decay has bored a hole in the enamel, a cavity forms.

Your smile says a lot about you. Whether you're considering cosmetic dentistry, need answers to a dental problem, or just want to improve your daily dental care, you'll find we have the information you need to keep your smile in top shape. Brushing and flossing correctly helps keep your teeth white and healthy. We're committed to your best interests. You are important to us as a person - not just a patient. Please call 617-479-6220 to schedule your next appointment. We're located at 44 Greenleaf Street. We offer the services of anesthesiology and a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. Yellow Jacket Season Strikes

Fall is the season when yellow jacket populations reach their peak and in some areas of the U.S. approach what is known as "outbreak epidemic populations." As a result, this is the time of year when hospital emergency departments report their highest number of sting victims.

According to Miles Guralnick, president and chief entomologist at Vespa Laboratories, Inc., the world's leader in the manufacturing of stinging insect venoms used for allergy vaccines:

"In some areas of the country, yellow jacket nest populations can number in the tens of thousands and population density can be as high as 10 nests per acre. As each nest reaches its peak population, food supplies are dwindling causing them to scavenge in exposed food areas such as picnics and garbage cans.

"Yellow jackets also present an additional threat because they typically nest in the ground, which puts them in a direct line of fire with your lawnmower. This close contact with our outdoor activities is why so many people are stung in the fall."

To protect yourself from this hostile horde, the Patient's Guide published in Physician Assistant magazine offers the following tips:

- Wear light-colored, non-floral patterned clothing that covers all exposed skin.
- Wear shoes and socks at all times.
- Do not wear scented products such as perfume when outdoors.
- Cover all food and drinks when eating outdoors, especially beverage cans.

and should seek medical attention immediately.

If you have an allergic reaction, you are at high risk of having a similar or worse reaction the next time you are stung. For insect sting allergic individuals, the ACAAI recommends seeing an allergist who can evaluate you for a vaccination program that is highly effective in immunizing against future allergic reactions.

• Remain calm when approached by an insect. Do not swat or flail at it.

• Have problem nests professionally exterminated.

If you are stung, the American College of Allergy, Asthma and Immunology (ACAAI) cautions that if you experience symptoms such as troubled breathing, hives, fainting or any symptoms other than pain, itching, redness and swelling at the sting site, you may be having an allergic reaction

For a free informational booklet on insect stings and insect sting allergy written by the ACAAI, call 1-800-23-STING.

MS Discussion At Marriott Saturday

Susan Krieg, a national Multiple Sclerosis patient advocate, and Elliot Frohman, M.D., an MS expert, will speak Saturday, Sept. 13 at the Boston Marriott Quincy, 1000 Marriott Dr., Quincy.

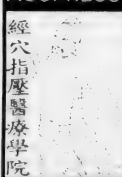

Registration begins at 8:30 a.m. Krieg and Frohman will speak with patients about living with multiple sclerosis from 9:30 a.m. to noon.

Krieg was diagnosed with MS in 1992. A marathon runner and active member of the MS community, Krieg has competed in several marathons, including races in Boston, Chicago and Philadelphia, and has helped raise $80,000 for the National MS Society.

Dr. Frohman is an assistant professor of neurology and director of the MS program at the University of Texas Southwestern Medical Center. He is a member of the American Academy of Neurology, and has participated in several clinical trial programs for MS treatments.

The program is free and open to the public. For registration information, call 800-522-5185. MS is a chronic, often disabling disease of the central nervous system that affects more than 400,000 people in the U.S. alone.

SCOTT DEWARE

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

At this time of year, most people's thoughts turn to the coming change in the season, and the beginning of school. Kids of all ages will be standing, walking, running and in all ways populating the streets... so, let us take a little more caution when driving... But we'd like to take this thought beyond the basic "School's opening, drive safely" theme, to include some other hopes for the coming school year.

We hope that all teachers, administrators and students approach the new school year with a zest for teaching and learning, to provide the best education that is possible. And we would like to see all the parents of school children examine their own ideas and behavior and make a positive commitment to help in the education of their own kids... Too often, people criticize the schools, the teachers, the administrators and the kids for what some people feel is a general malaise among our youth. When, in fact, a lot of the blame for this malaise starts and grows in the home...

Let us remember that schools, teachers and parents working together can mold young minds and head them in a positive direction.

HERE IS A PLEASANT LITTLE GAME that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner and check one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) A little "wool-gathering" for the usually productive Lamb is all right if it helps you unwind. But be careful; too much daydreaming can put you behind schedule in your work.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) A work problem is close to being resolved. Now you can go ahead and celebrate the week, accepting invitations from friends who enjoy your company.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Getting your new plan accepted won't be a major hassle if you have the facts to back it up. Your supporters are also prepared to help you make your case. Good luck.

CANCER (June 21 to July 21) Dealing with a pesky job problem might be time-consuming but necessary. The sooner you get this situation settled, the sooner you can move on to other matters.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Career advancement is favored thanks to your impressive work record. On the personal side, you should soon hear some good news about an ailing family member.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) There might be mixed signals from a certain someone who doesn't seem all that certain about his or her intentions. Best to sort it all out before it becomes more confusing.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Get all the facts about that investment "opportunity" before you put even one dollar into it. There could be hidden problems that could prove costly.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Compromising on a matter you feel strongly about not only ends the impasse, but can be a win-win deal for all. Remember: Scorpios do well with change.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) With all the demands you currently have to deal with, accepting the help of family and friends could be the wisest course to take at this time.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Recent upsetting incidents might have left you with a big gap in your self-assurance. Refill it by spending time with those who know how worthy you really are.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) A dispute about money's needs to be resolved quickly, before it festers into something more serious. Consider asking an impartial colleague to mediate the matter.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) A soft approach could be more effective than making a loud demand for the information you need. You might even find yourself with more data than you expected.

BORN THIS WEEK: You're sought out for the wonderful advice you're able to offer to others. And sometimes you even take it yourself.

Newton Raises $9,859, Kertzman $0.00

Phelan Top Fundraiser, Spender

By WILLIAM TRAYNOR

Campaign finance reports filed Tuesday show that Mayor William Phelan added significantly to his war chest during the period leading up to the city's preliminary election Sept. 16.

Phelan, who is seeking a second term as mayor, raised $150,658 from January 1 of this year to August 31, according to a report filed in the City Clerk's Office at City Hall. The mayor added to his campaign fund's previous balance of $86,341 for a total of $236,999. Phelan reported expenditures of $110,495 during the same period, finishing with a balance of $126,504.

Mayoral challenger Joe Newton raised $9,859 in campaign funds during the same period. He reported $2,740 in his campaign fund's previous balance, bringing his total to $12,600. Newton spent $3,739 during the period, finishing with a balance of $8,860.

Harvey Kertzman, also challenging for mayor, raised no funds during the period, according to his campaign finance report. He spent $80 during the same period.

The candidates who are involved in the Sept. 16 preliminary elections released the following reports.

Five candidates are seeking the Ward 1 seat, which will be vacated by present Councillor Greg Hanley. Jim Bottary raised $3,860 for the period. Coupled with a previous balance of $2,553, he had a total balance of $6,413 for the period. His expenditures were $4,398, leaving him with an ending balance of $2,015. Joe Keegan raised $11,382 for the period. His expenditures totaled $5,250, leaving him with an ending balance of $6,132. Leo Kelly raised $4,117 for the period. His expenditures were $2,584, leaving him with an ending balance of $1,532. Sean McArdle raised $8,025 for the period. His expenditures were $6,238, leaving an ending balance of $1,786. Joanne Bythrow raised $1,255 for the period. Coupled with a previous balance of $274, her total for the period comes to $1,529. Expenditures totaled $767, bringing her ending balance to $761.

Five candidates are also seeking the Ward 6 seat, which is being left vacant at the end of the term by Joe Newton. Alicia Gardner raised $16,005 for the reporting period. Expenditures totaled $10,605, leaving her with an ending balance of $5,399. Brian McNamee raised $10,835 for the period. Coupled with a previous balance of $4,155, his total for the period was $14,990. Expenditures were $9,881, bringing an ending balance to $5,109. William Keener raised $12,745 for the reporting period. His expenditures were $9,711, leaving him with an ending balance of $3,033. Mark Bracken raised $12,370 for the period. His expenditures were $10,470, leaving an ending balance of $1,899. Maryann Mahoney raised $4,912 for the reporting period. Expenditures were $2,229, leaving an ending balance of $2,683.

The mayor's race will take center stage in next Tuesday's preliminary election with nomination runoff for city council in Wards 1 and 6 and school committee as co-features. But even with those four ballot contests City Clerk Joseph Shea sees no more than 25 percent of the city's 52,230 registered voters going to the polls.

Mayor William Phelan, 43, the challenger two years ago who stunned six-term incumbent James Sheets with a 17-vote upset win in the closest mayoral election in the city's history, has two challengers of his own to contend with this year.

Ward 6 Councillor Joseph Newton, 36, and Harvey Kertzman, 54, who had an auto repair business for many years and now owns a Quincy Avenue gasoline station, stepped forward as late challengers after City Council President Daniel Raymondi, Phelan's severest critic, decided not to run.

For awhile it appeared Phelan might get a no-opponent "free ride" to a second term.

Phelan is conceded one of the two nominations next Tuesday. Newton, with more recognition as a two-term councillor, is expected to win the second nomination over Kertzman, a political newcomer making his very first run for public office.

The preliminary face-off results are seen by many as a barometer of Phelan's popularity and political strength as he nears the end of his first term as the city's chief executive.

Observers will be closely

Remembrance For Sept. 11 Terrorist Attacks

Mayor William Phelan is calling for a citywide day of remembrance today (Thursday) to commemorate the second anniversary of the terrorist attacks and the losses suffered at the World Trade Center, the Pentagon and in Pennsylvania.

Working with Fire Chief Paul O'Connell and Police Chief William Falco, the city has organized a simultaneous moment of silence at each of the eight firehouses in Quincy in the morning to remember Sept. 11, 2001.

At 9:45 a.m., fire apparatus will be rolled out to the apron of each station. At 10 a.m., a moment of silence will take place across the city. At 10:05 a.m., the moment the first tower collapsed, there will be a simultaneous ringing of the bells at each of the eight firehouses followed by one minute of silence.

"This day of remembrance is to honor those who lost their lives that horrific day," Phelan said. "It is to honor those who displayed great strength and courage to help their fellow Americans. It is to honor our country, which suffered a tremendous blow, yet stood strong and united."

Across the city, flags will be lowered to half-mast to commemorate the day.

Valvoline Instant Oil Change Granted License

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

Starting next month, you will be able to have an instant oil change and remain in your car, and it will only take about 15 minutes when Valvoline Instant Oil change takes over at 366 Centre St. (formerly Speedy Oil).

That's what the License Board was told at Tuesday's meeting by Donald R. Smith, representing the company.

The License Board granted the request from Henley Enterprises, Inc. doing business as Valvoline for a garage/repair license.

Donald R. Smith, representing the company said plans are to shut down the bay next to Dunkin Donuts, a move he said that will relieve some of the traffic problems.

He said renovations will also include the expansion of the basement, and to convert the repair bay and remove the lift.

Chairman Joseph Shea cited a "tight" traffic problem and said changes are now being made in the front of the building with the widening of that part of Centre Street.

Smith said the changes would result in a dedicated lane to Dunkin Donuts.

Smith said in addition to an oil change, related maintenance will include the changing of windshield wiper blades, fluids and filters.

The hours will be 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturdays, and 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Sundays.

They will have six to eight employees and some part-time employees.

There will be no auto repairs, no overnight parking, Smith said. There will be double deep bays to lessen the wait for customers.

The manager will be Richard Dolan.

Battle Of The Bulge Dedication

A SIX-FOOT GRANITE monument called the "Triumph of Courage" honoring veterans of the Battle of the Bulge was dedicated Sunday at McIntyre Mall adjacent to City Hall. Benjamin Patton (left), grandson of General George S. Patton, was the keynote speaker at the dedication which was attended by Battle of the Bulge veterans who had gathered in Quincy last week for a reunion. With him are Mayor William Phelan (center) and Stan Wojtusik, national president, Battle of the Bulge Veterans Committee. The veterans supplied the statue, made of Vermont granite, while the city provided the foundation for it.

Wollaston Beach Cleanup Sept. 27

The Ward 5 Community Association and the Wollaston Beach Task Force is sponsoring a beach cleanup as part of the state's Annual Coast Sweep Campaign on Saturday, Sept. 27 at 10 a.m.

Volunteers are encouraged to meet in front of the Quantum Yacht Club on Quincy Shore Drive.

As part of the state-sponsored cleanup, volunteers fill out data forms that help to tabulate the type and amount of trash along coastal areas. More than 3,500 volunteers are expected to remove hundreds of thousands of pieces of debris along 200 miles of coastline.

Ward 5 Councillor Doug Gutro encouraged residents to participate in the cleanup.

"We always have a strong turnout of students and residents who take pride in our city's largest beach," said Gutro. "I invite any resident, student or visitor to join in our annual event. We need help."

Gutro credited Donna Glynn, a teacher at the Atlantic Middle School, for enlisting the help of her fellow teachers and students.

Last year's event attracted 100 people who collected 350 pounds of trash and debris along Wollaston Beach.

Council Amends $110 Million Bond

Flood Relief Project In High School Plan

By WILLIAM TRAYNOR

A $9.5 million drainage project will be built in the Faxon Field area regardless of the location of the new Quincy High School, under an amendment approved by the city council last week.

On a 7-2 vote, the council agreed to amend a $110 million bond issue for the construction of the new high school and renovation of the existing school to the Central Middle School.

Sponsored by Council President Dan Raymondi, the amendment ensures that the drainage project will be undertaken regardless of the location of the high school. The only caveat: the drainage project must be linked somehow to the overall school plan.

The project was included in Mayor William Phelan's plan, but was tied to the Faxon Field site. That idea did not sit well with most councilors.

"In this situation, the city identified a problem and came up with a solution, but wanted to walk away from the matter if the high school wasn't located at Faxon Field," said Raymondi. "If the city identifies a chronic flooding condition that poses a threat to public safety, and funding is available, then it is incumbent upon the city to fix the problem."

As a result, Raymondi said, flood relief will come to the neighborhoods surrounding Faxon Field even if the new high school is not built on Faxon Field.

Ward 4 Councillor Bryan Connolly and Councillor John Keenan voted against the amendment.

"I agreed with the intent of the amendment but I was concerned with jeopardizing the 90 percent reimbursement at a late hour," said Connolly. "This was a last minute amendment and I thought it was taking our eyes off the prize."

City officials also were concerned that the amendment might interfere with the city's attempt at gaining approval from the Department of Education. But City Solicitor Monica Conyngham said she was "comfortable" with the language in the amendment.

According to Conyngham, if the new high school is not constructed on Faxon Field, the existing high school would still have to be renovated to become the new home for Central Middle School students. A playing field can be constructed on the Faxon Field site to accommodate Central, she said. This would satisfy the educational component for triggering the drainage project, she said.

"As long as we have some educational use in that area, tied specifically to the renovation of the high school or Central, we should be able to do the drainage project," she said.

Conyngham and Raymondi stressed that the size and scope of the project would depend on whether a new high school is built on Faxon Field. The existence of a large structure on the site would affect the design of the drainage project, they said.

Raymondi said the drainage project may cost less if the high school is not located on Faxon Field.

Honored For 50 Years Of Public Service

IN RECOGNITION OF 50 years of public service, the city council recently presented Joe Lydon with a commemorative clock. Lydon has served on the city's Park and Recreation Board for several years, assisted many city administrations and served as chairman of the Ward 6 Democratic Committee for 40 years. He also held various public service positions at the state level. Pictured, from the left, Joe Newton, Ward 6 Councillor; Archie Wahlberg, vice president of the citywide Democratic Committee; Alicia Gardner, member of the Ward 6 Democratic Committee; Lydon, Joanne Condon-Walsh, treasurer of the citywide Democratic and Ward 6 Democratic Committee; Dale Musgrave, secretary of the Ward 6 Democratic Committee; and Paul Kennedy, vice chairman of the Ward 6 Democratic Committee.

Quincy Center Task Force Meeting Business Owners Today

The Mayor's Quincy Center Task Force will meet with business owners today (Thursday) at 9:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. in the City Hall second floor conference room to address concerns in the downtown area.

Business owners are encouraged to attend one of the meetings.

One of the topics discussed will be the idea of establishing a "Quincy Center Campaign," a volunteer effort of city officials, business owners, residents and other interested parties geared toward the clean-up and beautification of Quincy Center.

The task force will also hand out copies of its 26 recommendations on how to improve the downtown area.

Community Blood Drive Sept. 29

Quincy Community and the American Red Cross will hold a blood drive Monday, Sept. 29, from 1 to 7 p.m. at Quincy Point Congregational Church, 444 Washington St., Quincy.

There's a new commitment to maintain a 5- to 10-day community blood supply. To maintain an optimal blood supply in the New England region, 1,200 to 1,500 donations must be received daily.

Anyone 17 years of age or older, weighing 110 pounds or more and feeling in good health may be eligible to donate blood.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Sept. 8, 1941, during World War II, German forces begin their siege of Leningrad, the Soviet Union's second-largest city. The siege lasted a grueling 872 days and resulted in the deaths of some 1 million of the city's civilians and Red Army defenders.

• On Sept. 9, 1971, prisoners riot and seize control of the maximum-security Attica Correctional Facility near Buffalo, N.Y. Four days later, state police and prison officers would launch a disastrous raid in which 10 hostages and 29 inmates were killed in an indiscriminate hail of gunfire.

• On Sept. 12, 1977, Steven Biko, leader of South Africa's "Black Consciousness Movement," dies of severe head trauma on the stone floor of a prison cell in Pretoria.

• On Sept. 10, 1981, Spanish artist Pablo Picasso's monumental anti-war mural Guernica is received by Spain after four decades of refugee existence.

• On Sept. 14, 1982, ©2003 King Features Synd. Inc.

Princess Grace of Monaco — American actress Grace Kelly — dies tragically when her car plunges off a mountain road by the Cote D'Azur. She was 52 years old.

• On Sept. 13, 1990, Andrei Chikatilo, the Soviet Union's most prolific serial killer, is charged with the murder of 53 people. The Soviet government, refusing to admit that the communist system could produce serial killers, had denied the crimes in an attempt to portray serial killing as a uniquely Western cultural phenomenon.

• On Sept. 11, 2001, the "Attack on America" begins on a clear Tuesday morning at 8:45 a.m. when an American Airlines Boeing 767 loaded with 20,000 gallons of jet fuel crashes into the north tower of the World Trade Center in New York City. More than 3,000 people would die in the attacks on the World Trade Center and the Pentagon in Washington, D.C.

Could Political Lightning Strike Twice?

Could political lightning strike twice in the same place?

The place being the mayor's office.

Observers will be closely watching the returns in next Tuesday's preliminary election for any little sign of a possible upset bolt in the making.

PHELAN

KERTZMAN

How strong a vote will incumbent William Phelan pull? How close can challengers Joseph Newton and Harvey Kertzman get to him?

Or will it be a Phelan runaway?

Phelan shocked the political scene two years ago with a stunning 17-vote win over popular, six-term incumbent James Sheets.

SHEETS

It wasn't supposed to happen.

Phelan was a virtual political newcomer in only his second year on the school committee. At that time when the name Phelan was mentioned more people thought of Chuck Phelan, the former Ward 4 city councillor, and no relation.

Phelan wasn't given much of a chance cast in the role of a political David up against a political Goliath.

But he was determined and worked at it. With a dedicated campaign team. And endorsements from the late former Senator-Councillor Paul Harold and Councillor and former Mayor Frank McCauley.

Sheets appeared to be so strongly entrenched in the mayor's office through his 12 years there that some mused it would take a keg of dynamite to get him out of there.

Phelan did it with 17 votes.

Now he has two challengers of his own to contend with.

Of the two, Newton, as a two-term Ward 6 city councillor, is considered a stronger challenger than Kertzman, who is making his political debut.

Observers differ in rating Newton's chances. Some believe he just can't do what Phelan did two years ago. Others see a possible surprise.

Newton drew a good crowd at the fundraising reception hosted by Norfolk County Commissioner John Gillis, former city clerk and one of Quincy's most respected political figures.

A good showing by Newton next Tuesday would spark both interest and money for the run to November.

Kertzman, on the other hand, isn't doing much about — or with — money in a low key, economy campaign. He says he has spent only $80 so far. That for 2,000 business cards which read: "Harvey Kertzman for Mayor. Quincy Businessman for 30 years. I'll run the City like a business!"

And he's doing most of his campaigning while pumping gas at his Quincy Ave. gas station.

Next Tuesday will give an indication of what to expect in the final showdown Nov. 4.

Phelan, as the underdog two years ago, knows underdogs can win. He's taking nothing for granted this year.

And Newton, also knowing underdogs can win, is making a serious bid.

Both Phelan and Newton have opened campaign headquarters: Phelan at 111 Penn St., South Quincy, and Newton in Room 203 of the Adams Building on Hancock St. in Quincy Center.

Let's see what happens next Tuesday.

CITY CLERK Joseph Shea is predicting a light voter turnout — only about 25 percent of the city's 52,230 registered voters.

If so, that would be even smaller than the 29 percent that turned out on the 2001 preliminary election day that fell on ill-fated Sept. 11.

SHEA

The terrorist attacks on the World Trade Center and the Pentagon that morning were believed the reason many voters stayed home. Either to watch the coverage on television or perhaps frightened it could happen here because the planes were hijacked out of Logan Airport.

There was some talk of postponing the election as news of the terrorist attacks reached City Hall.

Some of the election workers hired for the days said they would like to go home. Shea, then City Solicitor Steve McGrath and Board of Registrar members Denis Tardo and the late Charles Sweeney gave postponement some thought.

But decided against it.

It would have meant discarding over 52,000 ballots which cost over $8,000 and reprinting over 52,000 new ones. A ballot must be printed for every single registered voter.

Postponement would also interfere with the registration of new voters for the final election and the election itself.

"The negatives far outweighed the positives for postponing the election," Shea said.

So, the election went on.

THAT SPECIAL TRADITION started by the late George Parker 27 years ago is still going strong.

George, who owned the Yellow Cab Co. in Quincy, opened his heart — and checkbook — in 1976 to youngsters afflicted with muscular dystrophy.

That was the year The Quincy Sun became the Quincy-South Shore Pledge Center for the Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon.

George came by with two $400 checks, one company, one personal. And for the next 10 years it was like an annual ritual with George arriving with $800 to help put us over the top.

During those 10 years, the pledge center raised over $1 million for Jerry's Kids, thanks to George and many other nice people in Quincy and the South Shore.

As The Sun expanded, space became limited and the pledge center had to end.

But for the next 12 years, George kept coming to The Sun Labor Day weekend with $800. In 1999, though not feeling well himself, he made it $1,000.

George died May 8, 2000 at age 65. His donations at that time added up to $19,400.

Now the tradition continues in his memory.

The Labor Day weekend after George's death, two more checks for $800 arrived at The Sun for Jerry's Kids. One a personal one from George's brother, Joseph, and the latter's wife, Joan; and a $300 Yellow Cab check from Wayne McCully, George's long-time friend and associate.

And for the next two years $800 more.

And this year, another $800, bringing the new total to $22,600.

"We want to keep it going," says Joe and Wayne.

George would be happy about that.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1928 postcard reproduction showing the newly opened Quincy Point Junior High School on Lancaster Street in Quincy Point. It was built as an attachment to the Daniel Webster Elementary School that had been built in 1916. Point was later the last of our junior highs opened in the 1920's by the School Committee to serve Quincy youngsters in grades 7-9. This relieved tremendously overcrowded eight-year elementary schools. Known today as Point Webster Middle School, the name reflects the change from the Junior High system to Middle Schools.

Opposes Raising Taxes

Last year, real estate taxes went up a thousand dollars for the average homeowner. Add to that the increases in everything else (including co-pays and medical insurance deductibles); the stock market "crash" that destroyed so many retirement funds; the jobs being exported overseas; the staggering cost of a war in Iraq (which will be passed along to us); and we have the formula for catastrophe. Many people are having a hard time paying rents, mortgages, and the upkeep on their home and car.

Yet, the city council just approved the building of two new schools, as well as a number of other major projects during the past several years. They reason that the cost of the schools is a bargain because the city will only have to pay $61 million and the state pays the rest - the implication being that it's free; but the reality is that the state will pass it on to taxpayers via state taxes; and the last I knew, the state was in a deficit of some three billion dollars, which is equivalent to 3,000 million dollars.

Is there any hope of change? In the Sun of 9/4/03, of all the political ads, only two candidates specifically mention anything about concern for the beleaguered taxpayer. Are the rest oblivious that the people are so frustrated that they nearly voted to eliminate the state sales tax, or just might do it to the excise tax? The same government that doesn't mind raising taxes another thousand dollars probably wouldn't mind seizing property for unpaid taxes, but this is no way to run a "business" or treat people in distress.

If I were running for school committee, ward councillor or mayor, my campaign would be based solely on a promise to disallow "absolutely everything" that would raise taxes. Yes, I'd regret that a number of worthwhile causes could not be afforded, but in these difficult times at least my constituents would know that they have an advocate who tries to keep government under control and working "with the people for the people" which offers a refreshing alternative to the usual government "at the people" and "up the people."

Thank You, Quincy Medical Center

I have been in the health care profession at Brigham and Women's Hospital for over 30 years. The expertise, education and experience, as well as the compassion of our physicians, nurses and care providers are world renowned. But, this letter is not about Brigham and Women's Hospital. This letter is about Quincy Medical Center and the heart-felt care it provides to the patients and families it serves. And how do I know this? My father, Mike Fagerlund, was a patient at Quincy Medical Center for three surgeries over the past five months.

Through every one of his stays, the compassion and excellence of his care exceeded my expectations in every way. The technical expertise of the physicians, nurses and other providers was outstanding. Beyond that, the warmth that was continuously present made a distinct difference throughout each of his hospitalizations.

I want to thank everyone who cared for my father while a patient at Quincy Medical Center. This includes the outstanding care he received during many Emergency Department and Radiology visits as well. My family appreciates what so many dedicated people did for us all.

Thank you, Quincy Medical Center, for your commitment, concern and your care.

Quincy's Yesterdays

Hurricane Edna Knocks Out City Power

Hurricane Edna, the second major storm in 12 days, struck Quincy with winds of 75 miles an hour and gusts up to 106 miles an hour, knocking out 40 percent of the city's power in Wollaston and North Quincy.

Edna was mild compared to her predecessor, Hurricane Carole, which hit winds clocked at 93 miles an hour and gusts up to 125 mph.

Edna dropped 5.16 inches of rain in 14 hours.

Rotary Field off Coddington St. and Kincaide Park in South Quincy were under several feet of water and parts of Houghs Neck and the Squantum and Atherton Hough Schools.

James T. Gartland, executive director of the Quincy Red Cross, said 24 gallons of coffee, 150 small cartons of milk and 25 dozen doughnuts were served to storm refugees in the shelters.

LANE NOMINATED

Myron N. Lane of Quincy swamped two opponents, Sturtevant Burr of Stoughton and George P. Carney of Quincy, to win the Republican nomination for Norfolk County district attorney.

Lane had almost three times as many votes as Burr, his nearest challenger, in the race for the post to which he was appointed by Gov. Christian A. Herter.

A big primary victory by City Councillor David J. Crowley gave Democrats hope of displacing Republic Rep. William I. Jenness and winning the State Rep seat in the Second Norfolk for the first time.

Christmas Parade Float Building Seminar Sept. 17

The how-to-do-it amateur float builders seminar for the 51st annual Quincy Christmas Parade will be held Wednesday, Sept. 17, at 7:15 p.m. at the Koch Park and Recreation Complex, One Merrymount Parkway, Quincy, adjacent to Adams Field.

George White, general chairman of the Quincy Holiday Festival Committee, stated this year's parade theme, "Let there be Peace on Earth," offers much latitude in planning and constructing individual Christmas parade float entries considering today's world terrorism environment.

Paul Kennedy, festival committee float activity coordinator, said the seminar is free of charge to all amateur participants planning to enter this year's parade.

Seminar attendees meet at 7 p.m. with light refreshments served. The seminar will begin at 7:15 p.m. with a film presentation highlighting floats of past parades. Kennedy urges all participants to arrive early in fairness to those who arrive on time.

Immediately following the film, both amateur and professional float builders will discuss criteria for building floats for Quincy's 51st Christmas Parade which will be held Sunday, Nov. 30.

Kennedy invites all amateur float builders representing organizations planning to enter this year's parade to attend. For more information contact Kennedy at 9 Trevor St., Quincy, or call 617-328-1059.

Author To Sign Shipyard Memoir/History Sept. 13

Former shipfitter David Drummond will sign his book, "The Shipyard - Will It Float," the story of the Fore River Shipyard, Saturday, Sept. 13, from 12 noon to 2 p.m. at the Paperback Booksmith in Hanover Mall.

Drummond, whose family worked at the Yard for three generations and who now lives in Gulf Shores, Ala., began writing the book as a personal history for his children but expanded the memoir when the Yard closed in 1986.

The author not only writes of his early years growing up near the shipyard and working there as a ship fitter but includes unforgettable characters, photos and complete production records going back to 1884.

Those unable to attend the signing by Drummond can order a signed copy by calling Paperback Booksmith at 781-826-4520.

Quincy ArtsFest Sept. 13-14 At Koch Family Complex

The sixth annual Quincy ArtsFest, featuring more than 450 works of art and photography from across the state, will be held Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 13 and 14, at the Richard J. Koch Family Park and Recreation Complex in Merrymount Park.

Admission is free and the show is open to the public Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. There will be live entertainment as well as art.

Saturday

10 a.m. to 12 noon - David Polanski will perform fun and educational music for young and old alike.

12 noon to 2 p.m. - Masquerade, appearing at ArtsFest for the first time, offers a lively mix of Broadway show tunes, pop classics and other favorites.

2 to 4 p.m. - Swing-A-Chord produces the classic sounds of Martin, Sinatra, jazz standards and favorites from years gone by.

Sunday

12 noon to 1:15 p.m. - Forbes School of Irish Dance features Irish dancing and music.

2 to 4 p.m. - Joe Lundbohn, easy listening hits.

The works on display will include a wide variety of media featuring water colors, oils, pastels, sculpture, digital photography, black and white photography, mixed media and more.

"The Quincy ArtsFest is an event perfect for the entire family to enjoy," said Mayor William Phelan.

"The aesthetic beauty of Merrymount Park provides a unique setting for the event. This will be a great weekend for Quincy as observers from throughout the region will be able to appreciate the natural beauty that resides in our parks."

Nearly 7,500 attended last year's ArtsFest and more are expected this year.

"The number of entries in this year's show is the most in the history of this wonderful event," said Tom Koch, executive director of the Park, Forestry and Cemetery Departments.

"The crowds this event have drawn in the past are quite a credit to the quality of the artists' work and the energetic performances for the entertainers.

"I want to thank the Quincy Art Association, the Best Western-Adams Inn and Boston Financial Data Services for their help in making this event such a success."

Special Needs Center First Reunion Nov. 7

The North Quincy High School Special Needs Learning Center will hold its first ever reunion Friday, Nov. 7, from 7 to 9 p.m. at the North Quincy Knights of Colum-

Request For Used Car License On Liberty St. Continued

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

The legality of a 30-day suspension for exceeding the number of used cars on a parking lot was questioned by the License Board at Tuesday's meeting regarding Steve's Auto Sales, Inc. at 30-34 Liberty St.

The question came after statements made by Rosemary Martin, a member of the Penn St. Association.

Martin said Stephen Smith, owner of Smith Auto Sales, formerly on Water St. always exceeded the number of cars allotted to him at that site, causing her to comment "he can't count."

Martin said she thought the penalty of a suspension would guarantee that Smith would be more diligent in keeping the amount of cars to the 40 cars he requested for the Liberty St. site.

Chairman Joseph Shea said he received a letter from the P.V. Sullivan Co., about flooding problems in the area in the past.

Jeffrey Bids, counsel for Smith said the owner plans to install more drainage, and also do some extensive landscaping.

Neighbors said they also wanted a six foot fence, but board members said if the fence is on the corner of the property and obstructs the view it would be illegal.

Police Chief William Falco said if there is an agreement between the neighbors and Smith regarding the suspension, then he was not opposed to it.

However, Walter White, director of inspection services said the matter should be sent to the city's legal department and said he thought singling out Smith was a "special arrangement" and also said the License Board does not have such a policy.

At one point Martin said she didn't want to give Smith a "slap in the hand": as a penalty and accused the board of doing just that in other matters.

However, Shea, who said those comments "bothered him" told Martin that two licenses have been revoked in the Quincy Point area which surprised Martin who said she had no knowledge of that.

If the legal department does not sanction a suspension, Shea said the board can revoke a license if rules aren't followed.

On the motion made by Falco, the board requested that a more comprehensive plan be filed, specifically the number of cars and if an agreement reached between the residents and Smith is legally binding.

The meeting will be held Sept. 23.

JOANNE CONDON-WALSH is congratulated by Daniel Raymondi of the Quincy College Board of Governors and Terri Lord-Piatelli, chairperson of the board, upon Joanne's appointment to the Quincy College Board of Governors.

Joanne Condon-Walsh New Quincy College Governor

Joanne Condon Walsh, a longtime Quincy community activist and former Quincy College student, has been appointed a governor of the college.

Condon Walsh was appointed to a six-year term on Thursday. The Quincy resident and former Ward 6 councillor will be sworn in at the annual meeting of the board today (Thursday) at the Marriott Quincy.

The wife of Quincy Deputy Fire Chief Joseph Walsh, she is the mother of three and the grandmother of eight.

Condon Walsh, a local Realtor who serves on numerous boards and community organizations, attended Quincy Junior College in the 1970s. She served as Ward 6 councillor from 1978-1985. Her community involvement includes the Atlantic Neighborhood Association, the Catholic Women's Club of Quincy, Lions Club of Quincy, United States Naval Shipbuilding Museum, Quincy Community Action, South Shore Association of Realtors, and the Quincy Conservation Commission.

"Joanne's considerable community service, combined with her experience as a Quincy College student are two assets that distinguished her as an ideal board member," said Theresa M. Lord-Piatelli, chairperson of the board. "At heart we are a Quincy institution with a special affinity for our community. Governor Condon Walsh has an impressive history of involvement in civic affairs and public sector experience as well."

"Although the college is about 60 percent female," said Governor Daniel Raymondi, "Joanne has experience with Harbor Health Services and community groups serving a wide variety of organizations and constituents."

"Her public service and her success as a businesswoman clearly qualify her in ways that will speak to all of the students at the college. She is a warm, caring person with a special interest in affordable public higher education," Raymondi said.

Governor Condon Walsh fills the vacancy created by the death of Governor Charles Sweeney, a founder of the college and a longtime advocate for the college, died Aug. 13 after a brief illness.

The Quincy College Board of Governors is a 13-member appointed board that is ultimately responsible for the institution. The appointing council consists of two school committee members, two board members, and two city councilors.

"Governing Boards have a broader, long-range perspective and obligation to the institution," said Quincy College President Sean Barry. "Students, staff, faculty and presidents come and go, but the governing board remains consistent and vital to the role of the institution."

"Effective board members represent no single constituency and do not manage day to day affairs of the institution. They advocate for the institution, they endeavor to fortify the fiscal vitality and stability of the college, and they develop policy," Barry added.

"The staff here is wonderful.
They make me
home."

Re-Enactment Of Constitutional Convention At Adams Park

The National Park Service, Adams National Historical Park is inviting residents and visitors Sunday, Sept. 14, to play a part in the re-enactment of the passage of the United States Constitution by the Constitutional Convention on Sept. 17, 1787.

Members of the audience will assume the roles of various delegates to the convention and will represent their state in a debate that will determine the fate of a nation.

Led by George Washington, portrayed by a park ranger, the debate becomes heated as the time draws short before the final vote is called.

After the debate each delegate signs his or her name to the document, rings the Liberty Bell, receives a copy of the United States Constitution and the Massachusetts Constitution to keep as a memento to their great efforts in the service of their nation, and savors their victory by eating a slice of Constitutional Cake.

The convention will be held at Adams National Historical Park, 1873 Carriage House, 135 Adams St., Quincy, at 1 p.m.

The program is free of charge, has a limited capacity and will be reserved on a first-come, first-serve basis. Those who wish to attend are recommended to call the Adams National Historical Park Visitor Center at 617-770-1175 to reserve a place.

For more information about this or any other interpretive programs offered by the park, call 617-770-1175 or visit www.nps.gov/adam.

Terri Lord-Piatelli

is an experienced and committed advocate for Public Education

I am Terri Lord-Piatelli, a candidate for the Quincy School Committee. I am a long-time Quincy resident, wife, mother and attorney with a practice here in Quincy.

Education provides opportunities and skills that benefit us through our lives. A wonderful city such as ours should provide the best opportunities for all public school students in every neighborhood. As a parent of a Quincy Public School student, as a taxpayer, and as a person who works here in our community, I can be a strong advocate and an effective guardian of our system.

As a youth, I was inspired to contribute to my community and to the purpose of public service. I remember that it was President John Kennedy who said, "Our progress as a nation can be no swifter than our progress in education." Our children are our future; together let us provide them with the quality education they so richly deserve.

William F. Degan Memorial Road Race Sunday

The 11th annual William F. Degan Memorial Road Race will be held Sunday, Sept. 14, at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

The race commemorates the life and career of former Massachusetts Deputy Marshal William F. Degan, who was killed in the line of duty in August 1992 during a standoff in Ruby Ridge, Idaho.

The Quincy native earned numerous awards during his career, including the prestigious Attorney General's Award for Excellence in Law Enforcement.

All proceeds from the event are donated to local charities, foundations and community projects. Last year's race raised $30,000 and approximately $160,000 has been donated thus far.

The flat, fast course draws some of New England's top runners, as well as local and state law enforcement officials, U.S. marshals and other federal agents.

A contingent of U.S. Marines also pay tribute to Degan's service as a lieutenant colonel in the Marine Corps Reserves by running together in military formation.

The festivities will kick off at 9:15 a.m. with the kids fun run. The 10K starts at 10 a.m., immediately followed by the 5K run and walk. Both races begin on Merrymount Parkway and finish in the stadium.

Race-day registration and number pick-up will be held from 8 to 9:30 a.m. at the stadium. Also, pre-registered runners can pick up their bib numbers and T-shirts Saturday from 2 to 5 p.m. at the stadium. Regular registration will also be open at this time.

Jake Comer, past national commander of the American Legion, is the grand marshal. Also, the father-and-son team of Dick and Rick Hoyt will be participating again this year.

Prizes are awarded to the top three finishers in eight different age divisions, as well as law enforcement and wheelchair divisions.

In addition to the races, family events include pony rides, clowns, face painting and music by DJ Larry Links. There will also be a NASCAR racing car on display in the stadium brought in by New England Dodge Dealers, a major sponsor of the race along with Citizens Bank.

Refreshments include free fruit drinks, bottled water and Dunkin' Donuts products before the race, as well as spaghetti, hot dogs, Hoodie

Newton Says He's Ready To Take Mayor's Job

City Councillor Joe Newton made it official at a recent reception at the Common Market restaurant — he's in the race to become Quincy's next mayor.

Before a crowd of 300 people Newton said he is ready to be mayor of Quincy and to tackle the problems he says are unaddressed or mishandled by Mayor Phelan.

Newton was critical of Phelan in several areas: The renegotiation of Quincy Hills Golf Course lease, the still unresolved Quincy High School siting, the large number of department heads residing outside the city and the state of city finances.

On the golf course lease, Newton said: "Phelan has taken the lease, given the developer a five-year extension for free, lost a year of construction and resultant revenue and, incredibly, permitted the developer to turn the course from a public one to a private club."

On Quincy High School, Newton said: Bill Phelan has had almost two years to resolve this. At the last minute, he pushed the council for a financing package, $30 million more than estimated and no approved plans."

Regarding city department heads, Newton pointed out that two years ago, Phelan's mantra was "I'm a Quincy guy."

"Too bad his department heads aren't," Newton said.

He noted that the public works commissioner, the purchasing agent, the city solicitor, the building inspector and the personnel director all live outside the city of Quincy.

"It's important for department heads to know the city and its neighborhoods. I'll appoint qualified Quincy people," said Newton.

Newton says Phelan says he has straightened out the city's finances.

"The problem is he's overestimated receipts," said Newton. "His budget is not in balance."

Newton pointed out that Councillor Frank McCauley, a respected fiscal watchdog, pointed out in mid-July, only 15 days into the new fiscal year, that this year's deficit has already reached $1.5 million.

"I look forward to discussing the issue and meeting as many people as I can in the campaign. Quincy needs new, real leadership," said Newton.

Arts Council Accepting Grant Applications

The Quincy Arts Council is accepting applications for the 2004 Massachusetts Cultural Council grants.

Applications may be obtained by calling 617-745-3828 or they may be picked up at the North Quincy branch or the main branch of

Raymondi Hails City Workers In Fuel Truck Spill

City Council President Daniel Raymondi was effusive in his praise of firefighters, police officers and DPW workers whose skills and courage averted a disaster when a gasoline truck overturned sending an explosive river of fuel into Quincy Square.

"That wave of fuel, four feet wide and nearly a foot deep, rolled down Coddington St.," he said in a letter to The Sun.

"From a distance, I watched and prayed as Quincy's Fire, Police and Public Works Departments selflessly braved the potential for danger and set about assuring our safety.

"Firefighters, standing in rivers of fuel, poured layers of foam into the liquid, struggling also to prevent the fuel from contaminating storm drains and our ecosystem. These brave men, working with a determined sense of purpose and courage, thought only of the danger to others. Had there been an explosion, they would have died.

"Police officers, many very close to the fuel, and without protective fire gear, began the evacuation of area buildings and immediately worked to redirect traffic and detour onlookers. Again, had there been an explosion, they would have died.

"DPW trucks and machinery poured sand to absorb the fuel and prevent complete contamination and saturation of adjacent property. The employees put purpose before personal risk. They did their jobs with the greatest concern for people and property.

"To say that I am proud of these men and women would be an understatement."

The accident happened on the evening of Thursday, Aug. 21, when the tractor-trailer truck, loaded with thousands of gallons of gasoline, rolled over as the driver attempted to negotiate the turn from Temple to Washington Sts. The driver escaped injury.

"Any spark, from static electricity, a stray cigarette or a car backfire would have ignited a gasoline inferno, likely destroying everything in its course," said

"The brave and dedicated Quincy Firefighters, Police and DPW employees who so selflessly served our citizens deserve our gratitude and appreciation.

"The citizens of Quincy are fortunate to have such professionals at the ready."

Sanders Seniors Conference Speaker

Walt Sanders, the TV personality and president of the Massachusetts AARP, will be the keynote speaker at Quincy's eight annual Senior Conference Saturday, Sept.

Council Approves Funding For Library Regional Services

Union Congregational Church

Beach St. and Rawson Rd., Wollaston

Sunday School begins this Sunday
Sept. 14 at 9am

(Regular Sunday Service 10am)

By WILLIAM TRAYNOR

The city council last week appropriated $239,000 to fund Library Regional Services, which provides help with reference materials, interlibrary loans and delivery services for items not readily found at the city's libraries.

The city contracts with the Southeastern Massachusetts Library System, which provides various services for libraries. The money spent is reimbursed by a state grant funneled through the Massachusetts Board of Library Commissioners. The money will be spent on salaries and services for the library's participation in the Southeastern Massachusetts Library System (SEMLS).

SEMLS provides supplemental services to hundreds of libraries throughout southeastern Massachusetts. Those services include support for reference and research materials, technical support, consultant and technical assistance.

The organization provides delivery services for hard-to-find books. Also, SEMLS provides various services in the reference section of libraries.

A Quincy public library card allows residents to access the SEMLS online database of thousands of books. If a book is not found in the Thomas Crane Library, for example, then a resident may search for it using the online database. If found, an item can be delivered to the library user.

The SEMLS database allows access to certain libraries in schools, universities and hospitals.

"It's a great service," said Ann McLaughlin, director of libraries. "It provides a virtual database for those who want to search other regional libraries in the state."

McLaughlin said a user must simply input the number on their library card bar code to access the online database.

"Most people don't have a clue about how much information is available to them for free," she said.

McCarthy Praises 'Snow Plan' For Quincy Public Schools

Dave McCarthy, a candidate for the School Committee, said he is pleased to learn that the DPW, in conjunction with the Park Department, has readied a "snow plan" for the public schools this winter.

"We had a very tough winter last year," he said. "I wanted to be sure that this year there is a program in place to ensure that our school children can get to school safely on any day that school is in session. After consulting with Commissioner Jay Fink, I'm convinced that we do have such a plan."

Fink agreed that the plan is ready.

"We have systematically addressed the issue," he said. "We have walked the routes, conferred with principals, students and teachers, and assessed our available resources. We will be ready when the first snow falls. We're ready now."

McCarthy lauded the comprehensive nature of the plan.

"We have to be ready to act, not react," he said. "The School Committee has a well-deserved reputation for advocating on behalf of students. We need to continue that advocacy, to keep the pressure on."

said the development of the plan had been a priority.

"This is an important issue," he said, "and one that we needed to work cooperatively on. I welcome the input and support of the School Committee in our continuing effort to provide the best education possible for our children."

Home Improvement Loans Available From MassHousing

Sen. Michael Morrissey announces that MassHousing, the state's affordable housing bank, is offering home improvement loans for low- and moderate-income homeowners.

The loans offer low interest rates with no hidden fees or penalties.

"MassHousing strives to provide access to affordable mortgage loan products for low- and moderate-income home buyers and owners," said Morrissey.

To make the MassHousing Home Improvement Loan Program more attractive, maximum loan amounts have been raised from $25,000 to $50,000. In addition, the interest rate is being dropped from a minimum of 5% to Wall Street Journal Prime (the lowest prevailing daily interest rate as posted in the Wall Street Journal), which is currently 4%. Borrowers can choose loan terms of 5, 10, 15, 20 years (the interest rate on the 20-year option will be Prime plus .25%).

For example, a MassHousing-qualified homeowner could use the MassHousing Home Improvement Loan Program and borrow $25,000 at 4% for 10 years and only pay $253.11 per month. The same borrower using a typical home improvement loan could expect to borrow the same $25,000, but with an interest rate at around 6% and a monthly payment of $277.55. Using the MassHousing Home Improvement Loan Program would save the owner $24.44 per month or $2,933 over the life of the loan.

Borrowers must meet MassHousing income guidelines to qualify for the Home Improvement Loan. In the majority of Sen. Morrissey's district, which includes Quincy, Braintree, Rockland and Holbrook, a family of three or more can earn up to $114,000 and be eligible for the program.

Other requirements include:

- Borrowers must have

- Eligible properties include 1, 2, 3 and 4 unit buildings including condominiums (no mixed-use properties).

- Renovations cannot begin prior to loan closing.

- Home improvement loans cannot be used for luxury items or landscaping (other restrictions apply).

The Massachusetts Housing Finance Agency, doing business as MassHousing, is the leading provider of affordable housing in Massachusetts. Since 1970, MassHousing has provided more than $7.5 billion in financing for more than 79,000 units of mixed-income rental housing and over 43,000 mortgage loans for first-time homebuyers. For more information, visit the MassHousing Website at www.masshousing.com.

Kertzman Running Low Key Campaign

Whatever happens in next Tuesday's preliminary election, Harvey Kertzman will have spent a grand total of $80 on his race for mayor of Quincy.

"I don't believe in signs," said the candidate. "It's foolish to spend money just so people can see your name. I'm passing out business cards. I prefer people to meet me and see what I'm all about."

Kertzman's $80 worth of business cards say simply:

"Harvey Kertzman for Mayor. I'll run the City like a business."

Kertzman has been a Quincy businessman for some 30 years, best known for operating a Volkswagen dealership from 1969 to 1998, an automotive body shop from 1975-1990, and currently a Mobile gas station on Quincy Avenue.

"I'm not campaigning for mayor," he said. "I'm applying for the job. I'm offering myself to the city and letting my record speak for itself. Those who know me well know that if I say something I follow through."

Psychological Perspective Oct. 16

Dr. Paul Sevransky, psychologist, Quincy Health Department, will offer a psychological perspective on "Why People Refuse To Throw Things Away?" Thursday, Oct. 16, at the Richard J. Koch Recreation Complex.

Health professionals and caregivers are encouraged to attend. To reserve a seat, call 617-376-1245.

Elaine Dwyer

Longtime advocate of students and teachers

Elaine For Education

Elaine has been working for you in many ways:

- Chairperson of the Health and Safety Sub-Committee
- Member of the Budget and Finance Sub-Committee
- Member of the Special Education Sub-Committee
- Member of the QPS Teacher and Secretary Negotiation Contract Teams
- Appointee to the Quincy College Board of Governors Appointing Committee

In Elaine's first 18 months on the job, she was honored to receive the Distinguished Educator Award in 2003.

Accomplishments:

- Listened to parents, analyzed transportation needs, introduced the purchase of 14 mini buses for the safe transportation of our special needs students. This will save our school system $527,000.00 over the next 6 years.
- Led effort to keep alcohol out of our High School functions by instituting an alcohol detection system.
- Worked on the Committee to implement the Crisis Guidelines and Safety Procedure Manual in all schools after 9/11
- Negotiated the first QPS teachers' contract to be settled on time in over 20 years
- Conducting review of all schools' facilities to improve safety
- Advocated and maintained small class size during 2002 budget crisis
- Working tirelessly for a new Quincy High School and a Central Middle School

As an active Quincy resident of Adams Shore and parent of two daughters in the Quincy Public School System, Elaine's commitment to public education started long before her seat on the School Committee:

- Merrymount PTO President; Citywide Representative
- Broad Meadows PTO President; Citywide Representative; School Council Co-Chair
- Quincy High School PAC member; Citywide Representative

Elaine needs your support to finish the job she has already started.

Imagine what she can accomplish in four more years!

Vote Dwyer on September 16.

Mayor, Wards 1, 6 Council, School Races Sept. 16

watching that mayoral vote; how close will Newton and Kertzman come to Phelan?

If Newton should pull a strong vote, it would energize his fund-raising efforts to finance his campaign for the Nov. 4 showdown.

Phelan says that under his leadership, the city is in good fiscal shape and moving forward while other communities are faltering financially.

Those communities are closing schools, fire stations, laying off teachers, police, firefighters and other municipal employees, he says.

Quincy, he notes, increased the school budget by 4 percent and added funds for public safety without a Prop. 2 1/2 tax increase that over 100 other communities had to seek.

He also points to improved parks and playgrounds and acquisition of more open space and other accomplishments.

Newton doesn't see things that rosy.

He criticizes Phelan for vetoing the ordinance mandating that every piece of fire apparatus should be manned by one officer and three firefighters for the safety of both the firefighters and residents.

He says Phelan has dragged his feet on bringing the planned new Quincy High School to reality.

He calls Phelan's 2004 city budget "overly optimistic" with possible "inflated figures" that could show up as the year progresses.

Newton says the city's streets and sidewalks are not getting the proper attention as promised. And, he says, people are tired of the bickering between the mayor's office and the city council. As mayor, he says, he would work closely with the council to get things done for the good of the city.

Kertzman says he is a businessman and would run the city like a business.

Shea is basing his low turnout forecast on a number of factors: only 110 new registered voters since the last election. Few applications for absentee ballots. No council at-large preliminary contest. No preliminary contests for Ward councillor in Wards 2, 3, 4 and 5.

"The vote will be high in Squantum and Houghs Neck where voters traditionally come and where there are ward contests this year," Shea says. "But they won't be able to carry the rest of the city to a high turnout figure."

Council seats being vacated by Greg Hanley and Newton in Wards 1 and 6 have brought out a field of five contenders in each of those wards.

The Ward 1 council candidates in the order they appear on the ballot:

Joanne M. Bythrow, 945 Sea St., a call center representative for the Aviva Insurance company, and past president and member of the Houghs Neck Community Council.

Leo J. Kelly, 143 Spring St., former Ward 1 councillor, now chairman of the Beaches and Coastal Commission.

James L. Bottary Jr., 53 Pawsey St., service manager KAM, Inc., member of the HOPE Playground committee and other community organizations.

Joseph Keegan, 16 Moreland Road, Quincy police officer, Army veteran of Desert Shield and Desert Storm.

Sean McArdle, 72 Huntress St., union negotiator and national representative for the International Brotherhood of Police Officers and member Houghs Neck Community Council.

Council candidates for Ward 6 in the order in which they appear on the ballot:

William H. Keener, 19 Gladstone St., practicing attorney in Quincy, former decorated Boston police officer with service on city committees.

Maryann P. Mahony, 18 Hummock Road, co-president of the Quincy Foundation for Excellence in Education, former vice chairman of the Ward 6 Democratic Committee, making her third run for the council seat.

Mark W. Bracken, 242 Quincy Shore Drive, law school student.

Alicia A. Gardner, 41, Deerfield St., Constituent Services Aide to Senator Michael Morrissey, past president of Squantum Community Association.

Brian F. McNamee, 133 Commander Shea Blvd., chief financial officer South Shore Essex Sewerage District regional water authority serving communities north of Boston, member Atlantic Neighborhood Association.

The school committee race has drawn a field of eight candidates with a wide open seat a special prize.

Christine Cedrone, current vice chairman now in her second four-year term, decided not to seek re-election, creating the open seat.

The candidates for school committee in order of their appearance on the ballot:

Ronald P. Iacobucci, 430 Adams St., head of the South Shore and Neponset Valley Foundation overseeing the Mini-Fenway Park planned for Quincy.

John L. Rodophele, 62 Grenwood Road, owner and publisher Quincy Dot Com and licensed real estate agent.

Theresa M. Lord-Piatelli, 72 Brunswick St., chairwoman of the Quincy College Board of Governors and a practicing attorney.

Brian H. Buckley, 60 Sims Road, coordinator of Intergenerational Programs for the Norfolk County Sheriff's Office and former director Quincy Council on Aging.

David F. McCarthy, 48 Whitney Road, director of security at General Dynamics in Needham, and a member of the Quarry Hills Golf Course Advisory Board.

Linda K. Stice, incumbent, 74 Winthrop Ave., seeking her fourth term on the school committee. She has been vice chairman and headed the Policy, Budget and Special Education Subcommittee.

Elaine F. Dwyer, 425 Sea St., serving on the school committee since February 2002 when she was appointed at the city council-school committee joint convention to complete William Phelan's term after he was elected mayor. She is chairwoman of the Health and Safety Sub-Committee.

Stephen P. Golden, 32 Ridgeway St., director of the alternative high school program for the Norwood public schools, served as program director of the Quincy Teen Get-Away recreational program.

Two candidates will be nominated for mayor, two each for the council seats in Wards 1 and 6 and six candidates for the three school committee seats. They will then meet in the Nov. 4 final election.

The polling places for the city's 30 precincts will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 16. Their locations are listed on page 21.

Two Ward 4 Precincts Will Vote At New Locations

Voters in two Ward 4 precincts will cast their ballots at different locations in next Tuesday's preliminary election, announces City Clerk Joseph Shea.

The location for voters in Precinct 1 has been changed from the Drohan Senior Citizen Facility to the Lincoln Hancock School, Water Street entrance.

The location for Precinct 5 voters has been changed from Lincoln Hancock School to Morrisette Legion Post, 81 Liberty St.

Shea said voters of those two precinct have been notified by mail of the changes and in public notices appearing in this week's Quincy Sun.

Shea said if voters have any questions or wish to verify their registration status, they should call his office or the Board of Registrars at 617-376-1142.

Voters in the city's 28 other precincts will vote in the same locations as they did in the 2002 state primary election.

11 Candidates Not On Next Tuesday's Ballot

Eleven candidates are not on the ballot next Tuesday because they are not in preliminary election contests.

They are:

Council at-large: Councillors Joseph Finn, John F. Keenan and Francis X.

McCauley; Jo-Ann Bragg, Jimmy Liang, Robert Boussy.

Ward 2: Incumbent Daniel Raymondi, unopposed.

Ward 3: Incumbent Kevin Coughlin, John Cain.

Ward 5: Incumbent Douglas Gutro, unopposed.

Seven candidates would be required for a preliminary run-off for school committee. At least three candidates would be needed in each of the wards for council preliminary contests.

These candidates and the nomination winners in next Tuesday's preliminary election for mayor, school committee and Ward 1 and Ward 6 city council will appear on the Nov. 4 final election ballot.

Cain Says He Will Not Accept Contributions

John Cain, candidate for the Ward 3 city council seat, says he will not accept contributions during the campaign.

He said he has also decided not to ask supporters to place campaign signs on lawns and business windows.

He said he will limit signage to an existing banner that will be displayed on specific resident lawns on a scheduled basis around Ward 3.

Cain said he believes it is time to show the voters that a candidate can prove to earn the trust and confidence after elected.

"Many of our residents are frustrated with political promises made by candidates during a campaign and disappointed by their responses, after elected, regarding important resident and business issues," Cain said.

He said he also believes it is time to prove to all voters that everyone will be treated equally, regardless of campaign contributions.

"We must not lose sight of the priorities important to Ward 3 and Quincy residents," Cain said. "Residents want to see a candidate that they have elected be consistent with commitments and promises made during the campaign."

Today is the day to do a good deed.

King's Point Midshipman To Brief '04 Academy Hopefuls

A Cape Cod native who is a senior at the U. S. Merchant Marine Academy at King's Point, N.Y., will brief candidates for appointment to the service academies at a forum tonight (Thursday).

The forum will be hosted by Congressman William Delahunt for the high school students and their families in his district who are interested in attending one of the academies.

The session is scheduled for Marshfield High School from 7 to 9 p.m.

Christian Teague of Yarmouthport, who was nominated for the Maritime Academy by Delahunt three years ago, will share his views of the nomination process and the rigors and rewards of academy life.

Admissions representatives will be on hand from the Military Academy at West Point, N.Y.; the Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md.; the Merchant Marine Academy at King's Point, N.Y., and the Coast Guard Academy at New London, Conn.

Also Norwich University at Northfield, Vt.; and the Massachusetts Maritime Academy at Buzzard's Bay. Officials will also discuss scholarships available in the Reserve Officers Training Corps (ROTC).

Applications are available by calling Delahunt's office at 800-794-9911.

Quincy Choral Society Concert Sept. 21

The Quincy Choral Society will perform a free concert Sunday, Sept. 21, at 7:30 p.m. at Sacred Heart Parish, 386 Hancock St., North Quincy, to honor the 100th anniversary of the parish.

The program is yet to be determined.

The Quincy Choral Society most recently performed a summer concert tour in Scotland. The group, under the direction of John Nichols, presents many of its Quincy concerts at the parish.

The public is invited to attend. Refreshments and fellowship will take place in the lower church following the concert.

Andrew Sweeney On NU Dean's List

Andrew Sweeney of Quincy was named to the Dean's List for the spring quarter at Northeastern University.

He is also involved in Northeastern's honors program.

The License Board took the following action at Tuesday's meeting.

•Granted a Motor II and managers license from Arthur Anderson owner of Sea Street Auto Body to Nghi Nguyen and Vo Tu and transfer of the existing garage repair.

•Granted a check cashing license to assistant manager Ross Mauro, representing Wal-Mart Stores, 301 Falls Blvd. Mauro said it would be used for moneygrams and transfers of money.

•Granted a request for a transfer of the common victualer license of Quincy Market, 33 Washington St. to Chetan Mepani.

•Granted a one day permit for the annual Christmas Fair at Martensen Street Association, 95 Martensen St. Nov. 15.

•Granted a common victualer license to Milton Goodman, owner of the Lolliecup Tea Zone, 219 Quincy Ave. at the Kam Man Mall. They will sell various teas and also have a coffee stand. No food will be served except for some seeds and peanuts.

•Granted a permit to the Quincy Center Business & Professional Association for the 13th annual Harvest Festival, Saturday, Oct. 18 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. (rain date is Oct. 29).

20, and a permit for the fourth annual Joe Conte Memorial Bike-run Sept. 28.

•Granted a request to alter the premises of Jim & Dicks' Restaurant, Inc. doing business as The Original Kelly's, 35-37 Cottage Ave. Owner Richard Kelly said they would take over the former Kip's Hair Salon and add some 45 seats and a small function room.

Over $130,000 Raised

Sixth Marie Curry Walk Is Record Breaker

The sixth annual Marie Curry Walk against breast cancer appears to have been the best ever, both in the number of participants and the amount of funds raised.

The estimated number of 800 to 1,000 walkers set a record for participants and the total donations was expected to top significantly last year's figure of $130,000 with pledges still coming in.

The annual event, co-sponsored by the Quincy Medical Center and the Mayor's Commission on Women, raises money for the Marie A. Curry Fund.

The Fund provides screening and diagnostic mammography and breast care services at Quincy Medical Center to uninsured and underinsured women.

In addition to the four-mile non-competitive walk, largely along Quincy Shore Drive, the day included family festivities at Pageant Field in Merrymount Park.

Events included the singing of the National Anthem by State Police Sergeant Daniel Clark, breakfast and lunch donated by Dunkin' Donuts and Outback Steakhouse and music by DJ Suzie Cue.

A highlight of the day was the second annual "Images of Honor and Memory" visual tribute.

During the tribute, a dramatic path of pink and white sand-filled containers filled the Ruth Gordon Amphitheater as more than 500 containers, inscribed with the name of a person being remembered, represented the impact cancer has had on individuals and families living on the South Shore.

The Marie A. Curry Fund and Walk are named for one of them who died of breast cancer in 1995. Her husband, Bob Curry, chairman of the Board of Trustees of Quincy Medical Center, started the Fund.

Donations to the Marie A. Curry Fund can be sent to the Quincy Medical Center Foundation, 114 Whitwell St., Quincy, MA 02169.

AN ECUMENICAL SERVICE was held at the Ruth Gordon Amphitheater before the start of the Marie Curry Walk. Participants included the Rev. Esther Bowen, Director Pastoral Care at Quincy Medical Center; Sister Joanne Westwater, Good Shepherd's Maria Droste Services; Allen So, Interpreter Services Coordinator at Quincy Medical Center; Venerable Fung Yin, Chinese Buddhist; Fr. Peter Martocchio, St. Jerome's Church, Weymouth; Rabbi Tamar Crystal, Temple Shalom, Milton; Venerable Thjeh Thien Hue, Vietnamese Buddhist; and Imam Telal Eid, Islamic Center of New England in Quincy Point.

QUINCY SCHOOL TEACHER Tricia Bouzan and her son, Marcus, 10 months, were among those taking part in the walk.

Affordable Housing Units

20 Families 'Hit Lottery' For Faxon Woods Apartments

Twenty area families, including 14 from Quincy, hit the lottery recently when they were chosen to rent affordable housing apartments at the Highlands at Faxon Woods.

Sponsored by the developer, Roseland Property Co., and the Quincy Affordable Housing Trust, the lottery drawing was held last week at City Hall. It marked the first time a developer has been able to utilize the city's new Inclusionary Zoning Ordinance.

Council President Dan Raymondi, Ward 1 Councillor Greg Hanley, Councillor at-Large Joe Finn and Thomas Largey, the mayor's executive secretary, were among those who participated in the drawing. The selected households remained confidential and will be notified by mail.

"This is called hitting the lottery," said Largey. "This is a good thing for the city. This lets people have affordable housing that need it and deserve it."

The Highlands at Faxon Woods is an apartment community with 196 one- and two-bedroom apartments.

"So much hard work has gone into creating the Affordable Housing Trust and now it is bearing fruit for those in need of affordable housing," said Finn, chairman of the council's housing committee. "The Highlands at Faxon Woods is the first project completed under the ordinance and the beginning of many new affordable housing units for our community."

The city implemented the Inclusionary Zoning Ordinance as a means of creating more affordable housing. The ordinance requires developers to request a variance or special permit for a housing development of 10 or more units and provide 10 percent of all units as affordable or create off-site affordable units as a condition of the variance or permit.

"This proactive step by the city will ultimately create housing opportunities for low and moderate-income individuals and families, and demonstrates the city's commitment to addressing its resident's housing needs," said Mayor William Phelan.

Roseland Property placed ads in local newspapers seeking applicants for these units during July and August and screened the applications received for eligibility. Approximately 75 families applied to live in the apartments.

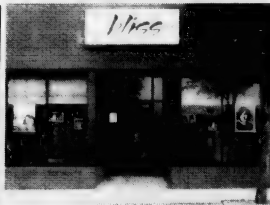

Raymondi said the city council deserves credit for initiating and passing the ordinance.

"The council's vote to approve this ordinance allows many working families to realize their dream of renting or owning affordable property in the city," he said. "There are a number of hard working families within the city that are having a difficult time making ends meet, given the high cost of rental property. This allows them to secure affordable housing within the city."

The kids are back in school.
Now Mom's real vacation begins.

Most Quincy Welfare Office Clients Will Be Transferred To Roxbury

Most of the Quincy clients of the soon-to-be vacated Quincy office of the Department of Transitional Assistance (the Welfare office) will be transferred to a Roxbury office in Newmarket Square, Boston.

Aid recipients from other towns on the South Shore will be shifted to offices in Brockton and Dorchester when the Quincy office is closed in mid-November as part of a state-wide economy move.

Shutting down the Quincy Welfare office is calculated to save the financially strapped state of Massachusetts some $360,000.

But none of the 64 members of the staff will lose their jobs when the office at 1515 Hancock St. is closed and nearly 2,500 clients shifted to other offices.

Letters with directions on how to find their new offices will be mailed to each client in late October.

Members of the staff at the Quincy office will be parceled out among the Brockton, Roxbury and Dorchester offices and the Fall River and Malden offices which handle mostly cases by mail and telephone.

Closing the Quincy welfare office is part of Gov. Mitt Romney's plan to save the state $2.3 million in fiscal 2004 by closing and consolidating 36 of 164 local health and social services offices around the state.

REAL ESTATE

But Agents Retain Vital Role

Study: More Buyers Using Internet In Home Search

By CHRISTOPHER HARADEN

Although an ever-increasing number of buyers use the Internet to search for homes for sale, real estate agents remain the number-one source for information about available properties, according to a new study by the National Association of Realtors.

A record 86 percent of respondents to a national survey said they relied on real estate agents, while yard signs were the second most popular source of information at 69 percent.

Most significantly, the Internet topped newspaper advertisements for the first time since NAR has compiled its annual "Profile of Home Buyers and Sellers," with 65 percent of those surveyed saying they searched for homes online. Newspaper ads were used by 49 percent of buyers, according to the study.

"Use of the Internet in the home-search process is popular," the NAR reported. "Forty-two percent of buyers used the Internet frequently in their search for a home, and 11 percent found the home they ultimately purchased on the Internet."

In comparison, only 2 percent of those surveyed by NAR in 1995 said they relied on the Internet for help during the search for a new home.

Newspaper advertising, traditionally a mainstay of the home-buying process, still ranks high as an information source with about half of the buyers in the study. Nearly as many - 48 percent - said open houses were a key component, while other buyers said they discovered homes for sale from builders (37 percent), "home books" or magazines (35 percent), television (22 percent) and relocation companies (14 percent).

NAR's study found that average homebuyers in 2003 are around 40 years old, married with no children living in the home, and had a median income of $66,300. Forty percent of all buyers were first-timers, and the typical purchaser walked through 10 houses during an eight-week period before finding the home they ultimately purchased.

Around 60 percent of purchasers were repeat buyers, selling their current home as they traded up to a new property. Fourteen percent of sellers sold their homes without using a real estate professional; one third of these sellers thought "understanding and completing the necessary paperwork was the most difficult task" of completing a for-sale-by-owner transaction.

For those choosing to sell their homes through a real estate agent, 62 percent said an agent's reputation was the most important factor in the selection process. Seventy percent of sellers reported that they would definitely use the same agent in their next sale, or would recommend the agent to a friend. Among buyers, 89 percent said they would definitely use, or consider using, the same agent again.

Although NAR's study clearly indicates that the Internet is now an established part of real estate transactions nationally, the report reaches a surprising conclusion - realty agents are more important than ever.

Internet-savvy buyers said they used an agent more often than non-Internet buyers (78 percent to 68 percent), and took longer to choose a new house - 8 weeks compared with 5 weeks - than their off-line counterparts.

"As helpful a tool as the World Wide Web is for homebuyers, Internet-searching buyers still rely on the real estate professionals in their home purchase transaction," the survey concluded. "In fact, online buyers were actually more likely to use a real estate professional than were non-Internet buyers."

Christopher Haraden is director of public relations for Norwell-based Jack Conway & Co., the Bay State's largest privately owned realty firm. He has been a reporter and editor for various real estate publications, including Banker & Tradesman and Boston Homes: The Complete Guide.

Mortgage Purchasing Tips From Mass. Bankers Assn.

The Massachusetts Bankers Association offers these tips if you're borrowing for a new home or if you haven't refinanced yet.

Before Borrowing

- Eliminate Debt: Get rid of or reduce as much existing debt as possible. This will make you a better borrowing candidate and improve your credit score.

- Get a credit report: Request your credit report from one of the credit agencies and review it carefully. Clear up any discrepancies before applying for a new loan.

- Put off major purchases: Delay any other major purchases to be made with debt for the time being.

- Shop Around: Beware of unseemly tactics. Use caution when you see interest rates that are too good to be true.

- Price vs. service: Ask yourself, "What's more important to me, saving a few dollars or getting the best service?" Try to get both, or reach a happy medium.

- What can you afford? Most experts (and your lender) believe you can probably afford a house that costs up to 2 1/2 times your annual gross income. If you are buying with a spouse or partner, add in his or her income to arrive at the total. Still, there are a lot of other factors that will count toward the qualification: how much cash you have available for a down payment and closing costs, the amount of debt you have and your credit history.

- Pre-qualification: Some banks give you the opportunity to become pre-qualified so that you know before you begin home shopping just how much home that you can afford. It also tells sellers that you are serious and can work in your favor in a competitive bidding situation.

- The down payment: Many lenders have special programs for first timers - see if you might qualify. Generally, the granting of mortgage depends on the amount of money you have for the down payment and closing costs. The bigger the down payment the more affordable the mortgage payments will be.

- Debt vs. income: General rules for earnings and debt: Most lenders want your prospective mortgage payments, property taxes, insurance and any other related housing costs not to exceed 28 percent of your monthly gross income. The sum of all debt should not exceed 35 to 40 percent of your monthly gross.

- Home-owning benefits: Besides building equity in a home, what may be the best part of paying down a mortgage is that it is one of the few consumer debts that the government gives you the opportunity to deduct on your taxes - the interest, that is. Consult with an expert, some of the other deductible items may be the points you pay at closing and certain property taxes.

- Beware of over-leveraging: The investment in your own home over time will appreciate and build equity for you, making it possible and more affordable to finance other purchases or to borrow for a car or for college education. Exercise caution, however, in doing so you are further leveraging the roof over your head.

- Weekly, bi-monthly and pre-payments: Most mortgages require monthly payments. However, if you are able to make weekly or bi-monthly payments you could pay off your mortgage much sooner and save thousands of dollars over the life of the loan. This can be done formally, according to a plan that you and your bank create, or rather informally if you choose to occasionally send extra money beyond what is your regular mortgage payment. Inquire with your lender about its rules regarding these methods that can save you a lot of money.

- Lock-in: When you contact a lender ask them about their ability to lock-in the current interest rate until closing. This way, if during the closing period rates go up, you will have "locked-in" a lower rate.

- Float down: Ask the lender if it has a float-down provision that can lower your interest rate in the period before closing if rates drop - saving you more money.

- Closing period: Most lenders have a standard closing period, either 30 or 45 days. You might want to look for a longer period to give you and your lender more time to prepare to close on your loan.

- Escrows: Some lenders will require you to place extra money up front to cover one year's worth of homeowners insurance or three months of property taxes. You should have a preference going into the transaction based upon your own needs.

- Save on closing costs: Ask your lender if it will allow you to hire your own appraiser, inspector and title company (attorney), and if this will save you money. If you are refinancing, using the title company that handled your loan the last time may lead to a significant savings.

- Private mortgage insurance (PMI): If you do not have 20 percent of the value of your new home for a down payment, your lender may ask you to pay mortgage insurance. This is standard operating procedure and you need to budget for it. Then, as you build up equity in your home, keep track of it and don't forget to notify the lender that you wish to stop the payments when your equity hits the 20 percent mark. If you think you fall into the category of a low-to-moderate-income wage earner, ask your lender about the SoftSecond Mortgage Program that could eliminate your need for PMI.

Red Raiders Hope To Take Another Stride

By CHRIS POISSON

As far as Tony Green is concerned, the North Quincy High School football team is right on schedule in his third year as head coach.

Although they may not make the jump to contender this year, Green expects to field a competitive team that will make another stride in the rebuilding process.

The Red Raiders have seven wins in his first two years, more than doubled the previous two seasons combined. And the program has seen an increase in numbers, which should be felt in the next couple of years.

"I'm in my third year of rebuilding and we've added more wins every year and added more numbers of kids to the program every year," Green said. "Everything is really building up nice. We're right where we should be."

North Quincy kicks off the season Saturday afternoon at 1:30 at non-league opponent Boston Latin, which it routed, 34-7, in last year's opener.

"Latin, I've heard, is going to be young," Green said. "They'll be using a spread offense, single back, probably throwing the ball all over the place. They'll be well-coached. They'll be tough. I expect a good game. We're going to their place so I'm sure they'll all be fired up."

As for the rest of the schedule, excluding the Thanksgiving Day game, North Quincy has only three home games: Falmouth Oct. 3, Taunton Oct. 18 and Bridgewater-Raynham Nov. 7.

North Quincy dropped Cohasset, an away game last year, from its schedule and added Canton Nov. 15. Since it played Canton at home two years ago, it has to play them on the road this season.

"It just worked out that way," said Green of the schedule. "It's tough. We always play better at the stadium. It's a place where the kids get excited playing in front of the North Quincy fans."

The Red Raiders graduated 20 seniors from last year's squad and have 15 on the roster this season, only three of whom have some varsity experience. On both sides of the ball, they'll be rotating two to three players at most positions.

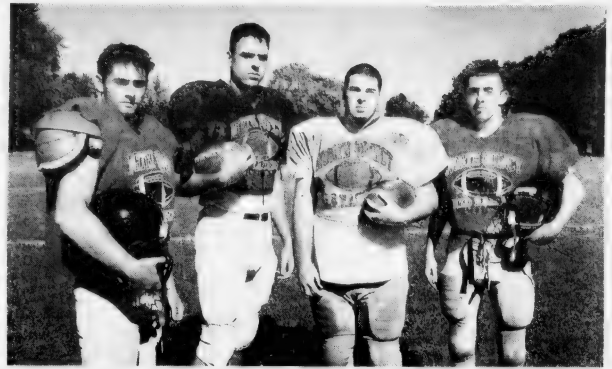

"We're going to be very, very young," Green said. "We don't really have any superstars, but we have a good nucleus of players and a lot of them are at the same level of maturity, and physically."

"We're going to do a lot of rotating this year. Right now, the first, second and third teams will see a lot of playing time. We'll have a rotation to keep everybody fresh and give everybody a chance to play."

Offensively, North Quincy will feature a running, ball-control style. Senior quarterback and quarterback Jimmy Burke will direct the unit and will be asked to make plays with his arm and legs.

"He throws well and runs even better," Green said.

SPORTS

Point Panthers Win Opener, 18-6

The Quincy Point Panthers opened their season with an 18-6 victory over the North Quincy Apaches in Quincy Youth Football action.

After a scoreless first quarter, the Panthers had two second-quarter touchdown runs from Cliff Celeste to take a 12-0 lead at halftime.

The Panthers scored on their first possession of the second half on a 40-yard scamper by Demarkis Alexander.

The Panthers featured a host of running backs, including Zach Ohlson, Paris Amado, Gary Richards, Danny Sabin, and outstanding backfield blocking by Daron Jones.

The quarterback duties were shared by Doug Scott and Aaron Cook, who did a precision-like job directing the offense.

The story of the day, however, was the Panthers' defense. Led by ends Michael Wright and Celeste, the Panthers were able to stifle the Apaches' offense until the final play of the game when the Apaches hooked up for a touchdown pass in the corner of the end zone.

Also making important tackles throughout the game were linebackers Jones, Cook and Brendan Cronin. David Marx played well on both sides of the ball.

QHS Boys' Soccer Team Car Wash Saturday

The Quincy High School boys' soccer team will hold a car wash Saturday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Central Middle School.

'We'll Be Competitive,' Coach Martin Says

Quincy Girls Open With Impressive Win, 3-0

The Quincy High School girls' soccer team opened its season last Friday night with an impressive 3-0 victory at Hull.

Sophomore Courtney Hall tallied all three goals for the hat trick and senior goal-keeper and quad captain Sarah Shea notched the shut-out. Senior quad captains Jessica Carella and Karla Saxe and junior defender Marissa Powers registered assists.

"This varsity team is a great mix of freshmen, sophomores, juniors and seniors," said head coach Don Martin. "We have several players who have played at the varsity level for three and four years along with fresh young talent that will do the same. This year the Quincy High School team will be very competitive."

Quincy hosted Somerville Monday, battled city rival North Quincy yesterday (Wednesday) and will travel to Whitman-Hanson Friday afternoon.

Martin noted there has been a lot of interest in the team and the number of skilled players has increased. "Freshman Deven Cahill has experience beyond her years and can play any position on the field, but will start as a forward," he said.

Cahill will be joined in the front line by Hall, senior Katie Kistelius, junior Katie Connolly, sophomore Danielle Rand and freshmen Krystine Kelly and Sarah Stewart.

Martin is pleased with the performance of Lisa McKeon and Jessica Page, sophomores starting at midfield. "These two came in at pre-season camp and made an immediate impact by their hard work and determination," he said. "They have outstanding attitudes and are both consummate team players."

Other midfielders include Chrissey Brewster, Donika Hajrizaj, Kerry Mormino and freshman Katherine Shea, who settled things down at the outside mid position against Hull.

Quad-captain Colleen Martin has fully recovered from an injury and is back playing center midfield. Martin said her ball skills and field vision will be important in the Presidents' success this season.

The defensive unit is strong and experienced. The group includes seniors Fionnula Bohan, Jessica Carella, Sherry MacKenzie, juniors Marissa Powers and Katie Walsh, sophomore Marissa Monaco and Saxe, a two-time league all-star.

Keepers include Shea, Stephanie Kozlowski and Brianna Nolan.

Assistant coach Robin Franceschini has rejoined the team after a brief absence. Martin said she brings tremendous experience to the junior varsity team because she has coached at the varsity level and is a former college goalkeeper.

Final Registration For Quincy Legion Fall Baseball

Final registration is being held for the Quincy Legion fall baseball program.

There are a few spaces left, which will be filled on a first-come, first-serve basis. Registration can be done by phone. Call Mark Jaehrig, program director, at 617-472-3311. Cost is $50 per player.

The six-week program is open to any player, ages 7-17, who wants to improve their baseball skills by playing more games in a competitive and fun atmosphere.

Jaehrig and Lenny Seitz, the current manager and coach of Quincy Legion baseball, are directing the program.

There are four divisions:

- Ages 7-10 will play Tuesdays and Thursdays from 4 to 6 p.m. at Faxon Park.

- Ages 10-11 will play Tuesdays and Thursdays from 4 to 6 at Faxon Park.

- Ages 12-14 will play Saturdays from 1 to 3:30 p.m. at O'Rourke Field.

- Ages 15-17 will play Saturdays from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. at O'Rourke Field.

8-Year-Old Travel Baseball First In Friendship League

The Quincy 8 year old travel baseball team, sponsored by Councillor Kevin Coughlin, recently captured first place in the Friendship League.

Quincy went a perfect 8-0 in the regular season, marking the first year it has ever won the division title since the league began over eight years ago.

Quincy went 2-1 in the playoffs, losing to a tough

Weymouth team, 5-4, in extra innings in the championship game.

The Friendship League includes teams from Cohasset, Weymouth, Braintree and Whitman.

Quincy Players Compete In Cooperstown Tournament

Quincy residents Michael Horgan, Ricky Salvucci and Joey Vialpando, members of the Eastern Massachusetts All-Star 12-year-old baseball team, recently returned from a trip to New York where they competed in the Cooperstown Dream Park North American Tournament.

The team enjoyed a successful trip, posting a 6-3 record, earning the No. 13 seed out of 65 teams and reaching the Sweet 16 before losing to eventual finalist Corona Yankees (Calif.) on the tourney's final day. It marked the second time a Massachusetts team made it that far.

Horgan was one of the team's top pitchers, logging a 2-0 record while posting a 2.08 ERA and earning the save in a 6-2 win over the Dupage Diamondbacks (Ill.). Horgan had an on-base percentage of .438 and homered against the Yankees.

Salvucci posted a team-high 14 hits (.583 average), 13 runs scored and .704 on-base percentage. He went deep against the Long Island Lightning, collected five doubles, swiped six bases, had five multi-hit games and went 3-for-3 against Team New Jersey.

Vialpando hit a pair of home runs, including one in the team's first at-bat of the tourney against Long Island. He hit .364, stole six bases and played well as a catcher.

Recreation Department Women's Fitness Classes Start Sept. 22

The Quincy Recreation Department will conduct women's fitness classes at the Fore River Clubhouse beginning Monday, Sept. 22 and ending Nov. 7.

Registration costs $42 and will be taken in person at the clubhouse Sept. 22 and 23 at the time of the classes. Late registration will be done at the main office of the Quincy Recreation Department, One Merrymount Parkway.

The classes are designed to strengthen muscle, increase flexibility and improve endurance while promoting overall fitness.

Two instructors will lead the programs. On Monday, Wednesday and Friday, the classes will be directed by Karen Gaughan. On Tuesday and Thursday, the classes will be directed by Sarah Cobban.

On Monday, Wednesday and Friday, there are separate classes offered at 8:15 a.m. and 9:15 a.m. with the same level of instruction offered at each time. There will be one class on Tuesday and Thursday that will be held at 9 a.m., featuring bone and muscle strengthening with weights for seniors.

ELECTRIFYING NEWS

Auto experts expect that the present 12-volt car battery will soon be replaced with a 42-V model. It is predicted that half of all new vehicles will incorporate 42-V batteries by 2010, and 100% will have the technology by 2020. Engineers have cited many reasons for the imminent change, beginning with fuel economy and reduced emissions. A 42-V setup is seen as an enabler for such features as "idle stop," in which a vehicle's engine would shut down at traffic lights, saving gas and reducing pollutants. Beyond fuel economy and emission reduction, 42-V architectures are seen as a necessity for such features as variable valve timing, electric power steering and braking, dynamic suspensions, heated steering wheels and windshield.

September Is National Ovarian Cancer Awareness Month Until There's A Test, Awareness Best

Ovarian cancer is still the deadliest of the gynecological cancers and is often thought of as a silent killer even in the medical community.

However, women who are aware of this cancer's symptoms and discover the disease early can fight and defeat this covert enemy.

According to the American Cancer Society, an estimated 25,400 American women will be diagnosed with ovarian cancer in 2003, and 14,300 are expected to die from the disease.

The five-year survival rate for patients whose disease is detected in late stages is only 25 percent, yet if diagnosed before the cancer has spread outside the ovaries, a woman's chance for five-year survival rises to 90 percent. Therefore, early recognition of symptoms and early diagnosis can significantly increase the patient's survival rate.

"It is imperative for women to be aware of the risk factors for ovarian cancer," said Afshin Bahador, M.D., director of Gynecological Oncology at City of Hope Cancer Center in Los Angeles, Calif. "Women over the age of 50, those with a personal or family history of ovarian, breast, colon or uterine cancer and women who have not had children have an increased risk of the disease."

September is National Ovarian Cancer Awareness Month. Ovarian cancer does not have a reliable screening tool, so paying attention to changes in one's body can lead to the early diagnosis that is crucial for successful treatment.

Know the symptoms:

- Abdominal pressure, bloating or discomfort.
- Constipation, diarrhea or frequent urination.
- Nausea, indigestion or gas.
- Abnormal vaginal bleeding.
- Unusual fatigue or backaches.
- Unexplained weight loss or gain.

• Shortness of breath. If these symptoms are unusual and persist for more than two weeks, women are advised to see a doctor. To aid diagnosis, Dr. Bahador suggests combining a pelvic/rectal exam with a CA 125 blood test and a transvaginal sonogram.

Also, treatment by a gynecologic oncologist, an obstetrician/gynecologist who specializes in the diagnosis and treatment of women with cancer of the reproductive organs, has been shown to increase survival significantly.

For more information about ovarian cancer, contact the Ovarian Cancer National Alliance at 202-331-1332 or visit www.ovariancancer.org.

South Shore Authors Share 'Weight Wisdom'

Kathleen Burns Kingsbury of Quincy has co-authored a book entitled "Weight Wisdom: Affirmations To Free You From Food and Body Concerns," recently published by Brunner-Routledge in New York, N.Y.

Kingsbury and co-author Mary Ellen Williams, both members of the South Shore Eating Disorders Collaborative, are specialists in the field of eating disorders treatment and prevention.

In "Weight Wisdom," Williams and Kingsbury draw on their therapeutic experience to equip readers with simple reflections, vignettes and everyday analogies that they have successfully used with their own clients to counter destructive feelings and shatter distorted ideas of food and weight.

The affirmations include advice such as "Fat is not a feeling," "You are not your dress size" and "Slips don't always lead to slides." Each entry is followed by a concrete activity to help people with eating problems get off the scale, get in touch with their feelings and make friends with their bodies.

Also included in "Weight Wisdom" are insights to guide friends and family members as well as healthcare professionals in working with weight-obsessed individuals. The appendix of the book provides a listing of helpful resources related to eating disorders and their treatment.

For more information about the book, contact Brunner-Routledge at 1-800-634-7064.

Dealing With School Anxiety

By ALAN JACOBSEN

Psy.D.

Licensed Psychologist

From the kindergarten trudging off with her first little backpack to the college freshman leaving home for the first time, children and their parents often are anxious at the start of school.

The way in which families deal with the anxiety can have a big impact on the child's start of the school year. For students of all ages, parents need to take the lead in smoothing the transition from summer vacation to September classes.

Here are some tips that should help:

For Young Children:

Begin a Regular Schedule

About two weeks before school starts, begin a schedule adjustment for your child. Those wonderful long summer evenings with cook-outs on the beach need to be shortened. Bedtime needs to be closer to the school bedtime, and it needs to be predictable each night. By the time the first day of school dawns, the child should have a regular pattern established.

Keep Your Own Anxiety in Check

Some parents feel anxious at the start of school because they are relinquishing control to another adult in another setting. If an anxious parent projects anxiety on their child, the problem becomes much worse, so whatever anxiety you feel as a parent, try not to show it in front of your child.

Talk to the Teacher

If your young child is feeling anxious, do whatever you can to reassure him and prepare him. But if you sense that his anxiety is still with him on the first day of school, don't hesitate to tell his teacher how he's feeling. Even let the school nurse know, so that if an anxiety-related symptom comes up, she's aware of how he started his day. Some parents feel that ignoring school anxiety will make it disappear, but this can do a disservice to your child. Pay attention to his concerns early on and it's very likely that in a few days he'll feel better.

For Adolescents:

Pre-adolescents and adolescents want to fit in. Their anxieties at this stage may manifest as depression, sleep problems, rapid mood changes, irritability, lack of cooperation, poor appetite, or crying. The need is still there to set limits, and the decisions regarding limit-setting are getting more complicated. This is a time when open communication is difficult, but critically important.

Most school anxiety is normal. A child who experiences school anxiety and deals with it successfully learns adaptive behaviors to stress, which will stay with him his whole life.

Alan Jacobsen is a licensed psychologist with Bayview Associates, a program of South Shore Mental Health.

MOUTH SORES

Nearly everyone experiences an occasional sore on the lips, tongue, gums, roof of the mouth, or the inner cheeks. Depending on the cause, it may go away with time or successfully be treated with over-the-counter drugs. Most common mouth sores, such as canker sores, heal within 7-10 days. A mouth sore that has not healed within two weeks may signal a more serious problem requiring medical attention. Causes can include an infection or frequent contact with an irritant, such as a jagged tooth, which may prevent it from healing. Other times, a sore in the mouth may be an early sign of cancer. A thickened white or red patch in the mouth should be assessed by the dentist.

Canker sores are not thought to be contagious. We are at the leading edge of dental technology. Your positive attitude towards your dental health is the key to successful dental care. Let us help you appreciate fine dentistry and make your dental visits enjoyable. We're located at 44 Greenleaf Street, where we offer complete dental care for the entire family. We offer the services of anesthesiology and a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. When was the last time you had a professional dental evaluation. Call us today at 617-479-6220 and schedule an appointment. Our web address is www.quincydentist.com.

P.S. Other possible signs of oral cancer include a small, pale lump or discolored thickening along the side or bottom of the tongue; inside the cheeks; or on the floor of the mouth, the gums, or the roof of the mouth.

RELIGION

Wollaston Congregational

Wollaston Congregational Church, 48 Winthrop Ave., will celebrate Rally Day Sunday at the 10 a.m. worship service and Sunday School this Sunday.

There will be a dedication of the Sunday School teachers, Chuck Wiot, Christian Oster, Annie Channon, David Holland, Gus Oster, Arthur Barrett, Jordan Oster and Cheryl Riley.

There will also be a ribbon cutting ceremony and dedication of a new wheelchair ramp recently installed this summer. The ramp was a donation from Mrs. Dorothy Carter, the longest standing member of the church.

Plans are ongoing for the service and celebration of the installation of Rev. MaryLou Gifford as the permanent, full-time pastor of Wollaston Congregational Church on Sunday, Sept. 28 at 3 p.m.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

GRANDMOTHER'S ARE SPECIAL!

... A grandmother is a lady who has no children of her own, so she likes other people's children. A grandfather is a man grandmother. Grandmothers don't have to do anything except to be there. They are old, so they shouldn't play hard or run. It is enough if they drive us to the market where the pretend horse is and have lots of dinner ready for us. They take us for walks and show us things like pretty leaves and caterpillars. They never say "hurry up." Sometimes they are fat, but not too fat to tie kid's shoes. They wear glasses and they can take their teeth and gums off. It is better they don't typewrite or play cards with anyone but us. They don't have to be smart; only answer questions like why dogs hate cats or why God isn't married. They don't baby-talk like visitors do because it is hard to understand. When they read to us they don't skip words or mind if it is the same story again. Everybody should try to have a grandmother, especially if they don't have television, because grandmas are the only grown-ups who have got time. ... And this, of course, goes for grandpas, too. ...

We wanted to share this with you. It was given to us by a friend who clipped it from a club bulletin. ... Enjoy it? We did!

HERE IS A PLEASANT LITTLE GAME that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner and check one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

INTERESTING TOWN NAMES IN MONTANA

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) With your Anan charm quotient at an almost all-time high this week, plus all the facts to back you up, you just might win over the last doubters to your proposal.
TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You might be in line for that job change you applied for. But be advised that you could be called on to defend your qualifications against supporters of other applicants.
GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Creating a new approach to an old idea is one way to get beyond that workplace impasse. No such problems in your personal life, where things continue to flow smoothly.
CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Be more forthcoming about your feelings concerning a proposed change either in your workplace or in your personal life. Your opinions are valuable. Don't keep them hidden.
LEO (July 23 to August 22) A changing situation in your life needs more patience than you appear to be willing to offer. Allowing it to develop at its own pace is the wisest course you can take at this time.
VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) With more stability in your life — on both personal and professional levels — this could be a good time to strengthen relationships with both friends and colleagues.
LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) People have always relied on your integrity not only to get the job done, but to get it done right. So don't be pressured by anyone into cutting corners to save time.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) While others might get rattled over unexpected changes, your ability to adapt calmly and competently helps you make a positive impression during a crucial period.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) A changing environment might be daunting for some, but the adventurous Sagittarian takes it all in stride. A friend from the past could awaken some meaningful memories.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) With your self-assurance rising to full strength, the bold Goat should feel confident about opening up to new ventures as well as new relationships.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Reaching out to someone who has been unkind to you might not be easy. But in the long run it will prove to have been the right thing to do. A friend offers moral support.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Your keen insight once again helps you work through a seemingly insoluble problem in your workplace. The weekend offers a good chance to develop new relationships.

BORN THIS WEEK: You have a penchant for finding details that others would overlook. You would make a fine research scientist.

Quincy Teen Mothers Program Annual Golf Tournament Sept. 29

The Quincy Teen Mothers Program will hold its third annual golf tournament Monday, Sept. 29, at Granite Links Golf Club at Quarry Hills Golf Course.

Registration will begin at 7:45 a.m. followed by an 8:30 a.m. shotgun start.

All golfers must be pre-registered and paid by tomorrow (Friday). Cost is $100 per person, which includes 18 holes of golf, cart, continental breakfast, steak or pork chop dinner at Quincy Elks, prizes and also a chance to win a new car provided by South Shore Ford of Rockland on a hole-in-one event.

All net revenues from the tournament will benefit the Quincy Teen Mothers Program, a non-profit organization. The program is an alternative program for pregnant girls and young mothers, which allows them to finish high school while being provided with free daycare, parenting classes and counseling.

For more information contact Janice Walsh at 617-984-8704 or Steve Moynihan at 617-472-2889.

"We're going to be a running team and we're expecting Jimmy Burke to run with the ball. We're counting on Jimmy. He could be a very successful quarterback."

Burke's targets include senior Kellan Losi, junior first-year player Rob Gardner and sophomore Benson Luc as the wide receivers and junior Alex Tringale, sophomore John Eaton and Losi as the ends.

Defensively, the Red Raiders will run a 4-3 and would like to play more conservative. "We could play it safe and play the bend-but-don't-break philosophy," Green said. "We would like to do that, but we're going to have to see the complexion of the game to see if we should be taking more chances."

Powers, sophomore Anthony Walsh and Ochoa are the nose guards and the defensive tackles are Maloof, Vellinueva and Sommers. Russo, senior Chris O'Brien

Linebackers are Tringale, junior Tim Kennedy and senior Ben Kelleher at strong side; Neves and Regan at middle; and Wong, Benjamin and sophomore Steve Spring at weak side.

Gardner and Losi are the starting cornerbacks with senior Dave Djerf and sophomore Jade Pina coming off the bench. Senior Sean McCormack and sophomore Joe Yee are the free safeties and senior first-year player Pat O'Donnell and McAllister are strong safeties.

"We have a fantastic group of kids," Green said. "The best kids I've ever coached. Their character is great. They're willing to learn and are absorbing everything we're teaching them. We could be competitive this year if things come together."

Men's Basketball At YMCA

The South Shore YMCA, 79 Coddington St., Quincy, will offer a men's basketball league beginning in the fall. Registration is today (Thursday) and the season begins Sept. 18. The season is open to eight to 12 teams. Games will be played Thursday and Friday evenings.

PRAYER TO THE BLESSED VIRGIN (Never Known To Fail)

"Oh, most beautiful flower of Mt. Carmel, Fruitful vine, splendor of heaven, Blessed Mother of the Son of God, Immaculate Virgin, assist me in my necessity. Oh, Star of the Sea, help me and show me, herein you are my Mother, Oh, Holy Mary, Mother of God, Queen of Heaven and Earth! I humbly beseech you from the bottom of my heart to succor me in this necessity. There are none that can withstand your power. Oh, show me herein that you are my Mother, Oh, Mary, conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to thee (3X). Holy Mother, I place this cause in your hands (3X). Holy Spirit, you who solve all problems, light roads so that I can attain my goal. You gave me divine gift to forgive and forget all evil against me and that in all instances in my life you are with me. I want in this short prayer to thank you for all the things as you confirm once again that I never want to be separated from you in eternal glory. Thank you for your mercy toward me and mine." The person must say this prayer 3 consecutive days. After 3 days, the request will be granted. This prayer must be published after the favor is granted. Thank you.

Please Vote To Re-Elect Mayor Bill Phelan – September 16, 2003

He's moving Quincy forward!

In the city's worst fiscal crisis in decades, Mayor Bill Phelan has kept his promise to be a fighter for us, for a change.

Bill has brought real reform, fiscal stability, and accountability to City Hall.

Despite inheriting a huge deficit, he balanced the budget, strengthened public safety, and protected our kids' schools...all without a Prop. 2-1/2 tax override.

And while other cities closed schools, Mayor Phelan has maintained small classes and even increased this year's school budget!

Fresh ideas & a new openness.

Mayor Phelan sets aside one afternoon each week just to listen to citizens' questions, complaints and ideas, and he's made government more responsive.

And Bill's new ideas have saved taxpayers money:

By renegotiating the Quarry Hills Golf Course deal, the Mayor secured millions to repair streets and sidewalks;

Bill's using the hotel room tax to fund his plan to preserve more open space and improve parks and playing fields.

Mayor Phelan is getting the job done.
Help Bill move Quincy forward!

Take Nothing For Granted Residents Urged Though Storm Expected To Weaken

City Readies For Isabel

By WILLIAM TRAYNOR

The city is ready to absorb any punches dished out by the remnants of Hurricane Isabel, according to Mayor William Phelan's office.

"We have a pretty good program in place," said Tom Largey, Phelan's executive secretary. "The city is well prepared to deal with whatever Mother Nature serves up."

Largey said the mayor has been meeting with public safety officials - Police, Fire, Emergency Management, Parks and DPW - to ensure the city is prepared for the hurricane, which is expected to weaken considerably by the time it impacts Quincy.

As The Sun went to press, forecasters predicted the hurricane would strike well to the south late today (Thursday) or early tomorrow (Friday) along the mid-Atlantic coast, probably in North Carolina or Virginia.

Regardless, residents should take nothing for granted and stay prepared, said Tom Gorman, director of the Emergency Management Department.

Unless Hurricane Isabel makes a dramatic shift to the east, Quincy residents should not have to worry about dealing with the fury of a tremendous storm, according to Gorman.

"At this point it looks as though Quincy will get some windy and rainy weather on Friday, but nothing worse than a typical Nor'Easter," said Gorman.

Based on the most up-to-date forecast from the National Weather Service, Gorman said some minor flooding could impact low lying areas. Depending on the strength of the winds, a sporadic power outage is also possible, he said.

"From all indications, by the time this hurricane gets to this area it will be downgraded significantly, possibly to a category 1 or 2 hurricane," he said.

Gorman said the storm should not cause a problem with tides either, since it is expected to hit the area late tonight (Thursday) and early tomorrow (Friday). High tide is expected at 6 a.m. tomorrow morning. The storm should miss the high tides, Gorman said.

"We are not expecting a big storm surge," said Gorman. "If the storm decides to hug the coast things might be different."

To prepare for any possible problems, residents should stock up on plenty of batteries for portable radios and flashlights, Gorman said. In addition, he said residents should bring in lawn furniture and anything that may act as a projectile during a storm.

Gorman also cautioned residents to park their vehicles away from trees, in case of high winds.

Those who own boats should make sure they are well secured, he said. Otherwise, it's a good idea to take boats out of the water for the time being, he said.

Gorman said the Quincy High

Mayor William Phelan cruised to a nomination for a second term with Joseph Newton nailing down the second spot in Tuesday's preliminary election.

Phelan racked up 68 percent of the vote to Newton's 27 percent. Phelan's vote was 8,594 to Newton's 3,384.

Businessman Harvey Kertzman, making his first run for office, finished a far-behind third with 569 votes or just under five percent.

Just less than 25 percent of the city's 52,229 registered voters - 12,747 - cast ballots.

"I would like to thank the voters for their overwhelming support," a pleased Phelan said. "I pledge to continue to move Quincy forward as I have tried to do all along."

Newton, a two-term Ward 6 councillor, who got into the mayor's race as a last minute candidate, vowed to carry on his campaign to Nov. 4.

"I think we have done a heck of a job considering we had $10,000 to spend in six weeks. We did well considering we went up against an incumbent with a huge campaign war chest.

"I would like to thank all my supporters for their tireless effort. We will continue to push our message in the next six weeks."

The closest race Tuesday was for the Ward 6 council seat Newton decided to vacate.

Alicia A. Gardner, Constituent Services Aide to Senator Michael Morrissey, took the top spot with a slim 12-vote margin over second-place winner Brian F. McNamee, chief financial officer of a North Shore regional water sewerage district. Gardner's vote was 868 to McNamee's 856.

Behind them were William H. Keener, 431; Mark W. Bracken, 283; and Maryann Mahony, 277.

A familiar name came out of political retirement to lead the five-candidate field for the Ward 1 city council seat nominations.

Leo J. Kelly, who was elected to that seat six times, showed he hasn't lost his touch taking top honors with a vote of 868.

Second place winner was Joseph Keegan, Quincy police officer, with

Kevin Nichols Was In World Trade Center Sept. 11 Survivor Visits Broad Meadows Students

On the second anniversary of the tragic events of Sept. 11, 2001, Broad Meadows Middle School students received a very special visitor, a survivor of the terrorist attacks and Quincy resident.

Approximately 400 students last week met Kevin Nichols, a Quincy resident who was working on the 81st floor of the North Tower when the plane hit the World Trade Center. Nichols, the son of John and Rita Nichols, grew up on Willow Ave. and attended Furnace Brook Elementary School and Central Junior High School.

Nichols shared his experiences with students and encouraged them to appreciate the importance of the day.

"The students took it as a time to pause, reflect and remember," said Angela Solmonte-Godfrey, acting principal at the Broad Meadows Middle School. "As Mr. Nichols described his experiences in the building, you could hear a pin drop. They were deeply touched and engaged in his presentation."

At the time of the attacks, Nichols was working for the Quincy-based Network Plus.

Eighth grade student Bill Berberan followed with a poignant rendition of "Taps." Other students involved in the assembly included: eighth grade students Taylor Dennehey, Hannah Donovan and Brendan Paine; seventh grade students Kristen Bloomer, Brendan Geaney, Michelle Rizza, Carmen Seto, Adam Squatrito, Jacob Theodors and Trang Vo.

KEVIN NICHOLS, a Quincy resident and survivor of the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks, recounts the tragic day during a visit to Broad Meadows Middle School. Nichols shared his experiences during a visit to the school on the second anniversary of the attacks.

TAYLOR DENNEHEY, 8th grade student at Broad Meadows Middle School, makes remarks as Kevin Nichols, Quincy resident and survivor of the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks, looks on. Nichols visited the school last week on the second anniversary of the tragic day.

Downtown Business Owners Urged To Do More In Cleanup Effort

By WILLIAM TRAYNOR

Quincy Center business owners need to become more involved in the city's effort to cleanup the downtown area, according to Drew Scheele, health commissioner and member of the mayor's Quincy Center Task Force.

Last week, business owners met with Scheele at City Hall to discuss the task force's 26 recommendations for cleaning up the downtown area and improving the overall quality of life in Quincy Center. About 100 businesses were notified of the meetings, but representatives from only 20 businesses attended, he said.

Most of the owners who attended the meetings came from food and drinking establishments, including the Presidential Pub, Sarsfield's, The Four's and the Napoli Cafe.

Business owners need to do more to improve the overall look of their establishments, said Scheele. "Go back to your businesses and look at them from the point of view of a customer," he told owners. "Little things, like washing windows, cleaning window sills or sweeping the storefront, make a big difference."

Scheele said the task force is seeking to coalesce a "Quincy Center Campaign," a volunteer group made up of business owners, city officials, residents and other interested parties geared toward the clean-up and beautification of the downtown area. Scheele said the organization could act like a neighborhood crime watch group, with a network of business owners who stay in touch and keep each other apprised of any concerns. The group could meet on a regular basis to address issues in the downtown area, he said.

Another recommendation in the task force's report is the idea of instituting a blight ordinance that dictates the aesthetic appearance of businesses in the city. Scheele said the mayor or city council would soon draft a blight ordinance based on similar ordinances in other cities and towns. A strong blight ordinance would provide the city with another tool as it seeks to improve the overall aesthetic look of Quincy Center, he said.

In addition, Scheele said Mayor William Phelan has contacted several downtown business owners urging them to improve the overall appearance of their establishments. Phelan toured the downtown area recently and expressed disappointment with the appearance of several storefronts.

Owners also were introduced to Quincy police officer Mike Brandolini, who patrols the downtown area on foot. Scheele told owners they should not feel reluctant to contact Quincy police about any issues.

Some owners were also concerned with a lack of parking in the downtown area.

New Sewer Pump Stations Open In Squantum, Merrymount

The City of Quincy, along with the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority (MWRA), marked the opening Wednesday of two new sewer pump stations which should provide relief to the city's sewer system.

The ceremony was held near one of the new pump stations located off Fenno St. in Merrymount Park. Mayor William Phelan, MWRA representatives and other local elected officials attend the ceremony.

Located in Merrymount Park and Squantum, the two stations will help to upgrade wastewater management for the city. In the past 10 years, MWRA has replaced aging sewer pump stations, repaired large sewer lines, and removed a decrepit wastewater treatment plant at Nut Island and replaced it with a headworks building and a 15-acre public access area.

The new pump station in Merrymount Park receives wastewater from 60,000 people and has a 26 million gallon per day capacity, according to the MWRA. Also, the new station has a wet well storage tank more than twice the size of the old station.

The Squantum pump station, located off Huckins Ave., receives wastewater from 5,600 people. Both stations are equipped with odor control features and back-up power capability, according to the MWRA.

A SOLEMN TRIBUTE – Quincy firefighters, members of the Quincy Honor Guard and residents salute the flag, which was lowered to half-staff, in remembrance of the tragedy of Sept. 11, 2001. The citywide ceremony marked the second anniversary of the terrorist attack that claimed the lives of nearly 3,000 people.

QUINCY FIRE CHIEF Paul O'Connell makes remarks during last week's citywide day of remembrance marking the second anniversary of the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks. Observances At Eight Fire Stations

City Solemnly Remembers Sept. 11

By WILLIAM TRAYNOR

Two years have passed since that fateful day, but it seems like the events of Sept. 11, 2001 unfolded only yesterday.

During last week's citywide day of remembrance commemorating the second anniversary of the terrorist attacks, the events and images of Sept. 11 were still fresh in everyone's minds. With the assistance of Fire Chief Paul O'Connell and Police Chief William Falco, the city organized simultaneous moments of silence at the fire stations, with a ceremony at the Quincy headquarters.

At 9:45 a.m., firefighters rolled out apparatus to the apron of each of the city's eight fire stations.

At 10 a.m., approximately 20 uniformed Quincy firefighters and the Quincy Honor Guard saluted the flag and stood for a five-minute moment of silence. At 10:05 a.m., the moment the first tower collapsed, firefighters lowered the flag to half-staff. Another minute of silence followed.

O'Connell marked the day by recalling the commotion in New York City. He remembered hearing the sound of PASS devices, which are worn by firefighters to track motion. The device makes a chirping noise when its wearer stops moving.

"I remember two years ago hearing that eerie sound of all those PASS devices," O'Connell told the gathering. "And I knew what it was. May we never forget Sept. 11."

Steven Sweet of the Quincy Honor Guard played the bagpipes as the flag returned to full staff.

Father Robert Conole, Chaplain for the Quincy Fire Department, said an air of sadness still lingers over the event.

"We should not forget this," said Conole, who remembers being called to Logan Airport to provide comfort for the relatives of victims who were on the planes that crashed into the World Trade Center. "I come from a firefighting family, so this was a loss for me on two fronts." Conole proudly wears a bracelet with the name of Father Mychal Judge, the New York City Chaplain who lost his life in the attack. The bracelet was given to him by Quincy Firefighters.

Mayor William Phelan, who attended the ceremony at Quincy headquarters, said many thoughts came to mind during the moments of silence.

"It's a day we have to remember, not only for the terrible tragedy, but for the way people in our country came together," he said.

After the ceremony, O'Connell welcomed residents into headquarters to meet with firefighters and share stories.

Moments in time

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Sept. 16, 1620, the Mayflower sails from Plymouth, England, bound for the New World with 102 passengers. The ship was originally headed for Virginia, where the colonists — half religious dissenters and half entrepreneurs — had been authorized to settle by the British crown.

• On Sept. 15, 1916, during the Battle of the Somme, the British launch a major offensive against the Germans, employing tanks for the first time in history. Some of the 40 or so primitive tanks advanced more than a mile beyond enemy lines but were too slow to hold their positions.

• On Sept. 20, 1946, the inaugural Cannes Film Festival opens at the resort city of Cannes on the French Riviera. The festival had intended to make its debut in September 1939, but the outbreak of World War II forced its cancellation.

• On Sept. 19, 1960, "The Twist," by Chubby Checker, hits the top of the charts. The song was one of the most successful singles in history and was the only song to top the chart twice — it was No. 1 again in 1962.

• On Sept. 18, 1970, guitarist Jimi Hendrix dies at the age of 28 following a drug overdose in London. Hendrix played his last concert in August 1970, at the Isle of Wight Festival in Britain.

• On Sept. 17, 1978, at the White House in Washington, D.C., Egyptian President Anwar al-Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin sign the Camp David Accords, laying the groundwork for a permanent peace agreement between Egypt and Israel after three decades of hostilities.

• On Sept. 21, 1989, the Senate Armed Forces Committee unanimously confirms President George H. Bush's nomination of Army General Colin Powell as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Powell was the first African-American to achieve the United States' highest military post.

Sunbeams

By Henry Bosworth

35 Years: Thank You, Quincy!

They say time flies when you're having fun. Well, 35 years have flown. And, yes, we're still having fun. Maybe not when Murphy's Law strikes on a deadline night. But certainly most of the time.

The Quincy Sun is 35 years old with this issue.

That's a proud milestone and we would like to thank you — our readers, advertisers and friends — for being so faithful and helping us to reach it.

Without you we would not have made it.

And, if you don't mind, we'd like to take a look back to 1968 when it all began and reminisce just a little.

We've made some of these steps down memory lane before. Hope you don't mind stopping again:

Jim McIntyre was in his second term as mayor and keeping a close check on the MBTA Red Line extension into Quincy.

Close enough that he got them to relocate the planned site of the North Quincy T station by some 350 feet to avoid a potential costly year and a half delay and by doing so saved some 22 homes from demolition.

The General Dynamics Fore River shipyard was booming with multi-million dollar contracts and a workforce of more than 8,000. Things were humming, so there was talk the workforce would soon reach 10,000.

No one back then ever dreamed the yard was doomed to be closed and Quincy's proud shipbuilding industry would fade into a memory.

A Vietnam War Memorial was dedicated in Mount Wollaston Cemetery inscribed with the names of 27 Quincy sons who gave their lives in a far-away country many of us had trouble finding on a world map. And sadly, that list of names would grow to 46.

Earlier that year tragedy stunned the nation as Martin Luther King, Jr. and Robert Kennedy were murdered by assassin bullets within two months of one another.

Overall, however, things were pretty good.

The average Quincy family income was about $11,000. You could buy a nice home for under $25,000. Or a new Ford for around $3,200 and then fill the tank at 34 cents a gallon. Bread was 22 cents a loaf. You could mail a letter for six cents.

It was a pretty good year, economy wise. A good year, we thought to launch a weekly community newspaper.

And on Sept. 26, the first issue of The Quincy Sun rolled off the press. The lead headline: "Major Delay Averted In Quincy MBTA Extension."

There were other stories, including one that the City Council was considering a $2 million incinerator. And features: A report from Washington by Congressman James Burke, an article by Fr. John McMahon pastor of St. Mary's Church, a "House Call" column by Dr. Charles Djerf and one called "Sunbeams."

And a letter from Mayor McIntyre welcoming us.

An editorial entitled "Sunrise" introduced "Quincy's Own Weekly Newspaper."

Initial reaction was encouraging. But some of the so called experts who read the "Sunrise" editorial were predicting "Sunset" within six months.

There were days when we thought they might be right.

But, fortunately, there were people in Quincy who strongly believed in a community newspaper. And who felt having two newspapers in the city was better than having just one.

People like Remo and Pete DeNicola at South Shore Television, George Reardon at President Chevrolet, Bob Fitzgerald and Bob Costello at South Shore Buick and Leo Darr at Quincy Motor who kept us afloat with their advertising during those crucial early weeks and months.

And people who plunked down a dime for a copy. Or paid $3.50 in advance for a year's subscription.

Anyone who paid the $3.50 had to have faith in us, we thought, considering the skeptics who were predicting we wouldn't be around for a year.

Our debut wasn't exactly electrifying. It took awhile before many people got to know who — and what — we were.

In those early days, a reporter calling for a news story and identifying himself as being from The Quincy Sun could get a response like, "Who's son did you say you are?"

The Sun was born in a second floor corner office at 7 Foster St. and moved a year later to the second floor above the Kincaide Furniture store in the Mutual Building. The building would be destroyed by fire in 1986 — after we left.

We moved to our present street floor location at 1372 Hancock St. in 1975. And later purchased it and became a Quincy taxpayer.

We've won some New England Press Association Awards for editorials, features and photography and the National Newspaper Foundation's Blue Ribbon designation as "an outstanding community newspaper."

And, we've been proudly recognized by local organizations for community service.

We've even made the Congressional Record:

An editorial tribute to Jim Asher, founder of WJDA, at the time of his death in 1973 was placed in it by Congressman Burke.

And our Massachusetts Constitution Bicentennial Supplement in 1979 was placed in it by Congressman Brian Donnelly.

In the 35 years, we have covered the administrations of seven mayors, recorded the city's economic ups and downs, community issues and controversies. We have seen old landmarks disappear. And sadly we have bid farewell to many friends, some well known, some not.

We have seen our faithful young newscasters grow up, go off to college or to war, get married and have children of their own.

Among those carriers, incidentally, were Ed Carroll, WBZ-TV meteorologist; Rev. John Swanson, pastor of Union Congregational Church; and Patrick McDermott, former city councillor and now Norfolk County Registrar of Probate.

And we have taken fatherly pride in seeing youngsters who got their news career start here, go on to bigger things.

Like photographer Steve Liss to Time magazine, Paul Feldman to the Los Angeles Times, Bernie O'Donnell to The Madison Telegraph in Macon, Ga., as its metro editor and Dan Jaehrig to WFXT where he won a New England Emmy Award for news reporting and is now weekend anchor for Fox 25 News At Ten.

We have readers in just about all 50 states — including Hawaii and Alaska — who like to keep up on what's going on "back home." As they say, "Once a Quincyite, always a Quincyite."

A newspaper has a responsibility to the community and its readers to report the news fairly and accurately. We have tried to do that these 35 years and will continue to do so.

The way we see it, today's Quincy Sun is tomorrow's Quincy history. Keeping it accurate is important to you — and to us.

As we begin our 36th year, we want to again thank you for your continued support and encouragement.

Because of you we are still here — now as "Historic Quincy's Hometown Weekly Newspaper."

We've said it before and we'll say it again: we are proud to carry the name Quincy in our banner. That's what we are all about: Quincy.

We look ahead with confidence in Quincy's future and in our own.

We know we picked the right place to start a newspaper: Quincy, the best little city in the world.

Thank you sincerely, Quincy, for making these 35 years possible.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1940 view of the old Wollaston American Legion Post 295 on Beale Street across from the end of Cushing Street. The Wollaston Theater was to the left. Originally built as the Wollaston Masonic temple the building serve many groups in Wollaston until it was replaced by the building there now owned by Sovereign Bank. In 1940 the Wollaston Post along with the Morrisette and Quincy Post 95 were hosts in 1940 to the National Convention of the American Legion here in Quincy. Thomas Burgin was mayor and George Bonsall was president of the convention committee. Thousands of Legionnaires came to the city from around the country. This Wollaston Legion Post building as well as the entire city was appropriately decorated in bunting for the occasion.

READERS FORUM

May The World Series Spirit Continue

The Quincy 14-year-old Babe Ruth World Series was a huge success. Every one was so friendly and the volunteers were too numerous to count. It made one wish that this spirit would prevail all year long in Quincy.

I wish to thank all the citizens of Quincy who purchased the Babe Ruth commemorative candy bars that allowed me to make a small donation to the Quincy World Series organization.

Special thanks to Ashley's Restaurant on Washington Street in South Braintree and Mannion's Irish Family Restaurant at Brewers Corner in Quincy who put boxes of candy on their counters all summer long.

Thanks also to the Rev. Bill Harding of the Bethany Congregational Church who insisted that I sell candy during the social hour following church services. Extra special thanks to the Sons of Italy on Quarry Street, which through John Norton, sold more than all the others combined.

May the spirit of friendliness and volunteering always prevail in Quincy!

A Thank You From Jerry Lewis

Once again, I'm amazed by the generosity and caring spirit of our nation. This Labor Day weekend, the MDA Telethon raised a record $60,505,234 in contributions and pledges. Outstanding!

On behalf of the families served by MDA, I'd like to extend an enormous thank you to the people of the Boston area for helping to make this possible. I'd also like to thank the local firefighters, Kings Lanes, Lounge & Billiards, Shaw's Supermarket and Cumberland Farms for their loyal support.

We appreciate your support not only on Labor Day weekend, but also the donations you give year-round through MDA programs like Shamrocks Against Dystrophy, Lock-Ups, firefighters' Fill-the-Boot drives and more.

As the emcees and families told you on the telethon broadcast on WCVB-TV Channel 5 and New England Cable News (NECN), your dollars ensure that MDA can continue to provide life-enhancing services for adults and children with neuromuscular diseases in your community. That includes health care at hospital-affiliated MDA clinics, support groups, MDA summer camps for "my kids" and assistance in buying equipment like wheelchairs and leg braces. You're also helping researchers make astonishing scientific advances and get closer every day to treatments and cures.

If you'd like more information about MDA or any of our programs, contact your local MDA office at 617-348-2155, call our national headquarters at 800-572-1717 or visit our Web site at www.mdausa.org.

Thanks again, Boston! You're the greatest!

Praises Koch And Crew In Preparing Adams Field For Babe Ruth World Series

I would like to commend Tom Koch and this "crew" for the wonderful job done preparing Adams Field for the Babe Ruth World Series. Despite setbacks, their hard labor paid off. It certainly appears to be a huge success and a shot in the arm for Quincy Tourism. Eleanor Archer

Quincy's Yesterdays

Hurricane Of 1938 Batters Quincy

An unexpected hurricane struck Quincy with 88-mile-an-hour winds and gusts up to 100 miles an hour, tearing up thousands of ancient trees and virtually wiping out the yacht club fleets.

No one was killed but Mrs. Samuel W. Wakeman of 115 Monroe Rd., wife of the vice president of the Fore River Shipyard, spent the night clinging for her life to a tree top near her Marion summer home.

The Wollaston Yacht Club's flagship, Mil-Ed, owned by Harry Arion, was lost when hundreds of yachts broke their moorings and were driven ashore at the Crabtree Estates, Squantum, by the southwest wind.

Most of the power in the city was lost at 5:30 p.m. and the Rev. Daniel W. Staffeld of the Adams Shore Community Church took the communion candles from the altar and distributed them to neighbors.

The roof was blown from the garage of Arthur Olsen, East Squantum St., Squantum, flew 100 feet and hit the home of Mrs. Ellen M. Garneau, 735 East Squantum St., demolishing the bedroom and living room.

The huge elm tree at the gate of Dr. Walter G. Kendall's estate in Atlantic was torn up by the roots and crashed into his orchard, destroying many of his prized cherry trees.

Three years work by Amedeo Nardini was wiped out when the wind uprooted his vineyard containing vines imported from Italy and the roof of the pavilion on his Italian villa in North Quincy was torn off.

A 15-ton crane was blown over at the shipyard, tombstones in Hancock Burying Grounds were broken by falling trees and tiny Acton St., Wollaston, was closed for days by 15 fallen trees.

KOCH SUES FOR LIBEL

Lucien Koch of 45 Lawn Ave., Quincy Point, a CIO organizer at the Fore River Shipyard, filed a $225,000 libel suit again two New York publishing firms for defaming him in magazine articles.

The stories in question were "Rah, Rah, Russia," which appears in Liberty magazine, and "Mr. Koch Comes to Town," published in a magazine called "Iron Age."

Oversight Committee To Review Recent Fire, Police Hirings

The oversight committee next week will investigate the city's conduct regarding recent hirings in the fire and police departments.

At the most recent city council meeting, Council President Dan Raymondi introduced a resolution asking the committee to investigate and conduct hearings regarding the hirings. The resolution was approved by the council, 9-0.

Ward 6 Councillor and committee chairman Joe Newton said the body will address the issue Sept. 22 at 6 p.m., prior to next week's council meeting.

Raymondi said he has received several complaints from candidates who were not hired and from their parents.

"The council needs to investigate this," said Raymondi. "Were certain people denied access to the police or fire department? And was the reason for their denial just a pretext to get to someone else?"

The Ward 2 councillor said he was particularly concerned with the treatment of veterans who interviewed for jobs.

Councillor Frank McCauley said he has received two phone calls regarding candidates who did not receive an explanation as to why they were not hired.

"If someone is knocked down for some reason they should know why," said McCauley. "These guys should get a straight answer."

Thomas Largey, Mayor William Phelan's executive secretary, would not comment on the matter.

Delahunt Bill Nets $2.6M For Boston Harbor Islands

The U. S. House has passed and sent to the Senate a 2004 appropriations bill containing $2.6 million to upgrade facilities for disabled passengers on ferries and shuttles serving the Boston Harbor Islands National Park.

The section of the bill, which was proposed by Cong. William Delahunt, calls for an "innovative" upgrade to the facilities, especially those on Georges, Lovell and Grape Islands.

Also approved by the

WILLIAM DELAHUNT

House were Delahunt proposals to spend $3.4 million to purchase 12 alternative fuel buses for the Cape Cod National Seashore.

An additional $1 million was approved to continue the Cape & Islands Rural Roads Initiative to repair old and overburdened roadways while maintaining their local character and heritage.

In considering the appropriations bill, the House also approved amendments championed by Delahunt to lift restrictions on travel to Cuba and the amount of money Americans can send to Cuban families.

Coughlin, Gutro Push For Road Money

Ward 3 Councillor Kevin Coughlin and Ward 5 Councillor Doug Gutro are cosponsoring a city council resolution calling upon Gov. Mitt Romney to release Chapter 90 (road repair funds) to cities and towns.

According to the councillors, the Legislature in 2002 approved approximately $200 million in funding for road repairs to be disbursed over two years. Commitment letters totaling $100 million for 2003 were distributed last year but Romney has held back on issuing an additional $100 million for fiscal 2004, they said.

In a joint press release, Coughlin and Gutro noted: "Quincy, like other cities and towns, desperately needs this Chapter 90 funding to support our efforts to repair our streets and roadways. Not only will public safety be improved with these repairs but intangibles such as community pride and quality of life can only be enhanced.

"Additionally, with Quincy seeking to enhance its position as a tourist attraction, tourism being an economie engine that can create jobs, business, and account for tens of thousands of dollars in tax revenues, the face of Quincy will be substantially improved by repairs to all our streets, especially our gateways and main arterial roadways."

Wollaston Garden Club Evening Division To Meet

Roche Supermarket Family To Be Honored Oct. 19 By Maria Droste Agency

The Roche Family of supermarkets will receive the fifth annual Maria Droste Salute to the Family Award at a brunch Sunday, Oct. 19, from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Elks Hall, Route 53, in Weymouth.

The award is presented annually by the Good Shepherd's Maria Droste Counseling Agency, 1354 Hancock St., Quincy, in recognition of the values and qualities that make some families distinctive.

The Roche Family, starting in 1952, has grown to become a leader in the supermarket industry, all the time maintaining quality service and products and a family atmosphere.

These are the same values that the Maria Droste Agency, through their counseling services, strives so hard to cultivate, the repair, to protect and to encourage.

Recipients of the award in the past were Quincy Mayor James Sheets and his family, Henry Bosworth of the Quincy Sun and his family, four generations of the Curry Family, and the Thomas Shields Family of the South Shore Oncology Center.

Co-chairs for this year's award are Richard Welch and Maralin Manning, assisted by the Agency's Fund Raising Committee, chaired by Patricia Queeney.

The committee includes Anthony Agnitti, Sean Barry, Arthur Connelly, James Egan, Anthony Falco, Harold Feldman, Steve Hunter, Kao Li, Michael Manning, Peter McCarthy, James McCarthy, Paul McDevitt, Maryrose Sullivan Myrick, Daniel Raymondi, Thomas Shields, Daniel Quirk, and Sister Joane Westwater, the Agency's founder and current development director.

For reservations to the awards brunch, call the Maria Droste Agency at 617-471-5686.

Free Gunlocks To Stress Quincy ChildSafe Program

A representative of Project ChildSafe was in Quincy Tuesday distributing cable-style gunlocks and educational materials to the Quincy Police Department.

Project ChildSafe is designed to help make homes with firearms safer by raising awareness about responsible firearms ownership and storage.

In all, the National Shooting Sports Foundation plans to distribute more than 247,000 free gunlocks in Norfolk County and nearly 20 million in the 50 United States and five territories.

The NSSF in Massachusetts is partnered in the distribution with Lt. Gov. Kerry Healy, the Mass State Police, the Department of Public Safety and local law enforcement agencies.

Killed In Iraq

Funeral Held For Sgt. Charles Caldwell

Charles Todd Caldwell, a sergeant of the Rhode Island National Guard who was killed in Iraq recently, was laid to rest Saturday after a funeral at the Wollaston Church of the Nazarene, Caldwell, a native of Quincy, was buried in Mount Wollaston Cemetery with full military honors.

Caldwell, 38, was killed Sept. 1 when the Humvee he was riding in drove over a land mine. Caldwell and fellow Guardsman Sgt. Joseph Camara of New Bedford were killed. A third soldier, Spc. Edmund Aponte of Providence, Rhode Island, was severely wounded in the explosion.

Pallbearers were members of Caldwell's unit, the 115th Military Police Unit.

His family was given the American flag that had been draped over his casket.

Caldwell married his wife, Maggie, in February.

eight days before his unit was deployed to Iraq from Fort Drum, N.Y.

Among those in attendance at the funeral were Mayor William Phelan, Massachusetts Lt. Gov. Kerry Healey, Congressman William Delahunt, U.S. Rep. Patrick Kennedy, D-R.I., state Sen. Michael Morrissey, state Rep. Bruce Ayers and Doug 5 City Councilor Doug Gutro.

and North Quincy High School shelters are stocked and ready if needed. Portable shelters are also available to be used anywhere in the city, he said.

The department recently purchased new power generators for emergency situations, he said.

The American Red Cross reminds New Englanders that preparation is the best defense against a large storm like Isabel.

First and foremost, families should develop a plan for responding to an evacuation order if issued by local government officials. Residents should decide where to go, what to take and who to notify about the decision.

Residents should assemble the following supplies in a duffle bag or large container:

- Flashlight with plenty of batteries;
- Battery-powered radio with extra batteries;

- A first aid kit, which includes family prescription medications;
- Water
- Eyeglasses, with copy of prescription

- Foods that do not require cooking or refrigeration, and a manual can opener;
- Special items for infants (including diapers, baby formula), elderly or disabled family members;

- Medical equipment and devices such as dentures, crutches and prostheses;
- Change of clothes for each household member;

- Sleeping bag or bedroll and pillow for each household member;
- Map of the area;

- Also, fill the gas tanks of all family vehicles.

Residents should also take a few steps to mitigate damage to homes.

- Remove diseases or damaged tree limbs. Also, move branches so that wind can blow through the tree.
- Move or secure lawn furniture, outdoor decorations or ornaments, trash cans, hanging plants and anything else that can be picked up by wind and become a projectile.

For more information, contact the American Red Cross of Massachusetts Bay (617) 375-0700, or visit www.redcross.org.

Gas Company To Start Work At Glover/Birch

KeySpan Energy Delivery will begin work Friday, Sept. 19, on a project to maintain and expand its distribution system in the Glover Avenue-Birch Street area of North Quincy.

Residents of 56-118 Glover Ave. and 6-43 Birch St. have been notified that work will be performed between the hours of 7 a.m. and 4 p.m. and will continue for about five weeks.

The roads will be open to the public but parking may be limited. A construction foreman will be on site to address parking needs for the duration of the construction.

There may be a lag between temporary and permanent restoration of the street and sidewalk, depending on the weather and ground condition.

Food Fest, Auction Raise $300,000 For Fr. Bill's Place

THE NINTH ANNUAL Food Fest & Auction raised approximately $300,000 for Father Bill's Place to provide shelter for the homeless. Pleased at the success of the event held at WaterWorks, Marina Bay, are John Yazwinski, executive director of Father Bill's Place; Bill Costa of KISS 108 Radio, guest auctioneer; Jim Wells, Food Fest chairman; Fr. William McCarthy, founder Fr. Bill's Place; Ed Kane of WaterWorks and Uncle Sam Rounseville, auction committee member.

THE WEATHER WAS perfect and the food from local restaurants hit the spot with the large turnout.

ENJOYING THE MISLIVES WERE Jili Noisieux, Stacey Collo and Donna Kelble, all of Quincy.

JOHN YAZWINSKI, executive director Father Bill's Place, with Thomas and Daniel Quirk, corporate sponsors and donors of an automobile that was raffled off to help raise funds.

CITY PLANNING DIRECTOR Richard Meade, right, his wife, Paula and son, Jeff, found the food just the way they like it.

NOMAR GARCIPARRA'S No. 5 was among the sports items auctioned off during the night. From the left are Jim Wells, Food Fest chairman; Bill Costa of KISS 108, celebrity auctioneer and John Yazwinski, executive director of Father Bill's Place.

Highpoint Update Meeting Sept. 25

Ward 3 Councillor Kevin Coughlin announces a community meeting to provide the public with an update on the status of the HighPoint Project, a Public Involvement Plan (PIP) meeting, will be held on Thursday.

Sept. 25 from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Quincy Elks Lodge, 254 Quarry St.

This meeting will include information on site remediation and building construction as well as a presentation on the Response

Action Outcome Statement, Activity and Use Limitation, and Cover Maintenance Plan. These documents, as well as other documents regarding this project and minutes of each meeting are available for public review at the Thomas Crane Public Library.

Coughlin, however, said he encourages all interested residents to attend these meetings in order to remain fully informed, receive the most updated information and to ask important questions.

City Receives $18,460 In Cultural Grants

The city will receive approximately $18,460 in cultural grants for fiscal 2004, according to state elected officials.

State Sen. Michael Morrissey, state Reps. Bruce Ayers, Ron Mariano and Stephen Tobin and the Quincy Cultural Council announced this year's total. The money will be redistributed by the local cultural council to fund community cultural programs.

"The local Cultural Council is responsible for the distribution of funds and have their own application guidelines for cultural grants," said Mariano.

Local funding comes from the Massachusetts Cultural Council, a state agency, which oversees more than 15 grant programs.

"The Massachusetts Cultural Council grant moneys are funded by the Legislature, who releases the funds based on the local aid formula, and administered by 329 local cultural councils," said Ayers.

Tobin said local council members accept applications from community groups and individuals for projects in the arts, humanities and sciences that have for the public benefit.

"By giving the money to the local community to redistribute, community projects go to a board with local people who are familiar with community's needs and goals," said Morrissey.

"The grants are an invaluable means of support for cultural activities in the community and contribute to Quincy's quality of life and economic vitality," said Morrissey.

Interested individuals who want more information about applying for the grant should contact Arthur Keough at Eastern Nazarene, 23 East Elm Ave., Quincy MA 02170.

Robert Noble Speaker At POW-MIA Observance

Robert Noble, a World War II prisoner of war, will be a speaker at the POW-MIA Recognition Day observance Sunday aboard the USS Massachusetts.

Noble, a Quincy resident, is past commander of the Department of Massachusetts, American Ex-Prisoners of War.

The observance will be held at 1:30 p.m. on the Quincy-built USS Massachusetts in Battleship Cove, Fall River.

POW-MIA Recognition Day is Friday.

James Farnham, age 8; Carly Brilliant, 6; and Michell Gardiner, 12, all received new bikes and helmets as a reward for reading in the summer months.

In all, Dependable Cleaners presented bikes to 21 lucky winners.

James Farnham read eight books, including The Paperboy by Dav Pilkey, his favorite book and winning entry. His mother, Stacey, said James chose this book because his "older brother was a paper boy." Interestingly, James has three brothers, and according to Stacey, his little brother "is in kindergarten and is learning to read because of James."

Carly Brilliant, a first grader at the Beechwood Knoll Elementary School, was motivated to join the contest when she realized that she could win a new bi-

Three Quincy Students Win Bikes In Summer Reading Incentive Program

Three Quincy students have won new bikes and helmets as part of Dependable Cleaners' fifth annual Read to Ride summer reading incentive program.

Reading two books a day is easy for the beginner, who usually starts first thing in the morning. Reading has helped Carly in other areas as well. According to her mother, Janet, "Reading has taught Carly new words, as well as help her learn to spell."

Michell Gardiner, a seventh grader at Central Middle School, is enrolled in the LAB program, for advanced students. A reading enthusiast and a possible future teacher, Michell enjoys a variety of authors from J. K. Rowling and R.L. Stine to Beverly Cleary and Judy Blume.

Michell entered the Read to Ride contest in hopes of winning a new bike, so she could give her old bike to her younger sister, Sarah.

Michell's mother, Robin, said she believes that reading has helped put Michell into the advanced program at Central. "She reads books on a variety of subjects which, in turn, expands her imagination and makes her a well-rounded person," Robin said.

Dependable Cleaners sponsors Read to Ride annually as a way to encourage children, ages 6-15, to keep reading over the summer by giving them the chance to win a bike and helmet (valued up to $275) for every book completed.

"Reading is a healthy activity and, based on the overwhelming response of Read to Ride, it seems many children are enjoying reading in their spare time," said Dependable Cleaners President Christa Hagearty. "Congratulations to all the winners and the runners-up."

Gas Company At Work On Vassall St., Shore Drive

KeySpan Energy Delivery has begun work maintaining and expanding its distribution system in the Vassall Street-Quincy Shore Drive area.

Residents living at 589-698 Quincy Shore Drive and 37-182 Vassall St. have been notified that the work, which began Monday, will last approximately seven weeks.

The road will be open to the public but parking may be limited. A construction foreman will be on site to address parking needs for the duration of the work.

A police detail will be provided if necessary.

The work may require some excavation near the foundations of home and businesses. A foreman on site will notify customers of any interruption of gas service.

There may be a lag between temporary and permanent restoration of the street and sidewalk, depending on the weather and ground conditions.

Questions about the project should be addressed to Lynne M. Holton, community relations coordinator, at 781-466-5100.

Dear Ward 6 Voters,

Please accept my sincere thanks for your vote during the primary election. I also want to extend a special thanks to my friends and family for all their help. I am deeply grateful for your tireless efforts.

Putting election results aside and the disappointment that often accompanies this process, let's celebrate the dedication of all the candidates and their countless volunteers. They are all deserving not only of our respect but our appreciation. After all, without their participation, we would not have had a choice when we went to the polls. I think we can all agree that democracy triumphs when the voter has choices.

Again, thank you for your support as we all look forward to building a better Quincy.

In Memory Of Patty Flaherty Fundraiser Tomorrow To Raise Awareness For Breast Cancer

Residents are invited to attend a fundraiser dedicated to the memory of longtime city employee Patty Flaherty tomorrow (Friday) from 7 to 10 p.m. at the Water Club in Marina Bay, Quincy.

Flaherty died on Aug. 17 at the age of 51 after a 14-year battle with cancer. She worked in the Tax Office for the City of Quincy for 18 years.

All proceeds will go to "Making Strides Against Breast Cancer," a program affiliated with the American Cancer Society. The funds will also go to sponsor participants in the Oct. 12 Walk For Breast Cancer, which will begin at the Hatch Shell in Boston.

According to Flaherty's daughter, Katie Sullivan, more than 100 people will participate in the walk this year. Flaherty helped to form a group of walkers, called "Patty's Pals," to participate in the annual event.

Flaherty was diagnosed with breast cancer in 1989, but overcame it initially. In 2000, however, she learned that it had returned in the form of lung cancer. That battle was won also, but doctors later discovered that cancer was throughout her body in 2002.

She was also involved in the Make-A-Wish Foundation, where a fund has been set up in her name.

Tickets are $20 and can be purchased at the door or through Sullivan, by calling 617-376-0157.

Food, refreshments and raffles will be available at the fundraiser.

Phelan To Host Meeting At Wollaston School Tonight

Mayor William Phelan will continue his neighborhood meeting program tonight (Thursday) at the Wollaston School on Beale Street.

The meeting will be from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. and feature a barbecue sponsored by Phelan.

The public is welcome to attend and share their concerns with Phelan and city department heads. Phelan will also provide and issues update for the Wollaston neighborhood.

"The prior neighborhood meetings have allowed me to opportunity to hear directly from residents about the issues that affect their neighborhood on a daily basis," Phelan said.

"We have been able to solve issues that have been brought up at these meetings and I hope to continue that throughout the city."

Phelan has hosted meetings in Merrymount, Houghs

Neck, Quincy Point and Montclair. Future meetings are scheduled for North Quincy, West Quincy, Beechwood Knoll, Squantum, Marina Bay, Adams Shore, Germantown and Quincy Center.

For more information on the neighborhood meetings, call 617-376-1990.

James Farnham, age 8; Carly Brilliant, 6; and Michell Gardiner, 12, all received new bikes and helmets as a reward for reading in the summer months.

In all, Dependable Cleaners presented bikes to 21 lucky winners.

James Farnham read eight books, including The Paperboy by Dav Pilkey, his favorite book and winning entry. His mother, Stacey, said James chose this book because his "older brother was a paper boy." Interestingly, James has three brothers, and according to Stacey, his little brother "is in kindergarten and is learning to read because of James."

Carly Brilliant, a first grader at the Beechwood Knoll Elementary School, was motivated to join the contest when she realized that she could win a new bicycle for reading. Her winning entry was "Are You Still Mad?" by Ellen Weiss.

Reading two books a day is easy for the beginner, who usually starts first thing in the morning. Reading has helped Carly in other areas as well. According to her mother, Janet, "Reading has taught Carly new words, as well as help her learn to spell."

Michell Gardiner, a seventh grader at Central Middle School, is enrolled in the LAB program, for advanced students. A reading enthusiast and a possible future teacher, Michell enjoys a variety of authors from J. K. Rowling and R.L. Stine to Beverly Cleary and Judy Blume.

Michell entered the Read to Ride contest in hopes of winning a new bike, so she could give her old bike to her younger sister, Sarah.

Michell's mother, Robin, said she believes that reading has helped put Michell into the advanced program at Central. "She reads books on a variety of subjects which, in turn, expands her imagination and makes her a well-rounded person," Robin said.

Dependable Cleaners sponsors Read to Ride annually as a way to encourage children, ages 6-15, to keep reading over the summer by giving them the chance to win a bike and helmet (valued up to $275) for every book completed.

"Reading is a healthy activity and, based on the overwhelming response of Read to Ride, it seems many children are enjoying reading in their spare time," said Dependable Cleaners President Christa Hagearty. "Congratulations to all the winners and the runners-up."

Dear Ward 6 Voters,

Please accept my sincere thanks for your vote during the primary election. I also want to extend a special thanks to my friends and family for all their help. I am deeply grateful for your tireless efforts.

Putting election results aside and the disappointment that often accompanies this process, let's celebrate the dedication of all the candidates and their countless volunteers. They are all deserving not only of our respect but our appreciation. After all, without their participation, we would not have had a choice when we went to the polls. I think we can all agree that democracy triumphs when the voter has choices.

Again, thank you for your support as we all look forward to building a better Quincy.

Best Wishes,

Brian McNamee

Ward 6 City Council Candidate

Paid for and Authorized by the Committee to Elect Brian McNamee.

Residents living at 589-698 Quincy Shore Drive and 37-182 Vassall St. have been notified that the work, which began Monday, will last approximately seven weeks.

The road will be open to the public but parking may be limited. A construction foreman will be on site to address parking needs for the duration of the work.

A police detail will be provided if necessary.

The work may require some excavation near the foundations of home and businesses. A foreman on site will notify customers of any interruption of gas service.

There may be a lag between temporary and permanent restoration of the street and sidewalk, depending on the weather and ground conditions.

Questions about the project should be addressed to Lynne M. Holton, community relations coordinator, at 781-466-5100.

In Memory Of Patty Flaherty Fundraiser Tomorrow To Raise Awareness For Breast Cancer

Residents are invited to attend a fundraiser dedicated to the memory of longtime city employee Patty Flaherty tomorrow (Friday) from 7 to 10 p.m. at the Water Club in Marina Bay, Quincy.

Flaherty died on Aug. 17 at the age of 51 after a 14-year battle with cancer. She worked in the Tax Office for the City of Quincy for 18 years.

All proceeds will go to "Making Strides Against Breast Cancer," a program affiliated with the American Cancer Society. The funds will also go to sponsor participants in the Oct. 12 Walk For Breast Cancer, which will begin at the Hatch Shell

in Boston.

According to Flaherty's daughter, Katie Sullivan, more than 100 people will participate in the walk this year. Flaherty helped to form a group of walkers, called "Patty's Pals," to participate in the annual event.

Flaherty was diagnosed with breast cancer in 1989, but overcame it initially. In 2000, however, she learned that it had returned in the form of lung cancer. That battle was won also, but doctors later discovered that cancer was throughout her body in 2002.

She was also involved in the Make-A-Wish Foundation, where a fund has been set up in her name.

Tickets are $20 and can be purchased at the door or through Sullivan, by calling 617-376-0157.

Food, refreshments and raffles will be available at the fundraiser.

Phelan To Host Meeting At Wollaston School Tonight

Mayor William Phelan will continue his neighborhood meeting program tonight (Thursday) at the Wollaston School on Beale Street.

The meeting will be from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. and feature a barbecue sponsored by Phelan.

The public is welcome to attend and share their concerns with Phelan and city department heads. Phelan will also provide and issues update for the Wollaston neighborhood.

"The prior neighborhood meetings have allowed me to opportunity to hear directly from residents about the issues that affect their neighborhood on a daily basis," Phelan said.

"We have been able to solve issues that have been brought up at these meetings and I hope to continue that throughout the city."

Phelan has hosted meetings in Merrymount, Houghs

Neck, Quincy Point and Montclair. Future meetings are scheduled for North Quincy, West Quincy, Beechwood Knoll, Squantum, Marina Bay, Adams Shore, Germantown and Quincy Center.

For more information on the neighborhood meetings, call 617-376-1990.

Neponset River Walking Tour An Environmental Treasure

The Park Department's Environmental Treasures program will sponsor a free walking/bus tour along the Neponset River Sunday, Sept. 21, at 2 p.m.

The program will be hosted by the Friends of the Neponset Estuary and the Neponset River Watershed who will describe their proposal for a walking path along the river from Marina Bay to Milton.

Participants should wear sturdy shoes, socks, long pants and a hat. The tour meets at Squantum Point Park. For more information call 781-575-0354.

Rain date is Saturday, Sept. 27, at 2 p.m.; call 617-

REAL ESTATE

'MLS', 'Neighborhood Services' Available

Tardo Opens New Real Estate Office At 522 Sea St.

Denis Tardo, of Quincy, a real estate broker, announces the opening of "Tardo Real Estate and Neighborhood Services" at 522 Sea St., Quincy.

Tardo Real Estate & Neighborhood Services has joined the MLS Property Information Network (MLS PIN). MLS PIN is the largest Multiple Listing Service in New England covering approximately 90% of the state of Massachusetts.

Participation in the service will allow Tardo Real Estate and Neighborhood Services the benefit of sharing listings with more than 17,500 real estate professionals in the state, as well as instant access to a database filled with more than 22,500 active listings. Participation also means access to approximately 450,000 off-market listings, statewide assessment, tax roll, and deed transfers.

Other significant benefits include daily listing updates to the national real estate site REALTOR.COM, which provides access to the state's largest electronic lockbox system, and automated property updates emailed directly to customers using MLS PIN's in-house software application called WebHunter. The computerized system allows notification of new listings to be sent directly to clients and is updated daily.

Tardo Real Estate is a complete real estate service office, including residential and commercial, sales, rentals and management. He has added Neighborhood Services, which include, copying, faxing, printing, advertising and notary public services. Tardo is a Justice of the Peace certified to perform marriages.

Neighborhood Housing Services Raises $35,000 To Benefit Affordable Housing

At Fourth Annual Mulligan Golf Tournament

Neighborhood Housing Services of the South Shore (NHS) recently hosted the Fourth Annual Mulligan Golf Tournament at the Pembroke Country Club.

Thanks to the generosity of sponsors and participants, NHS' annual golf tournament raised $35,000 for the creation of affordable housing for working people in need of a home on the South Shore.

Cosponsored by Father Bill's Place, the tournament raised funds to help expand and support NHS' Second Step Housing Program that was created to help working people rent a safe and affordable apartment in local neighborhoods. Thanks to special donors, such as Daniel J. Quirk, president of Quirk Auto Dealers, who generously donated $10,000 to NHS' Golf Tournament, the fundraiser was a great success. Through hole sponsorships, raffles, and a silent auction held during the Mulligan Tournament, participants have helped NHS raise more than $85,000 in total over the last four years.

"More than 160 volunteers and participants had fun and helped to make this year's tournament the most successful to date," said Robert Corley, Director of Housing Development for NHS. "Thanks to their time and financial assistance, we are able to provide people with a second chance at a home."

Based on the success of this year's fundraiser, NHS plans to host the fifth annual Mulligan Tournament next year on Friday, June 18th. For more information or to make contributions to NHS, please contact Robert Corley at (617) 770-2227 ext 21 or visit NHS' website at: www.neighborhoodhousing.org.

Towns serviced by these organizations include Abington, Avon, Braintree, Brockton, Canton, Cohasset, East Bridgewater, Hanover, Hanson, Hingham, Holbrook, Hull, Milton, Norwell, Pembroke, Quincy, Randolph, Rockland, Scituate, Sharon, Stoughton, West Bridgewater, Weymouth, and Whitman.

moting, developing and maintaining affordable housing.

A governing Board of Directors, committee members, volunteers and a small professional staff accomplish this mission.

Since its inception in 1981, NHS of the South Shore has grown from a neighborhood-based rehab loan program into a highly respected organization that provides a wide variety of housing and neighborhood services to South Shore residents.

The Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition (QISC), better known as Father Bill's Place, was founded in 1984 by a group of community leaders and social service professionals to provide shelter for the homeless and address the causes of homelessness. From its inception it has grown into a full-fledged community-based shelter, housing and social service agency. The QISC provides more than 100 shelter beds for adults at two sites, Father Bill's Place and the South Shore Emergency Shelter.

Made Babe Ruth World Series Possible

Phelan Praises Workers On Adams Field Restoration

"Will it be done?" That was the question Mayor William Phelan and Park Department officials were fielding almost up to the opening ceremonies for the recent Babe Ruth World Series at Adams Field.

"The complete cooperation and dedication of countless individuals, unions and businesses silenced any doubts connected with the timely completion of the Adams Field restoration project," Phelan said.

"Clearly there was an outpouring of personal interest vested in the job resulting in unparalleled efficiency and ultimately a finished product for all those involved to be proud of. On behalf of the city, I congratulate everyone on a job well done."

The Adams Field improvement project was made possible through Phelan's administration securing bond money approved by the city council last spring.

The Park Department acted as the general contractor and performed all the site work and preparation work for the different facets of the job. Under the leadership of Project Manager Paul Franz and the Park Department staff, thousands of dollars were saved on this project.

A major component of the job was the assistance of the Quincy & South Shore Building Trades Council under the direction of Bob Rizzi and Harry Brett.

"When we approached the trades council we were warmly received and the response was overwhelming," said Park Director Thomas Koch.

The Bricklayers Local 3, Electricians Local 103,

Plumbers Local 12, Carpenters Local 424, Roofers Local 33 and Sheetmetal Workers Local 17 all played a major part in making this project a reality in record time.

"The success of the project relied upon the efforts exerted by local contractors E.H. Marchant Plumbing, Sullivan & McLaughlin Electrical, Commercial Masonry, and Cunniff Engineering, all of whom went above and beyond to get the job done," Koch said.

Gardiner Concrete, Foye & Letendre Landscaping, MVP Concrete, Healy Construction, Wood Commercial Painting, Gale Engineering

P.V. Sullivan Supply along with Toto Plumbing Ware donated the fixtures for the restrooms. Titan Roofing of Quincy in cooperation with the Roofers Local built the roofs of the press box and dugouts at no cost.

"Under normal circumstances, this project would have been assigned a timetable exceeding its actual completion date by four to five months," Koch said. "With the extenuating circumstances this project was a difficult challenge and I am so grateful to all those involved."

This fall finishing touches will be made to the facility, allowing it to be in perfect condition when the high school baseball season opens in the spring.

A product of the Works Progress Administration (WPA), Adams Field was built in 1938 and named for Merrymount Park benefactor Charles Francis Adam. In 1973, lighting was installed and bleachers and restrooms were added.

Fundraiser For McCauley Set For Sept. 25

A fundraiser for the reelection campaign of Councillor-at-Large Francis X. McCauley will be held Thursday, Sept. 25, from 5 to 7 p.m. at the Best Western-Adams Inn, Hancock Street, North Quincy.

Hors d'oeuvres will be served. Tickets are $50. There will be a cash bar.

McCauley has served 30 years in local government, including terms as ward councillor, councillor at-large, school committeeman and eight years as mayor of Quincy.

Tickets may be obtained by calling 617-479-6230.

NQ Girls' Cross Country Prevails Over Silver Lake

The North Quincy High School girls' cross country team showed that an early season scrimmage win against Milton was no fluke.

North Quincy placed four runners ahead of Silver Lake's top two guns, taking a 19-37 victory last Tuesday at Page field.

Evan Allen won the race is 18:03, only two seconds off the course record. Right behind her was Kayla Martin, Jenna Furey and Kerry Regan. Lisa Mulligan and Caitlyn Dow also finished in the top 10.

At the Reebok Eurocross Relays in Canton, the team of Martin, Allen and Furey placed third behind two teams from Newton South, the top team in the state. The team of Regan, Dow and Mulligan placed eighth. Thirty-three teams from eight schools competed.

North Quincy hosted Taunton Tuesday and travels to Falmouth Sept. 23 and Bridgewater-Raynham Sept. 25.

The North Quincy High School cheerleading squad has been invited to the Citrus Bowl in Orlando, Fla., this December for the second straight year.

The girls earned the invitation by doing well at a recent camp at Mount Ida College. They performed routines, stunts and dances in competition with other local schools.

North Girls' Soccer Defeat Quincy, Silver Lake

The North Quincy High School girls' soccer team got its season off to a good start by taking two of its first three games last week.

Inexperience was a factor for North Quincy, which graduated 15 seniors from last year's tourney team, in a 4-0 opening night loss last Monday at Brockton.

The Boxers delivered an early knockout punch, scoring two goals in the first eight minutes as the Red Raiders never recovered.

Senior quad-captain Breanne Therrien had North Quincy's best chance early in the first half but her bid just missed the far post. Therrien had another good chance later but came up empty.

Senior quad-captain Jenn Ryan had the Red Raiders' best chance in the second half but her shot from 30 yards curved past the post.

Sophomore midfielder Lauren Milone, senior quad-captain Katy Faherty and junior sweeper Julie Holleran also played well for North Quincy.

The Red Raiders notched their first win of the year last Wednesday, knocking off cross-town rival Quincy, 3-1, at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

North Quincy took a quick 1-0 lead as junior midfielder Caitlyn Peters one-timed a corner kick by Faherty past Quincy senior keeper and quad-captain Sarah Shea.

Quincy's best scoring bid came from sophomore Courtney Hall, whose shot was tipped over the crossbar by North Quincy senior keeper Kristina Manganaro. It was Manganaro's first game back after spraining an ankle on the first day of pre-season.

Quincy tied the game on a goal by sophomore Jessica Page as she headed in a direct kick by senior quad-captain Kaila Saxe.

Sixteen minutes into the second half, sophomore midfielder Lindsey Clifford netted the game-winner, redirecting a Faherty shot to the near post for a 2-1 advantage. North Quincy added to its lead when Faherty took a pass from junior Eileen Price, beat a defender and scored from 12 yards out.

Playing well for the Red Raiders were senior Ashley Ridge, junior Amanda Saylor, sophomore Caitlin McCleary and freshman Lauren Stille.

North Quincy hosted perennial Old Colony League powerhouse Silver Lake last Friday and prevailed, 2-1.

North Quincy took a 1-0 lead midway through the first half as freshman midfielder Jillian Benn served a perfect direct kick to junior forward Sarah Kennedy, who got behind the defense and scored from 15 yards out for her first varsity goal. Earlier in the half, Peters' shot rang off the far post.

The Lakers evened the score at 1 on a header by Hanna Rappaler. However, the biggest play of the game came just as the first half expired. Silver Lake was awarded a penalty kick on a controversial call and Manganaro came up big for North Quincy with a diving save at the right post to preserve the tie.

The Red Raiders tallied the game-winner on a corner kick as Ryan played a perfect ball to Price, who slid to knock the ball past the goalie. Ryan later hit the crossbar from 20 yards out.

North Quincy thwarted a furious Laker offense as junior Shauna Kelly, senior quad-captain Sarah Gregory, Holleran and Ridge turned back every bid on goal. Junior Kerin Frawley and freshman Bridget Coleman also played well.

"Our goal was to finish the week 2-1 and we did," said head coach Paul Bregoli. "Our inexperience is a factor and will be until we get a few more games under our belts. We had a productive pre-season and scrimmaged four quality teams including Division 2 state finalist King Phillip and Division 3 state finalist Archbishop Williams.

"We should be OK once we begin to know each other and our hope is to qualify for the tournament for the seventh consecutive year."

North Quincy traveled to Taunton Tuesday and will host Falmouth today (Thursday) at 4 p.m. at Teal Field.

Undefeated Brill Club Wins Jimmy Fund Baseball Tourney

The Brill Club, Quincy's 10-year-old travel baseball team, went undefeated as it captured first place in the recent Walpole and Quincy-sponsored Jimmy Fund tournaments.

Walpole Tournament

In the championship game, Matt Goreham and Chris Kingsley turned in fine pitching performances to defeat Mansfield, 6-2.

Malcolm Kelly, Brendan Myers, Matt Forbes and Christian Durham contributed to the offense. Defensively, shortstop/first baseman Greg Nelson and catcher Kelly had excellent games.

In the semifinal, Quincy edged Pembroke, 10-9. Quincy, which was rolling along with a 9-1 lead on Goreham's (4 innings, 1 run) strong arm, quickly saw the lead evaporate as Pembroke tied the score at 9-9 in the sixth inning. Quincy held tough and didn't brake as Kingsley bore down and got out of a second and third, one-out situation to keep the game tied.

In the bottom of the sixth, Quincy pushed across the winning run on a hustling Durham slow roller to second that scored Nelson from third. Also adding to the offense were Nick Radcliffe, Liam Cain, Kelly and Goreham.

In the third game, Quincy topped Walpole National, 6-1. Kingsley pitched an outstanding game with a complete-game effort. Offensively, he also added to his own cause while Colin Ryan, Goreham and Myers also added to the punch. Defensively, Paul Gould and Tommy Mahoney stood out.

In the second game, Quincy knocked off Weymouth, 8-1. Matt Layden and Ryan turned in great pitching performances. Stephen Brown, Gould and Nelson had the big bats while Radcliffe and Kelly turned in fine defensive efforts.

In the opener, Goreham tossed a no-hitter with 12 strikeouts in a 10-0 victory over Wellesley. Goreham, Ryan, Durham and Forbes contributed to the attack. Kelly had a strong game behind the plate.

Jimmy Fund Tournament

In the championship game, Nelson and Ryan each pitched well in an 8-2 win over Scituate's 11-year-old "B" team.

Quincy scored all the runs it needed in the first three innings and never looked back. Brown, Gould and Forbes led the attack and Durham, Kingsley and Mahoney played well defensively.

In the semifinal, Quincy beat Scituate's 10 "A" team, 12-3, as Nelson (3 runs scored) and Kingsley turned in strong outings from the mound. Kelly, Radcliffe and Ryan led the offense, while Kelly, Cain and Kingsley paced the defense.

In the third game, Quincy defeated Milton National, 8-5, in its most exciting game of the tourney. Quincy jumped out to an early 5-0 lead only to see Milton tie it at 5 in the fourth inning.

Quincy took the lead for good in the fifth as Brown's pinch-hit single drove in the go-ahead runs. Goreham and Myers also chipped in offensively. Layden, Kingsley and Nelson all pitched well.

In the second game,

Quincy routed Braintree, 13-2. Durham, Myers and Cain all pitched strong games. Nelson, Mahoney and Brown powered the offense and Forbes and Kingsley led the defense.

In the opener, Quincy downed Braintree, 17-8, as it scored 14 runs in the first three innings and coasted on from there. Nelson, Radcliffe, Kelly, Kingsley and Goreham sparked the offensive outburst. Cain, Myers, Mahoney and Gould pitched effectively.

The Brill Club thanked the tournament staff in Quincy, led by Bob Griffin, for their dedicated efforts.

Raiders Drop Football Opener To Boston Latin

The North Quincy High School football team dropped its season opener last Saturday afternoon at Boston Latin, 27-8.

Senior quad-captain and tailback Brandon Neves scored the Red Raiders' lone touchdown in the third quarter on a 3-yard run. Senior quad-captain and quarterback Jimmy Burke hit junior tight end Alex Tringale with the 2-point conversion pass.

"We played very well," said head coach Tony Green. "Our young kids gave everything they had, but they're just young. The good part was that even though we played so many young kids, we made Boston Latin earn their touchdowns."

North Quincy (0-1) kicks off Old Colony League play when it travels to Marshfield tomorrow (Friday) night at 7. Last season, the Red Raiders suffered a 27-6 loss to the Rams at home.

"Last year Marshfield was rebuilding and this year they're cashing in," said head coach Tony Green. "They have some massive linemen and extremely quick backs. What we need to do to beat Marshfield is cut down on our fumbles. We already cut down on penalties.

"The big key for the whole season is to continue to work with our younger players, the juniors and sophomores, to compete at the varsity level."

Against Boston Latin, North Quincy had only one penalty (offside) but coughed the ball up three times as it fell behind 21-0.

Neves, who played the entire game on offense, defense and special teams, finished with 85 yards on 15 carries and five tackles defensively. Burke connected on 5-of-7 passes for 42 yards and no interceptions while rushing for 55 yards on six carries.

Senior quad-captain Mike Dolbear recorded 11 solo tackles from his free safety position to lead the defense.

"The offensive line played very well," Green said. "They gave up no tackles for a loss and no sacks."

COMPUTER DIAGNOSTICS

Automotive technology has evolved to the point where today's vehicles have computers that generate data streams that flow through the operating systems of the vehicle. When a problem with a computer-controlled vehicle occurs, it may show up as a drivability problem and/or a lit "check engine" light on the dashboard. The problem may be due to a bad sensor, a malfunctioning electrical or mechanical component, damaged wiring and plugs, and so on. The system is designed to generate a trouble code when it sees a problem. This code lodges in the computer's memory for retrieval at a later date by a diagnostic computer that interfaces with the vehicle's computer. This sophisticated diagnostic procedure takes the guesswork out of identifying problems.

SPOTLIGHT ON HEALTH & FITNESS

Exercise: Add Years To Your Life, Life To Your Years

(ARA) - The evidence is clear: a healthier and fitter lifestyle — not to mention a younger attitude — can delay, prevent or even reverse much of the physical decline normally associated with aging.

Yet, many retirees do no meaningful exercise, and half of American retirees are completely sedentary, according to the latest research from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

A common misperception is that by the time someone is 60 or 65, it's too late to make changes in lifestyle that can be reversed, says Spiewak. "It's never too late," says Spiewak. "You can start at any age, and you can reverse a lot of things."

It has been proved that exercise for seniors can produce a variety of benefits. Benefits of Exercise Older, inactive adults lose ground in four areas that are important for staying healthy and independent: endurance, strength, balance and flexibility.

Fortunately, exercise programs can maintain or restore these areas.

Endurance — Exercise increases breathing and heart rate. It improves the health of the heart, lungs and circulatory system. Having more endurance can improve stamina for the tasks needed to live independently.

Strength — Exercise can do more than just increase strength. It gives the elderly the ability to do things on their own. Even very small increases in muscle mass can make a big difference in ability, especially for frail people.

Balance — Exercise is designed to help prevent a common problem in older adults: falls. Falling is a major cause of broken hips and other injuries that often lead to disability and loss of independence.

Flexibility — Exercise helps keep the body limber by stretching muscles and the tissues that hold the body's structures in place.

Physical therapists and other health professionals recommend certain stretching exercises to help patients recover from injuries and to prevent injuries from happening in the first place.

"For the most part, when older people lose the ability to do things on their own, it is not because they have aged," says Spiewak. "More likely, it is because they have become inactive."

A program of regular exercise has been proved to slow several key aspects of aging — such as loss of muscle and bone — allowing physically active adults to perform like someone much younger.

Based on her experience with more than 17,000 Kelly home care specialists annually, Spiewak advises that it's never too late to incorporate fitness into a senior's daily regimen.

First, she says seniors should talk with their primary care physician before starting any exercise program. "They need to find out what form of exercise is beneficial, safe and consistent with their lifestyle. Unless they have major medical problems that prevent them from exercising, chances are their doctor will encourage them."

Keeping it going Seniors who decide to begin exercising need to start at a level they can manage and build upon. More importantly, commitment and enthusiasm need to last a lifetime.

The benefits of exercise and physical activity come from making them a permanent habit. How much one exercises depends on their unique situation.

For some, muscle-building exercise might mean pushing more than 100 pounds of weight at the local gym to keep their legs in shape for hiking or jogging.

"For others," says Spiewak, "it might mean lifting 1-pound weights to strengthen their arm muscles enough to use a washcloth. That might make the difference in being able to maintain their own care needs instead of being dependent on someone else."

The goal is to improve from wherever you are right now."

Getting a Workout Doesn't Have to Leave You Hurting

(ARA) — Most people slow down as they enter their golden years, but not Christine Chalupa, 57, of Seattle. She pushes herself to the limit every day.

"I have been biking for 15 years and running competitively for about five," says Chalupa. "On the days when I'm not competing, I go to the YMCA and workout. I have to do it because if I don't, I just don't feel good." Josh Madigan, 28, of Minneapolis, Minn., says he exercises for the same reason. "Exercising helps me stay fit and gives me the energy I need to make it through the day," says Madigan.

Both amateur athletes are getting what they want out of their exercise regimens now, but it hasn't always been that way. "I used to get terrible chafing between the legs when I ran long distances. The only way it would go away was if I stopped for a week or two to let the chafing heal," says Madigan. "When I first started competing, I had terrible blisters with chafing. I would rub Vaseline or petroleum jelly between my thighs to try and prevent it, but that didn't always work," says Chalupa.

The chafing problem went away practically overnight for both Chalupa and Madigan when they started using BodyGlide, a skin lubricant that contains no petroleum and no medicine. "The product comes in a convenient stick and it 'glides on' to the skin. It is used anywhere on the body to help prevent chafing and blisters."

"Before BodyGlide came on the scene, there were other skin lubricants containing mostly petroleum or other oils. The 'magic' ingredients that set BodyGlide apart are all natural waxes derived from plants," says Bill Sternoff, the company president. "When you are exercising, your body temperature rises by several degrees. Typically, it leads to blisters on your feet and irritation or chafing, elsewhere."

"Lotions and ointments, such as petroleum jelly or Vaseline, won't stay where you put them because the oils don't adhere to the skin. And when you perspire, which is necessary to cool the body, the moisture causes the oil-based products to float away, which leaves your skin vulnerable to friction burns, chafing, and blisters."

Sternoff says the trouble comes from skin rubbing against skin such as in the thighs, rubbing from shorts, sports bras or other clothing, and from athletic shoes and footwear that cause blisters. "The non-oily, non-messy BodyGlide formula penetrates the cells of your skin, stays where needed, does not clog pores, and it comfortably guards your skin against friction wherever you need protection," says Sternoff.

BodyGlide comes in two formulas: original and BodyGlide SPF, which has a sun protection factor of 25. Both are water and sweat resistant. BodyGlide SPF is often used just as sun screen because it stays on and won't melt off.

The reputation for long-lasting reliability in recreational and competitive sports, most notably running, cycling, swimming and triathlon, led to development of a topical analgesic used to get warmed-up for activity, and for pain relief.

"WarmFX 'glides on' directly and it warms you up. You don't have to wash it off your hands, which is the number one complaint about other analgesic products. It's self-actuating, meaning the more WarmFX you apply, the hotter it gets and the longer it lasts," says Sternoff.

"While most analgesics are used after you develop pain or soreness, WarmFX is formulated to get you ready for activity. It stimulates your circulation, it's non-oily, it penetrates your skin, and it stays where you need it."

WarmFX is an over the counter product, easy to use to help prevent soreness or for pain relief in the shoulders, neck, upper and lower back, legs or knees.

BodyGlide products are available at general sporting goods, outdoor, and specialty running, cycling, and swimming stores across the United States and Canada. They are also available online from a wide variety of retailers.

DENTISTRY for the 21st Century

by Steven A. Brustin, D.M.D.

PREGNANT WITH POSSIBILITIES

Pregnant women should make a trip to the dentist as mandatory as a trip to the obstetrician. New research shows that untreated gum disease may increase the risk of preeclampsia, which is a potentially serious pregnancy complication that leads to dangerous swelling throughout the body. According to a recent study, pregnant women with severe periodontal disease at the time of delivery were nearly two- and a half times more likely to develop preeclampsia than were women with healthy gums. It is thought that periodontal disease may cause systemic infection, as well as an infection in the blood stream, which may be a link to preeclampsia. This finding provides pregnant women, as well as those contemplating pregnancy, with good reason to visit the dentist.

Since there is no pain or discomfort present during the initial stages of periodontal disease, people often ignore the signs and symptoms, believing them to be normal occurrences. Knowledge about gum disease is, therefore, imperative to dental health. If you need answers to questions about gum disease or any other dental concerns, don't hesitate to contact us at 617-479-6220. Our recommendations for dental treatment are always in the best interest of the patient. We're located at 44 Greenleaf Street. We offer the services of anesthesiologist and a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. Our web address is www.quincydentist.com.

P.S. Preeclampsia, which is characterized by a rapid rise in blood pressure, affects roughly 8% of pregnant women.

SCOTT DEWARE

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

It has been said that, "Human nature being what it is does not change." True? Absolutely not! To those that claim, "Human nature never changes," it is fair to reply, "It is human nature to change itself."

There have been people down through history who HAVE changed the directions of their lives. They have come to a moment in life when they said, "From here on out I intend to alter my ways, to change my course of living."

Before we give up all hope in man changing; before we throw our weight to those who do not give man the benefit of the doubt, should we not remember the twice-born men, like Paul, who changed the course of their lives?

The power of God on the human heart can change a person's habits, impulses, and tastes. The important fact is that religion can take men where it finds them and changed them into what God wants them to be.

God wants men who are weak, for in Him they become strong. God wants men who are afraid, for if they let Him, He can make them men of courage. God wants men who are profane, for when they gamble their lives on Him they become men of great praise. In short, God wants you! ...

Salome's Stars

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Spending time on a creative project during this high-energy week can pay off both in emotional satisfaction and in impressing someone who is glad to see this side of you.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Now is a good time to start planning that trip you've put off because of the demands on your time. Be sure to choose a destination that is new and exciting.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) That upbeat mood in the first part of the week makes you eager to take on new ventures. A more serious note sets in later to help you assess an upcoming decision.

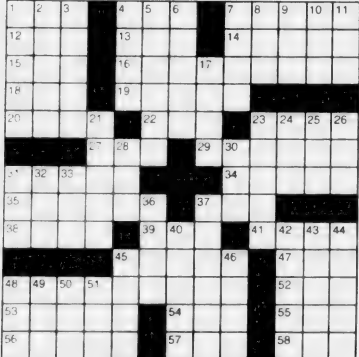

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) A high energy level gives the Goat the get-up-and-go to finish outstanding tasks before deadline, leaving time for well-earned fun and games with friends and family.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Dealing with disappointment is never easy. But the wise Aquarian will use it as a vital lesson and be the better for it. A close friend has something important to say.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Best bet is not to get involved in an argument between colleagues until you know more about who started it and why. And even then, appearances could be deceiving. Be alert.

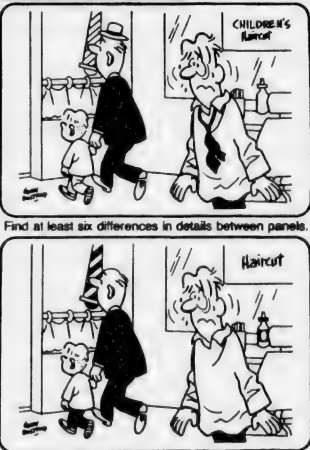

BORN THIS WEEK: You have creative gifts that inspire those who get to see this sometimes-hidden side of you.

HARVEY KERTZMAN put a little fun into politics Tuesday in front of the Adams Shore Library in Ward 1, holding the campaign signs of his mayoral rivals, incumbent William Phelan and Joseph Newton. Kertzman, who used business cards instead of signs for himself, was eliminated from the mayor's race by Phelan and Newton.

MARY LE PORTE found herself all alone as she voted at 2 p.m. Tuesday at Ward 6, Precinct 5 in the Squantum School. But the actual number of voters reached 12,747 city-wide for a turnout of 24.4 percent.

BOB POUND rewarded voters with free hot dogs outside the Squantum School in Ward 6 Tuesday. Giving him a hand were Justin Keenan and Taylor Shepherd, both 9.

Phelan Cruises, Newton Take Second Spot

a vote of 702 - 166 behind Kelly.

Trailing them were James L. Bottary, Jr., 605; Joanne M. Bythrow, 551; and Sean McArdle, 316.

Incumbent Linda Stice, seeking her fourth term, led the eight-candidate field for the six nominations for school committee. Stice's vote was 6,582 - which was 2,076 more than the second place finisher.

Only 58 votes separated the second and third place winners, Ronald P. Iacobucci and Brian H. Buckley. Iacobucci's vote was 4,506 to Buckley's 4,448.

The other nominations went to Theresa M. Lord-

Piattelli, 3,885; Elaine F. Dwyer, who currently holds a seat but not as an incumbent, 3,530; and David F. McCarthy, 3,291.

Eliminated were Stephen P. Golden, 2,526; and John L. Rodophele, 932.

11 Candidates Not On Tuesday's Ballot

Eleven candidates were not on the ballot Tuesday because they were not in preliminary contests.

They were the following candidates for the following offices:

Council at-large: Councilors Joseph Finn, John Keenan and Francis X. McCauley; Jo-Ann Bragg, Jimmy Liang, Robert Boussy.

Ward 2 Council: Incumbent Daniel Raymondi, unopposed.

Ward 3 Council: Incumbent Kevin Coughlin, and John Cain.

Ward 4 Council: Jay Davis, unopposed.

Ward 5 Council: Incumbent Douglas Gutro, unopposed.

Seven candidates would have been required for a preliminary run-off for councilor at-large. At least three candidates would be needed in each of the wards for council preliminary contests.

These candidates and the winners in Tuesday's preliminary contests for mayor, school committee and Wards 1 and Ward 6 city council will appear on the Nov. 4 final election ballot.

Burgin Parkway Overpass, Crown Colony Ramps Proposed

By TOM HENSHAW

A design public hearing will be held Wednesday, Oct. 22, at 7 p.m. at City Hall to discuss proposed major improvements to the Route 3/Burgin Parkway/Centre Street Interchange in South-west Quincy.

The purpose of the hearing, scheduled by Mass Highway for the second floor conference room at City Hall, is to acquaint the public with details of the project and secure comments.

The proposal consists of intersection improvements at Burgin Parkway/Centre Street, Burgin Parkway/Penn Street and Crown Colony Drive/Congress Street.

Also construction of an overpass for southbound traffic on Burgin Parkway over Centre Street and construction of two on-ramps from Crown Colony Drive connecting to existing Route 3 on-ramps.

Additional proposed work includes traffic signal modifications, pavement overlay, curbing, sidewalks, pavement markings and other incidentals.

Plans will be on display a half hour before the hearing begins with an engineer in attendance to answer questions.

The city of Quincy will be responsible for a secure right of way in private or public land needed for the project. Mass Highway's policy on land acquisitions will be discussed at the hearing.

Written comments received by Mass Highway up to five days prior to the hearing will be displayed for public inspection at the hearing.

Written statements in addition to oral comments made at the hearing should be addressed to: Thomas F. Broderick, P.E., Chief Engineer, Massachusetts Highway Department, 10 Park Plaza, Boston MA 02116.

Deadline for receipt of written comments is 10 days following the public hearing.

Council Reviewing Complaints About Alleged Zoning, Rooming Violations

By WILLIAM TRAYNOR

The city council Monday night agreed to review complaints from residents alleging there are a number of zoning violations and unlicensed rooming houses throughout the city.

Ward 5 Councillor Doug Gutro introduced a resolution seeking to clarify the city's role as it reviews alleged zoning and rooming house violations. The resolution was placed into the council's housing and oversight committees for review.

Gutro said he has received complaints from many residents who suspect that owners are violating the city's zoning laws and operating unlicensed rooming houses.

"The issue of alleged rooming house violations is a growing issue," said Gutro. "The intent here is that you need a level playing field, because there are rooming house owners who are playing by the rules."

Gutro said it is important for the council to discover the scope of the city's authority with regard to policing alleged violators and the enforcement of the city's zoning codes. He said he could identify 15 or 20 locations in his ward that are suspected to be illegal.

"That's one of the questions," said Gutro. "What is permissible under existing law and what can we do to modify the law? We want to handle it appropriately to address the concerns of neighbors, but we don't want a police state either."

Ward 3 Councillor Kevin Coughlin agreed the issue needs to be addressed.

"I'm getting calls weekly about this issue," he said. "It appears that people are buying single-family or two-family homes and allowing multitudes of people to live in them."

Coughlin also said he has received many complaints from residents who claim that neighbors are performing construction on homes without a building permit.

Homeowners must obtain a rooming house license if four or more unrelated people are living in the same residence, according to Walter White, director of Inspectional Services.

"Anyone can rent three rooms to unrelated individu-

Asks Romney To Reconsider City Council Urges DTA Office Be Kept Open

By WILLIAM TRAYNOR

By an overwhelming 9-0 vote, the city council Monday night backed a resolution asking Gov. Mitt Romney to reconsider his decision to close the Quincy office of the Department of Transitional Assistance (DTA), which serves 1,000 Quincy households on an annual basis.

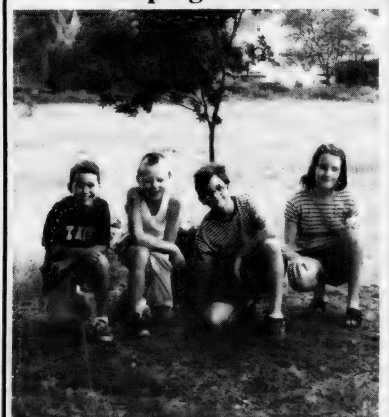

Claiming the state will save approximately $2.3 million, Gov. Mitt Romney has proposed consolidating local health and social services office throughout the state. One of the proposed closings is the Quincy DTA office, located on 1515 Hancock St., which provides financial and other assistance to thousands of residents on the South Shore. The office is scheduled to close in mid-November, under Romney's plan.

Most of the Quincy clients of the DTA office will be transferred to a Roxbury office in Newmarket Square, Boston. Aid recipients from other towns on the South Shore will be shifted to offices in Brockton and

New Chinese Restaurant To Open At Former Parade Of Shoes

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

Two years ago, you could go in and buy a pair of shoes at Parade Of Shoes. Now you will be able to order a poo poo platter, a plate of chow mein and fried rice when the Hong Kong Eatery opens on 1510 Hancock St.

The License Board granted a common victualer and beer and wine license Tuesday to owner Johnny C.M. Chu.

Atty. Gerard Fong, counsel for Chu, showed floor plans to the board including seating for 98 persons, with dining on the left of the building and a bar in the center for take out orders.

Fong said there would be major renovations inside and in the front and back of the building, where there is parking as well as out front.

The owner has had a restaurant on Harrison Ave. in Boston for the past ten years, and according to Fong has an excellent reputation.

The menu will feature Cantonese and will be open for breakfast at 7 a.m. and remain open until 1 a.m.

They had earlier asked for a 2 a.m. closing but received opposition from both Police Chief William Falco, and Ward 6 Councillor Doug Gutro, who feared that others in the area would want the same closing time.

Falco said he feared that when other establishments closed, people would flock to the Hong Kong eatery until 2 a.m.

Maralin Manning, executive director of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association said "empty stores do not do well," and said that the building had been empty for more than two years, and that the new owner was "well respected" as he owned one of the finest restaurants in Boston.

His wanting to come to Quincy was an "asset to the city", she said.

Gutro said the face of Quincy Center is changing and so the future of Quincy as well.

Although not opposed to the restaurant, he noted that the city has had a flood of new restaurants lately, and questioned whether they should be changes in the zoning laws.

Health Commissioner Drew Scheele said he was concerned about a flooding problem and asked if the new owner had observed the water line from the basement. Chu said the previous flooding was due to a defective sump pump. He assured the board that new sump pumps were being installed.

After 18 Years

Parking Control Officer Virginia Sines Retiring

After 18 years of handing out parking tickets, Virginia Sines is calling it a day.

Sines is scheduled to retire at the end of the month after serving 18 years as a parking control officer for the city. Her last day of work is also her birthday, Sept. 30.

"I don't want to do another winter, they are tough," said Sines, a West Quincy resident.

Sines is married to retired Quincy firefighter Warren Sines. The couple has three sons and two grandchildren.

Over the years, Sines has noticed a dramatic increase in traffic and the number of cars in the city. "It's worse than ever before, there are so many more cars now," she said.

After retiring, Sines says she plans on taking a few months off before making a decision on the next chapter in her life.

"I'm going to take some time off and stay inside for awhile," she said.

In Three Separate Incidents

13 City Employees Cited For Bravery And Quick Action

By WILLIAM TRAYNOR

Thirteen city employees were praised for their bravery and swift action during a ceremony held in Mayor William Phelan's office last week.

Last Friday, Phelan handed out citations to the employees for their actions during three recent incidents: a fire on Elmwood Ave., a fight near Balducci's Pizza and a foiled robbery attempt.

"We don't do enough to let our folks know what they do each and every day," said Phelan during the ceremony. The mayor said the employees displayed great bravery, and their actions demonstrated a willingness on the part of city employees to work cooperatively.

The city cited Parks Department employees Steve Mancuso and Neil MacQuinn, who were on duty trimming trees when they noticed smoke billowing from a home on Elmwood Ave. They contacted the police and fire departments, who responded to the incident. The smoke proved to be a fire, and the employees' quick action helped to bring the fire under control sooner rather than later, Phelan said.

"When there is a crisis city employees come together to help, whether it's a water main break or a fire," said Tom Koch, commissioner of the Park, Forestry and Cemetery Departments.

Firefighters Lt. Ralph Blight and new recruit Chris Carthas, along with Ernest Arienti, were cited for their part in fighting the fire and rescuing a resident who was trapped in the home.

"That's what the fire department is all about, preventing fires and saving a life," said Fire Chief Paul O'Connell.

Police Chief William Falco praised officers Dennis Keenan, Keith Wilbur and Chris McDermott for their efforts during the fire.

Police officers and firefighters were singled out for their actions during a violent incident on Sept. 11 that began at Balducci's Pizza in North Quincy. Police officers Paul Foley and Dennis Keenan tracked down a suspect who allegedly assaulted another individual inside the establishment. They confronted the suspect on Hancock St., and a fight ensued. Officers Dan Flaherty and Brian Coen assisted the officers. Firefighters Arienti and Deputy Joseph Walsh also assisted during the incident. City officials said officer Keenan was injured during the melee. The incident is still under investigation, according to city officials.

City officials also praised DPW employee Ed Leary for helping to apprehend a suspect who allegedly robbed another individual at knifepoint. After viewing the attempted robbery, Leary ran after the suspect, eventually tackling him to the ground. The victim positively identified the suspect as the one who committed the crime.

Leary was praised for risking his own safety to assist police.

Killed In Iraq

Council Asks For Memorial For Sgt. Charles Caldwell

The city council Monday night passed a resolution calling on the city to erect a memorial for Sgt. Charles Caldwell, the Quincy native who was killed in Iraq recently.

Introduced by Ward 6 Councillor Joe Newton, the resolution asks the mayor, Veteran's Services and the Park and Recreation Board to come up with a suitable memorial for the veteran.

Caldwell, 38, was killed Sept. 1 when the Humvee he was riding in drove over a land mine.

He was buried last week in Mount Wollaston Cemetery with full military honors.

"I just think it's very important to recognize Sgt. Caldwell for defending his country," said Newton.

Two Lingering Questions

Two questions lingering from last week's mayoral preliminary election:

"Is it all over?"

"Can Joe Newton still do it?"

Incumbent William Phelan's cruise to a nomination for a second term bid has many believing it is over.

But there are some who think Newton, an underdog, can still catch up with a chance to turn it around by Nov. 4.

One of them is Newton himself.

NEWTON

"It's going to be an uphill battle," he concedes. "But it can be done. I'm going to press the issues all the way to Nov. 4."

He notes he got into the race at the last minute and had little time and little money to launch the campaign he would like to have been able to do.

"I now have six weeks to get those issues out there and I intend to do just that," he says.

Phelan sees the vote as an indication that people feel he is moving the city forward, which has been the theme of his campaign.

Last week's vote would seem to tip things heavily in favor of Phelan. He got just under 68 percent (67.93) to Newton's 27 percent (27.03) of the vote. Phelan's vote was 8,504 to Newton's 3,385 — a margin of 5,120.

Phelan took nothing for granted and worked at getting his vote out to open as much distance as possible between him and Newton to keep Newton from getting a foothold for Nov. 4.

Something like in those old cowboy movies and "cut 'em off at the pass." The preliminary election was the pass.

The effort against Newton was somewhat similar, but not quite at the same level as Phelan's run against incumbent Jim Sheets two years ago that gave him his stunning 17-vote upset win in the city's closest ever mayoral election.

Newton supporters were hoping to see him reach the 30 percent — or a little better — mark to energize his campaign from now to Nov. 4. And make it easier to raise money.

Some note if you took third candidate Harvey Kertzman's 4.55 percent and added it to Newton's 27.03 percent he would have 31 percent, close to 32 percent.

But that would be assuming that those who voted for Kertzman (569) would have voted for Newton if Kertzman wasn't on the ballot. And that's a bit of a stretch.

Newton says the preliminary election was only the first round and the second round Nov. 4 is the one that really counts.

He has his work cut out for him.

And Phelan has no thoughts of coasting the rest of the way.

He knows what underdogs can do. He was one once. And did it.

HARVEY KERTZMAN, who was eliminated from the mayor's race in his first run for elective office, found it an interesting experience overall.

Interesting enough that he says:

"I might even run again."

And he muses: "I spent only $80 in the campaign. If I had spent $600 I might have won."

PHELAN

Kertzman says he got into the race when City Council President Dan Raymondi decided not to run and it looked like Phelan might go unopposed.

"I just feel it isn't right for the people of Quincy not to have a choice," he says. "That's why I got in."

Incidentally, Kertzman says he will probably remain neutral in the final election.

GEORGE BURKE will receive another prestigious honor Saturday from his alma mater, the University of Massachusetts at Amherst.

He will be presented with the Newman Medal for extraordinary service to the university and its Newman Center. The presentation will be made by Bishop Thomas Dupre and interim University President Jack Wilson at a dinner at the Campus Center following a 4:30 p.m. liturgy in the Newman Center.

Burke, a prominent Quincy attorney and former district attorney, state representative and city councilor, is funding a new athletic-cafeteria room in the Newman Center. And at his request, it is being named for his old teammate and longtime friend, former House Speaker Dave Bartley, now president of Holyoke Community College. Burke and Bartley were the left and right guards on the U-Mass basketball team in the 1950s and later served together in the House of Representatives.

The Hall of Fame in the Mullin Center was named after Burke in 1994. He wore No. 32 when he played and Julius Irving wore it after him. The two No. 32s are now retired side by side in their honor.

Burke has maintained close ties with U-Mass since his graduation and has been a generous benefactor.

In addition to helping the school, he has been helping Quincy and North Quincy High School graduates get there.

In the past 11 years he has presented $67,000 in scholarships — $1,000 to each of 67 graduates who have gone on to U-Mass.

TOP VOTING HONORS in last week's preliminary election went to — no surprise — Precinct 5 in Ward 6.

Voters in that precinct vote at the Squantum School and traditionally represent the biggest or one of the biggest turnouts in any election year.

Last week, 1,101 of the precinct's 2,108 registered voters cast ballots. That's 52 percent. And more than double the city-wide 25 percent (24.41).

Runner-up honors went to Precinct 5 in Ward 1 where 873 of the 1,972 registered voters — almost 45 percent — voted at St. Thomas Aquinas Hall in Houghs Neck.

Both Wards 6 and 1 had hot preliminary contests for city council, each with an open seat and each with a field of five candidates.

That sparked voter interest but both Squantum and Houghs Neck usually produce big number turnouts every election.

VETERAN SERVICES DIRECTOR Henry (Hank) Bradley and his wife, Rosemarie, are proudly showing pictures of their third grandchild, first grandson.

John Peter Hood, son of daughter Helena and son-in-law Peter Hood Jr. of J. St., Hull, was born Aug. 19 at South Shore Hospital. And he made an impressive debut at 9 pounds, 5 ounces.

Congratulations all around.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1915 postcard view of the Daniel Shed Memorial now located at the center of the rotary on Palmer Street in Germantown. The beacon stands over 18 feet above the ground. The bronze tablet on the base tells the story of the monument and of the Shed family who settled here in the 1600s, and for whom this area was once known as Shed's Neck. In the 1700s, a German planned industrial community was laid out here and a glass works was started, but that didn't last although the name Germantown has survived. In 1856, Sailor's Snug Harbor was founded here as a home for old sailors. The home is long gone, but its graveyard and its name also survive. When the Shed Family Association erected this memorial in 1916, they had hoped to restore the name of Shed's Neck as they expressed on the tablet. Their message has gone unheeded, but the monument still stands.

READERS FORUM

On QHS: Do We Look Back, Or Look Forward?

Lately, the big debate in Quincy is the issue of whether or how to build a new Quincy High School and also relocate the students from the aging Central Middle School.

Some people think it is too expensive a proposition even with the so-called 90 percent reimbursement. Some think there is no need to build a new high school building. Some think there's little wrong with the Central building.

Will it cost $30 million with the state kicking in the rest over seven or eight years? Will it cost taxpayers a $110 million today? Can we financially handle any of this? Is any of this educationally needed?

Quincy seems to love operating in a crisis mode. Everything has a deadline which was yesterday. Does Quincy need a high school? Is the one being proposed for Faxon Field the right one? Citizens and taxpayers have a right to know the true costs that Quincy will have to pay. Our politicians have been fouling up this issue for years, wasting valuable time on sites never suited for a school, like the dump site behind the old Bradlees in the Faxon Park area.

However, when it comes to Central Middle School, there can be no denying a new middle school is needed to replace the current 19th century schoolhouse. Perhaps it worked well in 1903 but this is 2003. It is too small and too overcrowded for the students using it today.

School Supt. Rick DeCristofaro is right, a building doesn't teach children. Learning happens with good teachers and motivated students. Classroom education can survive without a brand new building costing around $30 million, but the infrastructure around teachers and students make educating that much better or worse for all. We shortchange our children, cramping them into old structures that opened back when kids rode horse and wagons to school. A 21st education is hampered in a 19th century building.

The real problem I believe fueling the uproar has less to do with the need for new structures and more to do with the poor job our elected officials have done getting from the idea to the reality. Their actions are what has stirred up the idea that we can get by with what we have today. Had our pols done a better job at explaining why we need a new high school and a new home for Central, we wouldn't be having such a great controversy on our hands.

If the city says no to a new high school, we are assigning the next generation of students to continue in the status quo. Also, we tell working families looking for a place to build a home to look elsewhere where education is given a higher priority. If we say no to new home for Central students, we give those pupils additional roadblocks into their futures.

While I do dislike the way City Hall has tied Quincy High to Central to Sterling, in effect these schools are tied. We are one city with many goals but our most important goal is educating our future which is our kids. Quincy of tomorrow will rise or fall on what actions we take today. Do we live our lives looking back or looking forward?

18th Century Life Reprised At Adams Park Colonial Fair

Visitors to the Adams National Historical Park will be offered a chance to sample the sights, sounds and tastes of the 18th century at a Colonial Fair Sunday, Sept. 28 from 12 noon to 4 p.m.

All activities are free of charge and will take place at the Adams Birthplaces, 133 and 141 Franklin St.

Abigail Adams, the wife of John Adams, the second president of the United States, will welcome visitors to her home and invite them to make their marks with quill pen on parchment paper.

Visitors of all ages will be able to practice military maneuvers with the captain of the local militia, engage in a skirmish with the "redcoats," and be "paid" in 18th century currency.

Douglas Neumann will portray a Continental soldier with a remarkable collection of 18th century military artifacts.

Michael LePage will portray Dr. Joseph Warren, the Adams family's personal physician who was killed in the Battle of Bunker Hill and Elisha Skinner, an 18th century doctor portrayed by Edw in Page will pay a house call on the Adamses.

Julia Smith will demonstrate Delft pottery painting, members of the South Shore Spinners Guild will demonstrate the art of spinning and carding wool, and candlemakers will show visitors how beeswax candles were used to light early American homes.

Finally, all Patriots will celebrate their taste of freedom with cup of fresh mulled cider and a training cake (a ginger cookie).

Further information can be obtained by calling the park at 617-770-1175.

Memorabilia Of City's First Synagogue Sought For Anniversary Celebration

One hundred years of organized Jewish life in Quincy will be celebrated Thursday, Oct. 23 at 7 p.m. at the Quincy Historical Society located in the Adams Academy, Adams St., Quincy Center.

The committee planning the celebration seeks photos, letters, memorabilia or recollections from Quincy Sun readers of Congregation Ahavath Achim, the city's first synagogue which opened 100 years ago on Sept. 14, 1903. The synagogue, located at 141 School St., was attended by some of Quincy's best-known Jewish families, men and women who became famous for their philanthropy and their achievements in a number of occupations.

"We want to honor these founding members during the event, and we are designing a visual display of their accomplishments," said Donna I. Halper, a media historian at Emerson College who is helping to organize the event.

Halper said she has heard from some of Quincy's earliest Jewish families, but she's eager to hear from others, including non-Jews who may have attended an event at Congregation Ahavath Achim, as well as people who knew the rabbis, and any former members of the congregation.

Congregation Ahavath Achim became a focal point for the growing Jewish community in Quincy. Over the years, many important milestones in Jewish life took place here, Halper noted.

"Unfortunately, in 1972, the building that housed Ahavath Achim was destroyed in a fire, and much of the synagogue's story was lost, but," she adds, "the story deserves to be told."

Memorabilia collected will create a timeline of important events in the history of Quincy's Jewish community, and the visuals are especially helpful in bringing to life what these people achieved, Halper said.

Those with memorabilia or recollections of Congregation Ahavath Achim can contact Halper at 617-786-0666 or e-mail dlh@donnahalper.com.

Quincy Pride Volunteer Summit To Be Held Oct. 16

As part of a citywide campaign to increase community pride and involvement in public affairs, Mayor William Phelan announces the First Annual Quincy Pride Volunteer Summit will take place Oct. 16 from 2 to 7 p.m. in the Thomas Crane Public Library Atrium.

A meeting of interested local non-profit and community groups was held at City Hall in July to assess the needs in the community for volunteers. From that meeting, volunteer needs of these groups were assessed, categorized and organized into a comprehensive volunteer opportunity booklet. The booklet will be available Oct. 13 at City Hall, on the Web site and at the volunteer summit.

Phelan said the city, state and country face uncertain times, and his administration is committed to fostering a renewed sense of volunteerism and community spirit throughout Quincy.

"Never has it been more important or more necessary for Quincy residents to aid our neighbors and our community," he said.

"By linking interested volunteers with social service agencies that have an identified need, the Quincy Pride Volunteer Summit is playing a pivotal role in reinvigorating the social fabric that is so important to our community."

Interested volunteers are invited to attend the volunteer summit anytime between 2 and 7 p.m. Oct. 16 to learn more about available opportunities. Social Service groups identified in the booklet will be on hand to provide more information regarding their need and available programs.

Cain Opposes Fines On Shopping Carts

Ward 3 city council candidate John Cain says the issue of shopping carts remains to be serious and important and should be resolved by community involvement, not new city fines or enforcement.

Cain proposes a "community task force" comprising members of the Council on Aging, the Asian community, community policing, supermarket representatives, specific community associations and the mayor's office.

Cain said his preliminary discussions with community affairs executives of stores such as Stop & Shop, Shaw's and Roche Brothers indicate a willingness to proceed to the next step of receiving a proposal from the "task force."

Cain said he spoke with them of a possible donation or funding level to assist senior citizens with transportation and the distribution of free portable shopping carriages as an incentive to discourage removal of store carriages.

Cain said, "something must be implemented because the community is tired of shopping carts left on our streets."

Project SAFE To Inspect Seniors' Smoke Detectors Oct. 4

Twenty teams of volunteers will fan out across Quincy Saturday, Oct. 4, reaching out to seniors "at risk" to check, install and replace smoke detector and batteries.

It will mark the seventh consecutive year the Quincy Fire Department, Beechwood on the Bay and the Quincy Rotary Club have taken part in Project SAFE (Smoke Alarms For Seniors).

"At risk" seniors, those with any mobility or vision limitations, can call Beechwood at 617-471-5712 to request a home visit on Oct. 4. Requests can be received through Oct. 2.

"The unique program provides an essential citywide service for seniors at no cost to senior or to the city," said Sharron Beals, executive director of Beechwood on the Bay.

"Since we launched this initiative seven years ago, we have installed more than 7,000 smoke detectors in the homes of Quincy seniors."

Mayor William Phelan commended the one-of-a-kind Senior Service Program and proclaimed the month of October as "Fire Prevention and SAFE: Seniors Month."

The project was started in 1997 by Beechwood, the Fire Department, the National Fire Prevention Association and the Quincy Rotary Club.

For more information or to register for Senior Saturday (Oct. 4), call Beechwood Community Life Center at 617-471-5712.

The Clam Box Loses Second Bid For Beer, Wine License

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

For the second time in a few months, the License Board denied a request from The Clam Box, 789 Quincy Shore Drive, a beer and wine license in spite of a recommendation from the Alcoholic Beverage Control Commission. (ABCC).

The board first denied the license March 11.

Following the board's decision in March, The Clam Shop appealed to the ABCC.

The vote, taken at Tuesday's meeting, following a lengthy discussion, was three to two, with Chairman Joseph Shea and Health Commissioner Drew Scheele voting in favor.

The first motion made by Scheele called for the issuance of the license, but failed to get a second so it did not carry.

The second motion was made by Police Chief William Falco denying the license.

Urging the board to deny the license, Falco, who said it was no reflection on the owners and their excellent business record, but a matter of public safety and traffic issues.

Falco said he was in a "precarious position" and said if a judge had ruled that the board vote in favor of the license, he would have complied, but since the ABCC has "recommended", he said he would stand by his earlier convictions.

Fire Chief Paul O'Connell, who seconded the motion, agreed with Falco, and added traffic would cause a "demand upon the city", and said knowing Quincy Shore Drive and the horrific things he has seen through the years, he also opposed the license.

Walter White, director of inspectional services said that Quincy Shore Drive is the ultimate route to Boston, and said he considered the addition of a beer and wine license an expansion of the restaurant, a concern he thought was missed by the ABCC.

While others spoke in opposition, Scheele said he and his wife often walk in the area of the restaurant and said there are lights at the intersection and persons cross accordingly. He also stated that the Clam Box wasn't about to put a bar room in the eatery, and added there is no television or Keno. He said he didn't think that having a glass of wine or beer would generate more traffic because of those two reasons, and said he would vote in favor of it.

Shea read a note of opposition from an abutter, while Robert Davey appeared before the board and supported the license.

Ward 5 Councillor Doug Gutro said he was concerned that if the board voted against the issuance of the license, it would ultimately go to court and he questioned whether or not the city could win.

The Clam Box offered conditions including that the cups containing beer and wine would be marked, that only the waiters and waitresses could serve the beer and wine only inside the dining area. Also there would be a door man inspecting that no one leave the premises with a cup of beer and wine.

Shea remarked that the was "not a big condition person", which sometimes are hard to follow.

In pleading his case, Atty. Konstantinos Ligris, counsel for The Clam Box, said the traffic issue was made very clear to the ABCC, and that the restaurant legally met the criteria. He told board members to consider the fitness of the applicant which is crystal clear.

The next move is up to The Clam Box.

Sacred Heart Centennial Celebration Dinner Nov. 1

Sacred Heart Parish in North Quincy will hold a dinner dance banquet to celebrate 100 years as a parish Saturday, Nov. 1, at the Quincy Marriott Ballroom.

The event will begin at 6 p.m. with a social hour followed by a sit-down dinner at 7 p.m. There will be dancing until 12 midnight. Tickets are $60 per person. Each person attending will receive a memento of the event as well as a commemorative book illustrating the history of Sacred Heart Parish.

There are opportunities for those wishing to be included in the Centennial Commemorative book to remember a loved one, act as a sponsor, or to have his or her name listed in the 8 1/2-inch by 11-inch glossy keepsake. Space is available in various sizes and price options. All proceeds from the book will be used to maintain the upkeep of the church.

Anyone interested in attending the event or being part of the commemorative book may contact Sacred Heart Rectory at 617-328-8666 or Thomas Koch at 617-471-7145.

The first Sacred Heart Church was built in 1878 at the corner of Hancock and Hunt Streets and was a mission of St. John's Church. In 1903, it was made a separate parish and the Rev. John F. Cuffe was named the first pastor.

Having outgrown the original structure, land was purchased at the corner of Hancock Street and Glover Avenue for a new Sacred Heart Church. In 1924, work began on the lower church under the direction of Rev. John Casey and in 1931 the new Sacred Heart Church was dedicated.

The newly erected structure did not endure the years as planned. In 1948, tragedy struck in the form of a major fire destroying the church and leaving parishioners devastated. Monsignor Irving L. Clifford, pastor at the time, began the task of raising fund to rebuild.

The city of Quincy provided the use of North Quincy High School for Masses to be said. Work proceeded and a new church edifice was dedicated on Dec. 18, 1949. It was hailed as a sturdy, gothic edifice and is a landmark in the Atlantic area of North Quincy.

As the parish grew, so did its needs and a school was built in 1961. The school serves nearly 500 kindergarten through eighth grade students.

Under the pastorate of the late beloved Rev. Cornelius J. Heery, the lower church was refurbished and rededicated as St. Joseph's Oratory complementing the upper church of Sacred Heart and the chapel dedicated to the Blessed Mother. Father Heery died in 1969. Thousands attended and funeral Mass.

In 1997, Bernard Cardinal Law named the Rev. John W. O'Brien as the sixth pastor of Sacred Heart Parish.

The centennial celebration commenced last winter with a parish mission held in the evening during Lent with over 300 participants. In May, a Mass was celebrated by Bishop Richard Lennon, Reverend O'Brien, Rev. James Robertson, associate pastor, Deacon John Salenius and other priests. More than 800 attended, followed by a social in the school auditorium.

The Quincy Choral Society dedicated a concert to the centennial Sept. 22 at Sacred Heart Church. The final event commemorating the 100th anniversary celebration will be a yearend closing Mass celebrated by Archbishop Sean O'Malley Nov. 23 at Sacred Heart.

Bellotti Presents Delahunt With Marshall Public Service Award

Cong. William Delahunt received the first annual Sheriff Clifford H. Marshall Public Service Award from current Norfolk County Sheriff Michael G. Bellotti at this year's Massachusetts Sheriffs' Association Convention.

As host of the 2003 MSA Convention, Bellotti chose Delahunt as the inaugural recipient of the newly established Marshall Public Service Award.

"I can think of no one better than Bill Delahunt who exemplifies the same commitment to public service as the legendary Clifford Marshall," Sheriff Bellotti said.

Bellotti's idea to name the public service award in honor of the late Clifford Marshall was unanimously agreed upon by the other 13 Massachusetts sheriffs.

Marshall served 22 years as sheriff of Norfolk County, from 1974 to 1996. During his tenure, he produced innovative public safety programs that have become today's standards.

Marshall pioneered the development of substance abuse and domestic violence prevention initiatives, community service work crews and the nation's first Sexual Assault Unit, which he created with the help of then Norfolk County District Attorney William Delahunt.

"That was his idea," Delahunt said during his award acceptance speech. "He always had new ideas. He was always thinking of ways to better serve his electorate. That was Clifford Marshall."

Delahunt addressed the crowd of 350 attendees at the recent MSA Convention Banquet Dinner in the Grand Ballroom of the Braintree Sheraton Hotel.

Every sheriff's office from the state's 14 counties was represented at the banquet.

Delahunt also pointed to the state-of-the-art house of correction on the median strip of Route 128 in Dedham — the only jail in the world built on the median strip of a major highway — as a sparkling example of Marshall's vision and determination as a public servant. Construction of the new jail was completed in 1992.

Delahunt commended Bellotti as a worthy successor to Clifford Marshall, congratulating the Quincy Democrat on his own record of accomplishments and commitment to the community he serves.

Clifford Marshall's wife, Louise, attended the banquet and award ceremony with three of her four sons. Following Congressman Delahunt, Michael Marshall expressed his gratitude and heartfelt thanks.

"To know that this award, named in honor of my father, will go on in perpetuity is an incredible honor and makes all of us (the Marshall family) very proud," he told the ballroom audience.

"Every day, my father woke up and asked, 'What can I do today to make someone's life better?'" Marshall said. "That's a great lesson for all of us."

Clifford Marshall died Aug. 28, 1996. He was 58.

The Marshall Public Service Award will be presented every year by the host sheriff of the Annual MSA Convention.

It will be given to an individual who has demonstrated years of outstanding commitment and dedication to public service.

William Delahunt at the recent Massachusetts Sheriffs' Association Convention. With them is Louise Marshall, wife of the late Clifford Marshall who served as Norfolk County sheriff for 22 years.

Oversight Committee Meets Oct. 7

Council Continues Review Of Fire, Police Hires

The city council will continue to review the city's hiring practices in the police and fire departments after hearing from a civil service commissioner Monday night.

At a meeting of the oversight committee, councillors heard from Civil Service Commissioner Daniel Henderson, who outlined the commission's responsibilities regarding hirings and the appeal process.

At issue is the way in which the city picked a class of 19 new police officers and 22 firefighters, according to some councillors.

Council President Dan Raymond told Henderson that he has received a number of complaints from candidates and veterans who claim they were unfairly bypassed or not given a reason why they were not hired.

Ward 6 Councillor Joe Newton, chairman of the oversight committee, echoed Raymond's sentiments.

"Some of these candidates were very qualified with perfect scores, and I think it is important that they receive an answer why they were not chosen," said Newton, who is running for mayor.

Councillor Frank McCauley also said he has received a few complaints from candidates who were not chosen.

Newton scheduled another meeting of the oversight committee on Oct. 7 at 6:30 p.m. to further review the issue. Henderson may be invited again, he said. Newton said it was possible for the full council to ask the commission to investigate the hiring process.

Newton said he may ask those candidates who were not hired to appear at the meeting.

"We received letters and calls about this situation and now we are trying to find out the scope of the issue," said Newton. "There is a possibility we might ask the Civil Service Commission to review the hiring process."

At the meeting, Assistant City Solicitor Jay MacRitchie indicated that the city would not discuss any pending appeals.

MAYOR WILLIAM PHELAN shakes hands with new firefighter Chris Carthas, who assisted in fighting a fire and rescuing an individual during a blaze on Elmwood Ave. recently. Carthas was one of 13 city employees who were cited for bravery during a ceremony held last week in Phelan's office.

Coughlin Seeking MBTA Improvements At Wollaston Station

Ward 3 Councillor Kevin Coughlin has called on the MBTA to perform capital improvements at the Wollaston Red Line station, specifically to make the station more easily accessible and ADA (Americans With Disabilities Act) compliant.

In a letter to MBTA General Manager Michael Mulhern, Coughlin said a number of Ward 3 residents living on the Newport Ave. side of the station have expressed concerns regarding difficulty of access by the elderly, the physically challenged, and by parents with young children in strollers and baby carriages.

Coughlin cited that the MBTA's fiscal 2004-2008 Capital Investment Program outlines $2.8 billion in system investments over five years. Five percent of that figure will be spent on ADA compliance improvements, with no indication of any intent to address the Wollaston station, he said.

Coughlin has requested that the MBTA, which has proposed a 25 percent fare increase, add Wollaston to the list of stations on the Red Line to be improved.

The ward 3 councillor has also joined Sen. Michael Morrissey in a request for enhanced police presence at the North Quincy MBTA station in light of persistent reports of panhandlers frequenting the station by area residents using that station.

Council Reviewing Alleged Rooming Violations

(Cont'd on from page 1) als, but once you cross the threshold into the fourth individual, then it falls into the category of a rooming house," said White.

White said the department receives two or three complaints each week regarding alleged rooming house violations. Inspectional Services staffs five building inspectors to investigate complaints, he said.

"The problem has been going on for years," said White. "It seems to be coming to a head now. We are stretched thin. We are busier than we have ever been."

White also stressed that rooming houses are allowed only in Residence C or Business B or C zoned districts. Owners can request a variance, but they would be difficult to obtain, White said.

McNamee Calls For Ward 6 Public Debates

Brian McNamee, a candidate for Ward 6 city councillor, is calling for a series of community debates with challenger Alicia Gardner.

McNamee is requesting that the debates be public, be conducted by recognized civic organizations, utilize neutral moderators, permit the public's questioning of candidates; and be held inside Ward 6 to insure all residents of the ward have access to the forum.

Two debates were held before the preliminary election. According to McNamee, few Ward 6 residents were aware of those debates because of their format, sponsor and public notice issues. McNamee also said he believes the criteria for those preliminary election debates did not meet fundamental public access and participatory objectives consistent with the voters' "right to know."

Adoption Information Meeting At Sacred Heart Church Oct. 9

Dennis Sweeney Funeral Home Hosts Open House Saturday

Dennis Sweeney Funeral Home will host an open house as part of National Funeral Service Education Week Saturday, Sept. 27, from 2 to 4 p.m. at the funeral home, 74 Elm St., Quincy Center.

The event is free and open to the public.

National Funeral Service Education Week is the first event of the National Funeral Directors Association (NFDA) "For A Life Worth Celebrating" campaign. The campaign is an opportunity for the general public to learn about the options for creating personal and meaningful funeral services.

Dennis Sweeney Funeral Home and other NFDA member firms will sponsor various events and programs as a part of the campaign.

"We are excited about this opportunity to help families learn more about the many ways in which they may make funerals more personal and more meaningful," said President Dennis S. Sweeney. "We want families to have the resources available to not only acknowledge the death of a loved one but to celebrate their life as well."

Funeral Director Joseph M. Reardon, CPC, added: "Many families taking advantage of our funeral prearrangement program have already seized the opportunity to plan a truly personal funeral service. We hope that this open house will help even more people know that each service can and should be as unique as the individual it honors."

According to Sweeney and Reardon, funerals have become more and more focused on celebrating the lives of those who have died.

Not that long ago, there was almost a "cookie cutter" model of how funerals were conducted, they said. Today, they said funerals tend to reflect the special qualities, talents and hobbies of the deceased.

From selecting scripture passages or musical selections which remind families of the deceased, to displaying golf clubs or even a motorcycle during the services, funerals are truly becoming personal and meaningful tributes to a person's life, they said.

The open house will provide an opportunity for the community to learn more about Dennis Sweeney Funeral Home, and funeral planning. Tours of the facility will be offered and there will be displays featuring some of the ways in which a family may make a funeral more meaningful. Informational brochures and guides will also be available.

Dennis Sweeney Funeral Home is the oldest funeral service provider in Quincy. It is locally owned and operated. The firm provides traditional services, memorial services, cremations and prearrangement services to families in Quincy and on the South Shore.

A Lesson From Hurricane Isabel

Do You Have Enough Flood Insurance?

By CHRISTOPHER HARADEN

Is your home in danger of being flooded?

The recent arrival of Hurricane Isabel in the Mid-Atlantic United States should serve as a reminder for residents of flood-prone areas in New England to examine their coverage.

Residents of inland areas near lakes and rivers — not just those near the coastline — should consider safeguarding their homes, businesses and possessions from the devastation of floods through the National Flood Insurance Program.

"Buying flood insurance is one of the most important things people can do to help themselves recover from flood damage," said Michael D. Brown, director of the Federal Emergency Management Agency, which administers the NFIP and is now part of the U.S. Department of Homeland Security.

Whether you are buying a new home or refinancing your mortgage, it pays to ensure that you have adequate flood insurance coverage. The cost of flood insurance for a home varies depending on the location and individual characteristics of the property.

In Massachusetts, only 27 percent of nearly 100,000 residential and commercial structures located in special flood hazard areas are pro-TECTED with coverage through the NFIP, according to the state Division of Insurance. For example, when severe storms and floods hit Massachusetts in June of 1998, only 2 percent of those who applied for federal and state help carried flood insurance.

The Division provided flood facts consumers should know:

- Your homeowners' policy does not cover you for flood damage.
- You don't have to live near water to be flooded. Approximately 25 percent of all flood insurance claims come from "low-risk" areas. Floods are commonly caused by storms, melting snow, dam or levee failure or water backup due to overloaded drainage systems.
- Flood insurance claims are paid even when a federal disaster is not declared. Almost 90 percent of floods are not designated as disasters by the president.

• Flood insurance is affordable. The average policy costs around $350 annually for about $100,000 of coverage.

• Increasing the number of properties with flood insurance significantly reduces the financial burden placed on federal and state taxpayers following a flood disaster.

• Flood insurance claims are paid with premiums collected, not taxpayer dollars.

• The average cost to repay a disaster loan, available only if a federal disaster is declared, is approximately 12 times as expensive as paying the average annual flood insurance premium.

• Your mortgage company or bank may require you to carry flood insurance, but it is your responsibility to maintain adequate coverage limits.

• Renters of flood-prone properties also may purchase up to $100,000 of coverage for their personal belongings.

The National Flood Insurance Program makes federally backed flood insurance available in communities that agree to adopt and enforce floodplain management ordinances. In Massachusetts, 331 communities participate in the NFIP.

Consumers can learn more by calling the NFIP at (800) 427-4661. Information is also available at the Federal Emergency Management Agency's Internet site, www.fema.gov/nfip.

Is Mold A Menace In Your Home? Find Out For Sure

(ARA) Sick building syndrome has become such a big problem in the United States in recent years, it's a phrase you can now find in the dictionary.

It is defined as an illness characterized by skin irritations, headache, and respiratory problems that is caused by indoor pollutants, inadequate ventilation, and microorganisms, which include mold.

Toxic molds have been making people sick since biblical times, but the scope of the problem really came to the forefront in 1996 when tests by the Centers for Disease Control (CDC) revealed the probable cause of the mysterious illness that killed one infant and sickened nine others at a Cleveland, Ohio, housing project. The babies, who lived within close proximity to one another, all suffered from the same rare lung disorder characterized by pulmonary hemorrhaging.

The likely cause: Stachybotrys chartarum, a greenish-black mold. It was found in every one of their homes. In recent years, the same toxic mold has been responsible for countless other incidents of sick building syndrome at schools, public offices and even single family homes. "Part of the problem is our current construction practices," says Seth Norman, CEO of Walled Lake, Mich.-based Mold Free, a nationwide mold inspection and remediation service. "We close our buildings tight to make them energy efficient, and as a result, building materials exposed to moisture never get a chance to dry out."

Burst or leaking plumbing, leaking roofs, ground water seepage, water and flood damage can cause thousands of different types of molds, bacteria, mildew and even black mold to grow on fiberboard, gypsum board, paper, dust, and lint. Visible mold can be cleaned off surfaces with a weak bleach solution. Mold under carpets typically requires that the carpets be removed and replaced, but what do you do about mold in the insulation or wallboard? It goes without saying, they too have to be replaced, but how do you know you have a mold problem behind your walls?

"That's the first place we look if there aren't any other visible signs of what's making someone sick in their home," says Norman. Signs of mold exposure include nasal stuffiness, eye irritation, wheezing, fever and even shortness of breath.

People with chronic illnesses, such as obstructive lung disease, may develop mold infections in their lungs. Depending on the size of the building, Norman's company charges between $500 and $2500 to conduct an environmental assessment.

"The high cost prohibits a lot of people from going through with the testing," says Norman. "We saw there was a need for an inexpensive testing tool, so we developed one."

IMS Laboratory's Mold Test Kit, which retails for $9.95 plus the cost of shipping, comes complete with easy to follow instructions for testing your home or office environment. It is the only home testing kit approved by the National Association of Mold Professionals, a non-profit organization established with the goal of developing and promoting the Mold Inspection and Remediation industry.

"The kit can be used three different ways: it can take a direct topical sample; it can be taped to an air vent to test your air duct system, or simply exposed to the air in a suspect room. Once the test is complete, you seal it in the enclosed bag and place it in a dark, warm place for two to three days," says Norman.

"After the required time elapses, look at the plastic container inside and if you see anything growing your environment has tested positive for mold. You then have the option of sending the kit to our laboratory to have the type of mold identified."

There is a $29.95 fee for laboratory analysis.

Crime Prevention Officer
Quincy Police Department

Street Smarts*

Whether you're eighteen or eighty, the best weapons against street crime are alertness and common sense.

THE BIG THREE:

- Stay alert and tuned into your surroundings, wherever you are.
- Stand tall and walk confidently.
- Trust your instincts. If you feel uncomfortable in a place or situation, leave quickly.

TIPS FOR WALKERS:

- Choose busy streets and avoid passing vacant lots, alleys or deserted construction sites. At night, stick to well-lit areas.
- Don't walk or jog alone, if possible. Take a friend or neighbor along for company!
- Get to know the neighborhoods where you live and work. Find out what stores and restaurants are open late and where the police and fire stations are located.
- Carry your purse close to your body, and keep a firm grip on it. Carry a wallet in an inside coat pocket or front trouser pocket.
- Don't overload yourself with packages, and avoid wearing shoes or clothing that restrict your movements.

TIPS FOR DRIVERS:

- Always lock your car and take the keys, even if you'll only be gone a short time.
- When you drive, be on the lookout for any problems that affect the neighborhood's well-being - such as: abandoned cars, missing signs, malfunctioning traffic lights, reckless drivers, or poor street lighting. Follow-up and get in touch with the appropriate authorities.
- Keep your car in good running condition to avoid breakdowns.
- If your car does break down, raise the hood or tie a white cloth to the street-side door handle. Stay in the locked car. When someone stops to help, ask him or her to phone the police for assistance.
- Park in a well-lit area that will still be well lit when you return.
- Be particularly alert when using enclosed parking garages. If you must leave your key with a lot attendant, leave only the ignition key.
- Never pick up hitchhikers. NEVER!

October Is National Breast Cancer Awareness Month

Cancer Society Making Strides Against Breast Cancer

October is National Breast Cancer Awareness Month, a month dedicated to increasing public knowledge about a disease that will strike an estimated 211,300 women in the United States this year, 4,700 in Massachusetts alone.

During October, and all year long, the American Cancer Society pursues its goal of eliminating cancer as a major health problem by providing life-saving information and services, conducting community outreach and education, and advocating for local, state and federal legislation to ensure that access to breast cancer detection and treatment is available to all.

Following the American Cancer Society's guidelines for the early detection of breast cancer improves the chances that breast cancer can be diagnosed at an early stage and treated successfully. All women are at risk for breast cancer, even if they have no family history of the disease. The American Cancer Society recommends the following approach to early detection to find the disease in its earliest, most curable stages:

- Yearly mammograms are recommended starting at age 40, and continuing for as long as a woman is in good health.

- Clinical breast exam (CBE) should be part of a periodic health exam, about every three years for women in their 20's and 30's, and every year for women 40 and older.

- Women should know how their breasts normally feel and report any breast change promptly to their health care provider. Breast self exam (BSE) is an option for women starting in their 20's.

- Women at increased risk (e.g., family history, genetic tendency, past breast cancer) should talk with their doctors about the benefits and limitations of starting mammography screening earlier, having additional tests (i.e., breast ultrasound and MRI), or having more frequent exams.

The American Cancer Society, through partnerships and collaborations with community organizations, strives to reduce health disparities by raising awareness of breast cancer detection and prevention issues. The Tell A Friend program, a peer-to-peer counseling initiative, educates women in medically underserved communities about the importance of the early detection of breast cancer.

Advocacy efforts spearheaded by the American Cancer Society in recent years have led to many major breakthroughs in national health policy affecting breast cancer. The Breast and Cervical Cancer Prevention and Treatment Act of 2000, a federal bill, provides states with matching funds to provide guaranteed treatment to uninsured women diagnosed with breast or cervical cancer.

The American Cancer Society offers several services that provide support to those patients, and their families, who have experienced breast cancer. Information about cancer can be accessed 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, by calling the Society's toll free 1-800-ACS-2345 information line, or by logging onto the Web site at www.cancer.org.

Locally, the American Cancer Society's Reach to Recovery program provides one-on-one visits to women dealing with breast cancer, from other women who have shared a similar experience. Women undergoing treatment for breast cancer can learn how to cope with changes in their appearance through the Look Good...Feel Better program.

Community members can get involved in the fight against breast cancer by signing up for the American Cancer Society's Making Strides Against Breast Cancer Walk, to be held on Sunday, Oct. 12, 2003 starting at the MDC Hatch Shell on the Charles River Esplanade.

To register for Making Strides Against Breast Cancer, or for more information about the American Cancer Society's breast cancer services and resources, contact the Society at 1-800-ACS-2345.

Free Prostate Screening At Quincy Medical Center Today

Quincy Medical Center will host a free prostate cancer screening today (Thursday) from 5 to 7 p.m. in the center's Ambulatory Care Department on the second floor.

Space is limited and advance registration is required. To schedule an appointment, call Quincy Medical Center at (617) 376-CARE (2273), or toll free, at 877-479-2273.

The screening will include both a Prostate Specific Antigen (PSA) blood test and a digital rectal exam (DRE). The examinations will be conducted by urologists on staff at Quincy Medical Center.

Prostate cancer is the second most common type of cancer found in American men, behind skin cancer. An estimated 220,900 new cases of prostate cancer will be diagnosed in the United States this year, according to the American Cancer Society. One man in six will be diagnosed with prostate cancer during his lifetime.

Quincy Medical Center is a 232-bed acute care community-teaching hospital providing South Shore residents with comprehensive medical and surgical services. The medical center's Alliance for Quincy with Boston Medical Center (BMC), founded in 1999, brings academic medicine to the community.

At Quincy Medical Center, physicians from Boston Medical Center direct the departments of medicine, surgery, anesthesia, emergency medicine and psychiatry.

Additionally, physicians from BMC who are board-certified in a range of medical and surgical specialties work alongside community physicians to ensure the continuity of patient care.

DENTISTRY for the 21st Century

by Steven A. Brustin, D.M.D.
SEALING THE DEAL

A dental sealant is a thin plastic film that the dentist applies to the chewing surfaces of molars and premolars. First, an etching solution is applied to the tooth's enamel. The dentist then brushes on the sealant material and allows it to harden, often by curing it with a special light. The result is a protective film that spares tooth surfaces from the destructive action of bacteria. Sealants can help prevent cavities in anyone's teeth, but they can be especially beneficial in children because of the protection they offer, and the potential cost savings in treating cavities. When properly applied and maintained, sealants are one hundred percent effective in protecting treated tooth surfaces from decay.

Remember, sealants work well, but they can't keep your child cavity-free without some help. Good oral care at home is still very important. It's also important for adults who have received sealants to continue to practice good oral hygiene by brushing twice a day, flossing at least once a day, and visiting a dentist regularly. We believe in preventive care for the whole family. We're located at 44 Greenleaf Street. Please call 617-479-6220 to schedule an appointment. We offer the services of anesthesiology and a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. Our web address is www.quincydentist.com.

P.S. An American Academy of Pediatric Dentistry found that children who have just a single application of sealants on their back teeth had 50% less tooth decay and tooth restoration after 15 years than children without sealants.

SENIOR NEWS LINE

by Matilda Charles

We all know that sunlight is the prime culprit not only in raising the risk of skin cancers, but also in causing deep-set wrinkles and those so-called liver spots, which are actually evidence of serious skin damage. And as troubling as those problems can be for people of any age (freckles are childhood forms of "liver spots"), they can be even more distressful for seniors, whose outer skin layers tend to thin with age, making them especially vulnerable to sun damage.

Also, older people often take medications that increase the skin's susceptibility to harmful effects of the sun's rays. So, the obvious advice for seniors would be to stay out of the sun as much as possible, and if one must go out during the day, wear clothes that cover as much skin as possible.

But here comes the "gotcha" part: There are new findings indicating that seniors tend to have a deficiency in vitamin D, an essential nutrient that makes it possible, for example, for calcium to do its work in building strong bones. The findings also show that the best and, ironically, safest source of vitamin D is Old Sol himself. Unlike serious overdoses that can come with using D supplements, sunlight-generated vitamin D is never overproduced, since it's made in the body simply by exposing the skin to the sun.

Does that mean seniors should have to choose between risking potentially serious or even fatal skin trauma or serious and also potentially lethal bone fractures?

Not at all. The experts say that just 10 minutes exposure of sunlight on some area of the skin several times a week is usually enough to get the body to produce vitamin D.

IMPORTANT NOTE: Check with your doctor for his/her recommendations on sun exposure, especially if you already have skin damage such as liver spots, or had childhood freckling, or have had any type of skin cancer. This is also important for darker-skinned people, who typically need longer exposure to the sun to make vitamin D.

Anxious Presidents Get Things Going Friday

By CHRIS POISSON

Don't worry, there's still a football team at Quincy High School this year. It's just starting two weeks later than most other teams.

"We're starting late because we were unable to pick up a game in the first week, for a number of reasons," said head coach Bob Noble.

First, conflicting schedules with some other teams; second, Quincy didn't want to open with a really strong team; third, Quincy is a victim of recent success. Teams that would've played in the past don't want to play them any more.

"It was a combination of all those things," Noble said. "It turns out we're playing nine games instead of 10."

Quincy will make its anticipated season debut tomorrow (Friday) against non-league foe Hanover at 7 p.m. at Veterans Memorial Stadium. And like Randolph last year, the Indians are on the Presidents' hit list.

"Our first goal on the list is beating Hanover," Noble said. "We lost to them two years ago in a pretty close game and in overtime last year."

"We get to see them for two weeks so the advantage for us is we get two weeks to prepare. The advantage for them is they'll have two games under their belts."

When the Presidents finally storm out of the tunnel Friday night it will mark the end of six long weeks of pre-season, which has both its positives and negatives.

"It's good because we have a lot of inexperienced kids, in terms of varsity time," Noble said. "We need every second we can to get these kids ready. Because of the senior-laden team a year ago, a lot of them didn't see much time. From that perspective it's a blessing."

"But it's a awful long pre-season. You run the risk of going stale. We went through a period of four scrimmages in eight days and now we're going to go three weeks without any real live competition."

Offensively, senior Josh Giordani is switching skates for spikes to be Quincy's new signal-caller. Noble has had all-league players Dan Kelly, Mike Lorenzano and Kevin O'Connell running the show in the past. Now he has a standout hockey player.

"He hasn't played football since his freshman year," Noble said. "He's an all-scholarship in hockey and the leading scorer in the ACL in hockey. He definitely has the athletic credentials to play. I feel he has those leadership qualities. He's been in the fire so to speak. He's picked up things very well. He's a bright, young man."

team, will back up Giordani and will also get some playing time.

"We'll probably give him a series or two each game," Noble said. "He's a very good athlete. He's done a good job for us. He's very much a part of our future."

Giordani should benefit from a dynamic ground game, powered by senior quad-captain J.J. Niamkey and also featuring senior Roger Palermo and junior Jose Ortiz. Niamkey, who can strike from anywhere on the field, rushed for over 1,000 yards, averaged more than 8 yards per carry and scored 10 touchdowns last year.

"The heart and soul, the strength of the team this year, is going to be our running game," Noble said. "We're going to concentrate on the running game more than we did in the past. As a group, these are the best three running backs I've been involved with."

Although Quincy will rely on the run, Noble noted Giordani is capable of being an effective passer. And the ground game's success should open up play-action for Giordani.

"We'll find ways to attack the defense and keep them honest," Noble said. "We can still throw the ball. It should not be interpreted that Josh isn't capable of throwing the ball. He's had a very successful preseason throwing the ball."

Giordani will be throwing to senior Ian Jorgensen, a 6-foot-4 wide receiver who played on the offensive and defensive lines his first three years. Senior quad-captain

A COMBINED EFFORT

The goal of producing zero-emission vehicles has led to the creation of hybrid vehicles, which combined an electric motor and battery pack with a gasoline engine. With the added power provided by the electric motor, the hybrid's gasoline engine doesn't have to be as large as its conventional counterpart. The electric motor supplies considerable low-end torque for acceleration, and the batteries charge while driving or during "regenerative braking" (which converts the vehicle's kinetic energy into electric energy.) Because a hybrid does not rely solely on the gasoline engine for acceleration, it can be temporarily shut off to conserve fuel at stops. The gas engine can also be optimized to work more efficiently at higher speeds, with the electric motor deactivated.

NQ Turnovers, Penalties Costly Against Marshfield

The North Quincy High School football team suffered a 48-0 loss at Old Colony League power Marshfield last Friday night.

North Quincy (0-2) has a bye this week and returns to action Friday, Oct. 3, with the home opener against Falmouth.

"Last year against Marshfield we came out with a lot of injuries," said head coach Tony Green. "This year we didn't get banged up like that, but it's still nice to get a week off."

"We're going to play a team that we match up well with in Falmouth. Barring any injuries, it should be a competitive game. They run a wish-bone offense and we'll have two weeks to prepare for that which is nice."

Against Marshfield, the Red Raiders were undone by a couple of turnovers and many costly penalties.

"We played much better than we did against Latin," Green said. "Obviously, the competition was stiff. Penalties really stopped our drives. Marshfield didn't really stop us; North Quincy stopped our offense."

Senior Pat O'Donnell rushed for a team-high 92 yards and 17 carries and senior quad-captain and tailback Brandon Neves tallied 89 yards on 20 carries.

Junior defensive end Jon Griffith recorded six solo tackles and senior Kellan Losi had four from his cornerback position. Offensively, he made three catches for first downs. Green praised junior Dan Djerf and sophomore Benson Luc for their kick returns.

Green also noted the efforts of junior tight end Tim Kennedy, sophomore Akil Benjamin on special teams, senior quad-captain and quarterback Jimmy Burke, senior quad-captain and left guard Shawn Maloof, senior kicker Sean McCormack and sophomore guard Carlos Ochoa.

League Championship, State Tourney Goals Quincy Volleyball Win Over NQ First In 13 Years

By CHRIS POISSON

Quincy High School delivered an emphatic message to the rest of the local girls' volleyball teams last week by upending city rival North Quincy, a powerhouse program that has won three of the past four state championships.

On the rise in recent years, the Presidents (5-1, 3-0) are poised to make a run for a league championship this season and advance into the late rounds of the state tournament.

It had been a long 13 years since Quincy took a contest from its neighbors. The last time the Presidents declared victory in the rivalry, current head coach Christine Barrett was a senior on that 1990 squad.

"Obviously the rivalry is always there," Barrett said. "We knew this year North was in somewhat of a rebuilding year after winning the state title last year. We knew if we played our game we could beat them. The kids were excited and determined and did what they had to do. It was a total team effort."

"It definitely was a huge win and it sets the tone for the rest of the season. If the girls continue to play hard, they'll be a force to reckon with. This year we'd like to go for the league title and go further than the first round of the tournament."

Quincy was knocked out by Needham in the first round of the state tournament last year, and has finished second in the Pilgrim Conference to Dennis-Yarmouth the past two seasons. The Presidents hosted Dennis-Yarmouth yesterday (Wednesday).

On Monday, Quincy ousted Whitman-Hanson, 30-9, 30-11. Senior outside hitter Kristen Paluzzi recorded six kills. Sophomore outside hitter Ashlee Scott had six service aces, senior outside hitter Bonnie Hirtle had four and junior setter Rebekka Sorensen had three to go along with six assists. Junior setter Andrea Pettinelli tallied two aces, four digs and five assists.

Last Friday, Quincy defeated Middleboro, 2-0, with a pair of 30-6 victories. Junior middle hitter Nicole O'Sullivan led the attack with seven aces and five kills. Sorensen had six aces, Hirtle had four aces and junior middle hitter Nicole Cahill had five kills.

Last Wednesday, Quincy cruised past Plymouth North, sweeping both games, 30-13. Cahill (3 aces) and O'Sullivan (4 aces) had five kills apiece and Hirtle (3 aces) had three.

In the 2-0 win (30-26, 30-23) over North Quincy last Monday, O'Sullivan led the way with 12 kills and three digs, while Cahill added nine kills and six aces and Hirtle chipped in with five kills.

Senior captain and defensive specialist Caitlin Callahan recorded 10 digs while Pettinelli and Sorensen (2 aces) each notched nine assists.

On Sept. 9, the Presidents suffered a tough 2-1 loss at Brockton. After losing the first game, 27-30, they rebounded to take the second, 30-26, but came up short in the third game, 28-30.

O'Sullivan (18 kills), Cahill (12 kills, 6 digs) and Hirtle (7 kills, 3 aces) powered the offense. Sorensen had 13 assists and Pettinelli eight, while Callahan recorded 12 digs.

Quincy opened its season with a 2-0 win over Milford Sept. 5, winning 30-22, 30-17. Sorensen (19 assists), Cahill (8 kills, 3 aces) and O'Sullivan (7 kills, 7 aces) led the way offensively, while Scott and Hirtle also contributed as they combined for 10 kills.

Also on Quincy's roster this year are senior outside hitter Rachel Sorensen, senior setter Nikki Groleau and sophomore setter Leanna Lam.

"I have high expectations for the kids," Barrett said. "They are playing well together. They're starting to click and they're working real hard. They all get along and that helps tremendously."

Anxious Presidents Are Ready For Some Football

Jon Banks and senior Steve Costigliola will split time at the other wide receiver spot.

There will be a three-man rotation at tight end with seniors James Hutchins, Justin Thorley and Ed Matthews, a 6-foot-5, 230-pound target.

"This is the best offensive line in three or four years in terms of the combination of size, speed, strength," Noble said.

Defensively, the Presidents will replace almost the entire unit from a year ago, including two all-league players at defensive end.

"We have to replace 10 players and we feel we're going to do that," Noble said. "We certainly have available bodies and available talent. It's just a question of seeing who rises to the top and gets to play on a consistent basis."

Niamkey returns as a starting cornerback and will be paired with Banks at the other corner spot and Costigliola at safety. Also in the defensive backfield mix are sophomore Chris Ryan-MacDonald, junior Jeff Ruggerio and senior Moses Lynn.

Linebackers include Ohlson and junior Frank McMurrough in the middle with Ortiz, Palermo and Hutchins on the outside.

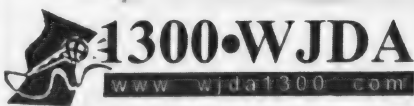

The defensive line will feature Jorgensen, DeWitt, senior Angelo Vendurin, Thorley and sophomore DJ Andrews at ends; senior Dan Davis, Clark and Stroud at tackle; and seniors Ledion Proto, Yen Troung, Ryan Little and junior Kevin French at nose guard.

"I'm very pleased with the way things are," Noble said. "We're anxious to get going. Our program is at the stage where we should be competitive. I expect the improvements we've made over the last couple of seasons to continue. We expect to be in the same position as a year ago when we were still contending late in the season."

Recreation Department Holds 3-On-3 Hoop Tourney

The Quincy Recreation Department recently held its final championship of the 2003 summer season — the annual 3 on 3 basketball finals at Fenno Street playground.

The tournament was divided into three divisions:

midgets (ages 8-10), juniors (ages 11-12) and seniors (ages 13-16). Each game was played until one team scored 11 points, or for 10 minutes. As the day wore on, teams were eliminated until one team stood victorious in its respected division.

In the senior girls' division, two teams from O'Rourke playground squared off for bragging rights. In the end, O'Rourke's Mary Stille, Rene DiPietro and Atlantic's Aileen Croke were victorious.

In the boys' senior division, LaBrique ousted Beechwood for the championship.

In the junior boys' division, the Perkins and Atlantic tag team took home the gold by knocking off Wollaston.

In the midget boys' division, Mass Fields defeated powerhouse LaBrique in an exciting finale for the title.

Woodward Soccer Opens With 2 Home Victories

The Woodward School opened its 2003 varsity soccer season with a pair of victories at home.

The Wildcats knocked off St. Andrews of Rhode Island, 5-1, in a non-league game last Wednesday behind a pair of goals from sophomore Cassie Kertzman.

Junior captain Marie Moscato, freshman Jasmin Johanson and eighth-grader Deirdre McGrath added the other goals. Junior captain Joni Ranstrom played a strong defensive game.

Last Tuesday, Woodward blanked league rival The Commonwealth School of Boston, 5-0, in the opener.

The Wildcats posted a 9-3-2 record last year to finish in second place in the league.

Ice Skating Classes Start Oct. 26 At Shea Rink

Bay State Skating School will hold ice skating classes at the Quincy Shea MDC rink on Willard Street beginning Oct. 26.

Classes will be held Sundays at 11 a.m. starting Oct. 26 and Fridays at 4 p.m. starting Oct. 31. The six-week Friday class costs $84 for children and $93 for adults. The seven-week Sunday class costs $98 for children and $108.50 for adults.

The program is for children ages 4 1/2 and up and adults. Each class includes a small group lesson and a supervised practice. Skaters can wear either figure or hockey skates and helmets are required for ages 4 1/2 to 7.

Professional instructors teach beginner, intermediate and advanced levels. To register, call 781-890-8480 or visit www.iceskatingclasses.com.

Apaches Varsity Cheerleaders Car Wash Saturday

The North Quincy Apaches varsity cheerleading squad will hold a car wash Saturday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Central Middle School.

Cost of the car wash is $5. The cheerleaders will also hold a yard sale Saturday, Oct. 4, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at 74 Ocean St., Quincy.

All proceeds from the two events will help defray the costs of the cheerleaders' trip to Orlando, Fla., to perform at the Capital One Bowl on

New Years Day.

Those interested in supporting the cheerleaders can send donations to: NQ Apaches Cheerleaders, c/o Debbie Donelin, 42 Ferndale Road, Quincy, MA 02170.

Wollaston Fall Baseball Wins 5

Wollaston has opened its season by winning five of its first six games in the Fall Baseball League.

A wooden bat varsity league (ages 15-18), it runs until Oct. 12 with double-headers Sunday mornings at 9. Wollaston coaches are Peter Delgado and Rich Zapata. Wollaston will take on B.C. High Sept. 28 at Braintree High School.

Wollaston swept Brockton, 4-3, 5-2. In the first game, Steve Doyle (3 innings, 5 strikeouts), John Allen, Paul Doolan (win), Matt Haskins and Matt Tobin (save) pitched well. Dan Cosgrove and John Fitzgerald played strong defensive games. Steve Reardon (3 hits, 2 RBI), Chris Kirshner (hit, RBI) and Doyle (hit, RBI) led the offense.

In the second game, John Santon (4 innings, 8 strikeouts) and Reardon combined for a three-hitter. In the first inning Tom Power, Allen and Sean Sullivan reached to load the bases. McAllister knocked in two with a single and Steve Williams drove a run home with a groundout. Williams and Haskins had RBIs in the seventh.

In week two, Quincy split with Norwell, losing 6-5 and winning 1-0 in the last inning when Joey Trabucco stole home with two outs for the victory. Reardon picked up the win in relief with two perfect innings. Santon fanned nine and allowed one hit in the first five innings. Kirshner (2 hits, 3 stolen bases), McAllister (triple), Sullivan (hit), Reardon (hit) and Haskins (hit) led the offense.

In the 6-5 loss, Doyle pitched well enough to win, going four innings with eight strikeouts, three hits and one run, but the bullpen let down by giving up five runs. McAllister had two hits, two RBI and two stolen bases and Mike McLaughlin blasted a 380-foot triple with the bases loaded. Reardon and Fitzgerald each singled and stole a base.

Wollaston swept Milton-Weymouth, 2-1, 9-6. Trailing 1-0 in the third inning of the first game, Reardon delivered a two-out single to score Trabucco who had singled and stole second.

In the seventh inning and the game still tied, a perfect relay from Power to Reardon to Trabucco cut down the go-ahead run. In Wollaston's last at-bat, McLaughlin walked and Fitzgerald pitch ran and stole second. With two outs, Power smashed a line drive over the left fielder's head for the win.

Doyle and Santon both pitched out of bases-loaded jams and combined for 10 strikeouts, two walks and four hits. Sullivan made an outstanding catch in right field and McAllister stood out behind the plate.

In the second game, Doolan, Kirshner, Reardon and Haskins combined to give up eight hits and strike out seven. Down 5-2 in the sixth, Milton-Weymouth walked four straight batters and McAllister, Power, Kirshner and Reardon followed with singles to break open the game. Kevin Bossart handled the pitchers well.

HERE IS A PLEASANT LITTLE GAME that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner and check one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

INTERESTING TOWN NAMES IN MONTANA

ARIES (March 21 to April 19)

The changing season brings new experiences as well as challenges for the ever-adventurous Aries. Your social life expands, as do the opportunities at your workplace.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) That recent period of uncertainty has passed. You can now feel more confident about making decisions, especially those that relate to an important personal relationship.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Although you might be faced with a number of tasks on your to-do list, try to take time out to enjoy the arts. Music, especially, can be soothing to the sensitive soul of a Gemini.

CANCER (June 21 to July 21) A disagreement with a colleague or friend is best resolved with open and frank discussion. Trying to force the other party to see things your way is bound to backfire.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) That Leonine pride might be ruffled by a colleague's challenge to one of your pet ideas. But stop growling and listen. You could learn something that will work to your advantage.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Someone in authority might decide to select you as a candidate for a project that carries more responsibilities. Be prepared to show why you're the right choice for the job.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) That new workplace problem should be dealt with as soon as possible. Leaving it unresolved for too long could lead to an even more unsettling and time-consuming situation.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) You might have to do some fancy juggling to keep both your work responsibilities and personal obligations on track. But ultimately, you'll work it all out, as you always do.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) You might hear some upsetting things about a situation in your life. But don't be swayed by talk. Demand proof before making any decisions on the matter.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Don't risk depleting those precious energy levels by taking on more tasks than you can realistically handle. Also, remember to ask for help when you need it.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) It might be difficult for the Aquarian who is used to giving advice to take counsel when offered. But it's a good idea to listen to what trusted friends feel you should know.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Things might be a little unsettled as you move through a period of reassessment. But once you get your priorities sorted out, you should be ready to tackle an important decision.

BORN THIS WEEK: You're able to achieve a happy balance in your productive life by never feeling overwhelmed or underappreciated.

OBITUARIES

Joseph J. Sarni, 90

Owned Breakfast At Sarni's

A private funeral service for Joseph J. Sarni, 90, of Quincy, the former owner of Breakfast at Sarni's in Weymouth Landing, was held Sept. 17 at the Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave., Quincy.

He died Sept. 13 at Quincy Medical Center after a brief illness.

Mr. Sarni owned the restaurant for more than 35 years. He retired in 1979.

He was a devoted campaign worker for his grandson, state Sen. Robert L. Hedlund.

Born in Boston, Mr. Sarni graduated from Braintree High School.

He lived in Quincy for 35 years and in Hingham for 33 years.

During World War II, he worked at the Fore River shipyard in Quincy and at the Hingham shipyard as a supervisor in the paint shop.

Mr. Sarni was an avid baseball fan. He was a left-handed pitcher at Braintree

High School. He also played semi-professional baseball with his late brother, Arthur Sarni, for the Kenesaw Club and the Braintree White Sox.

Mr. Sarni was a founding member and an officer of the former South Shore Quarterback Club, a New England Patriots booster club in the early 1960s.

He was a former member of the Quincy and Weymouth Elks lodges.

He is survived by his wife of 68 years, Elizabeth C. (Dawson) Sarni; two daughters, Joanne F. Hedlund of Hingham and Sharon M. Skladany of Ames, Iowa; a son, William D. Sarni of Hingham; six grandchildren; and three great-grandchildren.

Burial was in Mount Wollaston Cemetery, Quincy.

Donations may be made to the Jimmy Fund, 10 Brookline Place West, 6th Floor, Brookline 02445-7226.

Frank R. Terranova, 95

QHA Official, Construction Worker

A funeral Mass for Frank R. Terranova, 95, of Quincy, a Quincy Housing Authority official, was celebrated yesterday (Wednesday) at St. Joseph's Church.

He died Sept. 20 at Marina Bay Skilled Nursing Facility.

Mr. Terranova served the city of Quincy in many capacities, including chairman of the Quincy Housing Authority Board of Commissioners and special administrative assistant to former Mayor Arthur Tobin for several years.

He was also the maintenance superintendent for the Quincy Housing Authority for 10 years and served as assistant city assessor for 10 years.

In 1972, he founded the Massachusetts Association of Housing Authority Maintenance Supervisors and served as president until 1998. The association sponsored hands-on clinics and seminars on practical maintenance procedures which were conducted throughout Massachusetts and continue today.

Mr. Terranova worked in the construction industry as a noted plasterer and in other capacities for over 50 years. Before World War II, he was a construction foreman in housing projects in Philadelphia, Pa., Newport, R.I., New Bedford and Syracuse, N.Y. He also was a foreman with the former N. Bongiorvani Construction Company of Boston. He built his own home in Quincy in 1955.

Mr. Terranova was a 50-year member of the Morrisette American Legion Post in Quincy. He was also a member of the Quincy Sons of Italy

FRANK R. TERRANOVA

Lodge.

He served in the Army Corps of Engineers during World War II in Europe, Africa and the Middle East and assisted as an interpreter for Italian prisoners of war.

Born and educated in South Boston, he attended John A. Andrew Grammar School and graduated from Boston Trade High School. He lived in Quincy for 47 years.

Husband of the late Teresa M. (Battagliese) Terranova, he is survived by a nephew, John Stempleski of Plymouth; two nieces, Sister Rosemary Eacobacci of Sisters of Charity of Quincy and Rose Anne Alcott of Florida; and many cousins and friends.

Burial was in Pine Hill Cemetery.

Funeral arrangements were by Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave.

Edward F. Pierce, 76

Second President of Quincy Jr. College

A funeral service for Edward F. Pierce, 76, president of Quincy Junior College from 1972 to 1982, was held Sept. 19 at All Saints Episcopal Church, South Main St., Wollaboro.

He died Sept. 15 at Sunbridge Care in Wollaboro after a long illness.

Mr. Pierce became the second president of Quincy Junior College after the death of Kenneth P. White in 1971. Enrollment doubled — from 2,000 to 4,000 students — during Pierce's decade-long tenure.

After leaving Quincy Junior College, Pierce was president of Mt. Aloysius Junior College in Cresson, Pa. from 1982 to 1997.

He was an Eagle Scout, a Boy Scout and a member of the Knights of Malta. While in Quincy, he was chairman of the board of the South Shore Day Care Services, was a founder and chairman of the South Shore Council on Children and was a board member of the Quincy Kiwanis, the Adams Shore Community Association and the South Shore Council on Alcoholism.

Early in his career, Pierce was a research chemist with the Atomic Energy Commission in Florida and was a professor of chemistry and physics. He taught at Genesee State University of New York and from 1966 to 1971 he was dean of instruction at Keene State College in New Hampshire.

Born in Cambridge, he received a bachelor's degree from Boston College in 1950, a master's from Boston College and a doctorate in education from Columbia University in 1959.

He served in the Navy Reserve.

He is survived by his wife, Sandra L. Pierce; two daughters, Valerie Ricotta of Bailey, Colo., and Adrienne Klingensmith of New Durham, N.H.; a son, Mark Pierce of Wollaboro; and four grandchildren.

Burial was in Lakeview Cemetery, Wollaboro.

Arrangements were made by the Lord Funeral Home, Route 28, Wollaboro.

Patricia F. Callahan, 76

Retired Waitress

A funeral Mass for Patricia F. (McGuire) Callahan, 76, of Quincy, a retired waitress, was celebrated Tuesday at Sacred Heart Church in Weymouth.

She died Sept. 19 at Colonial Rehabilitation and Nursing Center in Weymouth after a brief illness.

Mrs. Callahan worked at various restaurants on the South Shore.

Born, raised and educated in Watertown, she lived in Quincy for 50 years.

Wife of the late Daniel J. Callahan Jr., she is survived by a son, Daniel J. Callahan III of Quincy; three daughters, Deirdre P. Forsythe of Orlando, Fla., Joanne Wolforth of Weymouth and Reagan R. MacVaugh of Goodview, Va.; two brothers, John P. McGuire of Wollaston and Frank McGuire of Florida; a sister, Mary Nolan of Wayland; five grandchildren; two great-grandchildren; and many nieces and nephews.

Burial was in Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Have you ever noticed how some people seldom, if ever, make premature decisions? How they do not make decisions that cannot be made effective? How, if pressured for a decision, they often say "No" because they know "No" can later be changed more easily to "Yes" less easily to change from "Yes" to "No"? How when they make a bad decision, they blame themselves, not others?

Lincoln illustrated a good formula for making good decisions. When he was severely criticized he said, "I do the best I know how; the very best I can; and I mean to keep doing so until the end. If the end brings me all right, what is said about me won't amount to anything. If the end brings me out wrong, ten angels swearing I was right would make no difference."

On that formula there is seldom any need to hesitate, or "hem or haw." Base firm decisions on your best judgment, skills and abilities given you by God -- and do the best you can. . . People who make good decisions know how true this is.

City Council Urges DTA Office Be Kept Open

Dorchester.

Introduced by Councillor Joe Finn, the resolution also calls on the state to maintain a DTA presence in the city if the office is closed.

In the event of the closing, Finn also wants the state to monitor and measure access of Quincy residents to such services over a one-year period to determine any adverse impact to the city.

Finn also said thousands of people could inundate Constituent Services if the DTA office closes. It would be beneficial if non-profit organizations in Quincy could work with the state to ensure a smooth transition in the event of a closing.

"The city needs to work with the state to ensure a smooth transition in the event of the closing," said Finn. "If the office does not continue, it is important for DTA to work with local community organizations, such as QCAP (Quincy Community Action Programs), to make sure they have a representative there," said Finn. "There is a possibility of a new collaborative effort between non-profit agencies to ensure no one misses a beat, so to speak."

Finn's resolution received support from Mayor William Phelan, state Sen. Michael Morrissey and Rep. Bruce Ayers. Morrissey and Ayers have written letters to Romney asking the governor to reconsider his move.

The council also heard from Beth Ann Strollo, director of Quincy Community Action Programs, who argued that closing the office would put a financial strain on many clients, including the disabled and elderly.

"Many of them will not travel to Boston," she told the council. "We want people to be able to access the office locally."

She disagreed with the assertions that many of the services available by the welfare office don't require in-person meetings and can be conducted electronically or by mail.

Romney administration officials argue that closing the Quincy office will save the state $360,000.

J.B. Optical Closing Its Doors After 32 Years Of Business

A longtime business in Quincy Center is closing its doors after serving residents for 32 years. J.B. Optical & Hearing Aids, located at 1361A

Hancock St., will sell its last pair of glasses at the end of the month, bringing with it some much needed rest for proprietor Barry Bornstein.

"I want to stay active on a part-time basis, but after a short sabbatical," he said. "I need some time off."

Since 1971, J.B. Optical has served residents by selling prescription glasses and hearing aids. Bornstein's parents, Jack and Alice, opened the business.

Alice Bornstein, 89, died Monday, Jack, 91, is retired.

Barry came onboard soon after his parents opened the business. Barry, 65, said his father was one of the first licensed Opticians in the state.

Jack and Alice retired in the early 1990s, leaving the business to Barry.

Barry said he was one of the first licensed Hearing Instrument Specialists in the state. His license number is 15.

After 30 years of commuting from his home in Framingham, Bornstein said the time has come to "re-charge my batteries."

McCauley Seeks To Stop Closing Of IRS Office

Councillor Frank McCauley has asked Congressman William Delahunt for help in preventing the closing of the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) office in Quincy, located in President's Place.

In a letter to Delahunt, McCauley said closing the Quincy office would prove to be a major inconvenience to thousands of residents who utilize it. McCauley said he recently received information from reliable sources that claim the office is scheduled to close. McCauley said he has contacted Mayor William Phelan's office about the issue.

"It has come to my attention that the Internal Revenue Service in Quincy may be slated to close, and I am vehemently opposed," McCauley wrote to Delahunt. "I have great concern about the impact this will have on the senior citizens and other individuals who benefit from the service currently being provided at President's Place in Quincy Square.

"Many elderly residents, in particular, use this office at tax time and other times for much-needed assistance," McCauley wrote. "They would find it difficult, if not possible, to travel to Brockton or Boston if the Quincy facility shut down."

McCauley noted that in the late 1980s, as mayor, he sought the help of then Congressman Brian Donnelly to prevent the closing of the IRS office.

Quincy To Get Extra $970,128 In State Highway Funding

Quincy will receive $970,128 from the state in Chapter 90 highway funds to aid in needed road repairs.

The funding is reimbursed to the city on approved transportation projects as construction takes place.

"The Legislature authorized the transportation bond funds that made possible the release of $100 million in roadwork funding to all cities and towns," said Rep. Bruce Ayres.

The $100 million is in addition to about $400 million the state spends each year on its roads and bridges program.

"It is good news that the state will release this Chapter 90 money to help supplement the expenditures for road work being made by public works department in Quincy and across the state," said Sen. Michael Morrissey.

"The residents of Quincy have been concerned about the condition of our roads and this much needed money will go a long way toward addressing their concerns," said Rep. Stephen Tobin.

"I am pleased that the city will have additional funding to address the public safety issues potentially raised by the roadways in the city in need of repairs," added Rep. Ron Mariano.

QHS, NQHS Among The Top In State MCAS Graduation 99% Rate Hailed By City Officials

By TOM HENSHAW

Almost all the Class of 2003 at Quincy and North Quincy High Schools did well enough on their MCAS tests to graduate last June.

And the four students who did not pass obtained waivers from the State Department of Education so 100 per cent of the 591-student class got diplomas.

"Very, very good," said Dr. Richard DeCristofaro, superintendent of schools. "All we did to focus on those who needed it finally paid off."

The Department of Education announced last week that 99 per cent of the Class of '03 at the two high schools in Quincy passed the MCAS and graduated.

"We got waivers on the rest of the students so actually 100 per cent graduated," said DeCristofaro, "including both those who passed and those who got waivers."

The preliminary count on the Class of 2004, those who are now seniors at the high schools, indicate that 92 per cent are doing well enough to graduate on time.

But they have taken the test only three times while members of the 2003 class had six opportunities to pass the MCAS. The current seniors will have three more chances.

Statewide, the Class of 2003 in Massachusetts high schools passed the MCAS with a graduation rate of about 95 per cent of some 60,000 students. About 89 per cent of this year's seniors were on track to pass.

Mayor William Phelan

was thrilled over the 99 per cent graduation rate for his city's schools, particularly when he compared them to the rates in similar communities.

Phelan is also chairman of the School Committee by virtue of his job as mayor.

"We can top all those different communities," he said, noting that Brookline had a 98 per cent rate, Newton 96 percent, Braintree 98 and Weymouth 97.

"This is the result of a lot of hard work by a lot of people in the Quincy Public Schools — teachers, administrators, students and parents, too."

Christine Cedrone, the vice chairman of the School Committee, called the 99 per cent graduation rate "excellent. We have a really dedi-

Dunkin Donuts Drive-Thru Approved At President's Plaza

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO
President's Plaza is becoming one of the busiest areas in the city as a drive-thru satellite Dunkin Donuts will soon be open at the former Bay Bank free standing building.

The site at 243 Quincy Ave., and owned by President Adams LLC was approved by the License Board at Tuesday's meeting, pending a receipt of an updated letter from Traffic Engineer Roy LaMont, Jr.

It will join the Kam Man Asian Market, the Asian American Bank and a variety of shops at the former Bradlee's site.

Atty. Paul Moriarty, counsel for the head of President Adams Jose Sardinha, showed plans to the board including the location of an enclosed dumpster which was of concern to Health Commissioner Drew Scheele.

Other concerns were voiced by Police Chief William Falco regarding traffic problems created by the drive-thru.

Chairman Joseph Shea concurred with Falco, and said he would await a letter from the traffic engineer.

Moriarty said the flow of traffic had been changed by the traffic engineers and that it was resolved.

Moriarty said that most of the foods will be made off the premises and delivered early in the morning. Hours will be from 5 a.m. to 11 p.m. seven days a week.

According to Moriarty, the building permit was just issued, but that construction had not begun as yet. He said if all goes well, tentative plans are to be open sometime in December.

Shows 'Momentum', Mayoral Challenger Says

Newton Endorsed By Firefighters' Union

By WILLIAM TRAYNOR

Mayoral candidate Joseph Newton last week picked up the support of the Quincy Firefighters' union, injecting some life into his campaign to replace Mayor William Phelan.

Union President William Arienti, flanked by firefighters outside the Thomas Crane Public Library, said Newton has been a consistent supporter of workers' rights.

"He is and has always been pro-labor," Arienti said of Newton. "And he has maintained his position throughout his tenure on the city council."

Newton said he is "thrilled" with the endorsement.

"This shows we have a lot of momentum out there," he said. "If elected, my administration will be committed to maintaining the peninsula fire stations, North Quincy, Squantum, Houghs Neck and Germantown. It's a major endorsement considering we are going against a political machine. There's a lot of local support within the firefighters' union."

Arienti said union members were disappointed with the mayor's refusal to endorse an ordinance calling on the city to staff every piece of firefighting equipment with at least three firefighters and one officer at all times. Despite Phelan's opposition, the ordinance passed the city council on a 7-2 vote. Newton voted in favor of the measure.

Phelan called the plan fiscally irresponsible and said it could force layoffs or cuts in critical services.

Phelan has received the support from a number of labor organizations, including the Norfolk County Central Labor Council, which is the largest collection of unions in the city. The organization is affiliated with the AFL-CIO.

Currently, contract negotiations are stalled between the city and firefighters union. Arienti said the endorsement of Newton underscores a rift that exists between the union and the Phelan administration.

For months, Arienti has criticized the administration for stalling contract talks and for not endorsing a minimum-manning standard for the fire department.

Arienti said the union and city have not met face-to-face at the bargaining table since March.

"Joe Newton believes in a union's right to bargain," said Arienti. "It's easy to say that you're pro-labor, but it takes integrity to insure that all employees get a fair deal at the bargaining table. Joe Newton has that integrity."

But Phelan said his administration will continue to negotiate with the union in a "fair and prudent" manner.

"I have a great amount of respect for the firefighters of Quincy," said Phelan. "I am confident the issues that the city has with the union will be resolved in a fair and equitable manner, just like all the other collective bargaining units the city has dealt with."

"Whether the firefighters' union endorses me or not is not going to have any impact on our intentions to deal with that collective bargaining unit in a fair and prudent way," he said.

Jennifer Logue Appointed To Registrar Voters Board

Mayor William Phelan has appointed Jennifer Logue to Quincy's Board of Registrar of Voters.

Logue, a Quincy resident and registered Republican, fills the Republican vacancy created on the four-member, unpaid board by the recent death of Charles Sweeny. Under state law, the Board of Registrars must be comprised of an equal number of Democrats and Republicans.

"I am pleased to appoint Ms. Logue to this very important position," said Phelan. "She has lived her life in Quincy surrounded by politics and has developed a true appreciation for the fairness that our democratic system strives to ensure. She will certainly take this role seriously and will be an excellent addition to the board."

Logue said she is looking forward to working with registrars Joseph Shea, Denis Tardo and William Draicchio to ensure that Quincy elections are operated in a fair, impartial and efficient manner.

"The privilege and responsibility of voting is something I take very seriously," said Logue. "The right to choose our own leaders and govern ourselves lies

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Sept. 29, 1758, Horatio Nelson, Britain's most celebrated naval hero, is born in Burnham Thorpe, England. In the French Revolutionary and Napoleonic wars, he won a series of crucial victories and saved England from possible invasion by France.

• On Sept. 30, 1938, British and French prime ministers Neville Chamberlain and Edouard Daladier sign the Munich Pact with Nazi leader Adolf Hitler. The agreement averted the outbreak of war but gave Czechoslovakia away to German conquest.

• On Oct. 1, 1958, "Kraft Television Theater" goes off the air. Kraft had discovered the value of entertainment sponsorship back in 1933, when it launched the radio program "Kraft Music Hall" specifically to introduce Miracle Whip. Jack Lemmon, James Dean and Paul Newman were among its stars.

• On Oct. 2, 1967, Chief Justice Earl Warren swears in Thurgood Marshall, the first black justice of the U.S.

Supreme Court. As chief counsel for the NAACP, Marshall was the architect and executor of the legal strategy that ended the era of official racial segregation.

• On Oct. 5, 1969, in an embarrassing breach of the United States' air-defense capability, a Cuban defector enters U.S. air space undetected and lands his Soviet-made MiG-17 at Homestead Air Force Base, south of Miami. The presidential aircraft Air Force One was at the base at the time.

• On Oct. 4, 1988, televangelist Jim Bakker is indicted on federal charges of mail and wire fraud and of conspiring to defraud the public. Sentenced to 45 years in prison, his sentence was later reduced to eight years, and he was released in 1994.

• On Oct. 3, 1995, at the end of a sensational trial, former football star O.J. Simpson is acquitted of the brutal 1994 double murder of his estranged wife, Nicole Brown Simpson, and her friend Ronald Goldman.

Now, Instant Voting?

Well, we have had instant coffee, pudding, potatoes, oatmeal, etc. for quite a few years.

Now, how about: instant voting.

Being looked at by Secretary of State William Galvin and city and town clerks is a section of the federal Help America Vote Act (HAVA) that allows same day registration-voting.

If approved by the state legislature, it could be tried out in the Presidential Primaries here next March, says City Clerk Joseph Shea.

Unregistered voters now have to register by a certain date before an election to be eligible to cast a ballot.

Under HAVA, an unregistered voter could register on the same day as the election and vote.

Shea, who is on the steering committee, says, "I think it is worth a try. I have seen it work in other states such as Maine, Oregon and Washington."

Presently in Massachusetts voters have to be registered at least 20 days before an election to vote.

In this year's city preliminary election Sept. 16, the deadline to register to vote was Aug. 27.

The deadline to register for the Nov. 4 final election is Oct. 15.

Shea, however, isn't too sure about adopting same day registration-vote at the municipal level.

"I haven't made up my mind on that," he says. "But maybe eventually that could be given a try, too."

He is not too keen about a separate move afoot to change the voting system in Massachusetts.

Being proposed is a touch-tone system in which voters would touch the names of the candidates they are voting for.

Shea has reservations about potential errors by voters touching a wrong name.

And he sees possible problems in the event of a needed recount.

"The touch-tone system would have no paper trail to be checked in a recount," he notes.

He likes the present optic scan system Quincy has had since 1996 in which voters link the name of their preferred candidates by arrow with a voting pen.

Voters like this system which replaced punch cards and has been much more accurate and probably would say: "If it ain't broke, don't fix it."

AS NOTED, the deadline for unregistered voters to register to vote in the Nov. 4 final election is Oct. 15.

If you are registered by then and are going to be out of town election day, you can obtain an absentee ballot by applying at the Election Department up to noon, Nov. 3, the day before.

ATTY. SUMNER GILLETTE, who has been a familiar figure in the Quincy Sq. area for more than 35 years, is stepping into retirement.

His retirement was effective Wednesday but he is maintaining a reduced office schedule to wind down his practice.

Gillette has had his office on the second floor at 1359 Hancock St. for those more than 35 years.

Coincidentally, the office is above the J.B. Optical & Hearing Aids store which closed this week. The family of Barry Bornstein operated the store for 32 years.

Gillette and Bornstein graduated together from Roxbury Memorial High School, class of 1955.

MILESTONE: Frank Kearns, long-time community activist and advocate for the city's elderly, homeless and needy, turned a young 91 Tuesday.

Frank was selected as The Sun's "Citizen of the Year" for 1991 for his outstanding volunteer community service to those in need.

He loyally reads The Sun to keep abreast of what's going on in the city. And at age 91 he's still going strong and thankful for his "wonderful life."

Congratulations, kid.

SUDDEN THOUGHT: Who do you think they'll get first: Saddam, bin Laden or Whitey?

• Complaints of unregistered vehicles on the property licensed to Japanese Motors Specialists Inc. 97 Liberty St. were heard by the board. Owner Tjo Tjin Liang said that all cars had been removed, with two remaining. He promised that they would be removed this week.

• Granted a one day permit to Pat Flanagan's for the third annual Joe Conte fundraiser Sunday at Flanagan's on Parkway. Conte was killed as a result of an accident at Twin Rivers. The event was scheduled for last Sunday, but because of the inclement weather it was postponed for this Sunday.

• Granted a transfer of a Motor II License of Stephen Smith doing business as Smith's Auto Sales, from the corner of Brook and Water St. to 34 Liberty St.

Concerns over drainage were expressed by the board at the last meeting. Board members said they were satisfied with the new flooding plans. Smith is allowed 40 cars for sale and 15 on the front side for customers and employees. Smith promised screening with a fence for the neighbors.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1917 real photo postcard view of the old Norfolk Downs railroad depot at the end of Billings Road. The view is towards Wollaston. Built in 1892, the year the Norfolk Downs section was named, the Old Colony Railroad adopted the new name for its station. That was also the year that the Montclair section was named and the Old Colony built the Montclair station on the Granite Branch of their railroad. Just south of here, on a siding of the mainline, the railroad maintained a freight house for incoming freight marked Norfolk Downs for the many new industrial companies in the area. Passenger train service ended here in 1959 when the New Haven closed the Old Colony line. This depot was later demolished when the MBTA built the Red Line. Mayor James McIntyre had convinced the T to build the present Red Line station nearer the newly filled-in Montclair marshes just to the north of here. This site is now home to a dry cleaning business.

Council On Aging Opposes Closing Quincy DTA Office

Quincy's most vulnerable residents, the low income and frail elderly, should not be subjected to additional hardship by the closing of the Department of Transitional Assistance Office in downtown Quincy by the state.

The Quincy Council on Aging at its September meeting (Sept. 25) gave wholehearted approval to the resolution passed by the City Council opposing the closing of the DTA's Quincy office.

The 2,000 Quincy residents consisting of a high percentage of our elderly should not be forced to travel, if they are physically unable to do so, to the Boston DTA main office.

Some elderly need much more than food stamps. They may have health care needs which may require an in-person visit to the main Boston office in order to obtain a Medicaid health care card.

Having lived with my grandfather during the height of the great depression, I know first hand the difficulties of neighbors being in need. My grandfather ran a little variety store in Houghs Neck and he often provided assistance to those in need of food. They didn't have such things as food stamps in those days.

The Quincy Council on Aging offers whatever help it can to assist you in keeping the Quincy DTA office open even in a scaled down version. Our frail elderly should not be required to travel outside of the city in order to receive needed assistance.

A Message From South Shore Mental Health

The week of Oct. 5-11, 2003 is Mental Illness Awareness Week, a nationwide recognition of the value and accessibility of mental health care.

Look at each member of your family. Look carefully at your parents, your siblings, your spouse and each one of your children. It is almost certain that at some time in their lives one of them will be affected by mental illness.

The good news is that with treatment, millions of people with mental illnesses can and do reclaim full and productive lives.

In recognition of Mental Illness Awareness Week, South Shore Mental Health is urging individuals and families struggling with a mental illness to seek help and support.

South Shore Mental Health provides mental health and substance abuse services throughout South-eastern Massachusetts and the South Shore. If you suspect you or someone you love has a mental illness, call South Shore Mental Health at 617-847-1950 or visit our Web site at www.ssmh.org.

Unjustified Discrimination

Without a doubt, the terrible effects of Sept. 11, 2001 still and will reverberate for a long time, but especially on the people of the Islamic religion.

People of this faith, Arab-Americans, and people who "look" Middle Eastern have suffered unjustified discrimination, hatred, exclusion. Have we all forgotten how angry, confused, stunned we felt when we were, at one time or another, discriminated against for absolutely no reason at all?

Where is the understanding, support, and compassion? Do you remember when your friends gathered around you at your time of need? Please, people of the Islamic religion and others need our continued support and understanding now.

Quincy's Yesterdays Oldest Railroad Closes After 114 Years

Some 114 years of rail service for West Quincy and Montclair residents ended Saturday night when the Granite branch of the Old Colony Railroad was shut down.

New Haven Railroad officials exercised powers given them by the state public utilities commission to abandon all passenger service over the line.

The Granite branch was the oldest railroad in America, organized by Gridley Bryant to transport granite for the Bunker Hill Monument, from the West Quincy quarry to the Neponset River.

LEGIONNAIRES HOST GIANT CLAM BAKE

Quincy's three Legion posts hosted a huge clambake at Pagan Field for delegates at the American Legion's National Convention in Boston. Arrangements to feed the 700 guests was directed by James Donovan of the Morrisette Post. Thirty Legionnaires and 45 members of the auxiliary served as waiters and waitresses. Over the weekend, more than 50,000 spectators jammed Quincy Square to view the Legion's drum and bugle competition parade.

GARBAGE COLLECTION DELAY EXPLAINED

Mr. Hultin, president of the Quincy Employees Relief Association, addressed the City Council to explain that the delay in the collection of the city's garbage was caused by the lack of city equipment. He said that a few years ago, there were 14 garbage trucks, and now there was only 11. It was thus impossible to make two collections throughout the city. He also noted that collection of ashes suffered because of the truck shortage.

DEMOCRATS PLAN FOR UPCOMING ELECTION

The Democratic City Committee met in the Shaw Building to plan for the upcoming election.

Mrs. Mary Shipsey, chairman of the registration committee, reported good results in recent efforts to enroll Democratic voters. She said a city-wide canvas of voters would be made in co-operation with the Dever for Governor Committee. Timothy Daly, Robert Veronesse and Elizabeth McConarty were named to the publicity committee.

Marie's Kitchen

Scallops, Haddock Bake

If you like seafood, or love it as I do, here is a nice easy way to bake scallops. When I prepared it I also used a piece of haddock, but any other fish will combine nicely.

The difference in this recipe is that instead of placing the stuffing on top, I breaded each scallop separately with great results.

Mixture should be on the dry side to coat the scallops properly. First slightly grease a casserole or baking dish. Bread the fish, and then add the juice of a half lemon. Coat each scallop with the mixture, and place on top of the fish. Squeeze the lemon juice over the top and any extra mixture.

Baked Scallops and Haddock
1 pound scallops (large is preferred)
1/2 pound haddock (or a favorite)
5 cream lunch crackers juice of two lemons
1/2 teaspoon fresh parsley
2-3 tablespoons seasoned bread crumbs

Bake covered in a 350 degree oven for about 25 minutes. Check to see if it is done and then bake for another five minutes or so.

The results were great and the combo was moist.

Quincy Dinner Theater Opens 16th Season Saturday

The Quincy Dinner Theater will open its 16th season Saturday with "Guys As Dolls: Where Broadway Meets Burlesque."

Joe Posa and Joe Schmitz are the guys impersonating a dozen dolls, including Marilyn Monroe, Barbara Streisand, Madonna, Liza Minnelli, Cher, Dolly Parton and Britney Spears.

Other performances are scheduled for Oct. 10, 11, 12, 18 and 19. The theater is located in the Masonic Building, 1170 Hancock St., Quincy Center. For more information, call 781-843-5682.

Fall Rummage Sale At Viking Club

The Ladies Group of the South Shore Viking Club, 410 Quincy Ave., Braintree, will hold their fall rummage sale Saturday, Oct. 11. The event will be from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the club.

Free Vision, Health Screenings On-Site Quincy Lions Halloween Pancake Breakfast Oct. 26

The Quincy Lions Club will hold its annual Halloween Pancake Breakfast Sunday, Oct. 26 from 8 a.m. to noon at 1000 Southern Artery.

Tickets will be available at the door; donation is $5.

Proceeds from the pancake breakfast will go to fund Quincy Lions Club programs that provide free eye exams, eyeglasses and other services to blind and visually-impaired persons. The Quincy Lions Club also is a major supporter of eye research through donations to the Massachusetts Lions Eye Research Fund.

A highlight of this year's breakfast will be the presence of the Lions District 33K Eyemobile, which will provide free vision and basic health screenings to attendees.

During a typical year, more than 1,000 individuals receive free vision, glaucoma, diabetic retinopathy, hearing, blood sugar and blood pressure screenings from the Eyemobile, which serves more than 2 million people in 58 communities throughout Southeastern Massachusetts.

In addition, children who attend the Halloween Breakfast in costume will receive a special treat as well as have an opportunity to have their photo taken with costumed characters.

With more than 1.4 million members around the world, Lions Clubs International is the largest service organization in the world. The Quincy Lions Club has been serving the local community for more than 60 years.

Through such fundraising events as the pancake breakfast and its spring Run/Walk for Sight, the Quincy Lions Club raises thousands of dollars each year for eye research, scholarships to local high school students, donations to help blind or visually-impaired residents and other worthwhile community projects.

'Eleanor Roosevelt,' Celtic Music At Crane Library In October

The Thomas Crane Public Library will host two free performances during the month of October.

They are:

- Elena Dodd will present a dramatic performance entitled "Meet Eleanor Roosevelt: 1945-1948 Advocate for Universal Human Rights," on Wednesday, Oct. 15 at 7 p.m. Ms. Dodd has performed this program throughout the country. This is one of four programs she was developed, highlighting different phases of Eleanor Roosevelt's life. Each performance is followed by conversation with the audience. This program is funded by the Quincy Art Council and is free.

- Robbie O'Connell will perform Celtic music in a family concert on Sunday, Oct. 19 at 2 p.m. O'Connell was born in Waterford, Ireland and grew up in County Tipperary where he began performing at his parents' hotel at the age of 13. He moved to Massachusetts in 1977 and began performing solo and with the Clancy Brothers. Winner of the Boston Music Award as Outstanding Celtic Act, he has performed at Quincy's First Night Celebration and has delighted audiences each year. New Salon, Spa Opens At 5 Cottage Ave.

The Studio Brings A Touch of Manhattan To Quincy Center

By SHEILA HALLORAN

Krista Bongarzone is not worried about opening her salon in the already salon-abundant Quincy Center.

The owner of the newly opened salon and spa, The Studio, is confident that her salon is differentiated enough from the other Quincy Center salons that competition will not be an issue.

"There are enough people in Quincy to not have to worry about having multiple salons in Quincy Square," said Bongarzone. Taking into account the style, decor, impressive staff, and amenities offered at The Studio, Bongarzone may very well be right.

The confident Bongarzone renovated 5 Cottage Ave., the site of the former Style Studio, and transformed it into a New York style loft, complete with urban decor and a style unique only to Manhattan.

Bongarzone, who has been a stylist for 11 years at Boston salons and most recently at a Weymouth salon, purchased The Studio on July 1. The Studio is now open and is a premiere full-service salon and spa that offers the means to enhance one's entire image and increase overall self-confidence.

The 3,000 square foot facility encompasses a full hair salon, a separate spa area, and a spacious sitting area that invites clients to rest and rejuvenate.

Among the multitude of amenities offered, one particular highlight of the Studio is Spa Parties. Groups of 10-25 can book exclusive time together and receive salon or spa services, such as PhytoDerma facials, a full body massage, spamanicures and pedicures, and hair services, while being served hor d'oeuvres and beverages.

The Studio also offers a full line of facials that bring immediate benefits to one's skin. Among the list of facials offered are men's facial, another highlight of The Studio. With the men's facial, specialized experts customize the facial to alleviate and reduce shaving bumps and irritation.

In addition to the full hair, skin, and nail care offered, The Studio also carries a wide selection of nationally and internationally recognized products. Among the selection of products in stock are Pureology brand products, which Bongarzone states are "very exclusive products that are 100% vegan."

The staff of The Studio consists of highly trained professionals, all skilled in the latest techniques in hair, nails, skin, and body care. The staff, which consists of five stylists, two estheticians, and a massage therapist, attends regular seminars to ensure that the staff is up on the latest trends in health and beauty.

According to Bongarzone, distributors of the exclusive products carried at The Studio hold seminars for the entire staff on the salon premises.

THE STUDIO, a "warm and relaxed" spa and salon at 5 Cottage Ave., features a New York style loft with Manhattan urban decor. Hours are Tuesday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. The Studio will host a grand opening celebration this Saturday featuring free gifts, refreshments and discounted services.

Christina Vages, of North Quincy, a stylist at The Studio, ensures that the staff is highly trained and experienced. "The hair stylists at The Studio are all extremely skilled and well educated and we are all up on the latest styles and fashions."

In addition to the impressive list of services offered by the staff of The Studio, nurses and other medical professionals are also on staff to provide treatments such as botox, collagen, and laser hair removal.

Vages, who also works at a salon on Newbury St. in Boston, decided to branch off of Newbury St. and work for Bongarzone to "feel more grounded." Vages describes The Studio as "warm and relaxed without a sense of drama," which sometimes accompanies the high-end Newbury St. salons.

Vages, who came upon The Studio after seeing an ad in the newspaper, describes the aura of The Studio as "serene and comforting." "It's like having your hair done in your living room." She continues, "the only thing missing is the TV."

The Studio is conveniently located just off of Hancock Street, next to the Fours Restaurant. There is ample parking in the municipal parking lot opposite the Quincy Court House as well as along Cottage Ave.

The Studio Salon and Spa hours are Tuesday through Friday from 9 am to 8 pm and Saturday from 9 am to 5 pm. They are closed on Sundays and Mondays. Phone number is 617-471-8877.

A Grand Opening celebration, featuring free gifts, refreshments, and discounts on services, is planned for this Saturday.

'If $87 Million More For Iraq':

US Should Fund Veterans' Health Care, Says Former POW

Robert Noble of Quincy, who spent four months in a German prison camp in World War II, says he feels veterans are being short-changed by their government when it comes to providing health care.

Noble, a past commander of the Department of Massachusetts, American Ex-Prisoners of War, spoke at a POW-MIA Recognition Day observance aboard the USS Massachusetts in Battleship Cove, Fall River.

"If our country can find $87 million more for Iraq, our leaders can find enough money to properly fund our veterans' health care system," he said.

"Our government should support our veterans who have been in harm's way by providing proper funding for veterans' health care. A funded health care system properly operated must be there for our veterans and for those who will be returning after serving our country."

"We still have large numbers of veterans who need treatment... There are new enrollees who are still waiting for care by a primary care physician. Other veterans are on extended waiting lists for an appointment."

Although he was captured by the Germans uninjured, Noble suffered debilitating damage to his lower legs that bothers him still from standing for long hours in a boxcar crowded with prisoners in sub-freezing temperatures.

Noble and 20 members of his platoon, part of Gen. George Patton's Third Army, were taken by the Germans just as they had crossed the border from the Alsace Lorraine region of France.

He shared his life as a prisoner of war like this with his fellow former POWs gathered on the USS Massachusetts:

"We had dug in for the night in the middle of a forest... A German patrol, which apparently crossed our lines at another location, came upon us from the rear and captured approximately 20 from our platoon."

"The German patrol took us off that night to a small town in the valley. We were evacuated under U. S. Army artillery fire, marched to the rear for two days before we were held in a transit camp."

"At this camp we had our first taste of German POW rations. They consisted of hot barley water in the morning, four men on a loaf of black bread at noon and some watery soup at night."

"Contrary to the rules of the Geneva Convention we were forced to dig anti-aircraft emplacements and came under a strafing attack by P-47s while doing so."

"We spent Christmas in this camp. It was a memoorable one. There was no change in rations but by the light of candles made from string and cans of dubbing we read from our prayer books and sang Christmas carols well into the night."

As the German offensive in the Bulge began pushing the Americans back, Noble noticed his guards' morale improving and more and more captured Americans were joining their ranks.

"It was from this point on our treatment went down hill," he said.

"Our soup got thinner and our black bread was divided between eight men. I was one of the few who had a knife so I was elected to cut up the bread. The disadvantage to this was that I was the last one to get a piece."

"I did not experience and individual abuse. However, when we were moved from this camp... approximately 150 miles we were crammed into a boxcar. We could not sit or lie down at the same time. We tried all sorts of ways to do so."

"We were allowed out once to relieve ourselves and to get dry rations and some barley water. The rest of the time we used our helmets and dumped them out through openings in the sides of the boxcar."

"We could not sit or lie down for long due to the cold floor. When we stood up someone near us would sit down and we would have to stand until we got an opportunity to sit down again. My lower legs still bother me from the prolonged standing."

There were nearly 40,000 prisoners in the northern Germany prison camp where Noble ended up so they did not have to do manual labor. Instead, they faced boredom.

"We occupied our time talking about food primarily and making lists of our favorite foods," said Noble.

There were about 30,000 Russian prisoners in the camp and the Americans supplemented their meager diets with potatoes, beets and turnips the Soviets were able to steal or barter from their captors.

The prisoners were liberated by General Montgomery's British Eighth Army on April 16, 1945.

"We could hear them coming because of the artillery fire and see because they illuminated the sky and battlefield by bouncing searchlight beams off the clouds," said Noble.

"We spent the nights of the 14th and the 15th of April singing as many patriotic songs as we could think of."

The next morning we awoke to no guards in the watchtowers and very shortly, a British tank appeared on a ridge overlooking the camp.

The first thing the liberated prisoners did was to dive into a nearby stream for their first bath in months.

"This stream became very dirty in a hurry," said Noble.

He had been a prisoner of war for 122 days and had gone from 140 pounds to just over 100 pounds on the black bread and flavored water diet.

Father Carroll Celebrates 50th Jubilee In Priesthood

Dwight Eisenhower was president and the Korean War was just winding down when 24-year-old John Carroll was ordained to the priesthood by Richard Cardinal Cushing, the archbishop of Boston.

The time was Sept. 29, 1953. The place was the Holy Cross Cathedral.

Last Sunday, surrounded by more than 400 family members and friends he has gathered to him over the years, the Rev. Father John P. Carroll, now 74, celebrated his 50th anniversary in the priesthood.

The Mass was celebrated in Most Blessed Sacrament Church in Hough's Neck, where Father Carroll has been stationed for the past 14 years.

Concelebrating the Mass were the Rev. William English, pastor; the Rev. Thomas Naughton, his cousin and pastor of Sts. Martha & Mary Church in Lakeville; the Rev. William Roche, priest of the Archdiocese residing at Holy Cross Cathedral rectory; and Deacons Paul Markey and Phil Grant.

A reception was held after the Mass at St. Thomas Aquinas Hall with parishioners, family and friends in attendance, including his brother, Daniel P. Carroll of Norwood, many nieces and nephews and parishioners from his former churches in Newton, Arlington and Canton.

FATHER JOHN CARROLL, second right, celebrates Mass on the 50th anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood. Joining him at Most Blessed Sacrament Church in Hough's Neck are, from left, the Rev. James Robinson of Sacred Heart, North Quincy; the Rev. Thomas Naughton of Sts. Martha & Mary, Lakeville, and Father Carroll's cousin; Deacon Paul Markey; and the Rev. William Roche from the Cathedral of the Holy Cross.

Special Activities At Sacred Heart Church

Several religious events are planned for this autumn at Sacred Heart Parish, Hancock Street, North Quincy.

The parish's revived Blessing of Animals will take place on the church lawn Sunday, Oct. 5, following the 10:30 a.m. Mass. All are invited to bring their pets for this blessing, which occurs on the Sunday closest to the feast of Saint Francis of Assisi (Oct. 4), patron saint of animals. After the blessing, all are invited to take part in refreshments and fellowship.

The annual Mass with the Anointing of the Sick will take place at the 10:30 a.m. Mass Sunday, Oct. 19. Catholics who are seriously ill, or who are frail by the natural process of aging, are invited to receive the Sacrament of the Sick. They may inform the pastoral staff of their wish to be anointed by calling the parish office at 617-328-8666. A small reception will take place in the church vestibule following Mass.

On Sunday, Nov. 2, the feast of All Souls is marked with the parish's annual Mass of Remembrance. This 10:30 a.m. Mass celebrates the lives of those who were buried from Sacred Heart Parish since All Souls Day 2002. Family members of the deceased are especially invited to attend along with the regular worshipping community. A reception for all follows in St. Joseph Oratory, the parish's lower church.

This year marks the 100th anniversary of Sacred Heart Parish. A special closing Mass will be celebrated Sunday, Nov. 23, at 5 p.m. to close the centennial year. Most Rev. Sean P. O'Malley, Archbishop of Boston, will preside. The combined music ministries of the parish will lead the liturgical music at Mass. A reception will follow the liturgy.

For more information on these special liturgies, contact the Sacred Heart Parish office at 617-328-8666.

Human Rights Commission To Meet On Oct. 7

The Quincy Human Rights Commission will meet Tuesday, Oct. 7, at City Hall, Hancock Street, from 5:30 to 7 p.m. in the second floor conference room.

The commission will take part in several events involved in the coming of the replica of the Amistad schooner to Boston Oct. 14-26. Racial, religious and educational projects are on the agenda. The public is invited.

City Applies For $2M Port Security Grant

Seeking ways to make the city safer, the Quincy Police Marine Unit recently applied for a $2 million federal Port Security Grant.

Lt. Bob Gillan and officer Jim Silcox recently met with representatives from Congressman William Delahunt's office. School committee member Jo-Ann Bragg and Ward 3 Councilor Kevin Coughlin to discuss ways of pumping up security. Bragg met with the marine unit on how to apply for the grant.

If approved, the police and fire departments in Quincy, Weymouth and Braintree would benefit with additional equipment and safety training.

"In working cooperatively without raising taxes to the residents in Quincy, Weymouth and Braintree we were able to find a way to utilize federal funds to purchase additional safety equipment and provide training to assist the first responders in these communities," said Bragg, a candidate for councillor at-large. "In the event of an emergency we will be better prepared to respond, keeping everyone safer. I am excited about the possibility of receiving this grant."

The grant calls for an upgrade to existing equipment, the purchase of additional patrol vessels, two marine diesel engines for the Quincy Police Department's boat, the Guardian, adding a fire pump to the Weymouth Police Department's boat, the Sea Watch, expanding the Patrol Program, marine firefighting equipment, police diver equipment, in-service training for the fire department, in-service training for the police department to counter terrorism as well as a civilian terrorism awareness program and a local US Coast Guard maritime reporting program called "Coast Watch."

The city will find out sometime this month if they grant was approved.

St. Chrysostom Breaks Ground For Townhouses

St. Chrysostom Parish recently celebrated a groundbreaking dedication for its townhouse condominium project at 523 Hancock St., Wollaston.

Ten two-bedroom townhouses will be built, nine of which will be sold and the funds put into a trust for church maintenance.

The 10th unit will be retained in case it is needed for a future rectory.

Arch Deacon Mark Hollingsworth, representing the Bishops of the Episcopal Diocese, said "the St. Chrysostom Project may well be a model for other [parishes] to achieve the fullest of their resources to more effectively outreach to the community and grow the church."

He also noted that St. Chrysostom has already made major strides in partnership with the diocese to provide services to the Asian community.

The Rev. Claude Smith, parish priest, led the congregation in the dedication of the project. Junior Warden John Iredale symbolically tossed the first shovel full of dirt.

Senior Warden Ron Iacobucci said "demolition of the existing buildings will begin soon and the actual construction will commence sometime this fall.

"We are grateful for the support from the local community and have begun to work with the many AA groups that use the church to resolve the street parking problem that occurs, especially on Sunday nights.

"With the ground-breaking dedication complete we are now moving forward on this great faith venture."

ST. CHRYSOSTOM PARISH recently broke ground for its townhouse condominium project at a dedication ceremony. Participants shown in front row are, from left, Ward 5 City Councillor Doug Gutro, Vestry member Helen Shalit, Christine Stuver, Senior Warden Ron Iacobucci, Rev. Claude Smith, parish priest, Vestry member Eric Goossens, Junior Warden John Iredale, symbolically breaking ground, Ward Smith and Vestry member William McFadden.

Record-Breaking Support!

The 6th Annual Marie Curry Walk, on Sunday, September 7, raised $155,000, to date, — a record-breaking $25,000 more than last year. The Walk raises funds to provide screening and diagnostic mammography and breast care services at Quincy Medical Center to women without health insurance or with inadequate coverage.

More than 112 businesses, civic organizations and individuals served as sponsors of the 6th Annual Walk. Two TRULY REMARKABLE organizations — South Shore Savings Bank and Medical Contracting Services, Inc. — donated $10,000 each to support the Marie A. Curry Fund.

Keegan Reports Clearance To Serve On City Council

Joseph Keegan, candidate for Ward 1 city councillor, says he has received clearance to both seek and hold that position from the Massachusetts State Ethics Commission.

Keegan, a Quincy police officer and graduate of the New England School of Law, sought the opinion this past spring when deciding whether to run for the seat.

The commission, Keegan said, informed him that within the Massachusetts General Laws exist the "city councillors exemption." This provision allows for public employees, including police officers, to serve as elected municipal officials. The law does, however, prohibit these individuals from collecting the salary that comes with the position.

Also, as a councillor and police officer, Keegan would not be allowed to vote on police raises. The statute does not preclude Keegan from voting on other matters as they relate to public safety.

"If I'm elected it will be at a savings of over $17,000 a year to the taxpayers," Keegan said. "In these trying financial times that money may help save a valuable position or program."

Keegan said it has been brought to his attention that a rumor is circulating that he can not serve if elected.

"I want to make it perfectly clear, if I'm elected Ward 1 councillor I will serve," he said. "If that means I have to resign my position as a police officer, I will do so."

Why we should keep Elaine Dwyer on the Quincy School Committee:

"Parents are the most important people in the lives of children. Elaine Dwyer was an important person in the life of every child at my school."

As PTO President, Elaine was a support to me and to every teacher in the classroom. For the past year and a half, she has been a passionate and innovative member of the Quincy School Committee. I was lucky to have Elaine, and Quincy is lucky to have Elaine. - Dr. Kathleen Morris

Buckley Stresses Safety For School Students

School Committee candidate Brian Buckley stressed the importance of safety for the school students of Quincy at a recent campaign gathering.

Buckley reiterated that safety must be the number one concern of all school committee members. He said Quincy must guarantee that the many school buildings, and the staff and students who reside within them every day, are safe from all dangers. He suggested that providing a learning environment that is conducive to learning is prefaced by making sure it is out of harm's way.

"With the prospect of building a new Quincy High School and renovations to Central Middle School and Sterling Middle School being years away, we must establish a maintenance plan that guarantees our employees and our children are safe," he said.

He said safety is important on two fronts: Not only is it important to provide a structurally safe building but it is also equally important to provide safety from outside dangers.

Buckley praised the efforts of the current administration for making sure that all students and staff discuss and practice evacuation and security drills.

Retired Gen. Gordon Sullivan Receives Prestigious Thayer Award

Retired Gen. Gordon Sullivan, a native of Quincy, received the prestigious Thayer Award Wednesday at the U.S. Military Academy in West Point, New York.

The Thayer Award, established in honor of Col. Sylvanus Thayer who was born in Braintree and is considered the "Father of the Military Academy," is presented to an outstanding citizen whose service and accomplishments in the national interest exemplify the Military Academy motto, "Duty, Honor, Country." The Association of Graduates has presented the award annually since 1958.

Other Thayer Award recipients include Colin Powell in 1998, Walter Cronkite (1997), George Bush (1994) and Ronald Reagan (1989).

Retired Gen. Douglas MacArthur received the honor in 1962 and former President Dwight Eisenhower was the recipient in 1961.

Sullivan retired from the Army July 31, 1995, after more than 36 years of active service. He culminated his service in uniform as the 32nd Chief of Staff of the Army – the senior general officer in the Army – and a member of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. As the Chief of Staff, he created the vision and led the team that transitioned the Army for its Cold War posture.

Sullivan is currently the president and chief operating officer of the Association of the United States Army in Arlington, Va.

The recipient of the Sylvanus Thayer Award receives a medal with a bust in profile of Thayer on one side, with the inscription: "The Sylvanus Thayer Medal Awarded by the Association of Graduates, United States Military Academy, for Outstanding Service to the Nation." The reverse side carries the coat of arms of the Military Academy and the words "West Point" and "Duty, Honor, Country."

Around the edge of the medal are inscribed the name of the recipient and the year of presentation. In addition to receiving the medal, the recipient's name is inscribed on a memorial plaque in Washington Hall, the cadet dining facility.

Thayer, graduate of the Military Academy in 1808, became its fifth superintendent in 1817. Thayer served in the position until 1833. During his superintendency, Thayer instituted the principles of academic and military training based upon the integration of character and knowledge that have long been recognized as the hallmark of the Military Academy.

Under Thayer's direction, the Military Academy became the finest engineering school in America and created a pattern for the study of engineering that was copied by later institutions of learning in the following years.

Cahill Co-Chairman Of Walk For Diabetes Oct. 11

State Treasurer Tim Cahill of Quincy, whose family has had close personal experience with the disease, will co-chair America's Walk for Diabetes in Boston Saturday, Oct. 11.

The walk will get underway at 10:30 a.m. from the Hatch Shell on the Charles River Esplanade with participants able to choose either a three-mile or a six-mile route to walk. Check-in time is 8:30 a.m.

A variety of breakfast foods will be served to the expected 2,000 participants, rest stops will be stocked with snacks and drinks and lunch will be waiting at the Hatch Shell at the conclusion of the walk.

TIM CAHILL

Last March, Cahill donated a kidney to his sister, Alicia, who suffers from juvenile diabetes, a disease that can lead to blindness, heart failure, kidney failure and amputation.

There are 17 million Americans who suffer from diabetes and 16 million Americans who have a condition known as pre-diabetes. More Americans die from diabetes than breast cancer and AIDS combined.

Tim and another sister, Team Captain Barbara Campbell, are seeking volunteers to join Team Cahill in the Oct. 11 walk to help support the mission of the American Diabetes Association.

That mission is to prevent and cure diabetes and improve the lives of all people affected by diabetes.

To join Team Cahill, contact Barbara Cahill at 781-848-1059.

at the very core of the American way of life. It's what makes American a great nation and it's what sets democracy apart from every other form of government. I am honored that Mayor Phelan has placed his faith and trust in me by appointing me to the board and I look forward to working with the other registrars to maintain the integrity of the electoral process and to encourage more citizens to exercise this important right."

Logue, 36, was born and raised in Quincy. A graduate of North Quincy High School and American University, she is employed as a writer for WGBH Boston. Active in community affairs, she served on the Quincy High School Siting Commission and is currently first vice president of the Quincy Lions Club. Logue lives in the Beechwood Knoll section of Wollaston with her husband, David, and their three children.

She is the daughter of councillor and former mayor Francis McCauley.

Flagship Realty Group Opens Office In Quincy

Flagship Realty Group of Norwell announces the opening tomorrow (Friday) of a new office in Quincy located at 382 Quincy Ave.

Owned and operated by Steve O'Brien, the office will manage residential real estate sales and rentals that are generated in the Quincy, Braintree, Milton, Weymouth areas, as well as target business in Dorchester and other parts of Boston.

"Our success with sales in the Norwell office has been strong and consistent since opening our doors almost two years ago," said O'Brien. "The positive response we received as to the care and commitment our customers and clients experienced gave support to the idea of expanding into the Quincy area, where my roots are deep."

O'Brien said he knows the Quincy market well, having been born and raised there.

He said he will be staffing the Quincy office with new agents in the coming months. Kathy Ostroff, also a native and current resident of Quincy, manages the office.

"Our philosophy is based on the belief that our customers and clients want to know that the real estate agents that they work with are completely familiar with the areas and believe in the viability and vitality of the neighborhoods there," said O'Brien.

Cain Elected Ward 3 Democratic Chairman

John Cain of 192 South Central Ave., Wollaston, has been elected chairman of the Ward 3 Democratic Committee.

Cain, who was previously vice chairman, said he is looking to involve more of the Ward 3 community by promoting the Democratic party at the local neighborhood level, promoting the objectives of the party, and working for the nomination and election of party candidates.

Donald Knight was elected secretary and Philip Matthews, treasurer.

Cain is a candidate for the Ward 3 city council seat.

Tolerance Clinic At NQHS

Members of the North Quincy High School Alliance Against Racism and Spectrum recently participated in a tolerance clinic.

The clinic, under the direction of Sandy Pimental of the Norfolk County District Attorney's office, focused on listening, respecting and empowering.

The Alliance and Spectrum members, under the advisory of Peggy Farren and Maria D'Arcangelo, were joined by students of the Islamic Center of New England and their teacher Shareda Hussein.

Both the students and faculty said they found the clinic extremely valuable and plan to meet again in three months to focus on racism and possible solutions to this problem.

Dear Ward 6 Voters,

Please accept my sincere thanks for your vote during the primary election. I also want to extend a special thanks to my friends and family for all their help. I am deeply grateful for your tireless efforts.

Putting election results aside and the disappointment that often accompanies this process, let's celebrate the dedication of all the candidates and their countless volunteers. Although we are grateful to be in the final election, no one should forget the efforts of the other candidates and their volunteers! They are all deserving of our respect and appreciation. After all, without their participation, we would not have had a choice when we went to the polls. I think we can all agree that democracy triumphs when the voter has choices.

Again, thank you for your support as we all look forward to building a better Quincy!

Iraq Veteran Visits Della Chiesa Center To Thank Students

Children at the Amelio Della Chiesa Early Childhood Center received a special visitor last week when Sgt. Brent Dennis of the US Marine Corps stopped by to thank the students for the packages of supplies sent to him from the school while he was serving in Iraq.

Dennis, 22, served as an intelligence officer with the 1st Marine Expeditionary Force. He returned home in July after serving in Iraq for many months. Dennis' two brothers, Aidan and Keith, attend the childhood center.

Dennis sat down with students and recounted his experiences in Iraq.

Principal Dennis Carini said the children were delighted to meet Sgt. Dennis.

"They remembered sending him boxes of items in the Spring, so it was sort of a homecoming for them," said Carini. "Sgt. Dennis was terrific, he is a very mature guy for his age."

Carini said Dennis recounted how frightened he was while stationed in Iraq, and how war is not a pleasant experience.

Approximately 200 students sent Dennis many items, including letters, wash wipes and lip balm. The items were shipped in boxes and sent to Dennis in Iraq.

Alicia Gardner Endorsed By Government Employees Assn.

The National Association of Government Employees (NAGE) has endorsed Alicia Gardner for Ward 6 city councillor.

"I am extremely proud to have the support of NAGE, which represents a broad base of public sector employees," Gardner said. "NAGE has a long and proud history of fighting for quality health care, education, training and retirement benefits for its employees that I wholeheartedly support."

The national offices of NAGE are on Burgin Parkway in Quincy.

NAGE represents municipal, state and federal government employees and is an affiliate of the Service Employees International Union (SEIU), representing numerous service workers. The International Brotherhood of Police Officers (IBPO) is also affiliated with NAGE. This year, NAGE and IBPO launched a national campaign supporting state budget relief in the U.S. Congress.

"As a city council candidate, I am very concerned about the budget crisis of the state and the lower state funding that will come to Quincy as a result," Gardner said. "NAGE, as the representative of public workers, has the same concern that I have about how much cuts in state and municipal aid will affect our city services, including police, fire and other local services."

How To Stock Your Toolbox For Basic Home Repairs

(ARA) - Whether you are a first-time homeowner or have owned a home for years, unless you can afford to have every maintenance chore taken care of by a handyman or professional tradesman, there's probably a long list of to-do tasks just waiting to be tackled.

Your degree of success in completing projects fast enough to still enjoy a round of golf or the kids' soccer games can depend on your skills, the project knowledge you have and what's in your toolbox.

"Having the right tools for home maintenance and repair makes it so much easier to complete the work," says Lou Manfredini, Ace Hardware's Helpful Hardware Man and home improvement expert. "But you don't have to go overboard. You can tackle most simple repairs with a collection of tools that will fit into a 5-gallon bucket."

The following are the 15 of the essential tools Manfredini recommends you keep in that toolbox tool kit to get you through most basic home repair projects:

- A good screwdriver: One will do if it's the kind onto which you can fit a number of different heads, including the basics of a Phillips and slotted.
- An adjustable wrench, which will eliminate the need for an entire set of socket wrenches.
- Three types of pliers: ordinary, needle-nose and wire cutters.
- A set of Allen wrenches, used to tighten bolts that have six-sided holes on top.

- A level, which will help with everything from hanging a picture or curtain rods to shelving. Select between a 2-foot standard level or a 6-inch "torpedo" style.
- A retractable tape measure. One that is 25-feet long should be sufficient.
- A stud finder, which will help locate behind-the-wall or ceiling structural boards.
- A good hammer. Select a 16-ounce claw hammer with a good-fitting grip.
- A small handsaw with a 12-inch blade that fits into a sheath for safety.
- A plunger to clear clogged drains.

(Cont'd from Page 16)

- A chisel, which can help chip out wood to reset a door hinge or adjust a sticking latch.
- A utility knife with a retractable, replaceable blade.
- An assortment of screws and nails.
- A cordless drill. This is the only power tool you'll need unless you become serious about home renovation. Look for one that drills holes and can be fitted with screw-driver attachments. The cordless feature allows you to use the drill anywhere without dragging along an electrical cord.

• Stick-it stuff: A bottle of carpenter's glue and rolls of electrical, masking and duct tape. In a recent poll of Ace Hardware retailers on the one item people should keep on hand for emergency repairs, the overwhelming answer was duct tape, cited by more than half (52 percent) of the retailers.

Manfredini says you can assemble these tools inexpensively, but that you should not skimp on quality. "The only other thing you'll need is the 5-gallon bucket in which to carry the tools, or, better still, a sturdy tool box," Manfredini said. "My favorite is one that doubles as a step stool."

Kathleen Ostroff Honored As Top Agent In Conway's Quincy Office

Kathleen Ostroff recently was named the Top Seller and the Top Lister for the first six months of 2003 in Jack Conway & Co.'s Quincy office.

The awards were announced at Conway's annual mid-year awards breakfasts, held on July 23 and 24. The family-owned Conway company is the state's largest independent real estate firm.

More than 60 agents were recognized at the ceremony,

KATHLEEN OSTROFF
nies, which were conducted by Conway President Richard F. Cahill. The events recognize the top achievers in the company during the first half of the calendar year.

"We're very proud to honor agents like Kathleen, who work so hard throughout the year," Cahill said.

Customers can contact Ms. Ostroff at the Jack Conway & Co. office, 253 Beale Street, Quincy, or by calling (617) 479-1500.

Founded in 1957, Norwell-based Jack Conway & Co. is the largest independent real estate firm in Massachusetts, with more than 710 associates in 41 offices from Boston to Cape Cod. In 2003, the company was ranked 77th in the nation among real estate firms in the annual Power Broker survey, compiled and published by National Relocation and Real Estate magazine.

Crime Watch

By ROBERT HANNA
Crime Prevention Officer
Quincy Police Department

Protecting Your Neighborhood

There's more to crime prevention than locks and lighting. Fact is, concerned neighbors who watch out for and care about each other are the front-line defenses against crime.

What's your neighborhood? Maybe it's a suburban subdivision, or a city block bounded by a park or expressway. It could be a small rural area, or a high-rise apartment building. No matter where you live, your neighborhood directly affects your welfare.

Today's lifestyles don't always make it easy to be a good neighbor. But it takes only a little and attention to:

- Get to know your neighbors and discuss your concerns about the neighborhood and community. Share information.

- Be alert to things that say "we don't care" and invite crime - like poor street lighting, boarded up buildings, no recreational activities or jobs for teens, vacant lots littered with debris, inadequate day care and after-school programs. Work with law enforcement, civic groups, community agencies, churches, and service clubs to solve problems.

- Join a Neighborhood or Apartment Watch group. Members receive training in crime prevention and agree to look out for each other's safety and property. If there's no Watch organization in your neighborhood, start one with the help of local law enforcement and community groups.

- Help local government do its job. Alert law enforcement to suspicious activities and any crimes. Report non-working streetlights, missing street signs, abandoned houses, and other problems to the agencies responsible. How can they help if they don't know there's a problem?

Strong community groups can profoundly enhance security and the ways people help each other. The Citizens' Committee of New York looked carefully at block associations in three neighborhoods. Its study showed that active associations substantially reduce fear of crime, encouraged citizen crime reporting, and stimulated members' involvement in crime prevention. Active association also deterred drug traffic and spurred spruce-ups that improved the quality of the neighborhood.

FALL CAR CARE

AAA Car Care Month Is Time For Annual Vehicle Check-Up

With a typical family of its annual household budget on motor vehicle related expenses, AAA South New England is urging motorists to protect their automotive investment with an annual maintenance and safety inspection during AAA Car Care Month.

During October and November, participating AAA Approved Auto Repair facilities will be offering members a special $1 pre-winter inspection of fluid levels, including oil and windshield wiper fluid, belts and hoses, windshield wipers and battery. A listing of participating AAA facilities can be found in the October issue of the official club publication, AAA Horizons, online at aaa.com.

The average annual cost of owning and operating a new car is estimated by AAA to be $7,754, 15 percent of the average family income.

"It's easy to help safeguard this large part of the family budget and protect against hazardous breakdowns," said John Paul, AAA Southern New England's Car Doctor. "Motorists with an appointment will usually need no more than 15 minutes to have their vehicle looked at by a professional technician. A professional can quickly determine if any maintenance or repairs have been overlooked and need to be performed."

AAA reminds motorists that a good place to learn about maintaining a vehicle is as near as the glove compartment. A vehicle owner's manual is the authoritative source for specific information about the vehicle you drive.

Good Visibility Requires Periodic Vehicle Maintenance

During AAA Car Care Month in October, AAA is urging motorists to consider visibility when maintenance is performed on their vehicle. Items that are necessary for good visibility are:

- Clear, clean windows unobstructed by decals, dark window tinting or objects that interfere with the driver's view of the road.

- Windshield wipers changed twice per year will ensure the rubber remains soft enough to efficiently remove water, snow and road grit from the glass surface.

- Vehicle lights, including headlights, brake lights, turn signals, parking lights, emergency flashers and the center, high-mounted brake light should all be inspected regularly and replaced immediately if needed. Lights can also become dirty which limits their brightness. They should be cleaned regularly.

- Mirrors must be clean, large enough and correctly angled to provide a complete view of all areas behind and to the side of the vehicle. Objects inside or outside the vehicle must not obstruct mirrors. They usually need to be reset when there is a change of drivers.

- A vehicle's air circulation system must function properly to quickly defrost or defog the windshield and other glass surfaces. Use an ice scraper to remove snow and ice before driving. Before turning on the defroster and blower, move the heat control to "hot" and allow the engine to warm up first. If the windshield starts to fog on the inside, open a side window slightly and turn the defroster fan to its highest setting. If your car's heating and air conditioning system has a setting for fresh or recirculated air, always select the fresh air setting while in the defroster mode.

- Sunglasses that do not have overly dark lenses can also be a significant aid to visibility when driving in bright-light conditions. Be sure lenses are kept clean. Glare can cause blind spots and driving fatigue. Sunglasses will help eliminate this. Eye-drops can be helpful for long-distance drives.

Hands Hanover 27-16 Defeat Quincy Keeps Composure, Gets Win

By CHRIS POISSON

If the Quincy High School football team allowed its 21-6 third-quarter lead to slip away last Friday night against Hanover, it could've come up with plenty of excuses for the collapse.

The Presidents could've chalked it up to inexperience, with one returning starter on defense and three on offense; or the fact it was their first game of the season compared to the Indians' third; or the eight penalties they committed for 75 yards.

Instead, Quincy kept its composure and came up with several clutch plays late in the game, on offense, defense and special teams, to notch a 27-16 victory at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

"There was every opportunity to fold," said head coach Bob Noble. "Even when every single thing you could think of went wrong, we didn't fold. We came up with big plays."

Quincy (1-0) travels to Plymouth South (1-2) Friday night to face a Panthers team coming off their second straight loss, a 27-6 setback to Taunton.

"They have a fine running back in Jamie Moyer," Noble said. "Definitely, we'll have to pay attention to him. Offensively they use Wing-T formations with a lot of misdirections and counters. They're a dangerous team although they've lost two in a row."

Leading 14-6 at halftime, senior linebacker James Hutchins picked off a pass on Hanover's first possession of the second half to give the Presidents the ball at the Hanover 37.

Seven plays later, senior quarterback Josh Giordani plunged in from 1 yard out and senior Anand Jagannath's extra point made it 21-6 with 3:14 left.

In jeopardy of being blown out, the Indians staged a rally when sophomore James Carven replaced starter Kevin McLaughlin at quarterback. Carven connected on his first four passes, the last a 24-yard scoring strike to Tony Vajanzola with 10 seconds left in the quarter.

Carven hit Pat Dwyer for the two-point conversion to make it 21-14. On the play, Quincy was whistled for a 15-yard personal foul penalty to be assessed on the ensuing kickoff.

Senior quad-captain J.J. Niamkey bobbled the kickoff and was greeted by a contingent of Hanover defenders who tackled him in the end zone for a safety, cutting the lead to 21-16.

"There was a five- or six-minute stretch in the third quarter where things went wrong," Noble said. "We let them go right down the field and score throwing the ball. That was way too easy."

Hanover received great field position inside Quincy territory on its next two possessions, but it couldn't muster any points as the Presidents' defense cranked it up a notch. The unit yielded only 151 yards in total offense to the Indians.

During the second series, on third-and-15 at the 16, Hutchins pummeled Carven from his blindside, knocking the ball loose which senior quad-captain and defensive lineman Ed DeWitt recovered at the 23.

"James Hutchins had a huge game," said Noble of his two-sack, two-fumble caused, interception, pass-deflection performance. "He is a first-year starter. He had a heck of a night for himself. I'm real happy for him."

Quincy's offense stalled and was forced to punt deep in its territory. That's when the Presidents received a huge break. Punter Ted Agoli bobbled the snap, but the

PRESSURE SITUATIONS

A muffler is a canister with internal tubular passages that slow down the exit of exhaust gas from the engine, reducing its performance. Some back pressure is beneficial at low speed, however, because slowing down the flow pattern of intake and exhaust gases somewhat improves performance. To optimize performance throughout the speed range, many manufacturers make use of 2-stage mufflers with internal spring-loaded valves. These mufflers maintain a specified amount of back pressure for good low-speed performance. Then, at higher speeds, as back pressure builds up, it pushes open the spring-loaded valve, and the gases take a far less restricted route through the muffler. This "second stage" permits the engine to develop considerably greater horsepower at higher rpms.

Quincy Hands Hanover 27-16 Defeat

freshman kept his cool, gathered the ball and got the punt off before being toppled by a group of defenders.

Hanover was penalized for roughing the kicker, giving Quincy a first down at its 39 and a chance to run the clock out.

"That was a huge play by Ted Agoli," Noble said. "For a ninth-grade kid to have the presence of mind to not completely panic and get the kick away is a great thing. And we were very fortunate to get a roughing the kicker penalty that really turned the game around."

Quincy, though, fumbled five plays later, giving Hanover another chance with 1:24 left and the ball on its 41. The defense came through again, forcing Hanover to turn the ball over downs.

Niamkey sealed the game when he darted around right end for a 36-yard TD with 43 seconds remaining in the game. Niamkey finished with 177 yards on 25 carries.

"At the end of the game, when it still was in doubt, the defense came up with some great plays to preserve the victory for us," Noble said. "There's no question about that."

Hanover struck first when Pat Dwyer rumbled up the middle for a 36-yard TD with 2:47 left in the first quarter.

Quincy evened the score with 6:38 left in the second when senior wide receiver Ian Jorgensen fired a 58-yard TD strike to senior quad-captain Jon Banks on a flea-flicker.

With 40 seconds left in the half, Niamkey darted into the end zone from 4 yards out and rushed for the two-point conversion for a 14-6 advantage.

"Talk about highs and lows," Noble said. "At times we looked great offensively. I thought we moved the ball very consistently. Penalties killed us and part of that is it being the first game. I thought we did a great job of moving the football."

"We've got some talented kids but they were green. I'm happy, but there are definitely some things we need to work on. We should not put teams in position to get back into the game and potentially give the game away."

North Quincy Wins 6th, Hosts Quincy Saturday

The North Quincy High School girls' soccer team improved its record to 6-2-1 by taking five of a possible six points in last week's games.

The Red Raiders, which traveled to Marshfield Tuesday, head to Silver Lake today (Thursday) before hosting cross-town rival Quincy Saturday night at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

They received reports that the Raiders' defense was solid, but the offense was struggling. Quincy, on the other hand, was looking to improve its record.

North Quincy's defense was solid, but the offense was struggling. Quincy, on the other hand, was looking to improve its record. The Raiders' defense was solid, but the offense was struggling.

Plymouth South tied the game late in the half as Michaela Barrett's direct kick found the top corner from 20 yards out, the first goal senior keeper Kristina Mangano had allowed in four games.

North Quincy netted the game-winning midway through the second half. Freshman Lauren Stille made a nice play to keep the ball in play on the sideline and crossed it to senior quad-captain Breaanne Therrien, who laid a perfect pass to junior midfielder Caitlyn Peters who rammed it into an open net.

Mangano preserved the win with a spectacular diving save off a ball from Diane Pascale.

Last Wednesday, the Red Raiders made the long trek to Barnstable and came back with a scoreless tie, the same result as last season.

Again, North Quincy's defense was solid with senior quad-captain Sarah Gregory and junior Julie Holleran standing out. Senior Ashley Ridge and sophomore Carlin McCleary and Lindsey Clifford also played well at their midfield positions.

Last Monday, North Quincy blanked 2002 state semi-finalist Bridgewater-Raynham, 2-0, at home. Quincy's senior keeper Kristina Mangano kept the Raiders' offense at bay.

Later in the half, junior Eileen Price fed Therrien, who beat a defender at the 18-yard line and placed her shot into the top left corner.

Defensively, Mangano led the way with her second shutout of the season. Junior defenders Shauna Kelly, Erika Djerf and Holleran and Gregory played strong games. Junior midfielder Amanda Saylor played her best game of the year at stopper.

On Sept. 20, the Red Raiders headed to Martha's Vineyard and came away with a 4-0 win, albeit a costly win. Sophomore midfielder Lauren Milone broke her collarbone and may be lost for the season.

North Quincy took the lead 22 minutes into the half when Stille registered her first varsity goal with an assist from Kristina Penzo. Therrien found the net with an assist from Peters.

Faherty made it 3-0, flicking Saylor's pass into the net.

Clifford placed a 20-yard shot top corner off a feed by junior Kerin Frawley to round out the scoring.

Also playing well were senior Kay Dotoli, Caileen Coleman, Coughlin and McCleary.

On Sept. 18, North Quincy dropped a 6-1 decision to Falmouth at home. Ryan tied the game late in the first half when she blasted a shot to the top left corner off an assist from Faherty.

The Clippers took the lead late in the second half. But North Quincy nearly pulled even at the 20-minute mark, hitting the crossbar and missing a wide-open net. Ridge, Kelly and Saylor played well.

On Sept. 16, the Red Raiders scored all their goals in the first 18 minutes as they caged the Tigers, 4-1, in Taunton.

Milone headed a Ryan corner kick into the net three minutes into the game. Two minutes later, Peters scored when she finished a feed from sophomore forward Annmarie Campanale.

Price redirected a Ryan cross at the far post for a 3-0 advantage and Ryan netted a Peters' pass to close out the scoring.

Manganaro lost her shut-out bid as Taunton converted a penalty kick late in the second half. Senior forward Caitlin Trainor had North Quincy's best second-half chance but her breakthrough effort was turned aside.

Playing well were juniors Molly Griffith, Sarah Kennedy and Djerf and freshmen Bridget Coleman and Jillian Benn.

Faherty made it 3-0, flicking Saylor's pass into the net.

GIRLS' SOCCER

Quincy Girls' Soccer Off To Best Start In Years

The Quincy High School girls' soccer team is off to its best start in many years under third-year head coach Don Martin.

The Presidents have posted a 4-4 overall record (2-2 Atlantic Coast League) through eight games. They host Whitman-Hanson today (Thursday) at 3:30 at Varsity Field and Saturday night at 7 they battle city rival North Quincy at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

"Everything is falling into place and we are enjoying this ride," Martin said.

Last Wednesday, Quincy topped Randolph, 4-1, at home behind sophomore Courtney Hall's second hat trick of the season. Hall is one of the leading scorers in the ACL with 10 goals and an assist.

In the first half, senior quad-captain Jessica Carella and junior defender Marissa Powers assisted on Hall's first two goals.

Quincy gave up a penalty kick to Randolph before senior quad-captain Colleen Martin threaded a pass between several defenders to Hall, who planted a bomb into the far corner.

The final goal of the game came at the 22-minute mark of the second half when junior defender Katie Walsh sent a long cross to streaking junior midfielder Chrissy Brewster, who struck gold with her first varsity goal.

"Seniors Katie Kisieluis and Fionnula Bohan had great games," Martin said. "They both played several positions and really extended themselves throughout this match, forcing many Randolph mistakes and allowing us to keep Randolph at bay."

Last Monday, Quincy suffered a 2-1 heartbreaker at undefeated Plymouth North. Throughout the first half, Quincy managed to keep the ACL leaders off the scoreboard with senior quad-captain Sarah Shea making five outstanding saves.

Hall kept constant pressure on the Plymouth North back line and sent a low driven ball just wide of the left post at the 36-minute mark.

fired a ball to the far corner through a maze of players cluttered at the 18-yard line. Plymouth North, though, netted the equalizer in the 24th minute.

Both teams pressed on with neither willing to settle for a tie. Plymouth North capitalized on a Quincy miscue at the end of the second half by sliding an unmarked defender up deep into the Quincy third of the field. In alone on net, the defender struck a wonderful ball from 16 yards out into the top left corner for the game-winner.

"This is the finest overall performance I have ever seen from a Quincy High School girls' soccer team from front to back," Martin said. "Senior captains Jessica Carella, Sarah Shea and Kaila Saxe provided wonderful direction and tremendous support for this young team that surrounds them in our defensive backfield."

At one point in the second half, Saxe blocked a sure goal when a rebound was struck after Shea made the initial save. Powers, Walsh and sophomore Marissa Monaco played strong defensive games.

Quincy Freshman Football Win

The Quincy High School freshman football team opened its season last Thursday with a 36-34 overtime victory at Hanover.

The offense looked very impressive, led by quarterback James Aikens who passed for a touchdown and ran for another. Running back Tom Hazelhurst scored two TDs. Wilson Araujo one and wide receiver Alex Chan the game-winner.

The offensive line opened huge holes and protected Aikens well. The unit consists of tackles Joe Brown and Sean Kearney, guards Pat Austin and Steve Kussman, center Charlie McGee and tight end Wendell Cosgrove.

Nose guard P.J. Banks and linebacker Elfrain Melendez stood out defensively.

Quincy hosts Plymouth South today (Thursday) at 3:30 at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Pamper Yourself For Better Health

CARA) Can a bubble bath reduce your risk of heart disease? Could a manicure ease your asthma symptoms or a soothing massage prevent your next cold? Simple, stress-reducing activities could have a positive impact on your health.

Doctors have long known that stress plays a role in many health problems, including heart disease, asthma, and depression.

Dr. David S.atcher, director of the National Center for Chronic Disease Prevention and Control, says, "Stress is a major risk factor for many chronic diseases, including heart disease, asthma, and depression."

Dr. Satcher says that stress can also lead to poor health choices, such as smoking, drinking alcohol, and eating a poor diet.

Dunkelman, founder and president of Speaking of Women's Health.

Speaking of Women's Health is a nonprofit organization dedicated to educating women to make informed decisions about their health, well-being, and personal safety. Wal-Mart, one of the organization's national sponsors, has placed Speaking of Women's Health information displays in Wal-Mart stores across the country. "We encourage women to take control of their health by making informed decisions about their health, well-being, and personal safety," says Dunkelman. "We also encourage women to take control of their health by making informed decisions about their health, well-being, and personal safety."

"I believe that a healthy, stress-free life is a goal that everyone can achieve," says Dunkelman. "It gets us at the door in the morning. What we want to do is eliminate some of the stress that gets in the way of our health. It comes from everywhere, from the stress of the morning rush hour to the stress of the evening news."

The foundation for a stress-free life has its roots in the basics of good health—exercise regularly, eat a healthy diet, and get enough sleep at night. In addition, eliminate or reduce bad habits, such as smoking or over-indulging in alcohol.

Florence Henderson, national honorary chair of Speaking of Women's Health and co-host of Lifetime's "Speaking of Women's Health" television show that airs on Lifetime TV every Saturday morning at 11:30 a.m. EST & PST, advises women to face their stressors head on.

"There are stressors in your life that you can change for the better, then there are stressors that you can't," says Henderson, star of stage, screen and television, and everyone's favorite TV Mom. "It might mean making some tough decisions, but the reward is having more control over your emotions, your situation, and your life."

Henderson reminds us that many of us have things in our lives that we'd like to change, but for various reasons, we can't. "This is where self-care comes in," she says. "You might not be able to change a difficult situation, but you can do some small things to take care of yourself."

"We're talking about finding ways to celebrate life's simple pleasures on a regular basis—every day if you can—to help reduce your stress for better health."

Here are some easy, inexpensive ways that Henderson and Dunkelman recommend to pamper yourself:

- * Treat yourself to some fresh flowers. Keep them on your desk at work or on your nightstand at home.

- * Buy a new shade of lipstick.

- * Light candles in your house. Don't save them just for special occasions.

- * Buy yourself one set of the most sumptuous bath towels you can find. There's nothing more luxurious than using a rich, thick towel after your morning shower, especially if you're getting ready for a busy work day.

- * Schedule a "Me Day." Plan a day where you do some of the things you may dream about doing during your morning commute to work. Browse in an antique shop. Take a nap in your backyard hammock. Catch an afternoon matinee.

- * Go to a local department store and get a free makeover at the make-up counter.

- * Treat yourself to a natural body or facial scrub. Combine it with a scented bubble bath.

- * Take a walk.

- * Get a massage and a pedicure. When your feet feel good, you feel good all over.

- * Another stress relief is connecting with a friend—take a walk together, make an unscheduled phone call or send a letter or e-mail just to chat. You might consider helping a friend who is stressed by putting together a "pampering" gift basket.

"One of our goals is to educate women about the effects of stress on their lives and to get them to start thinking about ways they can make changes—even small changes—to lead happier, less-stressful lives," says Dunkelman. "And I'm including myself in that category."

"It's like what the flight attendants say when they advise you to put on your emergency oxygen mask before helping others. You have to take care of yourself first, so you can be better prepared to care for your family and friends," she adds.

American Cancer Society Program At South Shore Suburban Oncology Center

Look Good, Feel Better For Cancer Patients Oct. 20

The American Cancer Society will hold its "Look Good, Feel Better" program for cancer patients Monday, Oct. 20 from 6 to 8 p.m. at South Shore Suburban Oncology Center, 100 Congress St., Quincy.

The program is designed to help cancer patients feel better about their appearance and to provide them with information about the latest in cancer treatment.

The free program features cosmetologists leading group sessions, providing tips and practical techniques for coping with hair loss and changes in the skin that often result from chemotherapy or radiation therapy.

"Being able to look your best makes a world of difference to someone going through treatment for cancer," said Gail Bork, American Cancer Society Regional Executive for Cancer Control. "Sometimes simple changes in makeup or an attractive way of tying a head scarf can create a turnaround in a woman's outlook and bring back her optimism."

New cancer treatments are saving more lives, but they are not without side effects. Some women experience total or partial hair loss, changes in the skin tone and texture, and weakened fingernails.

The American Cancer Society estimates that approximately 658,800 American women will develop some form of cancer this year. The good news is that, thanks to advances in medicine, the five-year relative survival rate of all cancers is 62 percent.

Registration is required for the program. To RSVP, call Colleen Whitehouse at 617-376-6435.

For more information, call the American Cancer Society at 1-800-ACS-2345.

DENTISTRY for the 21st Century

by Steven A. Brustin, D.M.D.
ON THE FRONT LINES

Dental hygienists play an important role in combating tooth decay and gum disease by, essentially, fighting on the front lines of decay and disease. During regular professional cleanings, dental hygienists remove soft and hard deposits from teeth, as well as provide other preventive dental care. They examine patients' teeth and gums, recording the presence of diseases or abnormalities. They remove calculus, stains, and plaque from teeth and take and develop x-rays. Hygienists apply such cavity preventive agents as fluoride and pit and fissure sealants. Moreover, hygienists educate patients on the relationship between diet and good oral health as well as the importance and practice of healthful dental habits that lead to fewer cavities and reduced gum inflammation.

Remember, home care is important, however, only a dentist or dental hygienist can provide a professional cleaning. If you are looking for a family dentist who understands the needs of everyone in your family as individuals and as patients, we hope you will consider us. We want to make the most of your smile. Please call 617-479-6220 to schedule an appointment. We think you will be delighted with the treatment and counsel you receive. We're located at 44 Greenleaf Street. We offer the services of anesthesiology and a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. Our web address is www.quincydentist.com.

P.S. Ask the hygienist to teach you the proper way to floss your teeth if you have any questions.

SCOTT DEWARE

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

A person given to wise sayings once said: "The best way to forget your own problem is to help someone solve his." Many, many years ago a new teacher was assigned to a one-room school in Indiana. The school bullies tried to bluff him the first day. Their ring leader drew a comic picture of the new teacher, wrote a few lines under it, and created quite a stir by passing it around the class. Upon seeing it, the teacher said, "Jim, will you please stay after school for a few minutes?"

After school Jim's friends hung around to see what happened. Could the new teacher stand up to the bully? To their surprise, Jim emerged with a book under his arm and went whistling home.

The new teacher disarmed him by saying, "Jim, you have a rare talent. Your ability to write and draw pictures should be developed. I have a book of stories and poems. Would you like to take it home and draw me some pictures to illustrate the stories?"

Thus he fanned to life a spark of latent genius within the overgrown bully, resulting in the turning point of the beloved Hoosier poet, James Whitcomb Riley...

NOTICES OF A PUBLIC HEARING

THE COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS
HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT
NOTICE OF A PUBLIC HEARING

A Design Public Hearing will be held by MassHighway to discuss the proposed transportation improvements for the Route 3/Burgin Parkway/Centre Street Interchange in the City of Quincy.

WHERE: City of Quincy
City Hall, Second Floor Conference Room
1305 Hancock Street
Quincy, MA 02169

WHEN: Wednesday, October 22, 2003 @ 7:00 P.M.

PURPOSE: The purpose of this hearing is to provide the public with the opportunity to become fully acquainted with the proposed roadway construction project. All views and comments made at the hearing will be reviewed and considered to the maximum extent possible.

PROPOSAL: The proposed project consists of intersection improvements at Burgin Parkway/Centre Street, Burgin Parkway/Penn Street, and Crown Colony Drive/Congress Street; construction of an overpass for Burgin Parkway southbound traffic over Centre Street; construction of two on-ramps from Crown Colony Drive connecting to existing Route 3 on-ramps. Other proposed work consists of traffic signal modifications, pavement overlay, curbing, sidewalks, pavement markings, and other incidental work.

A secure Right of Way is necessary for this project. Acquisitions in fee and permanent or temporary easements may be required. The City of Quincy is responsible for acquiring all needed rights in private or public lands. MassHighway's policy concerning land acquisitions will be discussed at this hearing.

Written views received by MassHighway subsequent to the date of this notice and up to five (5) days prior to the date of the hearing shall be displayed for public inspection and copying at the time and date listed above.

Written statements and other exhibits in place of, or in addition to, oral statements made at the Public Hearing regarding the proposed undertaking are to be submitted to Thomas F. Broderick, P.E., Chief Engineer, Massachusetts Highway Department, 10 Park Plaza, Boston, MA 02116. Such submissions will also be accepted at the hearing. The final date of receipt of these statements and exhibits will be ten (10) days after this Public Hearing.

Plans will be on display one-half hour before the hearing begins, with an engineer in attendance to answer questions regarding this project.

OBITUARIES

Edward W. Fernandez, 60

Retired MBTA Bus Driver

A memorial Mass for Edward W. Fernandez, 60, of Quincy, a retired MBTA bus driver, will be held Saturday, Oct. 4 at 10 a.m. in St. Ann's Church, 757 Hancock St., Quincy.

He died Sept. 9.

Born in Boston, he was a longtime Quincy resident.

He worked for the MBTA for 30 years. He also worked for the Massachusetts General Hospital Shuttle and The Ride, a division of the MBTA.

Mr. Fernandez was a member of St. Ann's Church.

He is survived by his wife, Diane (McGregor) Fernandez of Quincy; two sons, David Fernandez of Batavia, Illinois, and Mark Fernandez of Holden; two daughters, Deanna Fernandez of Eastham and Charlene Fernandez of Dillingham, Alaska; two stepsons, Dean Roberts of Whitman and Scot Roberts of Plainfield, Vermont; a stepdaughter, Sharon Roberts Chafe of Northfield Falls, Vermont; three brothers, Brian Fernandez of Gilmanton, N.H., New Hampshire, Gerald Fernandez of Squantum and Steven Fernandez of Weymouth; a sister, Patricia Powers of Carver; three grandchildren; and many nieces and nephews.

Arrangements were made by the Hamel, Wickens & Troupe Funeral Home, 26 Adams St., Quincy.

Donations may be made to the South Shore Humane Society.

Mary M. Daniels, 81

A funeral Mass for Mary M. (Donlan) Daniels, 81, of Quincy, a homemaker, will be celebrated today (Thursday) at 10 a.m. at St. Joseph's Church.

She died Sunday at South Shore Hospital in Weymouth.

Mrs. Daniels volunteered working with the handicapped. She also crocheted lap blankets for retired veterans in various nursing homes and the Brockton VA Hospital.

Born, raised and educated in Quincy, she lived in Kingston for 35 years and retired to Milbridge, Maine.

Wife of the late Byron F. "Butch" Daniels, she is survived by six sons, Michael F. Daniels of Colorado, Byron F. Daniels III of Brockton, John Daniels of Taunton, Timothy Daniels of Maine, Charles T. Daniels of Plymouth and Kerry W. Daniels of Quincy; two daughters, Catherine A. Daniels and Geraldine Connolly, both of Brockton; two brothers, Robert Donlan of Abington and John Donlan of Quincy; three sisters, Genevieve McCool of Rockland, Margaret Ganoza of Georgetown and Geraldine Robbins of Florida; 18 grandchildren; and many nieces and nephews. She was the mother of the late Stephen F. Daniels.

Cremation will follow. Visiting was 4 to 8 p.m. Wednesday at Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St.

Donations may be made to Greater Plymouth Association of Retarded Citizens, 4 Main St., Kingston, MA 02364.

Barbara McEachern

A funeral Mass for Barbara (Hutchings) McEachern, 72, of Carver, formerly of Quincy, a homemaker, was celebrated Sept. 30 at St. Ann's Church, Wollaston.

She died Sept. 27 at home.

Born in Belmont, she lived in Quincy before moving to Carver. She also resided in Holiday, Florida for many years.

She was also a nurse's aide in the local area.

She is survived by her husband, retired Quincy police officer Angus "Babe" McEachern; eight sons, Angus McEachern of Kingston, Frederick McEachern of Quincy, George McEachern of Carver, John McEachern of Weymouth, Robert and William McEachern, both of Carver, Thomas McEachern of Holiday, Florida, Richard McEachern of Carver; six daughters, Christine Williams and Jeanne Mann, both of Carver, Teresa O'Sullivan of Pembroke, Beverly Cleor of Holiday, Florida, Eleanor Wright of Hebron, New Hampshire, and Mary Anne Carmack of New Port Richey, Florida; 30 grandchildren and eight grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements were by the Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Wollaston.

Donations may be made to the American Diabetes Association Greater Boston Chapter, 330 Congress St., Boston, MA 02210-1216.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY TO BROTHER NEIL QUINN ON HIS 89TH BIRTHDAY IN NOVEMBER FROM FRANK DOROTHY JOHN AND THE BEALLS 102

PRAYER TO THE BLESSED VIRGIN

(Never Known To Fail) 'Oh, most beautiful flower of Mt. Carmel, fruitful vine, splendor of heaven. Blessed Mother of the Son of God, Immaculate Virgin, assist me in my necessity. Oh, Star of the Sea, help me and show me, herein you are my Mother. Oh, Holy Mary, Mother of God, Queen of Heaven and Earth! I humbly beseech you from the bottom of my heart to succor me in this necessity. There are none that can withstand your power. Oh, show me herein that you are my Mother. Oh, Mary, conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to thee (3X). Holy Mother, I place this cause in your hands (3X). Holy Spirit, you who solve all problems, light roads so that I can attain my goal. You gave me divine gift to forgive and forget all evil against me and that in all instances in my life you are with me. I want in this short prayer to thank you for all the things as you confirm once again that I never want to be separated from you in eternal glory. Thank you for your mercy toward me and mine. The person must say this prayer 3 consecutive days. After 3 days, the request will be granted. This prayer must be published after the favor is granted. Thank you 100

Costume Parade, Children's Safety Day 13th Annual Quincy Center Harvest Festival Oct. 18

The Quincy Center Business and Professional Association will sponsor its 13th annual Harvest Family Festival Saturday, Oct. 18 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Hancock St. from Granite St. to Revere Rd. will be closed to vehicular traffic for the event, which will feature a Halloween costume parade for children.

The festival is being held in co-operation with the Quincy Police and Fire Departments as they plan to showcase their Children's Safety Day.

Ram date is Saturday, Oct. 25.

During the day-long event, Hancock Street in Quincy Center will become a fall bazaar and playground.

The costume parade, which has become a traditional favorite, will commence at 1:30 p.m. with the parade formation. The parade passes for reviewing and judging at 2 p.m.

Each year, Quincy Center merchants invite all youngsters in kindergarten through grade 5 to participate in the costume competition. The judging panel, composed of members of the business and artistic communities, will award prize trophies in several categories, in groupings for under age 6 and 6 years and older.

The festival will also feature music, special surprises for youngsters dressed in their Halloween attire, and festive clowns.

Merchandise will be available from local businesses, as well as an assortment of food from vendors and Quincy Center restaurants.

THE QUINCY CENTER Business and Professional Association will host its 13th annual Harvest Family Festival Saturday, Oct. 18 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Hancock St. in Quincy Center. Among the attractions will be public safety vehicles, like this police motorcycle that Elise Tenney of Quincy checked out at last year's event.

This year's festival will also focus on children's safety issues.

Robert Hanna, Quincy Police Crime Prevention Officer, has organized a full-scale presentation complete with clowns, exciting activities and free kiddie rides.

In addition, the Police Department will offer children an opportunity to be finger-printed and several K-9 demonstrations will be given.

Police activities will complement Halloween safety literature from the Quincy Fire Department. Equipment from both departments will be on display.

Visitors may park free for the day in the Hancock Parking Lot across from the Quincy District Courthouse, and in the Ross Garage adjacent to Hancock St. on the Parking Way.

For more information, call the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association Office at 617-471-3232.

Hancock TV & Appliance Celebrating 58 Years In Business

Hancock TV & Appliance, 115 Franklin St., Quincy, is celebrating its 58th year in business this fall.

To kick off the festivities, HTA will host its restaurant show Friday, Oct. 10 at "The Kitchen" at HTA from 11 a.m. to noon featuring chefs from Ruby Chard who will give a demonstration and tasting.

The event will also feature gift certificate giveaways and a free grand prize drawing of a 27-inch Panasonic television.

The restaurant show will also be broadcast on WJDA radio 1300 AM.

Hancock TV & Appliance in Quincy has been serving the community since 1945. Alphonse Palumbo started out in business selling tires and moved in to household appliances in 1948 when he predicted that the increase home building would create a demand for quality appliances.

Today, HTA not only offers all the top brand appliances to make homes more functional, energy efficient and stylish but also provides personal service with individual attention.

HTA helps customers with re-modeling needs and household appliance selection from south Boston to Cape Cod.

"We are proud to have been in business for 58 years and are dedicated to continuing with the same high level of personal service that HTA has become know for," said owner Joe Palumbo.

"Looking to the future we are excited to tell you about the new developments here at HTA. The Kitchen styling studio is becoming the local venue for culinary fun; cooking classes, kitchen design seminars and more.

"The Kitchen is our chef inspired fully working kitchen with state of the art appliances from brands including Viking, Thermador, Sub-Zero, Miele, Bosch and Wolf. Come in to The Kitchen and try out our professional grade appliances for yourself, take a class or call us for a free personal consultation with any of your kitchen re-modeling needs," Palumbo added.

McCauley said he intends to introduce a resolution at next week's council meeting asking the city council to oppose the closing of the office. He said the resolution would be similar to one that was introduced by Councilor Joe Finn last week seeking to keep the Quincy DTA office open.

The news comes on the heels of the state's desire to close the Quincy office of the Department of Transitional Assistance, which serves 1,000 city households on an annual basis.

Claiming the state will save approximately $2.3 million, Gov. Mitt Romney has proposed consolidating local health and social services offices throughout the state.

cated staff. The students worked hard. All the groups deserve kudos."

"But a word of caution," she added. "It may not happen every year. I hope we'll continue to get 100 per cent. But it's not always possible.

"The teachers, the staff, the students and the parents, all four worked together to make this possible. If there was one piece missing it would not be easy.

"It shows what we can do if we work together."

'Domestic Abuse Is Not A Women's Issue, But A Societal Issue'

26 Domestic Violence Victims Memorialized At Interfaith Vigil

By SHEILA HALLORAN

An Interfaith Service of Remembrance and Healing was held Sunday night at Quincy Community United Methodist Church in Wollaston to memorialize the 26 victims throughout Massachusetts who died from domestic violence since last October.

"From silence to naming to action," the 8th annual vigil was intended to remember those who have died from domestic abuse, to provide support to those affected by such a widespread and pervasive problem, and to celebrate the survivors, those women who had the strength and get out and to rebuild their lives.

"Domestic abuse is not a women's issue but a societal issue," said Stephanie Sipe Flaherty, the Community Outreach and Education Coordinator for Domestic Violence Ended (DOVE). "Both men and women need to participate to end domestic violence."

The two-hour candlelight vigil began with an introduction by the Church's pastor the Rev. Carol Stine, who began the annual event eight years ago. The night followed with liturgical dance, prayers, the reading of the victims' names, the telling of two survivor's stories, a police escorted candlelight procession around the block and an offering of daffodils symbolizing peace distributed to those in attendance.

The church was lined with red plywood silhouettes, one for each of the 20 adults and 6 children who died from domestic violence since last October.

The names of the victims were read by Stephanie Sipe Flaherty and Tracey Phelan, former counselor with the domestic violence unit under congressman William Delahunt and wife of Mayor William Phelan.

During the naming ceremony, a sign for each victim was carried up the center aisle. The signs read the name, age, home, and date of death of each victim. The final sign carried read "unknowns not reported, all ages, all towns", to represent the Streets, Sidewalks, Faxon Field Affected QC Classes Resume But Gas Lingers

By WILLIAM TRAYNOR

Quincy College classes resumed this week after lingering vapors from an August gasoline spill forced city officials to close Coddington Hall over the weekend.

But safety officials have been unable to pinpoint the source of the problem, leading Quincy College President Sean Barry to raise the prospect of the likelihood of future problems.

Mayor William Phelan said he did not anticipate a repeat of last week's situation.

"We don't anticipate that will be the case, but we will take the steps necessary to ensure the safety of everyone that goes into the building," Phelan said.

Safety crews have been monitoring vapor levels at the site since Aug. 21, when a tanker carrying 11,000 gallons of gasoline overturned, sending fuel onto the streets and into the city's drainage system. The Department of Public Works, Clean Harbors and Quincy Fire Department are monitoring the situation.

Phelan said the college shutdown was a "chilling" reminder of the extent of the gasoline spill. "It really is a chilling reminder of just how big this gasoline spill was," he said.

After officials detected vapors, the Quincy Fire Department evacuated Coddington Hall, the college's main classroom building, shortly after 1 p.m. Friday. Electricity to the building was shut off as a precaution. Twenty class sessions scheduled last Saturday were canceled. Clean Harbors crews installed vapor-extraction equipment over the weekend to remove the fumes.

Barry said the school turned on the heat last week due to cooler outside temperatures. As a result, the introduction of warm air into the building led to a potentially dangerous situation, he said.

Classes re-opened on Monday, with college officials proclaiming the building safe for now.

Board Grants License For New Pizzeria

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

After months of discussion, mostly about parking, the License Board voted unanimously to give Nicholas Pesirides his common victualer license to open the Romanza Pizzeria on 134 Washington St.

Even though for many years, there has always been a restaurant at the site, the Redstone Pizza and prior to that Quincy Pizza, Ward 2 Councillor Dan Raymond still called the area with traffic and parking problems being "paramount."

Chairman Joseph Shea said the building which is next to Bagnell's is a mixed used one and said it "always comes down to the 'P' word — parking. However, he said after reading the report from the traffic engineer and looking at the plans for parking in the rear, he said he was viewing it as "positive."

Shea read a letter from Rev. Gregory Wheaton, pastor of the Glad Tidings Church in support of the restaurant.

Ward 1 Councillor Greg Hanley also sent a letter in support.

Debunking traffic problems, Michael DiStasio, who owns the building said there have been restaurants in that site for more than 25 years and that parking, which is available in the rear of the building for as many as 25 spaces has not been a problem.

DiStasio asked the board to grant the license citing needed revenue and a place where he and neighbors can go and "have a cup of coffee."

Brad Howard, an abutter said he once was against the restaurant because of parking, but said he is now in support.

According to Pesirides, the 20-seat restaurant will also have delivery and take-out and be open from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

The menu will include pizza and subs, salads, fresh seafood.

LICENSE BOARD BRIEFS

The License Board took the following action at Tuesday's meeting.

•Granted a common victualer license to Jennifer Nguyen, doing business as Bale Sandwich, 215 Quincy Ave. at the Kan Mann site.

•Granted a request from LLC, 97 East Howard St. Daniel J. Quirk, a permit to install a 10,000 gallon underground storage container. Rudy Pompeo Construction

Matthew Clark TMC Services.

•Granted a one day liquor license to the President's Cafe at President's Golf Course, 3579 W. Squantum St. for the Women's Golf Association Banquet, Nov. 7 from 6 p.m. to 12 midnight.

Motors, 65 School St. for a Motor II-Garage Repair License.

•Granted a common victualer license to the corporation of Yuen Dong and Vivian Duong, doing business as Pho Yuen Dong Vietnamese Restaurant at 217 Quincy Ave at the President Plaza. The site is the former Anderson Little Clothing Store.

Pizzi's Barber Shop Closes After 22 Years

Bob Pizzi has been forced to close his barber shop after 22 years of cutting hair at 371 Billings Rd., North Quincy.

The shop was closed abruptly in June after Pizzi, 66, suffered a debilitating spinal cord injury and a stroke.

He is on the road to recovery now but figures his barbering days are over.

"I want my customers to know I'm still around," he said, "and thank them for their loyalty over the years."

Quincy Crisis Center Pantry Shelves Nearly Bare

The Quincy Crisis Center's "Food for Families" pantry is facing a dilemma — demand is up, donations are down.

To compound the dilemma, the amount of food received from the Massachusetts Emergency Food Assistance Program (MEFAP) was cut by 40 per cent July 1.

Right now, the QCC food pantry shelves are almost in the predicament as Old Mother Hubbard's — when volunteers get ready to prepare the bags of non-perishable food for delivery, "the cupboards are bare."

The shelves are running low for a variety of reasons, particularly because the number of deliveries are increasing, prospective donors have been on vacation and schools that hold regular food drives have been out of session.

Just last week, the QCC received four telephone calls for aid. One caller had a jar of peanut butter and some crackers left, another had one can of soup, the others had nothing at all to eat.

Any donations to the "Food for Families" would be appreciated. Most needed are spaghetti sauce, canned pasta, canned soup, canned vegetables, bottles of boxes of juice, tuna, canned meats (Spam, beef stew, etc.) and mayonnaise.

Donations can be dropped off at 282 Billings Rd., North Quincy, Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. A thank you letter along with a donation receipt will be mailed to the donor.

For more information, call 617-847-6967.

Collapses At Yom Kippur Service Doctors In Congregation Save Rabbi David Jacobs

The quick action of four doctors in the congregation were credited with saving Rabbi David Jacobs, who collapsed in the midst of Yom Kippur services Sunday night at Temple Beth El.

He was taken by ambulance to Quincy Medical Center where a spokesperson declined to give his condition but a friend in the congregation described it as "stable" Tuesday morning.

"He was actually out," said Carol Bornstein, the temple secretary. "He fell heavily to the floor. Everybody rushed forward to see what happened."

"Doctors in the congregation revived him and took care of him until the paramedics arrived."

She said Dr. Joseph Goldman administered mouth-to-mouth respiration with assists from by Drs. Rafael Kieval, Gerald Rosenblat and Kenneth Pariser. The rabbi was held at the hospital for tests.

"I talked to him a few minutes ago," said Bornstein Tuesday afternoon, "and his voice sounded strong. He was rarin' to go but he's not ready to leave the hospital yet.

"When he first arrived at the hospital he was able to warn the doctors and nurses not to give him anything to eat or drink because he was fasting for the holiday."

Rabbi Jacobs turned 76 and celebrated his 50th wedding anniversary in June.

"Fortunately," said

Bornstein, "he left good notes for his sermon Monday morning and the men in the congregation were able to pull it together."

Stephen Jacobs, no relation to the rabbi, led the congregation in prayers at Monday's services, said Bornstein, and Summer Greenberg "kept things going smoothly on the floor."

Quincy Pride Volunteer Summit To Be Held Oct. 30

As part of a citywide campaign to increase community pride and involvement in public affairs, Mayor William Phelan announces the First Annual Quincy Pride Volunteer will take place Oct. 30 from 2 to 7 p.m. in the Thomas Crane Public Library Atrium.

The summit was originally scheduled for Oct. 16, but has been changed.

A meeting of interested local non-profit and community groups was held at City Hall in July to assess the needs in the community for volunteers. From that meeting, volunteer needs of these groups were assessed, categorized and organized into a comprehensive volunteer opportunity booklet. The booklet will be available Oct. 13 at City Hall, on the web site and at the volunteer summit.

Phelan said the city, state and country face uncertain times, and his administration is committed to fostering a renewed sense of volunteerism and community spirit throughout Quincy.

"Never has it been more important or more necessary for Quincy residents to aid our neighbors and our community," he said.

"By linking interested volunteers with social service agencies that have an identified need, the Quincy Pride Volunteer Summit is playing a pivotal role in reinvigorating the social fabric that is so important to our community."

Interested volunteers are invited to attend the volunteer summit anytime between 2 and 7 p.m. Oct. 30 to learn more about available opportunities. Social Service groups identified in the booklet will be on hand to provide more information regarding their need and available programs.

For more information, interested parties can contact Constituent Services or Kristen Priscella in Mayor Phelan's office at 617-376-1990.

Gas Company Starts Work On Glover/Birch Streets

Keyspan Energy Delivery started work last week on the expansion of its gas distribution system in the Glover Street/Birch Street area of North Quincy.

Residents of 56-118 Glover St. and 6-43 Birch St. have been notified that the work will take about five weeks to complete.

The roads will be open to the public but parking may be limited. A construction foreman will be on site to address parking needs during construction.

Questions on the project should be addressed to Lynne M. Holton, community relations coordinator, at 781-466-5100.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

On Oct. 6, 1683, encouraged by William Penn's offer of 5,000 acres of land in the colony of Pennsylvania and the freedom to practice their religion, the first Mennonites arrive in America aboard the Concord.

On Oct. 7, 1780, during the American Revolution, Patriot irregulars under Colonel William Campbell defeat Tories under Major Patrick Ferguson at the Battle of King's Mountain in South Carolina.

On Oct. 8, 1944, the radio show "The Adventures of Ozzie and Harriet" airs its first episode. The show focused on the comic situations of a young family that was based on the real-life family of show founders and stars Ozzie and Harriet Nelson.

On Oct. 11, 1962, Pope John XXIII convenes an ecumenical council of the Roman Catholic Church — the first in 92 years. In summing this general meeting of the bishops, the pope hoped to bring spiritual rebirth to Catholicism.

On Oct. 10, 1973, less than a year before Richard Nixon's resignation as president of the United States, Spiro Agnew becomes the first U.S. vice president to resign in disgrace. On the same day, he pleaded no contest to a charge of federal income-tax evasion in exchange for the dropping of charges of political corruption.

On Oct. 9, 1975, Andrei Dmitriyevich Sakharov, the Soviet physicist who helped build the USSR's first hydrogen bomb, is awarded the Nobel Prize for Peace in recognition of his struggle against "the abuse of power and violations of human dignity in all its forms."

On Oct. 12, 2000, 17 sailors were killed and 38 wounded in a terrorist attack on the USS Cole. Two suicide bombers alleged to be members of Osama bin Laden's al Qaeda terrorist network used explosives to blow a 40-by-40-foot hole in the side of the U.S. Navy destroyer, which was docked in the port of Yemen.

He's Not Running . . . And Why

(Henry Bosworth has decided to take a day off and hopes you don't mind him re-running this oldie from August, 1988. He says it is sort of timely for this Presidential campaign season. That's stretching it a little.)

I don't think I'll ever run for President. And, if someone ever asks me to be his (her) vice presidential running mate, I'm going to pass that up, too.

I just don't want anyone digging into my background.

If I were a potential vice presidential candidate the Presidential nominee would, of course, have me checked out. And, if he didn't do a thorough job at it, the press would.

One of the questions they would probably ask would be: "Have you ever committed a crime?"

And, I would reply: "No, never!"

But then, they would get to digging and some little thing I had long forgotten about might pop up and prove embarrassing.

Like when I was a kid in Quincy Point I did something that I shouldn't have. But others were doing the same thing and you really had to be pretty good at it to get away with it.

If you won't think I'm terrible, I'll confess right now.

I sneaked into the Lincoln Theater.

Not once. But several times.

Now, if you lived in Quincy Point or North Weymouth back in the mid 1930s or early 1940s, the Lincoln Theater on Washington St. was your social center.

That's where you went on a Saturday afternoon if you were a kid. And for a dime you could see The Three Stooges, a Buck Jones or Gene Autry western and maybe a Bulldog Drummond B feature. And you might get Popeye as a bonus.

But dimes weren't always easy to come by.

And if you had the dime, you kind of liked to hold onto it to buy a bag of gumdrops or green mints or chocolate drops.

The Saturday or Sunday matinee were usually packed. People bought their tickets at the little box office out front and then waited for the doors to open.

As soon as the doors swung open, there would be a great surge forward. Those of us without tickets would stand in the middle of those with tickets and be carried in with the tide. The ushers were so busy taking tickets, they didn't see the ones without them walk right by.

One kid, just to make it more interesting, used to walk in backwards. And if an usher caught him he would say: "Oh, I remember seeing this movie before. I'm just leaving."

Those of us who did sneak in didn't do it always just to save a dime. It was a challenge. I don't remember any of us ever being caught.

But then, when the theater started to have Saturday afternoon drawings for prizes we bought a ticket so we would be eligible to win.

One Saturday afternoon I won a baseball bat and ball. I was the envy of every guy in the theater.

THE LINCOLN THEATER just before it was demolished in 1980 and the scene of the crime.

After the drawing, I returned to my seat near the back of the theater and the movie resumed. Suddenly, in the darkness, the ball dropped out of my lap and rolled down to the stage area. Someone scooped it up and pocketed it.

I was heartbroken. So were my friends. A new bat and ball to start the summer season off with were something to look forward to.

I timidly went to the office of the theater owner, and almost in tears told him I lost the ball. He kindly gave me another one.

We used the bat and ball in a field off Des Moines Rd., the whole summer, taping the ball when the cover was knocked off and the handle of the bat every time it was cracked. The ball got bigger and the bat heavier as the days went by.

The Lincoln Theater, as I said, was our social center long before movies were brought to our living room via television.

The theater was usually packed on Saturday afternoons, Sundays when the best movie of the week was shown, Tuesday night which was dish night, Thursday and Saturday nights which were money nights.

You knew just about everyone in the theater. Most people sat in the very same seat every time the movies changed.

I'm sure there were times when many families in Quincy Point sat down to Sunday dinner with the same set of dishes on the table.

The dishes were given to women on Tuesday nights, one dish a week until the set was complete. Admission price was 15 to 20 cents.

Money nights were big nights, too.

There were sealed, unmarked brown envelopes, two or three with a $1 bill in them, one with a $2 bill, one with a $5 and another with the big prize: $10.

Ticket numbers were called and the lucky stub holders, one at a time, walked down to the stage to pick out one of the envelopes. And if you happened to have one of the first numbers and picked out a $1 bill, you got the Quincy Point razz all the way back to your seat.

And whenever the $10 envelope was the last to get picked up, that person was cheered all the way back to his or her seat.

We didn't have much else back then but we did have a lot of fun.

The Lincoln is long gone now. But the fond memories are still there.

You know, I feel a little better now that I have confessed my crimes at the Lincoln.

But, I'm still not going to run for President or vice president.

If I do, they're going to find out for sure that I was the one that led the raids on the tomatoes in Hubbah Elias' garden on Winter St.

Not to mention the apples over at -----.

Never mind.

I've told you too much already.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS 1940'S POSTCARD was published by the Sevigny's world famous clam shop on Quincy's Southern Artery. At the time the Artery was Route 3, the main highway from Boston to Cape Code and Nantasket. The road was built as a bypass around Quincy Square and hosted many roadside attractions. Near 7E's were Morey Pearl's, Dutchland Farm's, the Mayflower Diner, and later; the first Dunkin' Donut's shop, Howard Johnson's Drive In and the Leaning Tower of Pizza. The backside of this postcard says that 7E's is the "Only place of its kind in the country using the most modern and largest equipment for the frying of seafood." Everyone who ate 7E's fried clams knew that they were the very best. The Kandy Kettle sign in the right center was for 7E's ribbon candy that was first made here and later at their factory on Woodbine Street in Wollaston. Today, the company still makes the candy in Brockton. This fried clam shop was located in what now is the Super Stop and Shop's parking lot.

Quincy Police Mutual Aid Association Seeks Assistance

Dear friends:

The Quincy Police Mutual Aid Association is requesting your assistance in our annual fund-raising event. This year we are no longer going to conduct our mass mailing. We, the members of the association, shall be conducting the fund-raiser with no outside solicitation services or direct telephone calls. We believe this gives us the opportunity to provide a "no pressure approach" to our fund-raising efforts.

The Quincy Police Mutual Aid Association has been able to provide the Quincy Police Officer's Ball and Retirement Banquet, the annual Police Memorial March, along with charitable donations because of your past support. Each year we receive more and more requests, which can not be met without your continued support.

quiet.

In addition, your contributions benefit families of officers who have died, been injured or become ill. Without your continued support the Quincy Police Mutual Aid Association cannot continue in these endeavors. Time for City Council To Take Stand On Smoking Issue

At a recent Ward 3 candidates night at the Montclair School, the six candidates for city council at-large discussed a proposed ban on smoking in the city's restaurants and bars.

The measure to ban smoking in any workplace currently sits in a council subcommittee and hopefully will come out and be voted up or down.

City Councillors Joe Finn and John Keenan support the smoking ban and stated so at the candidates night. Keenan says he would like to exempt private clubs. Councillor Frank McCauley said he was willing to wait until the council debates the issue before making his decision.

However, school committee woman Jo-Ann Bragg, candidate for councillor at-large, stated her opposition to the ban because of the negative effect it would have on Quincy's business community.

I fail to understand this stance since over 87 Bay State communities have smoking bans, which I believe includes all the surrounding communities like Boston, Weymouth, Braintree and Milton. How far will Quincy patrons drive to smoke at dinner?

Jimmy Liang, the only candidate who actually owns a restaurant, doesn't allow smoking in either of his two restaurants. He didn't say how he'd vote but there's hope he's for the ban.

Where do the candidates in Wards 1, 4 and 6 stand on the issue since new councillors will be getting elected in those wards?

We need to let our councillors and all the candidates for council know our position.

While many are fighting for the ban as a workplace issue, for me, it's a health issue.

I have the right to dine out without inhaling someone else's second-hand smoke.

A smoking ban is not about saving people from themselves or telling people what to do, it is about removing a health hazard as best we can.

You have a right to smoke or not to smoke. This is America. But keep your smoke to yourself.

It is time for the city council to take a stand on this issue once and for all.

Shea In Uphill Battle Against Della Chiesa

City Council President Charles L. Shea faced an uphill battle as he challenged incumbent Amelio Della Chiesa for the mayor's office.

Shea finished 3,346 votes behind the veteran Della Chiesa in the preliminary election. Della Chiesa's vote was 8,287 and Shea's 4,941.

Two other candidates finished far behind: Louis Caruso with 210 votes and Joseph May, 189.

Two preliminary races were almost too close to call with Leo J. Hannon Jr. finishing four votes ahead of Francis X. McCauley in the Ward 1 Council race and three within a whisker of each other in Ward 3.

John F. Koegler had 449 votes, Leo F. Burke had 439 and Fred A. Sisti 395 in the Ward 3 contest where it was believed that Sisti would ask for a recount.

Finishing fourth and out of contention in Ward 1 was young lawyer Arthur H. Tobin, who had promised in his campaign that he would lead the fight in the Council to keep the MTA out of Quincy.

DAME BELIEVED DOGNAPPED

William (Rusty) Stackman, 9, of 47 Arthur St., West Quincy, was off to Farmington, Conn., the longest trip of his life, to see if a dog found there was his missing German Shepherd.

The dog, which answered to the name of "Dame," was believed to have been dognapped by a couple who were reported to have been seen by a witness taking the dog away in a Volkswagen with Connecticut plates.

An appeal for help from the Connecticut State Police touched off a New England-wide search for "Dame," who was thought to have been found by a Hartford Courant reporter in Farmington.

A woman in the Connecticut city said that the dog that walked up to her home "looked like a bag of bones. But he was friendly with the kids and answers to the description."

'Fashionless Fashion Show' Aids Fr. Bill's Women's Shelter

A "Fashionless Fashion Show" and luncheon were held recently at St. John's Church to benefit Father Bill's Shelter For Women.

Those attending contributed nearly new clothing needed by women staying at the shelter for jobs and job interviews.

Panera Bread donated a lunch for the more than 50 women attending. They were also eligible for the raffle of a Thomas Kincaid print donated by Foster's South Shore Gallery and won by Barbara Daniels of South Shore Savings Bank.

The separate shelter for women opened in September, 2002 in the former St. John's School on Phipps Street and provides emergency shelter for up to 40 homeless women each night.

'Accentuate The Positive' At Quincy Marriott Granite Medical To Host Fashion Show Oct. 25

Granite Medical Group based in Quincy will host a fashion show tailored to the interests of mature women and women with osteoporosis Saturday, Oct. 25 from 10 a.m. to noon at the Quincy Marriott Hotel.

Clothing for the "Accentuate the Positive" fashion show will be provided by Talbots of the South Shore Plaza in Braintree. The event is sponsored by Procter & Gamble and Aventis Pharmaceuticals.

Finding stylish clothing that fits properly can be difficult for mature women, especially those with osteoporosis, a degenerative bone disease that affects one in two women over age 50. Osteoporosis often brings about changes in bone structure and loss of stature. Knowing how to select clothing can improve a woman's appearance and self esteem.

Registration is not required. All are welcome to attend the show.

Granite Medical patients will model the latest fashions and the fashion experts from Talbots will demonstrate how to complement a wardrobe with scarves and other accessories. In addition, there will be free bone density screenings and an informative presentation by Cecelia Mullen, a nurse practitioner, on the risks, causes, and management of osteoporosis.

Osteoporosis is a disease in which bone mass decreases. Over time, the loss of bone may cause changes in posture and an increase in the risk of bone fractures. The ability to walk may be affected and special concern is the danger of hip fractures.

Women are four times more likely to develop osteoporosis. Of the 10 million Americans with osteoporosis, 8 million are women. One in two women and one in four men over age 50 will have an osteoporosis-related fracture in their lifetime.

Granite Medical, located at 500 Congress St. in the Crown Colony Medical Center, Quincy, is committed to raising the healthcare awareness of its patients. The practice offers a series of healthcare seminars throughout the winter months. Recent seminars have covered asthma and allergies, cancer testing, and nutrition.

Squantum July 4th Committee Plans Oct. 11 yard Sale

The Squantum July 4th Committee will hold a community-wide yard sale Saturday, Oct. 11, at Wendell Moses Park behind the Squantum School.

The event will be from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Rain date is Sunday, Oct. 12. Proceeds will benefit the Squantum July 4th Parade.

A photo exhibit celebrating more than 125 years of advocacy for Massachusetts women will be on display during a reception Wednesday, Oct. 15 from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. at the Woodward School, 1102 Hancock St., Quincy.

The photo exhibit by The Women's Union is a traveling exhibit. "Every Woman's Voice" honors women throughout Massachusetts who have made significant contributions to the lives of other women and families in their own communities and beyond, with more than 125 portraits representing women from various backgrounds, age groups, geographic areas, and professions. It also includes one-of-a-kind photographs from The Women's Union's early years.

During the reception, Ruth Marshall Paven of Quincy, a 1946 Woodward School alumnae and first woman graduate of Georgetown Law School, will be acknowledged as a special honoree. Paven represented Woodward in the 1969 court case which opened the school to students outside of Quincy. That decision was instrumental in the school's survival and growth.

"We are delighted to celbrate our 125th anniversary with this photographic exhibition, which features such an impressive array of women leaders," said Mary Lassen, president of The Women's Union and one of the photographed women in the show. "There are so many women around the Commonwealth doing remarkable work on behalf of women and their families."

The Woodward School, founded by Dr. Ebenezer Woodward in 1869, remains committed to educating young women. Woodward provides a non-sectarian, college preparatory education in an academically challenging environment to students in grades 6-12.

Since 1877, The Women's Union has been an advocate for women and their families. The Union's diverse programs are connected by one common goal: the economic self-sufficiency of women and their families. Union programs include: supportive housing for battered women and their children; job training and mentoring for low-income women; home health care training and services for elderly and disabled adults; and legislative advocacy for economic self-sufficiency for all women and families.

MR. and MRS. SEAN PERKINS
(McIntire's Studio)

Erin Creedon Wed To Sean Perkins

A reception at the Lake View Pavilion in Foxboro, followed the recent wedding of Erin Creedon and Sean Perkins. The Rev. Peter Quinn performed the ceremony in St. John's Church.

The bride is the daughter of Eugene and Kathleen Creedon of Quincy. The groom is the son of Michael and Nora Perkins of Quincy.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by her sister Susan Creedon as Maid of Honor.

Michael Perkins Jr. was his brother's Best Man.

The bride is a graduate of Quincy High School and Eastern Nazarene College. She is a special education teacher in the Quincy public schools.

The groom graduated from Quincy High School and UMass, Amherst. He is a senior information advisor at State Street Bank.

After a wedding trip to Hawaii, the couple are living in Quincy.

Storytime, Book Club Fall Programs At Crane Library

The Thomas Crane Public Library is sponsoring the following programs and activities this fall:

Drop In Family Storytime

A series of drop-in Family Storytimes for children ages 2-5 accompanied by an adult began last Saturday in the Children's Room at the Main Library at 9:30 a.m. The series will continue through October each Saturday mornings at the same time.

These programs include stories, songs, fingerplays and more. No registration is required. The program is sponsored by the Friends of the Thomas Crane Public Library.

Blue Hill Tales

Registration is underway for Blue Hill Tales. Celebrate Archaeology Week with stories spun by archaeologist, Margo Muhl Davis, who mixes historical and archaeological facts with Algonquian legends to draw you deep into magical adventures set in the Blue Hills and Neponset River Valley.

Participants will also make a craft project based on one of the stories. Program date is Sunday, Oct. 12 at 2 p.m. for ages 8-12.

Saturday Fun For Little Ones

A once-a-month series of programs geared for infants, toddlers and preschoolers. Each month from September to June on the 4th Saturday of each month beginning at 10:30 a.m. a special program will be offered.

On Monday, Oct. 6, beginning at 9 a.m., registration starts for October's program, Gymboree on the Go. Due to the active nature of these programs Gymboree instructor Sam Cox will present two sessions, one at 10:30 a.m. for ages 6-24 months and one at 11:30 a.m. for ages 2-4 years old.

Registration is limited to Quincy residents. The program date is Saturday, Oct. 25. For more information visit or call the Children's Room at 617-376-2411.

Registration For Mad Science

Registration for Mad Science - Watts Up! begins on Monday, Oct. 6. Explore the world of electricity and learn the basic properties of static electricity. Also, see a demonstration of lightening formation.

Using a Van de Graff generator and a few simple materials the Mad Scientist will light a fluorescent tube and create gravity defying streamers. The program date is Saturday, Oct. 18 at 10 a.m. for ages 7 and up.

The Newbery Book Club

Every year in January the Newbery Medal is awarded "to the author of the most distinguished contribution to American Literature for children published in the United States during the preceding year."

This year children ages 4-8 have an opportunity to choose the book they think deserves the award.

The Newbery Book Club consists of four Monday evening meetings in the Main Library Children's Room to discuss some of the best children's books published this year. After reading and discussing the potential winners you will get a chance to vote for your favorite.

A final meeting will be held on Jan. 12 to announce the official winner of the 2004 Newbery Award.

For more information about this and other programs, contact the Children's Department at 617-376-2411 or check the library's website at <http://ci.quincy.ma.us/tepl/>.

Senate Honors Dr. Cristiani For Service To Education

Dr. Vincent A. Cristiani of Quincy recently was cited by the State Senate for his 49 years of devoted service to higher education.

Sen. Michael Morrissey escorted Dr. Cristiani and his family on a tour of the State House.

"As a graduate of the University of Massachusetts system, it gives me great pleasure and reassurance to know that there are such caring and gifted minds as Dr. Cristiani's to continue the tradition of economic excellence that our university system upholds," said Morrissey.

A long-time professor at the University of Massachusetts at Boston, Dr. Cristiani is an authority on school psychology and was instrumental in founding the School Psychology program at UMass/Boston.

He recently was named professor emeritus of counseling psychology and had a scholarship named in his honor.

Point Webster, Sterling Cited For MCAS

Two Quincy middle schools have been cited by State Education Commissioner David Driscoll for improvement and good performance in last spring's MCAS exams.

Point Webster and Sterling Middle Schools were among only six schools in the state to be recognized as the spring test information was released.

Students in Grade 6 at the Point Webster School decreased the warning rate by 18 per cent, a reduction of 14 per cent over the state average.

Scores in the proficient and advanced categories rose by 3 per cent, which was also above the state average.

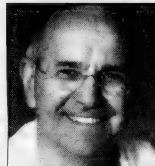

Students in Grade 8 at Point Webster showed a 9 per cent improvement in the proficient and advanced categories while the state average was only 3 per cent.

Cain Wants Handicap Access To Wollaston T Station

John Cain, candidate for Ward 3 city councillor, says he is shocked that no one has done anything about the lack of handicap access at the Wollaston MBTA station.

Cain said that, as councillor, he would plan an aggressive campaign to seek an upgrade for the Wollaston MBTA station. Cain said he believes that with cooperation and more effective communication, this need can be accomplished successfully.

"I am disappointed to find that no one, at this point, has done anything to solve this problem," he said. "I will make it a priority."

'Buttonhole' Session For Businessmen Oct. 28

The Quincy Business Council will hold a "buttonhole" reception for city officials and candidates Tuesday, Oct. 28, from 5 to 7 p.m. at the Boston Marriott Quincy, One Marriott Drive in the Crown Colony Office Park.

All members of the Quincy business community are encouraged to attend the event and "buttonhole" Mayor William Phelan, the city councilors and the candidates for city offices in the November election.

The reception is sponsored by the Boston Marriott Quincy and the Quincy Business Council, a division of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce. Hors d'oeuvres and other refreshments will be served.

Retired Gen. Gordon Sullivan Receives Thayer Award At West Point

College Admissions Subject Of Higher Education Night

The Guidance Staffs of Quincy Public Schools, under the direction of Marybeth Curran, head counselor at North Quincy High School, will host a Higher Education Night and College Fair Tuesday, Oct. 21, from 6 to 8 p.m. in the NQHS gym.

The event is for students, parents and interested residents of Quincy, Milton, Braintree and Weymouth.

College admissions directors from more than 90 colleges and specialty schools will be available to parents and students to discuss financial aid, programs and admission requirements at their respective schools.

Higher Education Night/College Fair provides students and their parents an opportunity to explore many possible avenues for further education before the choice becomes immediate and critical. Seniors can review their current selections and finalize their plans before making formal applications in November.

Printed programs will be available in the lobby of the high school.

Campaign Trail Coughlin Proposes Impact Team To Address Building, Zoning Violations

Ward 3 Councillor Kevin Coughlin proposes the formation of an impact team consisting of inspectors and safety personnel to address, in a collaborative method, referrals concerning issues of abandoned cars, unsanitary conditions, building and zoning violations and blight concerns.

The team would consist of police, fire, building and health officials who cooperate on investigations of complaints and violations.

"Typically, a referral to one department for one of these issues may ultimately involve crossover jurisdiction with other departments due to multiple concerns. Multiple referrals may ensue and it would be far more efficient and proactive to take a team approach to help resolve the issue at hand," said Coughlin.

Additionally, the statutory authority vested with the different departments that the team would consist of would provide a more comprehensive and consistent response by the city, he said.

The team approach allows a responsible party to deal with a variety of city officials all at once and the members of the team can support one another and share expertise during the inspection process, he said. Part of the goal would be to provide educational outreach and referrals for available services for locations where reported violations may exist, he said.

"My hope is that we take a more proactive than reactive approach, have a process that is educational, and will improve the look and feel and quality of life for our neighborhoods," said Coughlin.

Coughlin, who referenced this team approach at a recent City Council meeting, indicated that a similar program created in another municipality has met with tremendous success and may bode well for Quincy.

Gardner Endorsed By Communication Workers

Alicia Gardner, candidate for Ward 6 city councillor, has been endorsed by the Communication Workers of America (CWA) Local 1310.

Based in Braintree, CWA Local 1310 is affiliated with the AFL-CIO with its members in the field of broadcasting, telecommunications, journalism, electronics and various other fields.

Local 1310 President George Alcott cited Gardner's "longstanding commitment to the working families of Ward 6 and the city as a whole."

"CWA's endorsement means a great deal to me because they have recognized that I will never stop fighting for the hardworking men, women and families of Ward 6," Gardner said.

Gardner previously was endorsed by the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (IBEW) Local 2222 and the National Association of Government Employees (NAGE).

Gardner is director of constituent services for State Senator Michael Morrissey.

3 Others To Be Honored At Mayor's Breakfast

Christine Cedrone, Robert Curry To Receive Good Scout Award Oct. 28

Quincy businessman Robert Curry and Christine Cedrone, co-chairwoman of the Quincy school committee, will receive this year's Good Scout Award at the annual Mayor's Boy Scout Breakfast.

The breakfast, hosted by Mayor William Phelan, will be held Tuesday, Oct. 28, at 8 a.m. at the Quincy Lodge of Elks, 254 Quarry St.

The breakfast will benefit scouting in Quincy with the Boston Minuteman Council, Boy Scouts of America.

Committee chairman Donald P. Uvanitte, vice president of Eastern Insurance, said Curry and Cedrone will be honored for their civic contributions and service to the community.

Uvanitte said special awards will be presented to three others for their long-time commitment to the community or to scouting.

James R. Barbieri, president and CEO of Horizon Bank, long active in the boy scouting cause, will receive the Whitney M. Young, Jr. Service Award.

The Granite Pillar Award will be presented to the Rev. M. Alicia Corea, retired pastor of Houghs Neck Congregational Church, and posthumously to the late Francis H. Boudreau for his many years of service to scouting in Quincy.

CHRISTINE CEDRONE

ROBERT CURRY

Curry, owner of Curry Ace Hardware stores and long active in the community, is chairman of the Quincy Medical Center Board of Directors. He established the Marie Curry Foundation, named in honor of his late wife, to help women without insurance to receive screening and diagnosis for breast cancer.

Cedrone, a paralegal at Thomas F. Williams & Associates, is retiring this year from the school committee where she has served eight years, the last two as vice chairwoman.

Cedrone is also vice chairwoman of the Quincy Housing Authority Board of Commissioners, appointed by Gov. William Weld in 1994 and reappointed by Gov. Paul Cellucci in 1999. The authority provides housing for the elderly and low income.

Rev. Corea retired last May after serving 54 years at Houghs Neck Congregational Church, 52 as co-pastor with her late husband, Rev. Dr. Peter V. Corea, and the last two as pastor.

During those years, she and her husband reached out to people in the Quincy community, and encouraged and helped young people go on to college with church scholarships and personal financial aid.

Mr. Boudreau, who died in June, was assistant scoutmaster of Quincy Troop 19 for nearly 30 years and a member of the Camp Massasoit Campmaster staff.

A retired school teacher, he was a Marine Corps veteran of World War II, who served in the Pacific including Okinawa.

Tickets for the breakfast are $35 and may be obtained from members of the breakfast committee:

Anthony Agnitti, Agnitti Insurance; Laurie Allen, city purchasing agent and mayor's representative; Michael Berry, leader Houghs Neck Boy Scout Troop at Blessed Sacrament Church; Henry Bosworth, publisher The Quincy Sun; P.J. Foley, Quincy environmentalist; Maralin Manning, executive director Quincy Center Business and Professional Association; Charles "Chuck" Phelan, former city councillor now technical information officer Norfolk County Registry of Deeds; Brian Shankey, BSA District Director Boston Minuteman Council, City Clerk Joseph Shea and Eileen Tagney, business development officer at Horizon Bank.

Business Planning Seminar Oct. 22 At Quincy 2000

The Quincy 2000 Corporation will offer a free training seminar, "Getting Started in Business," Wednesday, Oct. 22, from 6 to 9 p.m. at the Quincy 2000 office, 1250 Hancock St., Suite 806N, Quincy.

The seminar is designed for start-up entrepreneurs and those who recently opened their business who need a business plan for any purpose, including seeking financing.

Experienced training partners from UMass/Boston's Small Business Development Center (SBDC) will help the small businessmen and women develop the tools needed to start and grow a company.

Participants will be eligible for further counseling at SBDC and, for Quincy businesses, consideration for financing by Quincy 2000.

Those who wish to participate must sign up by Oct. 16 by calling Quincy 2000 at 617-847-1454.

CAMPAIGN TRAIL

Keegan Pledges To Fix Ward 1 Streets, Sidewalks

Joe Keegan, who is running for the city council from Ward 1, says he has learned from his door-to-door campaigning that two of the issues most talked about are traffic and street repair.

And the street most talked about is Sea Street, although Manet Avenue and Quincy Shore Drive draw a goodly number of concerns.

"There have been many tragic accidents on these streets and the problems need to be addressed," said Keegan.

Keegan proposed a collaborative effort from residents, the city traffic engineer, the Department of Public Works and other officials to seek a solution to the concerns.

"I would like to see everyone involved in solving this problem," he said. "If everyone gets involved, I am confident that the streets in our ward can be made safer for all who use them."

Keegan said he would take immediate action toward addressing the issue as it pertains to Sea Street, although a plan to solve the problem has not yet been put into place.

Another issue that has been talked about, he said, is the condition of the streets and sidewalks. He proposed that a master list of streets and sidewalks in poor condition be made and repairs done as soon as possible.

"Thus far," he said, "this issue has not been addressed satisfactorily in the minds of the residents."

Keegan said he has lived and worked in the ward on a daily basis and has seen many of the issues first hand.

"I want to enable all residents to be hard on issue that affect them and give those issues the attention they deserve," he said.

"I plan on being very accessible throughout the campaign as well as during my tenure, if elected, as Ward 1 city councillor."

Ward 5 Candidates Night Oct. 28

The Ward 5 Community Association will host a Candidates Night Tuesday, Oct. 28, from 7 to 9 p.m. at Beechwood Knoll School, 222 Fenno St., Wollaston.

Candidates for office in the Nov. 4 city election will participate. The general public is invited.

Quincy Students' Library Exhibit Fights Child Slavery

Students from Quincy schools have created a 40-panel exhibit designed to raise awareness of slavery in the 21st century and actions to be taken to abolish it.

The exhibit will be part of the events leading up to the Oct. 12 "John Quincy Adams and the Amistad" observance to be held at the Adams National Historical Park.

The students' exhibit, called "Do Something," is now on display in the atrium of the Thomas Crane Public Library on Washington Street in Quincy Square.

The students' urgency stems from their research which revealed that there are more slaves today than there were when President Lincoln issued his Emancipation Proclamation.

Many of the 21st century slaves are children.

The Quincy students are part of a national program called "Operation Day's Work-USA," in which they work a day each year to build a school in a developing country.

Since 1998, students across the country have established schools, orphanages and scholarships for boys and girls in Haiti, El Salvador, Ethiopia, Bangladesh and Nepal.

The students attend Broad Meadows Middle School and Quincy, North Quincy and Archbishop Williams High Schools.

Masons Holding Hurry-Up Classes For New Memebers

In an effort to keep members interested and motivated, the Grand Lodge of Masons in Massachusetts is instituting a unique program in which new members may become master masons in one day instead of the usual three months.

Classes will be held Saturday, Nov. 1, in five different locations around the state.

Prospective members who wish to join one of the three Quincy lodges — Rural, Macedonian or Wollaston — are advised to select the Grand Lodge of Masons in Massachusetts, 186 Tremont St., Boston, as the location for their classes.

Adult males 18 years of age and older of all races, ethnic groups and social classes with a belief in a Supreme Being are invited to apply to the lodge they wish to join by Oct. 24.

"In this day and age, it is important that we take into account the lifestyle changes that have occurred over the years and that, we as an organization, are constantly seeking new and innovative ways to keep our membership interested and motivated," said Harvey Waugh, chairman of the Grand Lodge One-Day Membership Class.

"With this class, we are adding a new chapter to the book of Massachusetts Masonry. The candidates joining on Nov. 1 will abide by the same tenets of masonry — honesty, integrity and charity — as all our current members and will be devoted to improving themselves and their community."

Raymondi Proposes Oct. 18 Vietnamese-American Day

Council President Dan Raymondi was scheduled to introduce a resolution asking the city to recognize Oct. 18 as an appreciation day for the Vietnamese-American community of Quincy.

At Tuesday night's city council meeting, Raymondi was scheduled to introduce the resolution for consideration. The resolution asks the city to raise the Heritage and Freedom Flag, a symbol embraced by many of Quincy's Vietnamese-Americans, alongside the flags of Quincy and the United States on McIntyre Mall on Oct. 18.

"The freedom flag represents democracy," said Raymondi. "There is a substantial number of Vietnamese-Americans in the community, and they would like the city to recognize the flag that symbolizes democracy." Raising the freedom flag is also a protest of the human rights and civil rights violations of the current government of Vietnam, said Raymondi.

In addition, Raymondi encouraged the city to display the flag at all other city-owned buildings. The freedom flag is yellow with three red stripes.

'Make A Difference Day' At River Bay Club

The residents and staff of River Bay Club, 99 Brackett St., will again participate in national "Make A Difference Day" Oct. 24.

Last year they collected non-perishables for the Interfaith Food Pantry and this year's goal is to exceed that amount.

This year's drive will continue for a month during which donations of non-perishables may be left at the front desk at River Bay Club.

The "Make A Difference Day" activities Oct. 24 will start at 2:30 p.m.

By dropping off a bag of six items or more, donors will be entered into a raffle drawing. All donations will be accepted.

For more information contact Geri Dussault, executive director of the River Bay Club at 617-472-4457.

Ex-Quincy Man Inspires Friend's Walk Against Diabetes

Keith Power, a former Quincy resident who died of heart failure at the age of 32, has inspired his family and friends to join the fight against diabetes.

His sister, Kellyann Coyne of Readville, is leading a team, including his fiancée, Anna Freitas of Peabody, in America's Walk for Diabetes Saturday, Oct. 11, in Boston.

The effort is supported by Zoll Medical of Chelmsford, where Power and Freitas used to work. "Team Keith" aims to raise $1000 for the American Diabetes Association.

More than 1,800 participants are expected to take part in this year's walk on Columbus Day weekend, starting at the MDC's Hatch Shell on the Charles River Esplanade.

Individuals may sign up as a walker, a sponsor, a volunteer or simply to donate by calling the American Diabetes Association at 1-888-DIABETES.

MARTY GORDON, chairman of the Board of Trustees, Beth Little, chairwoman of the Diaconate, and Rev. Max Olmstead at the reception following the latter's installation as interim pastor of Houghs Neck Congregational Church.

Rev. Maxwell Olmstead Installed Interim Pastor At HN Congregational

The Rev. Dr. C. Maxwell Olmstead was recently installed as the interim Pastor of the Houghs Neck Congregational Church.

Dr. Olmstead comes from the Second Congregational Church in Cohasset, where he has served as Associate Pastor since October, 2000.

Dr. Olmstead holds a Ph.D. in Scandinavian Studies from the University of California at Berkeley, a M.A. in Scandinavian Studies from the University of Washington and a B.A. in Political Science from the University of Massachusetts at Amherst.

From 1996 to 2000, he taught Swedish, the Vikings, Old Norse Mythology, and Icelandic sagas at the University of Colorado at Boulder.

Currently, he is completing a Masters of Divinity at Andover Newton Theological School in Newton, MA. Upon his graduation in 2004, he will seek ordination in the United Church of Christ.

Several things attracted him to the small church in Houghs Neck: a deeply committed group of people who love their church, a strong sense of community in the neighborhood, friendly people, and a pretty church with great facilities, all of which indicate enormous potential for growth.

He brings to his ministry his belief in the Gospel, his love for music, and his desire to invite all that don't have a church home to the church on the peninsula.

"In the 1950s and 60s hundreds of people, from young families with children to teenagers and the elderly, worshiped and shared fellowship here. The people are still here, all around us, we just need to invite them in and welcome them to stay," Olmstead wrote in his first column for the church's newsletter. "Together we stand at the threshold of future possibilities which we can only imagine."

He cited the role of the interim pastor: To help the church grieve the loss of the 56-year pastorate of Rev. Dr. Peter V. Corea and Rev. M. Alicia Corea, to help the congregation define its direction, to put some things away and to gather other together, and to look with hope toward the future of the church.

He said that one of the challenges of the church will be how it addresses change, adding that no one in the church is ambiguous about the idea of change and new direction, but that change is hard.

A native of Worcester, the 40-year-old Olmstead grew up in the First Congregational Church of Shrewsbury. He enjoys fly-fishing, sea kayaking, gardening, music, reading, his dog and three cats.

Why we should keep Elaine Dwyer on the Quincy School Committee:

"Elaine Dwyer saved our jobs while saving the taxpayers $540,000.00."

Elaine Dwyer has served on the school committee for the past year and a half. In that time, she overhauled the school department's transportation system by implementing a plan that saves the city $540,000 in the next five years and $607,000 annually thereafter. Her innovative ideas and unflagging work ethic have helped our city run a top-notch school system despite the economic challenges we have faced. Time after time, Elaine has found ways to ensure our children receive the excellent education they need and deserve, without compromising the budget.

QEN To Host Candidates Nights Oct. 14, Oct. 21

The Quincy Environmental Network (QEN) will host two candidates' nights this month at the Sons of Italy Hall, 120 Quarry St., Quincy.

The first will be Tuesday, Oct. 14, at 6:30 p.m., devoted to candidates for mayor and councillor-at-large.

The second will be Tuesday, Oct. 21, at 6:30 p.m., devoted to candidates for the six ward councillor seats.

The question-and-answer forum will deal with the new high school, multi-unit construction and open space preservation. Audience members will have a chance to submit their own questions.

"Almost every day you read about an environmental or development issue that affects our city," said Gail Macdonald, spokesperson for QEN.

"When QEN held its first candidates' night two years ago for the 2001 elections, over 100 people attended.

"That large turnout showed us that residents are increasingly concerned about environmental issues and want to know more about their candidates' views."

The doors will open at 6:30 p.m. with the forum starting a half hour later.

Theresa Lord-Piatelli To Tour School Facilities

Theresa Lord-Piatelli, candidate for one of the three seats on the Quincy school committee, said she will be touring the facilities of the Quincy public schools to view first-hand some of the school buildings.

She will tour Quincy High School, North Quincy High School, Central Middle School and Sterling Middle School.

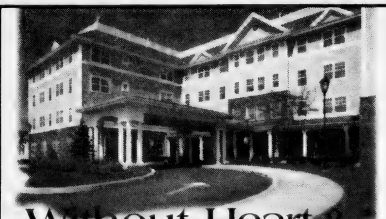

She said she is working with Supt. Richard DeCristofaro to coordinate the site visits within the next two weeks. She contacted Dr. DeCristofaro's office and requested that all of the school committee candidates be allowed the opportunity to view the facilities so that they may form and offer more informed opinions with respect to the issues of safety, security and accommodations currently existing for the public school students in the city.

Lord-Piatelli has also suggested that students be afforded the opportunity to present questions to the school committee candidates for presentation at some of the candidate's nights.

QCAP, Asian Resources To Present Homebuyers Workshop In Mandarin

Quincy Community Action Programs, Inc. (QCAP) has joined with Quincy Asian Resources, Inc. (QARI) to offer its First-Time Home Buyers Workshop series in Mandarin.

The free workshop will be held Saturdays, Nov. 1 and 15, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the fourth floor conference room of 1509 Hancock St., Quincy.

With QARI's support, QCAP is the first South Shore nonprofit with a Homeownership Seal of Approval to offer its workshop series in Mandarin.

Kao T. Li, QARI's executive director, said the workshop is being held to serve the needs of the many Mandarin speakers moving to the South Shore.

"Mandarin speakers need to know about and be able to take advantage of the same homebuying opportunities as the other homebuyers," Li said.

QCAP Housing Coordinator Rona W. Goodman said the workshop provides a comprehensive review of the homebuying process. Mandarin-speaking real estate professionals will cover homebuying issues from mortgages to home insurance.

In addition, low-income participants who complete the 10-hour program may be eligible for downpayment/closing cost assistance of up to $10,000 and for the soft second program.

Other participants may use their certificate of completion to obtain a low rate loan through MassHousing.

For more information about the Mandarin workshop and to register, contact Wendy Wong at 617-479-8181, ext. 165.

QCAP continues to offer monthly first-time homebuyers workshops in English, and is now registering participants for the November workshop series. QCAP's First-Time Home Buyers Workshops are open to all prospective homebuyers, regardless of income level or town of residence.

To learn more and register, visit www.qcap.org or contact Rona W. Goodman at 617-479-8181, ext. 115.

'No Rules' Is The Latest Decorating Trend

(ARA) - Trendsetters pride themselves on having the latest and greatest before other people have ever heard of it. They buy a new wardrobe every season, snapping up hip and of-the-moment clothes, which they just as quickly relegate to the back of the closet when the fashion winds change.

In the same way, trendsetters are constantly reinventing their homes, trying out new paint colors, slip covers for the furniture and cutting-edge accessories. The bad news for these trend junkies is that the latest decorating trend is no trend at all. Instead, interior designers are embracing the time-honored school of decorating. In other words, trust your instincts and decorate your home in a way that fits your personality instead of in a way that looks good on the pages of a magazine.

"The biggest shift we've seen in our business is a move to a more eclectic sensibility," says Michael Cassidy, president of Stained Glass Overlay (SGO), a company specializing in custom art glass pieces. "Our customers want to make a statement with their designs, to express their individuality," he says. Thanks to technological advances, art glass designs can be used to add a unique, custom touch in unconventional places.

Cassidy's company uses a process that is lighter in weight and more structurally sound than traditional stained glass, while being indistinguishable in appearance. Homeowners can add stained glass to their kitchen cabinets, windows, ceiling light panels, sliding glass doors and more. Cassidy points out that although customers may use his company's product to dress up a shower stall or create privacy, what they're really buying is a piece of commissioned original art.

Every piece of stained glass overlay is personalized according to the homeowner's wishes. The designs can be customized to match the colors of their wallpaper, tile patterns and other elements in a room's decor.

"Each project is hand crafted, and the artisans at SGO work closely with homeowners to achieve the look they desire," Cassidy says.

The company's designers have an extensive library of custom work completed over the years and are trained to offer suggestions and provide valuable tips on which design and colors are best suited to various uses.

In order to allow the art to be even more customized, SGO recently introduced a number of new color choices. Pantone, a leader in predicting color trends, forecasts that throughout 2004, diversity and individuality will dictate the color direction, with tones that seek to evoke feelings of beauty, honesty, familiarity, constancy and balance. Neutrals will be popular for 2004, but so will deep, primal shades: blues; and bright colors in fun, '60s shades.

"We want to give customers these options and more," says Cassidy. The new color palette includes three shades of blue; neutrals such as pale yellow and stone; and stronger colors like Alpine Green and Dusty Orange.

"Your home should be an extension of your personality," says Cassidy. "It should be a place you look forward to returning to at the end of the day, a place that relaxes and rejuvenates you." So leave the trends behind and decorate your home with what pleases you.

Stained Glass Overlay serves customers with more than 300 locations in over 30 countries, including 150 studios in North America. For more information on finding the nearest designer, or to find out about franchise opportunities, visit www.stainedglassoverlay.com or call (800) 944-4746.

11-Footer Tallest In Sunflower Growing Contest

An 11-foot beauty took top honors in this year's Grow Together Sunflower contest.

It was produced from seed by Scott Farren and his two sons, David, 2, and Kyle, 3, in the yard of their home at 24 Morley Road, Wollaston.

The annual event is sponsored by Beechwood Community Life Center, Alquist Flowerland and The Quincy Sun.

The highbred sunflower seeds for the 200 family participants were donated by Bob and Rhealyn Alquist.

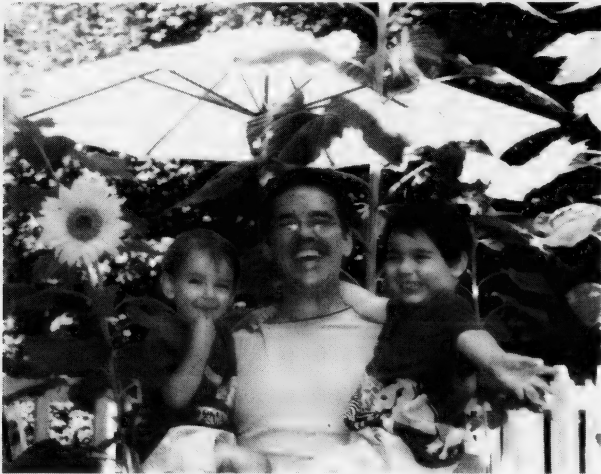

Farren and his two sons received a basket full of prizes donated by Beechwood on the Bay, Quincy merchants and The Quincy Sun.

"This was a great project," Farren said. "My wife isn't into gardening so the boys and I grew the sunflowers."

Their winning formula: fertilizer, water and tender loving care.

Following the reading of names, members of the congregation were invited to stand and speak the name of those in their own lives who have been victims of domestic violence.

During the vigil, two survivors of domestic violence, who will remain anonymous, shared their personal stories of abuse, their strength to get help and the long road to recovery that they each endured.

"It is empowering to hear survivors' stories and to see where they are at now," said Stephanie Sipe Flaherty, who described the vigil as "powerful and sobering."

Following the vigil, members of the congregation were invited downstairs where a clothesline display of T-shirts made by the DOVE outreach group lined the wall. The T-shirts were decorated to remember victims of domestic abuse.

The annual vigil is sponsored by the South Shore Coalition for the Prevention of Domestic Violence, Quincy Churches and Community Organizations, and DOVE, inc.

DOVE is a non-profit agency that offers immediate and long-term support and help for victims of domestic abuse and their families. The agency provides a 24-hour Crisis Hotline, a Shelter Program to provide a safe refuge for abused women and children, a Transitional Living Program, and an Outreach and Family Services Center.

For JoAnne LaFontaine, Executive Director of DOVE, participating in the vigil and working for DOVE has personal significance. Her mother was murdered before LaFontaine was a year old. According to LaFontaine, her work at the agency is done in her mother's memory.

"It is rewarding when a woman and her children come into the shelter with just the clothes on their back and don't know how to rebuild. If we can make a difference and set women on the road to independence, that is rewarding. Helping women start over is wonderful."

According to Rev. Stine, this year's vigil was particularly emotional because their where six children who were victims this past year. Last year, none of the victims were children.

Following the service, a rose for each adult victim was distributed. Rose buds were offered for the victims who were children. According to Rev. Stine, the rose buds "were offered for children whose lives never fully opened."

Rev. Ester Bowen, Director of Pastoral Care at Quincy Medical, described the vigil as "a balance between lightening up the problem and moving forward."

"We have to have the right attitude to keep going to believe that we are making a difference."

Councillor at-Large Joseph Finn, who regularly attends the event, found the vigil to be "moving and reflective."

"It is good to see strength of people to move beyond their situation. I just hope and pray that others will find that strength too."

The service ended on a positive and uplifting note, with the entire congregation dancing their way out of the church to the appropriately chosen Gloria Gaynor's I Will Survive.

PLYWOOD silhouettes, one for each of 20 adults and six children who died from domestic violence in Massachusetts since last October, line the Quincy Community United Methodist Church in Wollaston.

INFORMATION to help in the fight against domestic violence is displayed by DOVE during the Interfaith Service of Remembrance and Healing at the Quincy Community United Methodist Church.

Outreach, Education Programs At DOVE, inc.

Domestic Violence Ended, or DOVE, is a non-profit agency for abused women and their children, offering immediate and long-range support and solutions for families in need.

Some programs offered by DOVE are:

Community Based Advocacy

DOVE's Outreach Advocate specializes in providing services to victims and survivors of domestic violence. The Outreach Advocate offers community-based clients individual support sessions in addition to assistance in developing safety plans. The Outreach Advocate also provides clients with referrals and assistance in efforts to assist clients in meeting their own goals.

Legal Advocacy

DOVE's Legal Advocate offers assistance to victims and survivors of domestic violence who are seeking information and referrals regarding restraining orders, criminal and civil domestic violence cases and divorce and custody cases.

Workplace Violence Consultation

DOVE offers consultation and education for employers to help them deal with domestic violence in the workplace. Topics include how they can help their employees, whether victim or batterer, how to handle restraining order issues and more.

Quincy Survivor Leads Team In Breast Cancer Walk

The nation's oldest and largest one-day walk will take place Sunday, Oct. 12, with the goal of raising $3 million for the fight against breast cancer.

More than 30,000 breast cancer survivors and volunteers are expected to converge on the Charles River Esplanade in Boston for the five-mile walk.

One of them will be Kathy Mitchell of Quincy, a three and a half year breast cancer survivor, and her team of at least 32 walkers.

"Having breast cancer has become the most incredible experience of my life," said Kathy, who began her involvement with the walk three years ago.

"Three and a half years later, the miracles continue to happen."

Registration for the American Cancer Society's 11th annual Making Strides Against Breast Cancer Walk and a rolling start are scheduled for 8 to 10 a.m. Sunday on the Esplanade.

The Boston walk, which has become the American Cancer Society's signature event during National Breast Cancer Awareness Month, has raised more than $22 million since it began in 1993.

Since that time, the breast cancer rate in Massachusetts has dropped 20 per cent but an estimated 4,700 will develop the disease this year and about 900 will die.

"All women are at risk for breast cancer, even those with no family history of the disease," said Deborah Smith, the Society's Area Director for Cancer Control.

"Unfortunately, the two greatest risk factors for breast cancer are being a woman and growing older.

"But we know early detection saves lives. The five-year survival rate for breast cancer is 97 percent for those whose cancer has not spread beyond the breast at the time of diagnosis."

Flagship sponsors for the walk are AstraZeneca, the Gillette Company and Tufts Health Plan. Broadcast sponsors are WBZ-TV, UPN-38 and Magic 106.7.

Barbara McDonough Recognized By Trial Court

Barbara McDonough of Quincy, an administrator coordinator II in the Office of the Commissioner of Probation-Programs Division, was presented the 2003 Trial Court Employees Award.

A 17-year employee of the Office of the Commissioner of Probation, McDonough was honored for her excellent work and dedicated service to the Office of the Commissioner of Probation, Massachusetts Probation Service and the Office of Community Corrections.

McDonough was credited by her supervisor Deputy Commissioner Paul Lucci for her computer expertise and for assistance with designing the official manual for the Electronic Monitoring Program, which serves as a blueprint for the state system and is utilized by judges, chief probation officers and probation officers statewide.

"Barbara has demonstrated a strong work ethic and a willingness to help wherever needed," Lucci said. "She possesses tremendous computer skills and has worked tirelessly in the development of many Programs Division Projects."

Originally from South Boston, McDonough has lived in Quincy for many years. She has two children and four grandchildren.

Graham Wins Ryan Award For Second Straight Year

John R. Graham, president of Graham Communications in Quincy, has won the Robert G. Ryan Award from the Door and Hardware Institute for outstanding business writing for the second straight year.

The award was presented to Graham by DHI President William H. Elliott Jr. of HC/Craftsmen, South Weymouth, at its annual conference and exposition in Tampa, Fla.

Paul Plisiewicz editor of "Doors and Hardware," the magazine of the DHI, noted that Graham is the first to win the award twice.

Graham's award-winning article, "Making a Winning Presentation — How to Think Like a Listener," appeared in the magazine's July, 2002, issue.

FALL CAR CARE

Check The Tires, But Don't Forget Boots, Belts, Hoses

Tire care and maintenance are deserving of special attention by motorists because of the tire's role in vehicle stability, braking and traction, yet it is important not to overlook the other rubber components on a car or truck, says AAA Southern

New England.

Although tires are easily inspected for air pressure and overall condition, studies show they still are not being checked often enough. But tires aren't the only component on your car or truck that needs to be checked.

"Drive belts, radiator/heater hoses and even the rubber boots that protect the steering components and today's cars need to be inspected. AAA's research shows that many motorists inspect the condition of their vehicle's belts and hoses only once a year," said John Paul, AAA Southern New England's Car Doctor. "This is far too long considering rubber components can degrade and rapidly fail once they begin to crack, glaze or blister. AAA recommends having these components inspected during each oil change service."

Because newer vehicles often use "serpentine" belts that drive several vital engine and electrical functions, the loss of this one belt means a vehicle will need to be towed. Finding a replacement in a hurry can also be difficult depending on the make, model and age of the vehicle.

Ruptured hoses can be another trip buster, Mr. Paul noted. "Finding replacement hoses at a moment's notice can be problematic because most are custom-formed for different engine configurations. It is far more convenient to request a replacement from a repair shop while the existing component is still functioning," he said.

Failed Batteries Don't Have To Be A Drain

"Despite warranties that claim an expected battery life of four, five or six years, most vehicle batteries will fail after 3.5 years, or even sooner," said John Paul, AAA Southern New England's Car Doctor. "The constant chemical reaction inside a lead-acid battery, vibration caused by driving and extreme changes in temperature all conspire to rob a battery of its ability to be charged."

Last year, AAA roadside assistance responded to more than 5.3 million calls from members with cars that wouldn't start. Many of these calls involved batteries that could not be recharged. In many other cases, car owners assumed their vehicle battery would be fine after a jump-start, only to experience a second battery failure the next time they tried to restart their vehicle.

"To end this frustration motorists should change their thinking about batteries," Paul said. "New technology has made it possible to reliably determine the condition of a battery in a few minutes without removing the battery from the vehicle. This test should be requested by vehicle owners any time they have their vehicle inspected." Signs of a weak battery are slow engine cranking, dim headlights and illumination of the battery/charging system warning light on the dashboard.

AAA offers these battery care tips:

- Keeping the battery case clean by wiping it down with a moist paper towel and mild detergent will help reduce any current drain caused by dirt or grime. Corrosion around the terminal connections and battery hold down can be cleaned with a small stiff brush and a solution of baking soda and water.
- Battery terminal connections should be tight. Adjust loose fittings or replace fittings that have cracked.
- Instructions for jump-starting a failed battery can be found in vehicle owner's manuals; however, jump-starting can be dangerous and motorists uncertain about battery maintenance and safety should seek professional assistance.
- When selecting a new battery, always choose one that is of the same physical size as the original battery.

Red Raiders Still Looking For First Win

By CHRIS POISSON

The North Quincy High School football team's return to Veterans Memorial Stadium for its home opener last Friday night wasn't as pleasant as let's say the Red Sox return home last weekend.

The Red Raiders did manage to cut a 16-point deficit in half, but ended up falling, 36-16, to the Clippers.

"It's the same theme," said head coach Tony Green. "We're playing quite a few young guys. When we start to get it more, we could pick up some wins. The older kids are playing very well; just aren't enough of them. We're playing better each week, but it's tougher competition each week."

North Quincy (0-3) will try to pick up its first win when it travels to Barnstable tomorrow (Friday) night at 7.

The Red Raiders suffered a huge loss when senior Rob Gardner, a two-way starter at split end and cornerback, broke his right leg on the opening kickoff.

"We're really going to miss him," Green said. "It was a clean break. He'll miss the rest of the year, but he'll be back for the basketball season."

The Clippers scored on the first possession of the game when junior halfback Wilson Pires darted into the end zone from 6 yards out. Junior quarterback Steve Clark rushed for the two-point conversion.

FOOTBALL

After North Quincy went three-and-out, Falmouth marched 37 yards on four plays, capped by Pires' 10-yard TD burst up the middle with 4:12 left in the first quarter. Pires rushed for the two-point conversion for a 16-0 lead.

The Red Raiders answered with an impressive 12-play drive in 5:42. On fourth-and-14 at the Falmouth 35, senior quad-captain and quarterback Jimmy Burke fired a 35-yard TD strike to senior tailback Andy McAllister (42 yards, five carries) with 9:24 left in the half.

Burke connected with senior quad-captain and tailback Brandon Neves (41 yards, 15 carries) for the two-point conversion to make it 16-8.

"We had a tough time with field position," Green said. "But our first scoring drive came out of good field position and we ran the ball well on that drive. But as the game went on, we had to change our game plan to catch up."

Falmouth countered with another quick scoring drive, highlighted by Pires' 8-yard TD run and two-point conversion rush for a 24-8 lead with 6:24 remaining in the half.

North Quincy's offense didn't get a chance to get back on the field as the Red Raiders fumbled the ensuing kickoff. Falmouth, with the ball at the North Quincy 23, rushed six straight times before Pires found paydirt from 1 yard out for his fourth TD of the game and a 30-8 half-time advantage.

In the second half, the Clippers scored on their first possession when Clark scampered in from 5 yards out for a 36-8 lead.

North Quincy added a touchdown late in the game when Burke fired a 9-yard pass to junior Tim Kennedy and then hit junior tight end Alex Tringale for the two-point conversion. Burke completed 12 of 15 passes for 112 yards and also ran for 58 yards on seven carries.

Senior quad-captain and safety Mike Dolbear (10 tackles), senior linebacker Pat O'Donnell (5 tackles), Neves (9 tackles at line-backer), Tringale (7 tackles at defensive end) and Kennedy (5 tackles at line-backer) played well.

Green also praised the efforts of junior defensive end John Griffith, senior nose guard Ben Kelleher, junior nose guard/center Mike Powers, junior defensive end Richie Russo, senior defensive back Sean McCormack, sophomore kick returner Benson Luc and senior Kellan Losi (5 catches, 2 tackles).

Presidents Fit To Be Tied

The Quincy High School football team battled Plymouth South to a 12-12 stalemate last Friday night on the road.

The Presidents (1-0-1) return home tomorrow (Friday) night at 7 to face Whitman-Hanson at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Quincy scored first in the second quarter when it recovered a Panthers' fumble and senior tailback Roger Palermo quickly followed with a 5-yard touchdown.

Plymouth South evened the score on its next series with senior Brian McGilvary's 25-yard TD jaunt with less than five minutes remaining in the half.

Quincy regained the lead on senior quarterback Josh

Giordani's 25-yard TD strike to senior quad-captain J.J. Niamkey with about two minutes left in the half.

Plymouth South knotted the score at 12 in the third quarter. In overtime, neither team scored on their series from 10 yards out. Niamkey, a cornerback, intercepted a pass to secure the tie for the Presidents.

Boating Safety Course Begins Oct. 25

The Quincy Police Marine Unit, in partnership with the Massachusetts Environmental Police, announces the first of four basic boating public safety courses will begin Saturday, Oct. 25.

Scheduled for three consecutive Saturdays, the course will be held from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. at the Houghs Neck Maritime Center, 137 Bayview Ave., next to the Quincy Yacht Club on Sea Street.

Three additional courses are scheduled for Feb. 14, 21, 28; March 13, 20, 27; and April 10, 17, 24.

The course is designed for citizens of all ages. All members of the boating public are welcomed to attend regardless of boating skills. Completion of the course by youthful boaters between the ages of 12-16 allows them to legally operate a motorboat without adult supervision.

All members of the public who successfully complete this course will be issued a Massachusetts Environmental Police Basic Boating Safety Certificate. These courses are provided at no charge to the public.

For course information or to register, contact the Massachusetts Environmental Police Department, Boat & Recreational Vehicle Safety Bureau, 1019 Route 132, Hyannis, MA 02601, at 617-727-8760 or 508-790-9360.

Wollaston Fall Baseball Bests Stoughton

Wollaston recently overpowered Stoughton, 9-1, in the battle of the top two teams in the varsity league of the fall baseball league.

Pitchers John Santon and Steve Doyle allowed only three hits and combined to strike out 16.

In the first inning Joey Trabucco (3 hits, 3 runs) singled, John Fitzgerald (2 hits, 2 runs) reached on an error and both scored when Andy McAllister singled.

Ahead 3-1 in the sixth, Paul Doolan walked, stole second and scored on Trabucco's double. Fitzgerald followed with an RBI single to make it 5-1.

Chris Kirshner (2 hits, run) reached on an error and Sean Sullivan (3 for 3) stroked a two-run double.

Wollaston (7-2) takes on Oliver Ames Sunday at 10 a.m. at Frothingham Park in Easton.

GIVING SAFETY A BOOST

The importance of placing children in belt-positioned booster seats was underscored recently, when a study showed that doing so cut the risk of injury in children aged 4 to 7 by almost 60% (compared to seat belts alone). Booster seats elevate the child so the vehicle's lap or shoulder belt fits him or her properly. According to the study, this improved body positioning with respect to the seat belt and shoulder strap helped to virtually eliminate "seat belt syndrome" among the children who used the booster seats. The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration recommends that children between the ages of 4 and 8 use a booster seat until they are 57 inches tall.

Your safety and that of your family is our concern. Make sure your children are properly seat belted. Maintaining your vehicle is also very important for safety. Bring it to the professionals at LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO and trust its care to our ASE Certified technicians. We also use the AllData CD-ROM based system for the very latest in maintenance and service bulletins for all makes of cars. Our friendly staff will gladly answer all your questions here at 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree (781-843-1550). Sunoco and most major credit cards honored. We are "A Place Where Your Car Can Live Longer."

HINT: The study also found that children in belt-positioning booster seats were more likely to sit in the back seats of vehicles, which is safer than the front.

NQHS ALUMNI SOCCER players recently took on the boys' college scholarships given to two seniors on the team.

NQ Alumni, Varsity Exhibition Game

North Quincy High School alumni soccer players recently squared off against the boys' varsity team in an exhibition game at Varsity Field.

The North Quincy High School Soccer Alumni Association organized the event to help raise money for college scholarships. The association will give $1,000 scholarships to two senior Red Raider soccer players.

"There was a large crowd on hand to cheer the 50 former players on," said Joseph LaPierre, president of the association. "It was impressive to see that the alumni team was able to keep up with kids more than half their ages. Although the alumni team went down in defeat, everyone had a great time playing and reminiscing about the good old days."

North Quincy High Principal Louis Ioanilli coached the alumni team, which included Mayor William Phelan and councilor John Keenan.

LaPierre thanked Quincy Police Officer Don Sautter for singing the National Anthem, the NQHS Booster Club and North Quincy head coach Tom Giattakas and his players.

The association thanked the following sponsors:

Quincy Sons of Italy Lodge 1295, Outback Steakhouse of Quincy, Quincy Marriott, Pat Flanagan's Pub, Mayor William Phelan, Nankin Dental Associates, Donovan Brother's Automotive, DiBella's Pizza, The Common Market, Victory Supermarkets, Dunkin' Donuts, Jimmy's Tire of North Quincy.

Applebee's Restaurant of North Quincy, the New England Revolution, Continental Marine Services Inc., O'Malley's Ace Hardware, Kelleher and Mackey Insurance Agency, Mullaney's Variety Store, Wing-Dings To Go, Red Sauce, the Flynn family, the Donovan family, Point Webster Middle School Principal Jim McGuire, Embroidery Plus.

The North Quincy High School Soccer Alumni Association is made up of former NQHS soccer players and coaches. The board members who put the event together are: LaPierre, president; William Donovan, vice president; David Brown, secretary; Peter Donovan, fundraising coordinator; Bob Mewis, events coordinator; Gary Nankin, scholarship coordinator.

GIRLS' SOCCER

North Tops Martha's Vineyard, 3-1

The North Quincy High School girls' soccer team topped Martha's Vineyard, 3-1, Monday afternoon at Teal Field.

The Red Raiders, who struggled early with their touch, netted the first goal with 10 minutes left in the first half. Senior quad-captain Jenn Ryan hit a great corner kick that found senior quad-captain Breanne Therrien, who one-timed a side volley into the net.

Ryan extended North Quincy's lead to 2-0 when she blasted a 20-yard shot past keeper Kayla Leonard 15 minutes into the second half. Senior quad-captain Sarah Gregory earned the assist.

After Martha's Vineyard scored to make it 2-1, North Quincy freshman Lauren Stille converted a Therrien rebound for the 3-1 final.

Playing well were sophomore Lindsey Clifford and freshman Jillian Benn at midfield and sophomore Annemarie Campanale at forward.

North Quincy (7-3-2) hosted Taunton yesterday (Wednesday) and will travel to Falmouth tomorrow (Friday) afternoon at 4. On Monday, it will battle cross-town rival Quincy at 7 p.m. at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Last Thursday, the Red Raiders hit the road for their annual night contest with Silver Lake and came away with a 1-1 tie. They defeated the Lakers, 2-1, in the first meeting Sept. 12.

Silver Lake took a 1-0 lead just before the half on a direct kick from 18 yards out.

The Red Raiders controlled the midfield in the second half and dominated the hosts. They had four corner kicks, two of which nearly resulted in goals off of headers by junior defender Shauna Kelly and junior midfielder Amanda Saylor.

Finally, with 17 minutes left in the game, senior quad-captain Katy Faherty crossed a ball to Therrien, who beat a defender and ripped a 25-yard shot to the far post to even the game.

North Quincy received outstanding efforts from junior defender Erika Djerf, senior midfielder Ashley Ridge, junior Eileen Price and Saylor.

The point proved costly as North Quincy lost junior midfielder Caitlyn Peters to a concussion after getting kicked in the head.

Last Tuesday, North Quincy suffered a 3-0 loss at Marshfield — a game head coach Paul Bregoli said was its "finest effort of the season."

Bregoli said the Red Raiders' plan going in was to limit the Rams' Lauren Jentzen's touches on the ball in hopes of containing the EMass' leading scorer.

North Quincy accomplished that to a degree as Gregory, in her best performance of the year, blanketed Jentzen for most of the game. Peters also played a big part in the North Quincy defense strategy, often double-teaming Jentzen with Gregory.

The Red Raiders missed a golden opportunity to take an early lead when Faherty's shot rang off the crossbar.

The Rams took a 1-0 half-time lead as Jentzen poked in the rebound of her first shot past North Quincy senior keeper Kristina Manganaro.

Kelly made a nice defensive play off a Marshfield corner kick, diving across the goalmouth to smother the Marshfield attempt before Manganaro covered up.

The score remained 1-0 until six minutes left in the game when Marshfield pumped in two more goals.

Junior Julie Holleran, Ryan, Gregory, Peters and Kelly turned in exceptional games for North Quincy.

THE LUIS TIAnt Celebrity Classic to benefit Mini-Fenway Park was a huge hit. From the left are organizers Rick Iacobucci, Primo Iacobucci, Luis Tiant and Ron Iacobucci.

Luis Tiant Golf Classic Benefits 'Mini-Fenway'

The first annual Luis Tiant Celebrity Classic held recently at the Brook Meadow Country Club was a sellout with many of Tiant's former teammates joining him for the day.

All proceeds from the golf tournament will help pay some of the predevelopment costs associated with the Mini-Fenway Park Project.

On hand to play golf and what made it so special were the celebrity foursomes," said Luis Tiant. "I am so grateful for the support of my teammates for a worthy cause. Mini-Fenway

Morgan and Wilbur Wood.

"A number of current Red Sox players wanted to participate, but it was a game day, in fact it was the day they clinched the wild card spot," said Ron Iacobucci, CEO. "Next year we will schedule the Tiant Classic around the Red Sox game schedule so that current players can participate."

"It was a great day to play golf and what made it so special were the celebrity foursomes," said Luis Tiant. "I am so grateful for the support of my teammates for a worthy cause. Mini-Fenway Park."

The silent auction and live auction were also a big hit with the sellout crowd of over 140 golfers.

With the success of the "Fantasy Auction" held in June and the recent Tiant Celebrity Classic, fund-raising for Mini-Fenway will continue now with the "Build It And They Will Come Campaign."

"Our next step is to clear the environmental review, so that we can close on our long-term lease, so that we can put our capital money and/or financing in place and break ground," Iacobucci said. "Our Build It And They Will Come Campaign's silent phase is well under way. We hope to make some public announcements soon."

Mike Welch Wins Golf Tournament

Mike Welch's summer success on the golf course has carried over to the fall season.

A junior at Johnson & Wales University in Florida, Welch, 21, of Quincy, recently captured the Spartan Invitational golf tournament at Rogers Park in Tampa, Fla.

He shot a 6-under-par 213 over the three rounds to grab top honors and lead his school to a first-place finish with a final score of 873.

The North Quincy High School graduate shot 72-71-64 for a total score of 207, finishing six strokes ahead of the runner-up, Joseph Lamielle of Florida Gulf Coast University.

His 64 in the third round was the lowest score for any round of the tournament.

Over the summer, Welch achieved the crowning moment of his nine-year golf career when he won the New England Amateur Champi-

SPOTLIGHT ON HEALTH & FITNESS

Think You're Too Old For Therapy? Think Again

By CAROLYN HOUSMAN, LICSW
A Program of South Shore Mental Health

Many people feel that by the time they've reached their sixth or seventh decade, there's just no point to psychotherapy. They believe that their life experiences should have taught them how to deal with their stresses, personality quirks and fears.

Moreover, many in the post-60 generation come from a tradition that is suspicious of the whole therapy process. This is the generation that lived through world wars, that faced daily struggles and losses, and that believes they should be tough enough to endure.

Therapy, they would say, was for people who were flawed or weak or had a serious mental illness. Therapy wasn't for them. And they would have been shocked if they had seen their parents or grandparents seek out therapy.

The difference in this generation's social environment can't be underestimated. Many came from a more insular family than is typical today. Three generations of a family often lived together or near each other. Grandparents might have helped with raising the children or working on the family farm. Everyone in the family was part of a unit, less isolated, less separated by geography than is today's typical family. People were far less mobile, airplane travel wasn't an everyday occurrence, relocation for business purposes was uncommon and divorce wasn't hitting one out of two marriages.

One can further argue that this was especially true in

New England, a part of the country that had fewer transients, more long family lines and a tradition of family and neighborhood support. If Grandma couldn't manage on her own, she moved in with her children. And if she was quiet and sad, that wasn't depression, that was how grandmothers got as they got older. If no immediate family was around, a neighbor down the street might come in and help an older person — not a visiting nurse, who might have recognized some clinical symptoms and sought help.

Indeed, while illnesses such as depression and anxiety have always existed, it is believed that they were less common in those days. The support structures surrounding people as they aged made seniors feel more integrated and more productive than many do in our contemporary society.

As a result of these various influences, we have an over-60 generation that is more likely to feel depressed or anxious and less likely to seek help. This is especially unfortunate since the progress that's been made in both psychotherapy and prescription drugs in the past 30 years is so impressive. Unlike the original anti-depressants, for example, today's drugs are easier to take and cause minimal side effects. For many, they can control the symptoms of depression while psychotherapy addresses the causes. More than 90 percent of seniors suffering from depression can be treated successfully — even into their 90s.

Modern medicine is doing a wonderful job of extending our life expectancy. But sometimes we have to take the initiative to identify our own problems and seek help to make that lone life a more enjoyable one.

Milton Hospital Prepares With Decontamination Demo

Milton Hospital has taken the next step in preparing for a biological or chemical attack.

The Milton Fire Department recently demonstrated their Mass Decon Unit

(MDU) at Milton Hospital. The MDU is a decontamination trailer that allows citizens who may be contaminated with hazardous materials to take immediate preventative actions by washing off the chemicals inside the disposable unit.

The Milton Fire Department received a grant to pay for the $17,000 equipment. According to Milton Fire Department Deputy Chief Brian Lincham, although the unit is quite large it sets up quickly, taking only 16 minutes for 6 people to set up.

In the event of a bioterrorism attack, the MDU will be used for immediate triage and patients will be treated in the Emergency Department if necessary.

Massachusetts is one of the only states in the country to have this kind of mass decontamination system in place.

DENTISTRY for the 21st Century

by Steven A. Brustin, D.M.D.
GOOD NEWS AND MORE GOOD NEWS

The good news is that people are losing fewer teeth as they age. And more good news from a recent survey by the American Dental Association is that, when lost teeth are replaced, more Americans are choosing dental implants as an option than they did in the past. This comes as little surprise when one takes into account the fact that implants provide artificial teeth that look natural and feel secure. Implants may be used to secure bridges and dentures when more than one tooth is missing. The success of implants is largely derived from the fact that their architecture closely resembles nature's own, consisting of an anchor (crown) and a firmly attached prosthetic tooth (or teeth).

When getting implants, it is important to pick a dentist that has experience in performing implant procedures. We can take care of all your dental needs, including implants. We're located at 44 Greenleaf Street, where all the members of our staff are dedicated to serving you and we will be happy to answer any questions you may have. Our concern is your comfort and confidence — our goal is to help preserve your natural teeth for a lifetime. Please call 617-479-6220 to schedule an appointment. We offer the services of anesthesiology and a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. Our web address is www.quincydentist.com.

P.S. Implants require the patient to have healthy gums and adequate bone support.

Local Cyclists Help Fight Lung Disease

Quincy residents Frank Reardon and Doug Haskins pedaled from Plymouth to Provincetown recently to benefit the American Lung Association.

Reardon and Haskins, as members of Team Mohawk, joined hundreds participating in the association's 19th annual Autumn Escape Bike Trek.

"What was unique and special about this event is that people came together for a weekend, united in making a difference in the fight against lung disease," said

Martha Waldron, executive director of the American Lung Association.

Over the three-day, 160-mile trek, cyclists toured the Cape Cod Canal, the Falmouth Shining Sea Bike Trail, the Old King's Highway, and the Cape Cod National Seashore in beautiful weather.

For more information about the Autumn Escape Bike Trek, or how you can fight lung disease, contact the American Lung Association of Greater Norfolk County at (508) 668-672.

SCOTT DEWARE

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Someone once said that Reading is magic. It enables us to experience and ponder the past. It helps us to live more happily and wisely in the present. And it permits us to cope with the future.

Dr. Samuel Johnson's injunction: "Keep your friendships in repair," should be applied to books as well as to persons. Books are friends at all times if we treat them well; we can enjoy their companionship when human friends have passed beyond our reach or have grown out of us. In every phase of life they are loyal friends, and, if they show signs of wear, that only proves how much we care for them. They repay us by linking youth with middle age and refreshing us in our late 50's, 60's and 70's as they inspired us in our early 20's...

Unlike friends who never answer letters, our books always speak when we open them.

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Your Aries charm helps persuade others to listen to your proposal. But it's still a long way from acceptance, unless you can stand up to the tough questions that are set to follow.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Plan to share a weekend getaway from all the pressures of your hectic workday world with a very special someone. You could be pleasantly surprised at what develops.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Your keen insight once again helps you handle a challenging situation with a clearer perception of what it's really all about. What you learn helps you make a difficult decision.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) If you want to steer clear of getting involved in a new family dispute, say so. Your stand might cause hurt feelings for some, but overall, you'll be respected for your honesty.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Expect recognition for your efforts in getting a project into operation. Besides the more practical rewards, your Lion's heart will be warmed by the admiration of your colleagues.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Set aside time to rid yourself of clutter that might well be drawing down your creative energies. Consider asking someone to help you decide what stays and what goes.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) A colleague could make a request that might place you in an awkward position with co-workers. Best advice: Share your concerns with an associate you can trust.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Your energy levels are way up, allowing you to take on the added challenge of a task you've been hoping to secure. Expect this move to lead to an important opportunity.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Your continuing sense of confidence in what you've set out to do gives encouragement to others. Expect to see more people asking to add their efforts to yours.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) You might think it would be best to reject a suggestion others insist would be unworkable. But you might be surprised by what you find if you give it a chance.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Changing a decision might disappoint some people, but the important thing is that you be honest with yourself. Don't go ahead with anything you have doubts about.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) There could be some fallout from an emotional confrontation that you really should deal with before moving on. Best to start fresh with a clean, clear slate.

BORN THIS WEEK: Your honesty not only helps you make decisions for yourself, but also helps others find the right choices for themselves.

NOTICES OF A PUBLIC HEARING

THE COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS
HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT
NOTICE OF A PUBLIC HEARING

A Design Public Hearing will be held by MassHighway to discuss the proposed transportation improvements for the Route 3/Burgin Parkway/Centre Street Interchange in the City of Quincy.

WHERE: City of Quincy
City Hall, Second Floor Conference Room
1305 Hancock Street
Quincy, MA 02169

WHEN: Wednesday, October 22, 2003 @ 7:00 P.M.

PURPOSE: The purpose of this hearing is to provide the public with the opportunity to become fully acquainted with the proposed roadway construction project. All views and comments made at the hearing will be reviewed and considered to the maximum extent possible.

PROPOSAL: The proposed project consists of intersection improvements at Burgin Parkway/Centre Street, Burgin Parkway/Penn Street, and Crown Colony Drive/Congress Street; construction of an overpass for Burgin Parkway southbound traffic over Centre Street; construction of two on-ramps from Crown Colony Drive connecting to existing Route 3 on-ramps. Other proposed work consists of traffic signal modifications, pavement overlay, curbing, sidewalks, pavement markings, and other incidental work.

A secure Right of Way is necessary for this project. Acquisitions in fee and permanent or temporary easements may be required. The City of Quincy is responsible for acquiring all needed rights in private or public lands. MassHighway's policy concerning land acquisitions will be discussed at this hearing.

Written views received by MassHighway subsequent to the date of this notice and up to five (5) days prior to the date of the hearing shall be displayed for public inspection and copying at the time and date listed above.

Written statements and other exhibits in place of, or in addition to, oral statements made at the Public Hearing regarding the proposed undertaking are to be submitted to Thomas F. Broderick, P.E., Chief Engineer, Massachusetts Highway Department, 10 Park Plaza, Boston, MA 02116. Such submissions will also be accepted at the hearing. The final date of receipt of these statements and exhibits will be ten (10) days after this Public Hearing.

Plans will be on display one-half hour before the hearing begins, with an engineer in attendance to answer questions regarding this project.

To Kenneth Coyle of parts unknown, Anne Lester of parts unknown, Helen Martin of Rockland in the County of Plymouth, Karen Murphy of Kingston in the County of Plymouth, Linda Chubbuck of Marshfield in the County of Plymouth, Cynthia Carringer of Tucson in the State of Arizona, Suzanne Bronstein of Canton in said County, respondents; and to all other persons interested.

A petition has been presented to said Court by Heidi A. Vogel Marquis of Quincy in the County of Norfolk representing that she holds as tenant in common an undivided part or share of certain land lying in Quincy in said County of Norfolk and briefly described as follows: A certain parcel of land with all the buildings thereon, situated in that part of said Quincy called Wollaston, being Lots numbered Fifteen (15) and Sixteen (16) in Block Twenty (20) of Section Six (6) of lands of the Wollaston Land Association as shown on a plan of said lands revised by Whitman & Breck, and recorded with Norfolk Deeds, Plan Book 7, Plan No. 277. Said lots are together bounded and described as follows:

NORTHEASTERLY by Arlington Street, one hundred (100) feet; NORTHWESTERLY by lot numbered 17 in said block, one hundred (100) feet; SOUTHWESTERLY by lot numbered 5 and 6 in said block, one hundred (100) feet; and SOUTHEASTERLY by lot numbered 14 in said block, one hundred (100) feet. Containing according to said plan ten thousand (10,000) square feet of land. Title reference: Book 1388, Page 621, setting forth that she desires that all of said land may be sold at private sale for not less than two hundred thousand ($200,000.00) dollars and praying that partition may be made of all the land aforesaid according to law, and to that end that a commissioner be appointed to make such partition and be ordered to make sale and conveyance of all, or any part of said land which the Court finds cannot be advantageously divided, either at private sale or public auction, and be ordered to distribute the net proceeds thereof.

If you desire to object thereto, you or your attorney should file a written appearance in said Court at Norfolk Probate & Family Court, 35 Shawmut Road, Canton, MA 02021 before ten o'clock in the forenoon on the thirty-first day of December 2003, the return day of this citation.

WITNESS, DAVID H. KOPELMAN, Esquire, First Justice of said Court, this twenty-fifth day of September, 2003.

QC Classes Resume But Gas Lingers

CLEAN HARBORS EMPLOYEES use vapor-extracting equipment in Coddington Hall to discharge gasoline vapors that forced the closing of Quincy College last Friday. Crews were able to dissipate the vapors, enabling college officials to proclaim the school ready for classes on Monday.

(Cont'd from page 1)

"We are comfortable that there is no threat to the health of students and staff," Barry said Monday morning.

But gasoline vapors continue to seep into the basement of Coddington Hall, and safety crews are conducting various tests to discover the source, he said.

"Until they find the source we will continue to find these low levels of vapors," said Barry. "And we may have to close again. No one knows the sources of the vapors, but they are an explosion risk when they get to a certain level."

A student lounge, café, college offices and restrooms are located in the basement of Coddington Hall. Barry said approximately 200 classes are conducted in the building.

DPW Commissioner Jay Fink said Clean Harbors will install vapor-extracting equipment in the ground to gather any gaseous material and discharge it. Vapor-extracting pipes will be inserted into the ground to suck up any gaseous material and discharge it into the air, he said.

Fink said the water table sits approximately 30 feet below the ground of the college and parking lot. Tests conducted on the water table in that area revealed no traces of gasoline, he said.

Barry said he was concerned whether Quincy High School, the college's next-door neighbor, was feeling the effects of the spill.

Fink said there is evidence of soil contamination beneath the street pavement and sidewalks along Coddington St. The DPW has received no complaints of vapors inside the building, he said.

Phelan said the high school has been tested repeatedly, and there have been no reports of fumes in the area.

Phelan and Fink said gasoline from the tanker spill has reached the wetlands area in Faxon Field, site of the proposed new Quincy High School.

"As I understand it, there is a good chance that gasoline has reached the wetlands area," Phelan said. "That will need to be addressed."

Spilled gasoline entered the storm drains along Coddington St. Days after the spill, the DPW received complaints of gasoline odors in the Faxon Field area, Fink said.

A drain pipe runs from Russell Park through the wetlands to Coddington St. Fink said crews will be cleaning the pipe and checking to determine whether gasoline leaked into the soil surrounding the pipe. He said the extent of the damage has not been determined, but environmental crews will be conducting soil tests in the area.

Phelan said any potential damage to the wetlands would not affect the city's attempts at gathering the necessary environmental permits for the high school project.

Environmental crews will be drilling holes along the gutter lines from President's Place to the YMCA to determine the extent of contamination, he said. Contaminated streets and sidewalks along President's Place and Coddington St. will have to be removed and repaved, Fink said. The costs of this portion of the cleanup project could approach the hundreds of thousands of dollars, he said.

The owner of the overturned truck, Brewer Petroleum Services Inc. of Revere, was insured for this type of accident. The insurance company is footing the bill, said Phelan.

Amistad Celebration To Launch Campaign For Adams Memorial

By JAMES SHEETS
Deputy Director
Adams Memorial Foundation

They stand quietly on Moakley Courthouse Pier in Boston as the Amistad quietly eases into its berthing place. Their minds race back over the years to 1839 and the Amistad Revolt.

One man carries the bearing and looks of an Adams whose great grandfather of five generations ago successfully defended the Amistad captives before the United States Supreme Court. He thinks back to the 72-year-old, nearly blind, John Quincy Adams who had been asked by Ellis Gray and Lewis Tappan of the Amistad Committee to defend the Amistad Africans.

The other man, black, carries the bearing of pride, strength, success and the warmth of a beautiful smile. He is a Mendi. Five generations ago his forefathers were captured and carried across the ocean to be sold into slavery in the United States.

But this Mendi has come across that same ocean as a free man, not a slave. He came in hope, not fear. He came to find a new life for himself and his family. Little did he realize he would live and begin his educational career in Quincy, the very home of John Quincy Adams.

The other man, Peter Boylston Adams, stands next to Vandi Braima. Perhaps he thinks of John Quincy Adams, who was courageous, brilliant and painfully honest. Adams looks out across the ship and the water as he remembers this epic event in history. Perhaps he is thinking that in his life he exhibited that same patriotism in serving his country, that same sharp mind and sense of history.

On Wednesday, Oct. 22, 2003, at this same Moakley Courthouse Pier in Boston, both men will walk hand-in-hand, boarding the replica of the Amistad accompanied by the Ambassador from Sierra Leone (home of the Mendi tribe) Abriham M' Balla Kamara and Pulitzer Prize-winning author, David McCullough.

This momentous occasion will mark the beginning of the Adams Memorial Foundation's effort to design, raise funds and construct a memorial in Washington, D.C., to John Adams, John Quincy Adams, their wives and the entire Adams family that has helped shape American history up to and including the present generation.

Bradley, Some Veterans Oppose Council Vote To Fly South Vietnam Flag Draws Criticism

By WILLIAM TRAYNOR

The city council's vote last week asking for the South Vietnam flag to fly at City Hall was met with resounding approval in the council chambers, but some veterans are registering their opposition to the move, according to the director of the Department of Veterans Services.

About 50 Vietnamese-Americans who attended last week's meeting gave the city council a standing ovation after the council overwhelmingly approved a resolution allowing the flag to fly at City Hall this Saturday.

But days later, Henry "Hank" Bradley, director of the Department of Veterans Services, sent a letter to Mayor William Phelan asking him not to honor the resolution.

"I am not in favor of it, and it is something I've heard from many veterans," said Bradley. "Many Vietnam veterans, as well as those from Korea and World War II, are very upset."

Introduced by Council President Daniel Raymond, the resolution declares Oct. 18 as Appreciation Day for the city's Vietnamese-American community, which will include a ceremony and the raising of the Heritage and Freedom Flag alongside the American flag and POW-MIA flag outside city hall.

The yellow flag containing three red stripes also serves as a protest against the current communist government of Vietnam, which forced thousands of people to flee for the United States after the Vietnam War.

In his letter, Bradley, a past National Vice Commander and past State Commander of the American Legion, wrote: "To some of the veterans the issue brings back some difficult memories that were tucked away in the back of their minds."

"This office is looked to for guidance in any and all veterans matters in the City of Quincy, and at this time I request that you as mayor not sign the resolution for Oct. 18 allowing the Heritage and Freedom banner to fly," Bradley wrote to Phelan. "Even though this is not a Veterans matter it does affect a lot of our residents who have been the lifeblood of this community for many a year."

As The Sun went to press on Tuesday, Bradley said Phelan had not responded to the letter. Phelan was unavailable for comment at press time.

Some city councillors, however, said they have received no complaints about the issue.

"You are honoring a culture for what's important to them," said Councillor Joseph Finn. "What could possibly be wrong with that?"

Finn said he has met people who suffered under communist regimes. "I know what they went through to get to the United States," said Finn. "They left their home-

William Harris Former Wollaston Manager Quincy Resident To Be Installed Natick Postmaster Friday

Quincy resident William P. Harris will be installed postmaster of Natick Post Office tomorrow (Friday) Oct. 17 at 1 p.m. in VFW Hall, 113 West Central St. (Route 135) Natick.

Middlesex-Central District Manager John W. "Mike" Powers III will administer the oath of office while the new postmaster's wife, Carole Harris, holds the Bible.

Harris began his postal career in 1988 as a letter carrier in Waban. He served as an acting supervisor in several postal facilities before being promoted to supervisor of customer services at the Back Bay Post Office, Boston, in 1997.

He was promoted to manager of Wollaston Post Office in 2000 and a year later was named to head Brookline Post Office. Harris was promoted to postmaster of Natick in May.

As the installation head of Natick Post Office, he manages a facility that employs 104 persons collecting, processing and delivering mail to nearly 14,750 households and businesses and more than 1,100 Post Office boxes.

The Harrises live in Quincy with their two children, Mary, 14, and Edward "Ted" Harris, 11.

QUINCY POLICE radar trailer set up here on Quarry St. recently reminds motorists to abide by the posted speed limit on some of the city's most traveled roadways.

Radar Trailer Reminds Motorists About Speed

The Quincy Police Department is reminding motorists to abide by the speed limit, courtesy of the department's radar trailer.

Police Chief William Falco said the trailer has been placed at some of the city's busiest roadways, including Southern Artery, Quincy Ave. and Sea St. Recently, the trailer was seen on Quarry St. In most cases, the trailer is moved to an area in response to residents' complaints about excessive speed, he said.

"Traffic concerns have always been something people complain about most," said Falco.

"The trailer is effective for educational purposes. It's a good way of educating people and allowing them to know what speed they are traveling."

Falco said the trailer directs a radar beam at oncoming vehicles and posts the speed as the vehicle approaches.

The department purchased the trailer through a grant approximately eight years ago, he said.

He said the trailer is not making its way through the city in response to complaints from the city council that the department has not paid enough attention to speeders.

"We have been using this device on and off for many years and will continue to do so."

Motorists can expect to see the trailer in the West Quincy area soon, he said.

Broad Meadows Marsh Restoration Proposed By Army Corps Of Engineers

The US Army Corps of Engineers and the City of Quincy are proposing to restore the Broad Meadows Marsh to salt marsh.

The marsh, located in the southeastern part of the city, is adjacent to the upper reaches of Town River. Part of the project will involve work in the navigable waters of the US and will be completed under the provisions under Section 1135 of the Water Resources Development Act of 1986.

"This is a great project for the city," said DPW Commissioner Jay Fink. "Ultimately, this project will provide an additional 35 acres of open space - I see it as a huge gain for the city."

Fink said the restoration project could begin as early as January, 2005 and end in the Spring.

"The purpose of the proposed marsh is to restore a significant portion of Broad Meadows Marsh to salt marsh," said Project Manager Robert Russo, of the Corps' New England District, Engineering/Planning Division.

Once an extensive salt marsh, Broad Meadows was degraded by the placement of dredged material from the Town River Federal Navigation Project. Dredged material from the navigation project was deposited on the marsh after 1938 and again in 1956.

Approximately 111 acres of marsh and marine habitat were filled to an elevation of about six to eight feet. About 24 acres of unfilled, tidally influenced wetland remain.

According to Russo, several options were explored regarding the restoration project.

"These alternatives were screened for effectiveness, practicability, general engineering and cost feasibility, and acceptability to the local sponsor," he said. "The recommended restoration plan consists of excavating the southern portion of the site to restore the salt marsh."

Russo said the excavated material would be moved to the northern portion of the project site between Quincy Shore Drive and Homer Rd.

A new, 7.5-foot beam would be constructed to separate the restored, excavated marsh from the filled upland area and to stabilize the resultant change in grade along that border.

Approximately 390,000 cubic yards of former dredged material will be excavated and moved, according to Russo. The southern restored excavated marsh will be graded to elevations that would sustain both high and low salt marsh, he said.

The marsh restoration will disrupt the existing plants and animals living in Broad Meadows, but restoration will increase the overall ecological functions and values of the project area, resulting in a new positive benefit, Russo said.

A private contractor from the federal government will perform the work, according to the US Army Corps of Engineers. An environmental assessment of the proposed work is being prepared and will be available for public review.

Due to the nature of the project, no Federal or State-listed threatened, endangered or rare species are known to inhabit the project area. The National Marine Fisheries Service, the US Fish and Wildlife Service and the Massachusetts Division of Fisheries and Wildlife concur that, except for occasional transient bald eagles, no threatened or endangered species are ex-

Festival Committee Planning For 51st Annual Christmas Parade

The Quincy Festival Committee is planning the final phases of the city's 51st Annual Christmas Parade.

George White, general chairman, announced two preliminary phases have been held, selection of a parade theme and a how-to-build a float seminar for amateur float builders.

This year's theme, "Let There Be Peace On Earth," allows much latitude for organizations planning to enter entries in the annual parade, which attracts record crowds as high as 250,000 spectators, said White.

Traditionally, the parade is held on the last Sunday in November, which is Nov. 30 this year.

White said the parade is the climax to a weekend of Festival Committee holiday activities beginning with the turning on of holiday lights on Friday, Nov. 28 and the arrival of Santa Claus by parachute on Saturday, Nov. 29.

In addition, elementary grade Quincy school children will participate in a poster contest based on the parade theme. A Christmas Nativity Pageant in cooperation with the Church of the Presidents in downtown Quincy will also be held in December.

For more information, contact the Quincy Festival Committee hot-line at 617-376-1392.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Oct. 13, 1792, the cornerstone is laid for a presidential residence in the newly designated capital city of Washington. In 1800, President Adams became the first president to reside in what became known as the "White House" because its white-gray Virginia freestone contrasted strikingly with the red brick of nearby buildings.

• On Oct. 16, 1793, nine months after the execution of her husband, the former King Louis XVI of France, Marie-Antoinette follows him to the guillotine.

• On Oct. 14, 1912, before a campaign speech in Milwaukee, Wis., Theodore Roosevelt is shot at close range by saloonkeeper William Schrank. The .32-caliber bullet failed to mortally wound the former president because its force was slowed by a glasses case and a bundle of manuscripts in the breast pocket of Roosevelt's heavy coat.

• On Oct. 15, 1917, Mata Hari, the archetype of the seductive female spy, is executed for espionage by a French firing squad at Vincennes, outside of Paris.

• On Oct. 16, 1945, actor John Lithgow is born in Rochester, N.Y. He acted and directed with London's prestigious Royal Shakespeare Company before returning to the United States and was nominated for an Oscar for "The World According to Garp."

• On Oct. 15, 1951, best-selling novelist Terry McMillan ("How Stella Got Her Groove Back") is born in Port Huron, Mich. McMillan's contemporary fiction draws on her own experiences as a middle-class black woman.

• On Oct. 17, 1973, the Arab-dominated Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries announces a decision to cut oil exports to the United States and other nations that provided military aid to Israel in the Yom Kippur War of October 1973.

Newton Seeks Undecided Voters

What does a mayoral underdog challenger do with the odds against him and the final election just 19 days away?

"You keep plugging away," says this year's mayoral underdog, Joe Newton. "But I think we are going to surprise a lot of people Nov. 4."

Newton, who got into the race at the last minute, hoped to have done a little better than he did in the Sept. 16 preliminary election.

But, he says, considering he had little time and little money to launch the campaign, he isn't discouraged.

Incumbent William Phelan got just under 68 percent (67.93) to Newton's 27 percent (27.03) of the vote. Phelan's vote was 8,504 to Newton's 3,385 — a margin of 5,120.

Phelan, who took nothing for granted and worked at getting his vote out, saw the result as an endorsement that residents feel he is moving the city forward which has been the central theme of his bid for a second term.

But Newton sees it a little differently.

He notes the voter turnout in the preliminary election was less than 25 percent (24.41) of the city's registered voters.

There were 52,229 voters eligible to cast ballots in that election. Only 12,747 did. The other 39,482 stayed home.

"A lot of those voters who didn't come out I feel are undecided," says Newton.

He hopes to get many of them out and thinks they could make a difference in the Nov. 4 outcome.

"I'm not saying Phelan peaked in the preliminary election but he pulled out all the stops and got his vote out," says Newton. "But there are many more voters he didn't get out and they haven't been heard from yet."

Newton has been conducting what he calls a "Meet And Greet" campaign at senior citizen complexes and outside supermarkets and coffee shops.

"We are booking events at senior citizen buildings and plan to get to everyone of them to meet the residents and listen to their concerns," he says.

You might call that his "sweet campaign."

In his visits to the senior complexes he brings boxes of candy along with his campaign literature.

He has ceased campaigning during the early commute at the T stations.

"People are in too much of a rush to catch a train at that hour then to stop and talk politics," he says.

He also isn't knocking on many doors these days either.

"A lot of people just weren't home during the day," he says. "And now it's getting dark early and I don't want to bother them at night."

Newton is planning another city-wide mailing and would like to have a debate or two with Phelan on Quincy Access TV.

The odds are against him but he doesn't sound like someone giving up the fight.

"We are not getting a ton of money but we are going to have enough to compete," he says.

"It's not going to be easy. It's a tough uphill battle. But I'm optimistic. Very optimistic. I think we can do it. As I said, we I think we are going to surprise a lot of people."

Meanwhile, Phelan, who two years ago ousted six-term incumbent Jim Sheets by 17 votes in the city's closest ever mayoral election, isn't taking Newton lightly coming down to Nov. 4.

With Quincy's large Asian population, he even has some campaign signs up inscribed in Chinese.

One of them is quite prominently — and strategically — placed across from the North Quincy T station.

Phelan isn't under estimating the challenge of an underdog. He was one himself two years ago.

And made political history.

YOU MIGHT SAY Jay Davis, the lone candidate for the Ward 4 city council seat Bryan Connolly is leaving, isn't taking anything for granted either.

Although he is unopposed for the open seat — a rarity in Quincy politics and especially in Ward 4 — Davis has been out there campaigning as though he had an opponent.

And you could say he is covering a lot of ground. One of his campaign signs is in front of a house on Revere Rd. which happens to be in Ward 5, Doug Gutro's home turf.

But Revere Rd. is a good sign location for any candidate.

CHAMPIONSHIP TENNIS has become a family affair for Aileen Eeley.

AILEEN and AILISON

Aileen teamed with her 10-year-old daughter, Ailison, to win the Women's Doubles in the recent Quincy Recreation Department's 33rd annual Tennis Tournament.

It marked a third generation inscribed on the same Championship Bowl.

Aileen had won the same event teamed with her mother, Isabel Smith, in 1993, the year Ailison was born. And following that, there were wins with Louise Durante in 1995, Sheila McIntyre in 1997-98, Punya Wijesandaja in 2000 and last year with Gail McDonald.

And, getting back to the family, in this year's tournament she also teamed up with her husband, Peter, to win the Mixed Doubles and the William F. Ryan Bowl.

UNCLE SAM Rounseville must be Quincy's most photographed resident.

Whenever he is in regalia and at a gathering — especially a sporting event — still and TV cameras quickly find him.

The Red Sox-Yankees American League championship playoffs have been a natural magnet for him.

Especially with him in full red, white and blue attire and carrying a sign that reads: "This Yankee Loves The Red Sox," as he did at Saturday's game.

Clips of him with the sign have been used in pre-game promos on Fox 25 and carried across the country.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS 1930's postcard shows the Quincy Granite Gazing Ball in its original location just outside the City Clerk's office next to old City Hall. The ball was a gift to the City of Quincy on its 300th anniversary from the Quincy Granite Manufacturers Association. It was meant to represent their eternal gratitude for the beautiful stone that came from Quincy's native hills. Miss Maxine Louise Swingle unveiled the memorial during Quincy's weeklong Tercentenary Celebration on June 25, 1925. She was the daughter of Jonathan S. Swingle who donated the 25-ton block of granite from which they cut the ball. The granite came from the now filled in quarry still bearing his name.

The location of the ball was picked and asked for by the Granite Manufacturers Association and was granted by then Mayor Perley Barbour. Speaking for the city at the unveiling ceremony, Mayor Barbour accepted the responsibility of the Mayor's office for the care and keeping of the 11-ton ball for all time.

The highly polished ball of beautiful dark blue Quincy granite attracted everyone who passed by it. Because of the hypnotic reflections that appeared in the mirror finish, it soon became known as the "Gazing Ball." It was a particular delight to the youngsters of the city who came throughout the year to Quincy Square to see their faces and the changing seasons reflected in the shining face.

Today, the ball is just as beautiful and glorious as it was when it was originally created. The motto of the Granite Manufacturers Association was "Quincy Granite - Lasting Until Everlasting," and the ball after 78 years is holding true to it. However, the ball was relocated over 60 years ago to the center of the Fore River Rotary. Unfortunately, it has been separated from the people of Quincy ever since by its inaccessible location and the circling traffic of South Shore commuters.

It's Time For Real Health Care Reform

On Oct. 8, the Joint Health Care Committee of the Massachusetts Legislature heard testimony on the Massachusetts Health Care Trust bill. Senate 686 would create a consolidated health care financing program that would guarantee health insurance to every resident in Massachusetts.

Every resident would have an insurance card that would give him or her total choice of providers. Decisions on where hospitals, community clinics and other health care facilities were located would be based upon need and not upon profitability. The delivery of health care would remain private, but the health insurance system would be public.

Community hospital administrators would no longer have to worry about how to cover the uninsured who show up in their emergency departments because every resident would be insured.

Because people would not have to put off routine check-ups and early diagnostic tests, far fewer would need to bring their last-minute, and costly, problems to the ED.

Nearly 40 cents of every health care dollar spent in Massachusetts goes to overhead, not to health, according to last December's study of health spending in Massachusetts by LECG and other consultants commissioned by task force established by the Legislature under Chapter 141.

In other words, because of competing advertising campaigns, inflated administrative salaries and literally tons of paperwork, we already spend more than enough to cover everyone and to assure high-quality care for all.

South Quincy MBTA T Station Opposed

The South Quincy Civic Association went on record this week in opposition to the proposed South Quincy-North Braintree MBTA station.

The vote came after presentations by Rep. Joseph Brett, Robert Frazier, chairman of the Braintree Board of Selectmen, and Ward 3 Councilor Ted McLelland.

Frazier told the association that instead of a station on the town line with Quincy, Braintree residents favored a station at the old town dump site on Union Street because it would allow for more parking and better access to the expressway.

McLelland urged the citizens to "fight this station with everything you have. About 5 percent of South Quincy residents would use it, and the rest from surrounding communities with Quincy picking up the tab," he said.

Brett also opposed the station with association President Pasquale DiStefano making the motion for the opposition.

QUARRY ST. $30 MILLION DEVELOPMENT PROPOSED

The Kanavos Enterprises of Dedham announced plans for a $30-$40 million apartment development on Quarry Street at an afternoon meeting of the Planning Board.

It was at the Planning Board meeting that a restriction on 10 of the 76-acre parcel was removed. (The restriction would have limited construction on the 10-acre portion to single-family homes.)

Harry Kanavos, vice president of the company, said the project would provide the city with 1,200 new units of housing, covering both sides of Quarry Street. He didn't specify how high the buildings would be or when construction would start.

Mayor Walter Hannon said progress on the proposal would move slowly so each aspect of the project could be studied.

Kanavos bought the land from Herbert Duane who was given it by the city in 1962 in exchange for his filling of the quarry holes.

Library To Celebrate Thomas Crane's 200th Birthday

On Oct. 18, the Thomas Crane Public Library will celebrate the 200th birthday of the man the library was named after, Thomas Crane himself.

Crane was born on Oct. 18, 1803 at George's Island.

Beginning at 2:30 p.m., costumed interpreters from Sturbridge Village will be available to teach residents how to play some of the games that Crane played. Workstations would be set up where residents can make their own 19th century toy to take home, either a buzz saw or cup and ball game.

Bring your camera and have your picture taken peeking out of a costume board that shows what you would have looked like dressed up for a party 200 years ago.

Soldiers from His Majesty's 1st Regiment of Foot Guards will be present dressed in uniforms from the War of 1812.

Cake and ice cream will be served.

Residents can start the celebration early by stopping by the library and lighting a birthday candle any time this month.

The Library thanked the many donors who made the program possible, including Dairy Freeze, Quincy and White's Bakery, Braintree.

Kelly Canniff Wed To James Goff

A reception at the Clarion Nantasket Beach Hotel in Hull, followed the recent wedding of Kelly Canniff and James Goff. They were married in St. John's Church by Rev. Peter Quinn.

The bride is the daughter of Reid and Madelyn Canniff of Quincy. The groom is the son of John and Elaine Goff of Hanover.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by Jennifer LaPointe as Maid of Honor. Bridesmaids were Kristina Canniff, sister-in-law of the bride, Maureen Bolton and Amy Delaney.

Christopher Baker served as Best Man. Ushers were Richard and John Goff, brothers of the groom, and Keith Canniff, brother of the bride.

The bride is a graduate of Archbishop Williams High School, Braintree, and Bridgewater State College. She is a Grade 6 teacher in Weymouth.

The groom graduated from Hanover High School and Tulane University in New Orleans. He is a history teacher in Canton High School.

After a wedding trip to Antigua, the couple are living in Quincy.

MR. and MRS. ROBERT GILBODY

Blue Cheese Walnut Bites

Anyone who knows me, also knows that if I find a recipe that requires refrigeration overnight or for a couple of hours, I turn my attention to something else. How impatient is that?

However, when I found this recipe for an appetizer, and since we all love blue cheese whether in a dressing, dip or anything, it gets my undivided attention. And in addition to the cheese, it also has another favorite: walnuts. Here is the recipe including both favorites. Hope you enjoy it as much as we did. Before you decide to make this just know that it is not cholesterol free!

First, combine the flour and pepper. Cut in the cheese and butter until mixture resembles coarse crumbs.

Add the walnuts and the egg yolks and stir until blended. Form the mixture into a ball, knead until combined. Divide the dough in half. Shape each half into a log about 9 inches

Blue Cheese Walnut Bites

- 1 1/2 cups flour
- 2 to 3 teaspoons cracked black pepper (I used coarse pepper)
- 8 ounces blue cheese
- 1/4 cup butter
- 1 cup chopped walnuts
- 2 egg yolks slightly beaten long. Wrap in plastic and chill for about two hours. Preheat oven to 425 degrees.

Cut each log into 1/4 inch thick slices. Place slices about an inch apart on an ungreased baking sheet. Bake for 8 to 10 minutes or until bottoms and edges are golden brown. Transfer to wire rack, and serve warm. Enjoy, it was worth the wait.

PS: They can be stored in the refrigerator for a week. This recipe makes about six dozen.

Begins Sunday At Central Middle School Walking Tour Explores City's "Environmental Treasures"

The Quincy Park Department's Environmental Treasures program invites the public to explore the new walking trail through the city this Sunday at 2 p.m., beginning at Central Middle School, 1012 Hancock St.

The tour, created by the Volkssport Club, will lead participants along the trail and describe other walking tours developed throughout the state.

Kristen Keohane of the Park Department will discuss the city's efforts to plant and maintain street trees.

All participants are encouraged to bring water for the tour.

For more information call 617-376-1254. Rain date for the tour is Nov. 15.

For those unable to attend the program, a copy of the self-guiding tour may be obtained at the National Park Visitor Center in Quincy Center.

Adams Historical Park Plans Cemetery Tour For Halloween

The Adams National Historical Park will host a candlelight Halloween tour of the Hancock Cemetery Friday, Oct. 24, from 6 to 9 p.m. There will be no charge.

The tour of one of New England's oldest burial grounds will be conducted by Morticia Addams, no relation to the Adams family of the national park.

Morticia will bring three centuries of historic figures briefly back to life to share stories and little known facts about Quincy's past.

Following the visit to the cemetery, refreshments of spirits and angel's or devil's food cake will be served at the Adams National Historical Park Visitor's Center, 1250 Hancock St.

For more information call 617-770-1175.

Education Fund Raises $16,000 To Supplement Needs Of Schools

The Quincy Educational Fund has raised nearly $16,000 to supplement the needs of the city's 18 public schools.

Last year, the city established an education fund allowing residents to contribute charitable funds for the purposes of augmenting the school department's budget. Recently, the city sent out property tax bills to residents allowing them to contribute to the education fund.

Jo-Ann Bragg, member of the school committee and education fund committee, said she is hoping to see even more contributions come into the fund. Residents will be able to claim a tax deduction on the charitable contributions, she said.

Bragg said the school committee recently received a $1,000 contribution from Vincent Moscardelli, owner of Central Real Estate and former principal of the Central Middle School.

"We are hoping even more funds will come in from the city's recent mailing of property tax bills," she said. "This is a win-win situation for children, our educational system and taxpayers."

The Quincy Educational Fund Committee, charged with utilizing the funds for the schools, has decided to conduct a needs assessment of the school department, according to Ward 3 Councillor Kevin Coughlin, another member of the committee. Also serving on the committee are Superintendent Dr. Richard DeCristofaro, President of the Citywide Parents' Council Roseann Russell, Quincy Public Schools teacher Patrick Carnes and two concerned residents of the city interested in education affairs, Susan Milone and Joanne McGroarty.

Coughlin said: "The goal is to address the school system's tangible needs as they are identified from the level where the rubber meets the road, in the schools and in the classrooms."

Coughlin said the committee intends to study school improvement plans, talk with school principals and analyze the last five years of school budgets. This should give the committee a better idea of how to spend the money. Coughlin said.

Bragg said the committee wants to ensure that every Quincy school sees some benefit from the Fund.

"We want to spend the money in a way that all schools will receive a benefit from the generosity of caring taxpayers," she said.

The committee is expected to meet next month with the goal of establishing a spending plan before the holiday break in December, Bragg said.

MEMBERS OF THE Quincy Educational Fund Committee met recently to discuss how it intends to spend some $16,000 that has come into the fund from Quincy taxpayers. The funds will be utilized to supplement the needs of Quincy Public Schools. Pictured, from the left, are members of the committee, School Committee member Jo-Ann Bragg, Quincy resident Susan Milone, Superintendent Dr. Richard DeCristofaro, Quincy teacher Patrick Carnes, and President of the Citywide Parents' Council Roseann Russell. Also members of the committee but not pictured are: Ward 3 Councillor Kevin Coughlin and Quincy resident Joanne McGroarty.

122 Homes Of Seniors

Smoke Detectors Checked, Replaced For Project SAFE

Smoke detectors were checked, added and replaced in 122 homes of senior citizens recently through the Beechwood Community Life Center's "Project SAFE."

Quincy Firefighters and Rotary volunteers checked the smoke detectors on Oct. 4. Many seniors' homes were not protected and others did not have any working detectors. At other locations, detectors were in place, but batteries needed replacement. Approximately 600 batteries were replaced this year.

Project SAFE, which stands for "Smoke Alarms

For Elders," was launched by the Life Center in 1997 as a city-wide outreach to "at risk" senior citizens. The Life Center has been assisted by the National Fire Protection Association (NFPA), the Quincy Fire Department, as well as Inspectional Services Director Walter White.

Beechwood Community Life Center tries to reach homeowners that are age 70 and above or those with special needs. Many do not have family nearby, and others should not be climbing step stools to replace detector batteries.

"Each year we have been successful in locating supporters to assist us with this high-cost initiative," said Sharron Beals, executive director of Beechwood On The Bay.

Beals said the NFPA has assisted with grants and 10-year lithium detectors. In addition, financial assistance is provided every year by the Quincy Rotary Club. Product donations (batteries) come from Home Depot. And Presidential Press donates dated stickers to affix to each smoke detector.

Technical and educational assistance has been provided by Sharon Gamache, NFPA executive director of At-Risk Outreach.

Costume Parade, Children's Safety Day 13th Annual Quincy Center Harvest Festival Saturday

The Quincy Center Business and Professional Association will sponsor its 13th annual Harvest Family Festival Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Hancock St. from Granite St. to Revere Rd. will be closed to vehicular traffic for the event, which will feature a Halloween costume parade for children.

The festival is being held in co-operation with the Quincy Police and Fire Departments as they showcase their Children's Safety Day. Rain date is Saturday, Oct. 25.

During the day-long event, Hancock Street in Quincy Center will become a fall bazaar and playground.

The costume parade, which has become a traditional favorite, will commence at 1:30 p.m. with the parade formation. The parade passes for reviewing and judging at 2 p.m.

Each year, Quincy Center merchants invite all youngsters in kindergarten through grade 5 to participate in the costume competition. The judging panel, composed of members of the business and artistic communities, will award prize trophies in several categories, in groupings for under age 6 and 6 years and older.

The festival will also feature music, special surprises for youngsters dressed in their Halloween attire, and festive clowns.

Merchandise will be available from local businesses, as well as an assortment of food from vendors and Quincy Center restaurants.

This year's festival will also focus on children's safety issues.

Robert Hanna, Quincy Police Crime Prevention Officer, has organized a full-scale presentation complete with clowns, exciting activities and free kiddie rides.

In addition, the Police Department will offer children an opportunity to be finger-printed and several K-9 demonstrations will be given.

Police activities will complement Halloween safety literature from the Quincy Fire Department. Equipment from both departments will be on display.

Visitors may park free for the day in the Hancock Parking Lot across from the Quincy District Courthouse, and in the Ross Garage adjacent to Hancock St. on the Parking Way.

For more information, call the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association Office at 617-471-3232.

250 Attend 8th Annual Event It Was An 'A To Z' Senior Conference With Arts To Zoology Workshops

By JOHN NOONAN

The recent 8th Annual Quincy Senior Conference was an "A to Z" hit with audience pleasing arts to zoology workshops at Broad Meadows Middle School.

The special day for the 250 seniors attending began with a sit-down continental breakfast with a dixieland jazz combo playing nostalgic melodies of "the good old days" as an added treat.

The Seniors were greeted by a group of Broad Meadows students known as the "Workerbees." Under the direction of teacher Donna Willoughby, who served as greeters, guides, and service providers.

Following registration and breakfast, the seniors assembled in the auditorium where they were greeted and welcomed by Tom Clasby, director of the Department of Elder Services and co-chairman of the conference planning committee. Clasby introduced City and State Officials attending.

Mayor William Phelan commended Clasby, School Committeewoman Linda Stice, co-chairperson of the conference planning committee, past and present school officials, and the Beechwood Knoll and Broad Meadows schools for supporting the conference which began in September, 1996.

The conference is designed to show what services are available and to familiarize seniors with them.

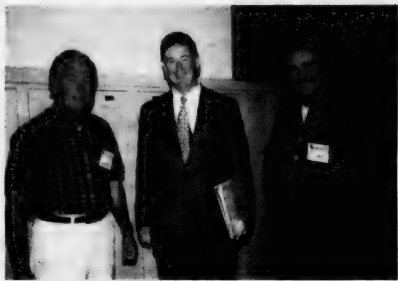

School Supt. Dr. Richard DeCristofaro said the conference is unique and that the school department will continue to foster the intergenerational relationships between students and elderly.

Keynote speaker Walt Sanders noted he was familiar with Quincy as a television reporter at WBZ-TV. During his 27 years as a newsman, he said he has covered many of the issues the elderly are faced with everyday.

Now volunteer President of the AARP in Massachusetts, he is responsible for communicating the association's services and programs to the elderly in the state.

Sanders pointed out the elderly population is the fastest growing of the age groups because the elderly are now living longer. He said some individuals are postponing retirement because of the high costs of living and the economy.

He said the elderly are also the most vulnerable and subject to all types of scams and rip-offs. He listed affordable housing, health care, and escalating costs of prescription drugs as priority issues of the AARP on both the national and state levels.

The conference was dedicated to the late Don Strong, a founder and executive director of the Quincy Council on Aging and former commissioner of the Massachusetts Department of Elder Affairs.

An ordained minister, he was co-founder of the Beechwood Community Life Center and served as chairman of the board. He also founded the Quincy Senior Olympics, which have become a model for the state.

In his dedicated service, he enhanced the quality of life of seniors in Quincy and the South Shore area.

Each year, the conference planning committee asks the attendees to evaluate the conference and suggest topics which may be of interest for future conferences.

This year's Senior Living theme "Senior Living: New Experiences And Old Traditions" was reflected in the 16 varied workshops.

A number of the workshops:

Quincy artist Marilyn Reisberg presided at the "An Arts Affair Paint-Along" and demonstrated basic steps of painting a floral watercolor. Seniors did just that.

Keith Buckley, local Tai Chi instructor, showed how to keep fit with "Tai Chi/Chi Gong" with a bit of Yoga as the latest exercise.

South Shore Elder Services nutritionist Jayne Davis presented "Five A Day The Local Way," a cooking feature on how to prepare simple menus with fruits and vegetables.

Nancy McDonald, community activist, Stephanie Egel, director of volunteers at Quincy Medical Center, and Sharon Beals, executive director of Beechwood Community Life Center, explained the joys derived through volunteerism at "A Star In The Sunset Of Life" workshop. Seniors who volunteer add another dimension to their living lifestyle, they said.

"Adventure With Elder Hostel" with Dorry Minsky, a longtime Elder Hostel traveler, gave inside tips on local, national and international travel for oldsters.

Dr. Daniel Karp, Quincy acupuncturist, presented "Acupuncture: Folklore Or Medicine?" He dispelled myths about this ancient Chinese custom which is now popular in the U.S.

Two South Shore veterinarians, Bruce Walker (DVM) and Stefanie Schwartz (DVM), discussed "Pets For The Older Citizen," including common health problems with pets and benefits of having a pet. Having a geriatric pet is like having a relative at home for seniors.

Two workshops relating to Quincy history were encores. Edward Fitzgerald, executive director of the Quincy Historical Society, detailed "Quincy's History: Facts, Fables, And Memories." Back for a second time was Quincy's Tom Galvin with his popular "Photos From The Past." His collection is featured weekly in The Quincy Sun's Scenes From Yesterday.

Quincy's environmentalist P.J. Foley in his "Marsh Madness" extolled the virtues of restoring acres of land outside Broad Meadows Middle School from marshes to a lush environment that will serve as a fish breeding habitat, allow for canoeing and reduce pesky mosquitoes.

Quincy Atty. James Timmins and Vin Moscardelli of Central Real Estate in Quincy were hosts for "Real Estate Guide For Seniors." They provided seniors with information on Hank Cheney Golf Classic Raises $70,000 For WORK, Inc.

WORK Inc. recently held its annual Hank Cheney Golf Classic at the Spring Valley Country Club to benefit WORK, Inc., of Quincy.

This year, more than 100 golfers competed in teams of four, raising over $70,000.

The annual event was sponsored by Princeton Properties and Arbella Insurance.

The tournament benefited WORK, Inc., the Quincy-based nonprofit that provides vocational rehabilitation services, housing, transportation and employment opportunities for individuals with disabilities.

"WORK Inc. helps individuals with disabilities fulfill their potential," said Jim Cassetta, president and CEO of WORK Inc. "It is our mission to make sure individuals with disabilities have a chance to work and contribute to society. The money we raise through the Hank Cheney Golf Classic helps make that mission possible."

The Hank Cheney Golf Classic is named in honor of WORK Inc.'s late president, Hank Cheney, who devoted his career to the training and employment of individuals with disabilities. The Massachusetts unemployment is at a 9-year high, but for individuals with disabilities, the unemployment rate is at a staggering 70 percent. This tournament provides much needed funds to WORK Inc. programs that help alleviate this problem.

The Jaguar of Hanover team - Paul Barry, Dr. Robert Olson, Tom Randeale and Bob Martin - won first place. Golfers competed in other categories as well, such as "the longest drive" won by Bryan McKenzie from Adams Media Corporation and "closest to the pin" won by Dan Bonoli from Starboard Mechanical.

WORK Inc. serves over 700 people with disabilities, including individuals with mental retardation, chronic mental illness, and those with multiple disabilities. People who are deaf also turn to the organization for employment assistance.

WORK Inc. provides job skills training and job placement assistance and is also the largest direct employer of people with disabilities in New England, providing both a paycheck and practical work experience. For more information about WORK Inc., visit www.workinc.org.

Coughlin Endorsed By Government Employees Union

Ward 3 Councillor Kevin Coughlin has been endorsed for re-election by the National Association of Government Employees (NAGE), whose national offices are located on Burgin Parkway, Quincy.

NAGE, which represents municipal, state and federal workers, is an affiliate of Service Employees International Union (SEIU), one of the largest organizations in the country representing working families.

"As the son and grandson of men who over the last century were workers in fighting to create health care, education and retirement benefits for their coworkers, I am greatly honored to receive the endorsement of my fellow union brothers and sisters concerned with these issues," Coughlin said.

"As a city councillor and chairman of the Finance Committee who has actively sought to preserve city services amidst bleak fiscal times, I am also proud to be endorsed by an organization that has advanced the fight on Capital Hill for increased funding to states and municipalities like Quincy."

Randolph Hebrew Center Dedicated To Simon Fireman

The Hebrew Rehabilitation Center for Aged recently dedicated its senior housing facility in Randolph in honor of Quincy businessman Simon C. Fireman.

The Simon C. Fireman Community, a 160-unit specialized housing complex for active seniors 62 and older, was renamed following a seven-figure gift from Fireman's charitable foundation.

It was formerly the Louis and Goldie Trilling House.

"It is most appropriate that we name this active, vibrant and important senior housing site the Simon C. Fireman Community," said Len Fishman, the president and CEO of Hebrew Rehabilitation Center.

"Mr. Fireman cares about seniors, believes in the concept of community, and has made a personal commitment to share his good fortune with others."

Fireman, who lives in Quincy and Palm Beach, Fla., is founder, chairman and CEO of Aqua Leisure Industries, an Avon-based manufacturer of recreational products and the largest maker of swimming and diving masks in the world.

Fundraiser Oct. 24 For Debbie Buonopane

Friends of Debbie Buonopane, who is recovering from a battle with breast cancer, will hold a fundraiser Friday, Oct. 24, from 7 to 11 p.m. at the Quincy Yacht Club in Houghs Neck.

Debbie, a registered nurse and a single mother of two, underwent a double mastectomy and months of painful chemotherapy and is home now facing a long road to recovery.

Her employer was unable to hold her job open, leaving Debbie and her children — Kristina, 10, a student at Atherton Hough School, and Nicholas, 18 months — financially strapped.

Debbie's friends plan a fun-filled night Oct. 24 with a buffet dinner, music, a raffle and an auction. Admission is $30.

They still need volunteers to cook, man to buffet table and help out the night of the benefit. They also need things for sale at the auction table.

Contributions to the Debbie Buonopane Breast Cancer Fund should be sent in care of Theresa Repoff, Century 21 Annex, 49 Beale St., Quincy, MA 02170.

Morrissey, State Senate Fight Curse Of 'Spam'

Sen. Michael Morrissey and his fellow state senators has struck a blow for those whose e-mail in-box is cluttered up with "spam."

The Senate passed and sent on to the House legislation that would prohibit the transmission of commercial electronic mail messages unless the letters "ADV" appear in the first four characters.

MICHAEL MORRISSEY

"I voted for our anti-spam bill to provide consumers with an additional tool to prevent unwanted and annoying e-mail messages," said Morrissey.

The anti-spam bill also:

- Prohibits persons from transmitting unsolicited commercial electronic mail messages which should not be viewed by children unless "ADV-ADLT" appears as the first eight characters of the messages.

- Prohibits persons from sending unsolicited commercial e-mails from a computer in Massachusetts unless the sender informs the recipient how to notify him that he does not want any more.

"Spam" is a costly and growing problem," said Morrissey.

"The sending of any e-mail uses resources, it takes up space in the memory of recipients and Internet Service Providers (ISP's) computers and slows the channels of communication.

Family Fun Day At Boyson Park

The Adams Shore Area Playground will host a family fun day Saturday, Oct. 18, from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the rededication of Arthur Boyson Park.

There will be a moon bounce, hay rides, face painting, a cookout and raffles.

Fun-seekers will be able to view the brand new playground equipment installed at Boyson Park.

Correction

It was incorrectly reported in last week's Quincy Sun that liquor stores would be closed on Monday, Columbus Day.

The Sun regrets the error and hopes it did not inconvenience the stores or their customers.

"People who advertise with 'spam' have the capacity to easily transmit thousands of such messages daily, with almost no cost to the advertiser beyond the normal cost of Internet service..

"The cost of 'spam' advertising is shifted to the ISP's and the recipient of the e-mail."

Historic Quincy Artwork Home At Quincy College

*Paintings By Artist

By Attorney George Burke*

Quincy College recently welcomed Quincy Attorney George Burke to campus for a dedication ceremony for three large pieces of historic artwork that Burke donated to the College this past summer.

The pieces, which measured up to 18 feet long depict Quincy's historic sites and colonial events. The three paintings by artist Frank McWade were commissioned in 1976 to celebrate the Bicentennial. One painting is entitled "John and Abigail Adams Entertain at Les Verrieres at Auteuil." The others depict the birthplace of John Adams and a John Adams meeting.

Attending the dedication ceremony with Burke and President Barry were members of the college faculty, staff and Board of Governors including Terri Lord-Piatelli, Dan Raymondi, John Farmer, Joseph Nicastro, Peter O'Neill and Joanne Condon Walsh.

The series of paintings being dedicated were originally displayed at the establishment most currently occupied by the Golden Bowl restaurant. After years of neglect, the paintings resurfaced during the arrangements to vacate the space once the Golden Bowl was sold. Ultimately, the paintings went up for auction.

"When I learned the paintings were being auctioned off, I knew I had to have them so they wouldn't leave the city where they belonged," Burke said. "After talking to the Board of Governors and President Barry, I knew finding them a home at Quincy College was meant to be."

Barry said he was confident the college would find the perfect space for the artwork.

"We have them displayed in one of our more formal conference rooms in Saville Hall where many of the College's public meetings are held," he said, noting the paintings were meticulously cleaned and mounted with custom frames.

During the dedication ceremony, Quincy College board member and City Council President Dan Raymondi addressed the group with words of thanks to Burke for his contribution.

Burke, who also served as City Council president, added that he felt comforted that these works, with their intrinsic value to the city, would be permanently housed in one of Quincy's own public institutions.

Students from the College have already begun to enjoy the exhibit of art.

Keegan Seeks Ward 1 Debate With Kelly

Joseph Keegan, a candidate for the City Council from Ward 1, has challenged his opponent, Leo Kelly, to join him in a series of debates and candidate forums prior to the Nov. 4 municipal election.

"The voters of Ward 1 deserve the opportunity to see and hear both candidates discussing the issues," he said.

Keegan said he has accepted an invitation to debate offered by a local cable television company but he has been informed that the debate will take place only if both candidates agree to appear.

Keegan said that during his door-to-door campaign, voters have asked him about debates and he has told them he would like to see debates too so that voters can see the candidates and hear their messages.

The Committee to Elect Ron Iacobucci to the Quincy School Committee will hold a fundraiser Wednesday, Oct. 22, from 7 to 9 p.m. at Torre Dei Passeri Club, 252 Washington St., Quincy Point.

There will be refreshments and a cash bar. Suggested contribution is $20.

Coughlin Proposes Local Environmental Fund

Ward 3 City Councillor Kevin Coughlin has proposed the creation of a city environmental trust fund as a receptacle for voluntary contributions or mitigation funds.

Coughlin envisioned a dedicated fund similar to the Quincy Public Schools Education Fund in which residents check off and make additional payments to their property taxes for the school system.

The education fund, which Coughlin co-sponsored and has collected more than $16,000, has statutory authorization or contributions on tax bills and similar legislation would be required for the environmental fund.

Coughlin said he has no illusions that such a fund would address a gap in resources with respect to preserving open space and other environmental issues.

"But I do believe that it is an opportunity for everyone concerned about this issue to make a commitment and feel good about it while providing a source of supplemental funds to the Natural Resources Investment Initiative which itself is a very positive step forward," he said.

"With indications from the Romney administration that the state's commitment to the funding for open space acquisition will be significantly retarded, it is becoming clear that the burden will become fundamentally a local responsibility."

The 2002 session of the Legislature authorized a three-year $707 million environmental bond bill of which approximately $220 million a set aside to purchase land outright or secure use restrictions.

Coughlin said $73 million was spent in the first year but that was cut in half ($36 million) in the second year that included the first six months of the new administration.

"Recent indications are that this amount will be further reduced this year," he said.

Coughlin, who as chairman of the Finance and Park and Recreation Committee, played a key role in steering the Natural Resources Investment Initiative out of potential gridlock last May, has also endorsed the creation of an environmental sub-committee on the City Council.

"The ever increasing importance and complexity of environmental issues clearly speaks to the creation of such a committee," he said.

Central Labor Council Endorses Gardner In Ward 6

The Norfolk Central Labor Council, an umbrella organization covering AFL-CIO affiliated unions in the county, has endorsed Alicia Gardner for Ward 6 city councillor.

"I am honored to have the support of the Norfolk Central Labor Council," said Gardner.

"Like the Massachusetts AFL-CIO, the Norfolk Central Labor Council is dedicated to improving the standard of living and the quality of life for all working families.

"These are the same goals that I will strive for as a Quincy city councillor for Ward 6. As a council candidate, I want to do all that I can at the local level to protect workers and their families."

Gardner has also been endorsed by the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers Local 2222, the National Association of Government Employees and the Communications Workers of America Local 1301.

Cain Receives Local 264 Endorsement

Ward 3 City Councillor candidate John Cain has been endorsed by the A.F.L.-C.I.O., International Association of Machinist and Aerospace Workers, Local Lodge 264.

Cain said he received a letter from Richard Nevins, recording secretary, stating: "The officers and members feel that you are the best qualified candidate in the race to represent the views and issues concerning the working families of our union and the city of Quincy."

Cain said, "I am encouraged by the strong support and confidence the union membership has in my commitment to represent the rights and wrongs of working men and women, living in Ward 3, in Quincy and in Massachusetts."

Honesty. Integrity. Experience.

Frank McCauley.

"...the city councillor many residents view as the honest broker among competing factions in the city." - The Patriot Ledger

Over the course of his 30 years of public service, Frank McCauley has built a reputation for honesty and integrity.

As a ward councillor, councillor-at-large, school committee member and for eight years as Quincy's mayor, Frank McCauley has dedicated his life to standing up and speaking out for the citizens of Quincy - not for the special interest groups or the powers that be, but for YOU.

As councillor-at-large, Frank McCauley spoke out against the ill-fated Quincy Avenue land deal. He was the first city councillor to publicly support the current plan to build a new Quincy High School. And as the city council's recognized "fiscal watchdog," he plays a key role in keeping Quincy an affordable place to live, work and raise a family.

Now more than ever, we need Frank McCauley's honesty, integrity and experience working for us.

On Tuesday, November 4, re-elect Frank McCauley your Councillor-at-Large.

Honesty. Integrity. Experience. McCauley.

A Bridge Between Asian, Mainstream Communities

QARI Making Significant Progress

By KAO T. LI
Almost a year ago Quincy Asian Resources, Inc. (QARI) established an office in Quincy Center. Founded with start-up funding from the United Way of Massachusetts Bay and the Harold Brooks Foundation, QARI has made significant progress towards achieving its mission.

In the first of a series of bilingual (English/Chinese) articles, QARI will highlight elements of its mission which is to promote and foster the development of the social, cultural, economic and civic life of Asian Americans to benefit the entire community. QARI has two main objectives: To enhance the quality of life for Asian Americans and to serve as a bridge between the Asian and mainstream communities.

QARI is a community-based agency that collaborates with other organizations to accomplish its objectives. QARI is a membership organization with individual and institutional members (other not-for-profit organizations). QARI's role is to help provide technical assistance that improve the ability of its members to better serve the local Asian community. QARI enhances its partnership agencies through outreach and facilitate their cultural/linguistic competence in providing services to the Quincy Asian community.

For example, the Cultural Competence Needs Assessment Project is a QARI collaborative project with Quincy Medical Center (QMC) and Manet Community Health Center. Funded by a grant from the Blue Cross Blue Shield Foundation of Massachusetts, QARI, along with consultant Dr. Herbert Z. Wong, will be conducting a needs assessment of QMC's services and programs in servicing the local Asian community. The goal is to recommend future programs and resources that will enhance QMC's ability to increase access to services for Asian patients and the local Asian community that it serves.

The vision for QARI grew out of the Quincy Asian Collaborative made up of approximately 100 community leaders who recognized the need for an organization that can bring the community together and provide the leadership to serve the rapidly growing Asian population in Quincy. According to the U.S. Census, the Asian population in Quincy grew by 144 percent in the last decade.

The Quincy Asian Collaborative evolved into a steering committee which nominated the board of directors and incorporated as a private not-for-profit organization. QARI's board is unique in its diversity and depth in life experience. The passion and dedication of the board is illustrated by the fact that it worked intensively together for almost four years before the executive director was hired.

The board members include:

Tackey Chan, J.D., president; Kenneth An, J.D., vice president; Sheri Adlin, treasurer; Mary Sweeney, secretary; Nasreen Shibli, MSW, assistant secretary; Jim Chen, Richard Hung, Ph.D., Peter Jae, Esther Lee, Gene Lee, Paul Shaw, LICSW, Beth Ann Strollo, Venson Tang, David Yi Zhou.

QARI is a newly formed community-based program. This is indeed the best of times and worst of times for such a start-up. From a community network and needs perspective, this is the best of times for QARI to be in Quincy. From a funding perspective, one could not have chosen a more difficult climate to launch a new not-for-profit agency in a downturn economy.

QARI is confident that it will thrive even in difficult economic times. QARI is forging creative partnerships (Cont'd On Page 26)

昆市亞裔協調會 要讓昆市明天會更好

作者：昆市亞裔協調會執行總裁 李可太

中文翻譯：波士頓新聞

昆市亞裔協調會(亞協會)由United Way和Harold Brooks基金會組織成立，設在昆市市中心，成立宗旨：「為新移民、成功適應新環境」。

亞協會在Quincy Sun 報發表的中文報導系列的文章，為大眾提供有關亞協會的資訊。

亞協會成立的目的，在於促進社會、文化、經濟和民權等領域的亞裔改善生活，進而嘉惠整個社區。其首要任務為：一、提升亞裔的生活水平；二、為亞裔搭建廣大的社會服務橋樑。

亞協會是與多個其他組織群策群力，相輔相成的社區機構，也是個會員制的組織，成員包括個人和其他非牟利組織。對於會員們，亞協會扮演的角色為提供技術性的協助，以提升他們服務亞裔社區的能力和品質。對於社區的各個單位，亞協會則幫助他們克服語言和文化上的溝通問題，讓他們更了解亞裔，從而獲得更多服務。亞協會也提供機會。

舉例而言，亞協會日前與昆市醫療中心及滿地醫院中心共同推展一個「文化適應評估專案」。專案由滿地醫院中心基金會贊助，在本會顧問 Herbert Wong 的主導下，針對本地亞裔的需求深入評估。研究所得的結果將提供給昆市醫療中心，作為他們日後服務亞裔病人，及對亞裔社區進行服務的參考和依據。

亞協會的前身是由昆市亞裔社區領袖組成的「昆市亞裔合作社」(Quincy Asian Collaborative)。他們一致認為，成立一個能整合兩國的力量及資源，以服務迅速成長的亞裔人口，的組織，是有必要的。據全美普查結果，過去十年間，昆市亞裔成長了144%。

在過去幾年，昆市亞裔合作社主席選出董事會，並正式成為非牟利事業的登記。董事會的成員不僅多元化，而且由多個團體組成。在未來幾個月以前，這些董事們將開始進行合併工作。由這點即可看出他們熱心及不遺餘力。

董事會的名單如下：

- 陳德基 董事長
- 姜豐貴 副董事長
- Sheri Adlin 財務長
- Mary Sweeney 董事會秘書
- Nasreen Shibli 助理秘書
- Jim Chen 董事
- Richard Hung 董事
- 譚彼得 董事
- 李國慶 董事
- Gene Lee 董事
- Paul Shaw 董事
- Beth Ann Strollo 董事
- Venson Tang 董事
- 鄭美 董事

亞協會成立的時機，可以說很好也可以說很壞，好的原因是正好配合了亞裔的需要，壞的原因是經濟不佳募款不易。不過亞協會有信心會逆勢成長，透過合作和分享，已經一點一滴在搭建亞裔和主流社會的橋樑，這顆雙語的專欄就是建立雙向溝通的一個嘗試。

最近亞協會得到 United Way 和亞美聯合基金的補助，發行一本中英對照的服務手冊，這本手冊列示昆市各行各業，提供新移民一份基本資料，和到哪裏尋求協助。

今年暑假，亞協會和昆市歷史協會和紐英倫中國歷史協會合作，舉辦了多場「從紐英倫到昆市華人歷史攝影展」；本地最大的亞裔金門商場開幕時還一併展出。這項展覽強調了華人對美國的貢獻，新移民、亞裔美人甚至亞裔以外的人看了，都是一項很有意義的啟示。

在文化介紹方面，亞協會今年舉辦了農曆新年和中秋聯歡會，成果輝煌。亞協會舉辦這些活動的目的，是搭建一個東、西文化交流的平台，展覽文化的櫥窗，結合才藝表演者和義工共聚一堂發揮團隊精神的好機會。

亞協會另外一個重要的策略就是招募義工和輔導學生加入社區服務的行列。截至目前為止，亞協會都能順利地從波士頓大學和麻州大學找到優秀的學生來實習。新年和中秋聯歡會還有北昆市高中裏的傑佛遜論壇和亞洲文化俱樂部的同學來幫忙。亞協會有計劃在年輕的學子中培育明日亞裔的領袖。

亞協會還有很多計劃，但是限於篇幅不能詳細說明，我身為執行總裁，很高興以後可以利用 Quincy Sun 的專欄，告訴大家亞協會在做些什麼事，談論什麼議題 (issues)，讓亞裔的同胞和主流社會有良好的溝通，使得昆市明天會更好。

Asian Health Services At QMC Offer Culturally-Sensitive Health Care

Asian Health Services at Quincy Medical Center (QMC) offers full-service, culturally-sensitive health care in Quincy.

QMC's Asian Health Services offers patients:

- Chinese primary care physicians to provide care for patients and their families.
- QMC's clinical affiliation with Boston Medical Center (BMC) means nationally-recognized BMC surgeons perform surgery at QMC.

• A full-time program coordinator who is committed to meeting the personal and cultural needs of Asian patients. Allen So, QMC coordinator for medical interpretation and outreach services, served as senior medical interpreter at New England Medical Center for more than 12 years before joining QMC. He is fluent in Chinese, Mandarin and Toisanese.

• A 24-hour, multi-language interpretation service, through OnLine Interpreters, Inc. The company offers full-service language interpretation and translation in 150 different languages and is available 24 hours per day, seven days a week. In addition to over-the-phone interpretation, the service offers e-mail, short message translations and visual translation.

• Access to QMC's comprehensive diagnostic imaging services, including: bone density testing, CT scanning, mammography, MRI scanning, PET scanning and ultrasonography.

• Knowledgeable staff assists in access to health insurance.

QMC is located at 114 Whitwell St. in Quincy — less than one mile from the intersection of Hancock Street and Granite Street in Quincy Center. Free shuttle service is available from the Quincy Center MBTA Station and free parking is available at the medical center.

For more information about QMC Asian Health Services, call 617-376-4013.

QMC is a 232-bed acute care community-teaching hospital providing South Shore residents with comprehensive medical and surgical services. The medical center's Alliance for Quality with BMC, formed in 1999, brings academic medicine to the community.

At QMC, physicians from BMC direct the departments of medicine, surgery, anesthesia, emergency medicine and psychiatry.

Additionally, physicians from BMC who are board-certified in a range of medical and surgical specialties work side-by-side with community physicians to ensure the continuity of patient care.

昆士醫療中心的亞裔健康服務團隊向本社區提供適應文化需求的醫療保健服務

昆士醫療中心 (QMC) 的亞裔健康服務團隊在昆士地區提供全套適應文化需求的醫療保健服務。

昆士醫療中心 (QMC) 的亞裔健康服務團隊為患者提供:

• 講漢語的主治醫生為患者及其家人提供服務。

• 昆士醫療中心與波士頓醫療中心 (BMC) 結盟設立臨床部門, 使全國知名的 BMC 外科醫生能夠在昆士醫療中心進行外科手術。

• 全職計劃主任將竭力滿足亞裔患者的個人需求與文化需求。昆士醫療中心的亞裔服務主任蘇國偉先生負責醫療口譯與外聯服務。他在加盟昆士醫療中心之前, 曾在英格蘭醫療中心擔任資深醫療口譯員十二年之久。他的中文、普通話和臺山話都很流利。

• 通過線上口譯公司 (OnLine Interpreters, Inc.) 提供二十四小時多語種口譯服務。該公司提供150種不同語言的口譯與翻譯的全套服務, 並且全天二十四小時、每週七天隨時恭候。除了電話口譯之外, 公司還提供電子郵件、短信以及視像翻譯。

• 接受昆士醫療中心的綜合診斷成像服務, 其中包括:
• 骨密度測試
• CT (電腦斷層) 掃描
• 乳腺X光檢查
• MRI (磁共振) 掃描
• PET (正電子發射斷層) 掃描
• 超聲檢查

• 知識豐富的工作人員協助處理健康保險事務。

昆士醫療中心位於昆士市惠特維爾大街114號——距昆士中心的漢考克大街和格拉尼特大街交叉路口不到一英里。在昆士中心的MBTA車站可獲得免費的巴士接送服務, 並且可在醫療中心免費泊車。有關昆士醫療中心的亞裔健康服務團隊的詳情, 請致電: 617-376-4013。

翁玉燕內科醫生是昆士醫療中心亞裔健康服務團隊的成員。她對滿足亞裔社區健康需要的承諾, 已經使她成為在今日亞裔人口迅速增長的南岸地區改善醫療護理的推動力。

當您選擇昆士醫療中心時, 您和您的家人可以接觸到我們的優秀醫生和整個亞裔健康服務團隊。

因為我們擁有質量保證聯盟伙伴一波士頓醫療中心, 使我們能夠幫助您的家人在經濟付擔能力範圍之內, 得到意想不到的良好照料。

亞裔社區正在昆士蓬勃發展。令人欣慰的是昆士醫療中心正在為滿足亞裔社區的健康需要而努力工作。

您希望有一間醫院能夠了解您, 並尊重您的文化和背景。

請立即致電亞裔服務主任蘇國偉 617-376-4013 或瀏覽網址: www.quincymc.org。因為真正了解病人的需要而提供良好的照料, 這不只是一個好消息, 而且確實出類拔萃。

Deadline Nov. 1 To Apply To US Service Academies

The deadline for area students who want to apply for nominations to US Service Academies for the 2004-2004 school year is Nov. 1, according to Rep. William Delahunt's office.

After Nov. 1, a panel of eight local residents will get to work immediately to evaluate and interview nomination candidates. No applications can be accepted late.

The nominations apply to students interested in the US Military Academy, Naval Academy, Air Force Academy and Merchant Marine Academy. To be eligible, a candidate must be a resident of the Tenth Congressional District and a high school graduate by June 2004.

Students may log on to www.house.gov/delahunt/svcacad.htm to begin the application process. The website contains internet links to each Academy's homepage.

For more information call Congressman Delahunt's office at 800-795-9911.

SWAP-IT Sale Oct 17-19 At Milton Academy

Milton Academy will hold its 53rd annual SWAP-IT sale Friday, Oct. 17, Sat. Oct. 18 and Sunday, Oct. 19.

Located at the school's Athletic Center off Centre St., in Milton, the sale will feature household items, furniture and books, as well as sporting goods.

Hours are Friday from 6:30 to 9 p.m., Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sunday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The swap-it fundraiser, which encourages the recycling of clothes and other useful goods, is a fundraiser for the school's kindergarten through grade 6 classrooms.

Visitors do not need to bring anything to trade; the event is more like a rummage sale. The sale shuts down temporarily from 1 to 2 p.m. on Saturday and from noon to 1 p.m. on Sunday so volunteers can put things back in order for the next round of bargain shoppers.

For more information call 617-696-4620.

KINDERGARTENER NOAH SLOTNICK and fifth-grader Jane Ghublikian help spread the word about the 53rd annual SWAP-IT, a weekend-long rummage sale sponsored by Milton Academy. The sale begins on Oct 17 at 6:30 p.m. in the school's Athletic Center, off Centre St. in Milton.

Council Vote To Fly South Vietnam Flag Draws Criticism

land because they were convinced communism was evil. Flying this flag is a celebration for those who embraced democracy."

Ward 6 Councillor Joseph Newton said he has received a "handful" of calls from residents about the issue.

"I've received a handful of calls from constituents and they want to know more details about the resolution," said Newton, who is running for mayor. "They wanted to know whether this would be a permanent fixture or just for the one day. They expressed concern about having another flag flying at City Hall."

Councillor Frank McCauley voted in favor of the resolution, although he did express reservations beforehand.

At one point during last week's meeting, McCauley told those in attendance, "If you are going to be a citizen you have a new flag, the stars and stripes."

McCauley also questioned whether flying the South Vietnam flag would serve as a slight against other Quincy communities.

But Ward 3 Councillor Kevin Coughlin disagreed, saying: "Recognizing one community does not diminish another community."

Coughlin said he has received a small number of phone calls from constituents registering their opposition to the resolution.

Bradley also said he was disappointed because veterans groups were not informed of the issue prior to the council meeting. "The first we heard about it was in the newspapers," he said. "If we knew about this ahead of time we would have been present at the meeting to express our opposition."

with the public, private and not-for-profit sectors. It is building bridges between the Asian American and mainstream communities. This bilingual article is part of our strategy to establish a network of channels of communication.

Recently, QARI published a free bilingual Chinese-English Services Directory with funding from the United Way of Massachusetts Bay and the Asian American Unity Fund. This directory will help Chinese speaking immigrants to navigate the system in seeking services in Quincy. The directory forms the basis for the information and referral capability that QARI is in the process of developing.

This summer QARI collaborated with the Quincy Historical Society and Chinese Historical Society of New England to bring a photography exhibit on the Chinese in New England to Quincy. The same exhibit was also displayed in the Kam Man Center. The exhibit provided important historical perspectives on the history of the Chinese in America, a subject that could be appreciated by recent immigrants, Asian Americans, and those outside the Asian American community.

On the cultural front QARI coordinates the Lunar New Year and August Moon Festivals in Quincy. Both events were extremely successful this year. QARI's goal is to use these events as platforms for community outreach, showcase local talent and develop volunteerism and team work.

Working with volunteers and mentoring students are part of QARI's leadership development strategy. QARI has been able to attract quality interns from Boston University and University of Massachusetts who have an interest in community service. QARI appreciates the student volunteers from North Quincy High School's Thomas Jefferson Forum and Asian Culture Club who helped with the Lunar New Year and August Moon Festivals. QARI plans to organize leadership development conferences to cultivate the next generation of Asian American leaders in Quincy.

QARI is involved in many other projects which are beyond the scope of this article. As Executive Director, it is my hope to use this occasional column in The Quincy Sun to communicate QARI's progress and to address issues that will enable the Asian and mainstream communities to grow together and make Quincy a better place to live.

Chinatown Disaster Relief Fund At Asian American Bank Quincy Branch

Donations are being accepted at the Asian American Bank Quincy point branch at 219 Quincy Ave. for a disaster relief fund established to help Boston's Chinatown residents affected by a recent flood.

Asian American Bank set up the Hudson Street-Tyler Street-Harvard Street Disaster Relief Fund account to accept cash or check donations from the public.

Donations are being accepted at Asian American Bank's Quincy Point branch in Presidents Plaza, as well as the bank's other two branches: 68 Harrison Ave., Boston, MA 02111; and 230 Harvard Ave., Allston, MA 02134.

The fund was established to assist Chinatown residents who were affected by serious flooding the morning of Sept. 17 after a 30-inch water main broke. Some residents who lived in basement apartments are now out of their homes.

Some businesses were also affected by the flood as they kept their inventories and equipment in their basement.

Asian American Bank has contributed $1,000 to this relief fund and has initiated a fund drive amongst the bank staff. Each employee's contribution will be matched dollar-for-dollar by the bank.

For more information, contact Rosemary Lam or Winnie Leung of Chinatown Main Street at 617-350-6303, or Henry Li, vice president of sales and marketing for Asian American Bank, at 617-695-2800.

CAMPAIGN TRAIL

Cain Proposes City Council Create Committee On The Environment

John Cain, candidate for Ward 3 city councilor, proposes the city council create a committee focused on Quincy environmental issues, concerns and actions.

Cain said he believes the city council should form a partnership of government and non-government enforcement and compliance practitioners. The objective should contribute to a healthy and clean environment, sustainable use of and enforcement of environmental laws.

Cain said he also believes the committee should raise awareness to compliance and enforcement, develop a network for enforcement cooperation, strengthen city council capacity to implement and enforce environmental requirements.

Cain said one of the primary goals of an environmental enforcement program is to change the human behavior so that environmental requirements are complied with. Achieving this goal involves motivating the regulated community to comply, removing barriers that prevent compliance and overcoming existing factors that encourage noncompliance.

Cain said he also believes that environmental requirements generally cover so many different organizations and individuals that it is usually impossible to identify and respond to all violations or to promote compliance among all members of the regulated community.

"By establishing priorities for detecting and responding to violations and for promoting compliance, enforcement programs can operate as effectively as possible with given resources," Cain said.

Keegan Fundraiser Set For Tonight

The Committee to Elect Joe Keegan to the City Council from Ward 1 will hold a fundraiser tonight (Thursday) at 7 p.m. at One Adams Place.

There will be light refreshments. Suggested donation is $15, $50 or $100.

Keegan said the main issues in the campaign are "public safety, education, senior services and core city services such as street and sidewalk repair."

"Having been a police officer for the past 10 years and having recently graduated from the New England School of Law, I will bring a unique perspective to the Council," said Keegan.

"I have been fortunate not only to live in the ward but also to be able to work in the ward, thereby enabling me to learn many of the problems that affect us and come up with some solutions to the problems.

"I will bring an innovative way of thinking with me to the Council, if elected."

'Guys And Dolls' Musical Set For Eastern Nazarene

The Communication Arts Department at Eastern Nazarene College will present nine performances of the award-winning musical "Guys and Dolls" in October at the college, 23 East Elm Ave., Wollaston.

The performance dates and times are Thursday and Friday, Oct. 16 and 17, at 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.; Saturday, Oct. 19, at 6 p.m.; Thursday, Oct. 23, at 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.; and Friday and Saturday, Oct. 24 and 25, at 7:30 p.m.

Tickets are $12 and can be ordered by calling the box office at 617-745-3715, or by sending a check to Eastern Nazarene College, Department of Communication Arts, 23 East Elm Ave., Quincy MA 02170

"Guy and Dolls," based on the stories by Damon Runyon, features the unlikely romance between the high roller, Sky Masterson, and "Save-A-Soul Sgt. Sarah Brown, and the gambler, Nathan Detroit, and his fiancée of 14 years, Adelaide.

The Broadway musical won eight Tony Awards, the movie won three Academy Award nominations.

Boston Irish Return To Perform Oct. 19

The Boston Irish Return will present an evening of traditional Irish music and dance Sunday, Oct. 19, from 6 to 11 p.m. at Florian Hall in Dorchester.

Tickets at $10 can be purchased in advance by calling 617-479-1178 or at the door on Oct. 19.

The show is written and produced by Aidan Maher of Quincy, who came to the states from Dublin 20 years ago and teaches Irish step dancing at Forbes School of Irish Dance in Quincy.

Featured in the show are Maher & La Nua, the Forbes School of Irish Dance, Erin's Melody and Dennis O'Gorman.

The Boston Irish Return is a traditional Irish show that originated in Boston and is planning to return to Ireland next April.

The cast, which includes a number of performers from Quincy, will present a show at John Hancock Hall in Boston April 4 and at the National Concert Hall in Dublin April 20.

Bank of Canton Mortgage Information Seminar Saturday

Low interest rates have prospective and current homeowners on the hunt for the best possible mortgage financing.

To help area residents negotiate the sometimes confusing mortgage lending or refinancing process, The Bank of Canton has scheduled a no-cost, no-obligation information seminar.

The free seminar will be held at The Bank's branch office at 275 Quincy Ave., in Quincy, on Saturday, Oct. 18, from 2 to 4 p.m.

Steve Chu, regional lending manager in The Bank of Canton's Quincy office, will be a co-presenter at the seminar.

"We're encouraging people to attend and find out about topics like the role of the realtor, the mortgage qualification process, what to expect from a closing attorney, and much more. I'm fluent in both English and Cantonese, so I'm looking forward to assisting members of the local Asian community," Chu said.

"Across the board, we recently saw mortgage rates hit all-time lows," said Judy Farmer, who is also a regional lending manager in the Bank's Quincy office. "After a slight uptick, rates have been going back down, so it's a good time for people looking to purchase a new home or renovate their current house to explore current opportunities."

Farmer will share presentation responsibilities at the upcoming seminar.

Attendees do not have to be customers of The Bank of Canton. The Bank will offer all attendees a $300 credit toward the closing costs of any of its current mortgage programs. Attendees will also be eligible to win a $25 Bank of Canton Savings Account Certificate. Seating is limited. To reserve a space, call The Bank of Canton's Quincy office at (617) 770-4222.

Farmer has over 20 years experience in the mortgage industry and is committed to providing high quality customer service. She specializes in helping qualified first-time homebuyers receive down payment assistance grants from non-profit agencies.

Steve Chu originates mortgages primarily in the Boston and Quincy area.

While a source for home mortgages and commercial lending programs, The Bank of Canton also offers customers a full range of home/consumer loans, commercial services, and personal banking options, including investment services through Infinox Financial Group.

Continuing Education Courses Nov. 4, Nov. 13 Conway Real Estate School License Renewal Program

The Conway Country School of Real Estate will offer an intensive, two-day continuing-education program for real estate licensees on Tuesday, Nov. 4 and Thursday, Nov. 13 at the Lantana in Randolph.

The two days of courses are open to all of the state's licensed real estate agents—whether active or inactive—and will satisfy the state's requirement of 12 hours of continuing-education credit for license renewal.

"We are very pleased to be offering these courses for our own agents and for our colleagues," Chairman Jack Conway said in announcing the program. "A solid education is a very important part of providing good service to our customers, and we are hopeful that many agents will take advantage of this opportunity."

The two-hour classes, which run from 9:00 a.m. to 4:15 p.m. each day, will cover closing and settlement procedures, realty exchanges, consumer protection laws, environmental issues, foreclosures, auctions, estate sales, and zoning and building codes, among other subjects.

Participants may choose any or all of the six courses being offered to help fulfill their license-renewal requirements, according to Education Director Norman LaRocque.

For more information and to have a registration form sent to you, call the school at (781) 826-0088 and leave your name, mailing address and telephone number. The cost is $10 per credit hour ($120 for the full two-day program), and all classes will be held at the Lantana on Scanlan Drive, which is off Route 28 just south of Exit 5 on Route 128.

The Conway Country School of Real Estate is a division of Norwell-based Jack Conway & Co., which is the largest independently owned real estate firm in Massachusetts, with more than 710 agents in 41 offices from Boston to Cape Cod.

Home Insulation: Reducing The Cost Of Home Heating

What To Look For, How Much You Need

Winter is just around the corner, which means cooler weather is on the way. No matter where you live your home will be more comfortable and energy efficient with the right insulation. Insulation can help reduce the costs of heating and cooling your home.

To help you save money and get the most of your insulation dollars, the Better Business Bureau, Inc. serving Eastern Massachusetts, Maine and Vermont suggests you know what to look for and how much insulation is needed for your home.

To request a video on "Hiring a Home Improvement Contractor," visit the Better Business Bureau, Inc. Video Series web site. The goal of the Better Business Bureau video series is to educate consumers before a problem occurs in order to reduce the frustration and expense derived from poor purchase decisions. To learn more about a company before doing business, visit www.bbb.org.

The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) suggests that when purchasing insulation, look for the "R-value." "R" means resistance to heat flow. The higher the R-value, the greater the insulation power. The R-value must be disclosed for most insulation products. (Pipe and duct insulation are the exceptions, although duct wrap is covered.)

For example, if you buy loose-fill insulation with an R-value of 38 from Company A, it will have the same insulating power as loose-fill insulation with an R-value of 38 from Company B. You also can compare the R-value of one type of insulation to another, such as loose-fill to blanket.

Several factors will affect the R-value your home needs:

- Where you live: You will need a higher R-value if you live in the Northeast than if you live in Southern California.

- How your home is built: For example, is it a single-level or multi-level structure? Do you have cathedral ceilings? Is there a basement or is your home built on slab?

- How you heat and cool your home: Do you have a furnace, a central air conditioner or a heat pump?

It is more efficient to use insulation with higher R-values in the attic and in rooms with cathedral ceilings than in wood frame walls and basements or crawl spaces with walls.

For help in determining what R-values your home needs, contact the Department of Energy's Energy Efficiency and Renewable Energy Network (EREN), which is a clearinghouse of energy-efficiency information. You can contact the EREN online (www.eren.doe.gov) or call toll-free at 1-800-363-3732.

You can also contact your state energy office, local building department, or your gas or electric company. They can tell you how to conduct an energy audit to help detect waste and gauge the efficiency of your current heating system.

Your utility company may offer free or low-cost energy audits, or you can conduct your own.

How do you know what R-value you are getting? The FTC is responsible for enforcing the R-value Rule. The Rule ensures that you get information about the R-value of your insulation before you buy it, have it installed or buy a new home.

Manufacturers must label their packages of insulation; installers and retailers must provide fact sheets; and new home sellers must include this information in sales contracts.

SPOTLIGHT ON HEALTH & FITNESS

BodyFit Fitness Center Opens At 37 Billings Rd.

BodyFit, Inc., a fitness center geared towards women, recently opened at 37 Billings Road, North Quincy.

Jacqueline Batchelder, the owner, has 25 years of experience teaching and managing group exercise programs for several large health clubs. She was once a personal trainer to such stars as Jane Fonda, Paula Abdul, Kevin Bacon, Jean Claude VanDam and the late Juliet Prowse.

"What started out as an idea to start a fitness center with women specifically in mind became a neighborhood women's workout center offering more than just fitness," Batchelder said. "Here at BodyFit, we offer a positive, caring and supportive environment where size, shape, ethnicity and fitness level doesn't matter."

BodyFit offers a variety of classes that no other gym offers, Batchelder said. In addition to traditional aerobics classes, BodyFit features kickboxing, low impact, step and muscle conditioning classes, a 30-minute workout utilizing hydraulic equipment, as well as Bosu classes, yoga, Pilates, disco dancing, Latin dancing, African dancing and belly dancing classes.

For more information about BodyFit, contact Jacqueline Batchelder at 617-479-8811.

Sports Training, Injury Prevention Lecture Oct. 23

The Center for Spine, Sports and Rehabilitation at Super Fitness Health Club, 150 Parkway, Quincy, will offer a free lecture on sports specific training and injury prevention Thursday, Oct. 23, at 7:30 p.m.

The presentation will be held in the aerobics room of Super Fitness.

A team of physical therapists and athletic trainers will discuss conditioning and injury prevention techniques for hockey, soccer, football and basketball.

Participants will also learn about an upcoming six-week training program for fall/winter and spring/summer sports.

For more information or to register, call 617-328-1242.

Milton Hospital Offering Free Mammograms Friday

Milton Hospital will offer free mammograms to women with no health insurance who are over age 40 on Friday, Oct. 17.

This screening mammogram will be performed by a certified mammography technologist in the hospital's radiology department. Screenings will be followed with a written copy of the results.

For screening criteria and an appointment call 617-696-4600, ext. 1700.

Super Fitness Adds Center For Spine, Sports And Rehabilitation

Super Fitness in Quincy Center has become the new home for The Center for Spine, Sports & Rehabilitation.

Stephen Denoy, OMPT, and Eric Edelman, PT, owners of the Center, are skilled manual therapists who practice physical therapy the old-fashioned way, using their hands to determine areas of the body that need treatment.

"We spend a great deal of time getting to know each patient and then develop treatment programs designed just for that person," said Denoy, a Quincy resident. "Our goal is to help patients regain function and achieve a full recovery."

The partners opened their Center in 2002 after years of managing rehabilitation centers within hospitals.

"We knew that we could do a better job treating our patients," said Edelman, a Braintree resident. "Hospital-based rehabilitation centers allow just 20 minutes for patient visits with much of that time spent on equipment under the supervision of physical therapy aides. That's not the way we practice. Here, patients are in the hands of trained and very experienced therapists. It's a win-win situation. Patients receive quality, individualized care and Steve and I are treating the way we were trained. Our new connection with Super Fitness enhances our practice even more."

STEPHEN DENOY

The partnership will allow patients to have full access to Super Fitness's equipment and 30,000 square feet training facility while health club members may take advantage of free assessments by highly trained clinical therapists.

The Center offers physical therapy, sports-specific rehabilitation and massage therapy services Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. The Center accepts all insurance plans.

Denoy, a graduate of Daemen College, is a certified orthopedic manual therapist and a fellow of the American Academy of Orthopedic Manual Therapy.

Edelman is a licensed physical therapist and graduate of State University of New York.

For more information about the Center for Spine, Sports & Rehabilitation call 617-328-1242.

DENTISTRY for the 21st Century

by Steven A. Brustin, D.M.D.

JOINED TO THE BONE

At the heart of a dental implant is a process known as "osseointegration." This phenomenon was discovered quite by accident, over fifty years ago, by a Swedish surgeon who was conducting research into the healing patterns of bone tissue. He found that, when pure titanium comes in contact with living bone tissue, the two bond together to form a permanent biological adhesion. In time, dentists who endeavored to create a permanent anchor for tooth replacements adopted the concept of osseointegration. Today, this innovation stands at the center of tooth-implant technology that utilizes titanium implants to serve as the rooted foundation for the attachment of prosthetic teeth that feel and look like natural teeth.

Be sure to let us know what medications you are taking. We want you to receive the highest quality, complete, affordable dental care. We keep abreast of all new procedures, and we would like to increase public awareness of the importance of preventive oral health care. FALL CAR CARE

Maintaining Car's Tires Critical For Safety

A car's tires are critical for safety and expensive to replace, so there should be no question that you want to get as much life out of them as possible. The key to that is maintenance, says AAA Southern New England. The three issues involved in maintaining tires are pressure, rotation, and balance and alignment.

Tire Pressure

One of the most overlooked maintenance items on today's cars is tire pressure. Proper tire pressure improves tire life, handling and ride characteristics, and fuel economy. In most cases, you should check tire pressure at least once a month.

Checking tire pressure is easy. All you need is a tire gauge. Always check the tire pressure when tires are cold. The best time usually is first thing in the morning after the car has been sitting overnight. Even sunlight will affect tire pressure, so later in the day the pressure may be altered by the heat.

To check the tire pressure, remove the cap from the tire stem and press the tire gauge against the end of the stem. You should hear the air escape from the tire momentarily as you press the gauge onto the stem and then it should seal. If the air continues hissing while you have the gauge applied, remove the gauge and try again. Once it seals properly, remove the gauge and check the reading on the end. The reading should be equal to the factory recommendation that appears in your owner's manual, or on the sticker on the doorjamb or glove compartment door.

If the pressure is high, let a little air out of the tire and recheck the pressure. Repeat that process until the pressure is correct. If the pressure is low, add air to the tire. Chances are you won't have compressed air available, so you'll have to take the car to a gas station to get the air.

Tire Rotation

How a tire wears depends on a number of conditions, not the least of those is which corner of the car they're on. For example, tires in the front tend to wear more on the edges than the rear tires because front tires turn when you turn the steering wheel.

The right side may receive additional stress because the right side of the car is more likely to make contact with potholes and curbs. Meanwhile, the left-side tires usually support more weight because that's the driver's side.

To prevent tires from wearing unevenly, AAA recommends that motorists plan on having tires rotated at least twice a year. In general (except for tires with directional tread pattern), manufacturers recommend this pattern of rotation:

- Rear-wheel drive: The rear tires move directly to the front, while the front tires should be switched side to side and then moved to the back.

- Front-wheel drive: The front tires move directly to the front, while the rear tires should be switched side to side and then moved to the front.

- Four-wheel drive: Both front and rear tires should be switched side-to-side and then moved to the opposite side.

Wheel Alignment and Balancing

Traditional wisdom says you should have your wheels aligned and tires balanced at least twice a year to get the most out of your tires. That's still true today. Aligning the wheels and balancing the tires regularly can increase your car's tire life considerably.

But here's a little food for thought: 25 years ago a good set of radial tires cost $200-$300. An alignment and four-wheel balance cost $25 and $30 and, if performed regularly, could provide up to 40 percent more life out of the tires.

Today, a set of radial tires still cost between $200-$300 and sometimes more. At the same time the cost of a wheel alignment could range from $60-$100 or more. The cost of balancing four tires could be $30 or more. So an alignment and wheel balance could easily cost $100 or more. If purchased six times over the life of the tires the tire maintenance bill could easily cost more than twice the price of an average set of tires. So does it make sense to get your wheels aligned twice a year?

At first glance this doesn't seem like much of a pay-off for maintaining your tires. But there are other things to consider. Besides having a car that will handle properly and ride better, there are additional benefits. When your car is aligned properly tire wear will be minimized and fuel economy will be maximized. When a car is "out" of alignment the tires will scrub on the road rather than roll smoothly causing tire wear and increasing the rolling resistance of the tires, ultimately using more fuel.

There is one more fact about tire wear. It is best to align the tires on your vehicle after steering components are replaced or after hitting a pothole or curb. The problem is that once a tire has established a wear pattern due to an alignment problem, realigning the car after the wear pattern has been established will improve handling but will not have much effect on the worn tires.

North Edges Quincy, Headed To State Tourney

By CHRIS POISSON

The North Quincy High School girls' soccer team qualified for the state tournament for the seventh straight season Monday night with a tough 1-0 victory over cross-town rival Quincy at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

"We had only three returning starters," said NQ senior quad-captain Katy Faherty. "Everyone thought this would be a rebuilding year and we proved them wrong."

"It feels great," said NQ senior quad-captain Sarah Gregory. "It's good to get it over with. Now if we can win some more games we can get a better seed in the tournament."

North Quincy (9-4-2 overall) traveled to Bridgewater-Raynham Tuesday and today (Thursday) it hosts Barnstable at 4 p.m. at Teal Field. It plays at Plymouth South Oct. 20, hosts Marshfield Oct. 22 and Brockton Oct. 27 to close out the regular season.

Despite the loss, Quincy (5-8 overall) is enjoying its best season under third-year coach Don Martin and is still in the playoff hunt.

"This year, Sarah Shea has truly become a goalkeeper," Martin said. "She's communicating. She's off her line very quickly. She's distributing, not just kicking but looking heads up. She's involving people around her. She's a smart and athletic keeper."

the second half, coming out of the net to stuff Faherty about six minutes in.

The Red Raiders netted the game-winner when junior midfielder Amanda Saylor shot a ball from about 25 yards and beat Shea top corner far post. It was the first goal of the season for Saylor, who also scored against Quincy last season.

"We played well," Bregoli said. "I thought we controlled play. But the bottom line is what's on the scoreboard at the end of the game. Can I say we're lucky to get that one? Yeah, we were. Because it was the only goal and it was Amanda's first of the year."

Senior quad-captain Jenn Ryan, senior Ashley Ridge and sophomore Lindsey Clifford turned in strong games at midfield and Gregory played well defensively.

"Our defense has really stepped it up the past three weeks, allowing only eight goals in the last 10 games," Bregoli said. "But we are still struggling a bit offensively with the loss of Caitlyn Peters (concussion) and Lauren Milone (broken collar bone) to injuries having an impact on us."

The Presidents also have their injury problems, as they were missing two starters, senior quad-captain and sweeper Kaila Saxe and sophomore Lisa McKeon, against the Red Raiders.

"It was a great game," Martin said. "We were missing two starters but we played great without them. North put tremendous pressure on us. Quite honestly, we sustained the pressure and were comfortable on the ball and moved the ball around in the back. Our keeper played outstanding. The kids deserved to tie this game."

"Our goal this year was to be as competitive as we can be. This is the best team I've coached in my three years here."

MAINTAINING PRESSURE

The transportation, Recall, Enhancement, Accountability, and Documentation (TREAD) Act is federal legislation that calls for all passenger cars and light trucks under 10,000 pounds of gross vehicle weight to be equipped with tire pressure monitoring systems no later than November 2003. This law was developed out of concern over the danger that under-inflated tires pose for passenger safety. It has been estimated that about one out of every four vehicles on the road is running on under-inflated tires. As a result, drivers are needlessly sacrificing their vehicle's fuel economy and handling and reducing their tires' durability and tread life. This has made tire pressure maintenance an important safety issue throughout the automotive industry.

Maintaining proper tire pressure will save you money. Whether you are driving a new car or a used one LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO at 258 Quincy Ave., E. SENIOR ROGER PALERMO (20) gets taken down by a pair of Whitman-Hanson defenders on a kickoff return in Quincy's 21-14 loss last Friday at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Presidents Suffer 21-14 Setback To Whitman-Hanson

By CHRIS POISSON

Since last season, the Quincy High School football team has been unable to pull out victories in close games against the top teams in the Atlantic Coast League.

Following another similar scenario last Friday night at home, a 21-14 setback to Whitman-Hanson, head coach Bob Noble said his team needs to start knocking off the big guns, soon.

"I'm tired of losing," Noble said. "We can play with the best in the league, but we have to start beating the best in the league if we want to win a league title. I'm sick of playing Whitman-Hanson hard and not winning. If they're the cream of the crop, we're not that far behind them. It's discouraging, but before it's all said and done we'll have a good football team and a good season."

Last season, the Presidents dropped a 33-31 heart-breaker to the Panthers in overtime, while also losing to Sandwich, 35-31, and Plymouth North, 28-6, to come up short in the league title race.

Quincy (1-1-1) will look to get back on the winning track tomorrow (Friday) night at 7 when it hosts Randolph at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Ahead 13-6 early in the fourth quarter, Whitman-Hanson threatened to increase its lead with the ball on the Quincy 5-yard line. On fourth down, though, senior quad-captain and cornerback J.J. Niamkey intercepted junior quarterback Brandon Josselyn in the end zone.

Two plays later, Niamkey delivered an explosive play from the tailback position when he jetted 75 yards for a touchdown with 8:10 remaining in the game. Senior quarterback Josh Giordani hit Niamkey with the two-point conversion pass to hand Quincy a 14-13 lead.

"He's a home run hitter," Noble said, as Niamkey finished with 100 yards on 11 carries.

Whitman-Hanson responded immediately when it returned the ensuing kickoff 46 yards to the Quincy 39-yard line. And on the second play from scrimmage, Josselyn connected with wide-open tailback Ryan Dillon over the middle for a 38-yard TD with 7:18 left. Senior captain Mark Kelliher rushed for the two-point conversion for a 21-14 advantage.

"We have to play every down," Noble said. "We can't give them the opportunity to make a big play. At the least we've got to make them drive down the field. They scored on two plays. We can't let them do that."

Whitman-Hanson drove 77 yards on its first possession of the game but couldn't punch the ball into the end zone as Quincy's defense tightened in the red zone and came up with a huge goal-line stand, stuffing junior tailback Josh Hutchings at the 1-yard line on fourth down.

The Presidents were forced to punt on their next series, but a bad snap got by the kicker and the Panthers found themselves with the ball on the Quincy 8. On the first play, Josselyn tossed a beautiful fade to senior Tim Watson in the corner for a 7-0 lead after the extra point with 2:20 left in the second quarter.

Quincy was without its regular snapper, senior James Hutchins, who ruptured his spleen in the 12-12 tie at Plymouth South Oct. 3. "That came back to haunt us," Noble said.

Running their two-minute offense, the Presidents countered with an impressive 10-play, 93-yard scoring drive to cut the lead to 7-6 at half-time. Giordani fired a 15-yard laser TD pass between two defenders to senior wideout Ian Jorgensen (five catches, 47 yards) with one second left on the clock. On the drive, Giordani completed 5-of-7 passes for 82 yards, including a 49-yard pass to senior Roger Palermo.

On its first possession of the second half, Quincy turned the ball over at its 30, and Whitman-Hanson capitalized six plays later with Kelliher's 1-yard TD plunge with 3:12 left in the third for a 13-6 lead.

FOOTBALL

Raiders Edge Closer To Postseason With 3-1 Win Over Quincy

BOYS' SOCCER

The North Quincy High School boys' soccer team crept closer to qualifying for the state tournament Monday with a 3-1 victory over city rival Quincy at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

The Red Raiders (5-4-3 overall) have 13 points and need three more in their final four games to reach the postseason.

They hosted Bridgewater-Raynham Tuesday and today (Thursday) they travel to Barnstable. Next week, they host Plymouth South Monday at home and head to Marshfield Wednesday for the finale.

"That has been our goal since last year, to qualify," said second-year head coach Tom Giatrakos, who compiled a 4-8-4 record last season.

Quincy (2-9-1) jumped out to a 1-0 lead nearly seven minutes into the game. Senior quad-captain Brendan Craig gathered Wernersson Nogueira's throw-in from in front and beat North Quincy sophomore keeper Imad Katrib.

The Presidents had another golden chance about four minutes later. Senior quad-captain Gedeon Endeshaw fed sophomore Tim Amirkanov, but Katrib came out of goal to block his shot.

"We came out really flat," Giatrakos said. "We didn't seem to be mentally or emotionally ready for the game. I'm not exactly sure why. We just have to stop that."

North Quincy netted the equalizer with three minutes remaining in the first half. Junior Max Cabrera glided down the left side and sent a beautiful cross to junior Tom Ross, who headed it past Quincy keeper Ray Marchand.

"I thought we picked it up at the end of the first half," Giatrakos said. "I think that goal in the first half really changed the momentum of the whole game. It was a nice goal on a beautiful cross, something we work on all the time in practice."

The Red Raiders came out storming to begin the second half, with junior Besmir Sabashi and junior Frank McKenna generating scoring threats in the opening minute.

Midway through the half, junior John Fitzgerald tallied the game-winner when he deposited the ball to the right corner on a penalty kick. McKenna added his seventh goal of the season later to seal the game. Senior Daryl Costa earned the assist on a throw-in.

"In the second half I thought we really outplayed them," Giatrakos said. "There was no doubt in any of our minds that we weren't going to win this game."

North Quincy senior defenders Bryan Weeks, Greg Hawes and Prasert Wiwatayan turned in another strong effort.

"I thought that our three defenders played excellent," Giatrakos said. "Quincy really didn't have many chances. Our defense is the strength of our team. Basically, if we score, we win. All four games we lost this year have been by shutout. The last two games we've scored six goals and won both of them. So if we score, we win."

"I thought we played tough," said Quincy head coach Kevin Orcutt. "The penalty shot hurt us. It was a marginal call. North Quincy is a really good, solid team. We're a bit smaller than they are and that kind of wore us down in the middle of the second half."

Orcutt praised senior midfielders Elio Aslanaj and Jon Mendez, both quad-captains, along with senior Haydar Hussein, Endeshaw and Craig.

Eleey Family Wins Two Titles

Champions Crowned In City Tennis Tournament

There is little question the Eleey Family is the first family of Quincy tennis as three family members won two championships in the recent 33rd annual Quincy Tennis Tournament at Russell Park.

The Eleey tennis tradition should continue as 10-year-old Alison teamed with her mother, Aileen, to win the women's doubles event. Alison is believed to be the youngest participant to have her name etched on a championship bowl in the tournament's long history.

It was the third straight year Aileen has teamed up to win the women's doubles event. She then joined her husband, Peter, to capture the William F. Ryan Bowl for mixed doubles.

Sponsored by the Quincy Recreation Department and Quincy Municipal Credit Union, the tourney lasted over three weeks with 11 events and nearly 125 matches. John Franceschini, who has directed the event for over 25 years, once again ran the show and was assisted by Michelle Hanley.

In men's singles, Jirawat Anektasap defeated Ronald Abell, 6-1, 6-2, to win the Lionel "Shine" Buckley Bowl for the third straight year. He also teamed with Michael Chan in men's doubles to knock off Paul Carty and Mark Scanlon, 6-1, 6-0, for the Henry "The Master" McAuliffe Bowl.

In women's singles, Phoebe Chan fended off Victoria Wong, a young middle school player with a bright future, 6-1, 7-5, to repeat as champion. Chan also retained her title in women's 35 and over, besting newcomer Kathy Sorenson, 6-1, 6-4.

Michael Chan, one of the city's upcoming tennis stars, took home his third straight championship in boys' 16 and under, topping Robert McKeever, 6-2, 6-0.

In men's 35 and over, Victor Luzarrapended Chi Man Wong, 6-3, 6-4, for his first title.

In the men's 50 and over, two longtime participants battled, with Dan Dunn defeating Rich Meade, 7-6, 6-1, 6-3, for his first trophy.

In the men's "B," Billy Stephens edged Mauro Antognelli, 2-6, 6-2, 6-2, for his first championship.

In mixed doubles, the Eleeys downed the husband-and-wife team of Job and Phoebe Chan, 6-2, 6-3. In women's doubles, the Eleeys beat Lisa Ngu and Victoria Wong, 6-2, 6-1.

Each champion has their name engraved on a permanent silver bowl with all past champions. The bowls remain on display in the main office of the recreation department.

Recreation Director Barry Welch thanked the Quincy Municipal Credit Union for its continued support.

"This year's championship demonstrated without a doubt what a traditional family event this has become," he said. "The positive values and outstanding recreational opportunities would not be possible without the assistance of this community minded organization. They have been with us for eight years and we are thankful the Quincy Municipal Credit Union Board sees the positive benefit of this Quincy tradition."

SCOTT DEWARE

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

The touch in a handshake can mean "Hello," "Goodbye," "Congratulations," "Sympathy" and a lot of other things. Because man has a soul, his touch differs from the pawing touch of an animal. Man combines the touch of the physical with the spiritual. The loving touch of a mother's hand can ease the pain of a child's bruise. A slap can inflict pain physically and spiritually.

There are contrasts in both the physical and spiritual touch. Some are pleasant. Some are painful. In a spiritual sense, everybody touches the lives of others everyday by what we say... what we do... how we act. The touch on others can be good or bad. It can bring a touch of happiness or unhappiness. It can bring a touch of moderation and mercy; a touch of harshness or hatred. All of us touch someone with nearly everything we say or do everyday.

And, incidentally, we sometimes wonder how - or if - the weekly thoughts you read here, reach out to "Touch you" as we hope they do? ...

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) A bid for you to step in and take over an incomplete project could prove to be an excellent learning experience that you can take with you when a new opportunity opens up.
TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) It's a good time for socializing, both with family and with friends. Your aspects also favor developing new relationships, any or all of which might become especially meaningful.
GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Your success in handling a recent difficult situation prompts a request to handle another workplace problem. But this is one you should accept only if you get all of the relevant facts.
CANCER (June 21 to July 22) New information about a past decision raises some unsettling questions from an old friend. Be prepared to explain your actions fully and, if necessary, to make adjustments.
LEO (July 23 to August 22) This is not a good time to share personal secrets, even with someone you've known for a long while. What you don't reveal now won't come back to haunt you later.
VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Pushing yourself to meet a project deadline is admirable. But be careful not to leave out important details in your rush to complete your work and send it off.
LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Watch that you don't take on more than you can handle when offering to help someone with a personal problem. There might be hidden factors you weren't told about.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) That major move you've been considering could come sooner than you expected. Make sure you'll be ready with the facts you need when decision time arrives.
SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Languishing relationships can benefit from a break in routine. Get out of the rut and do something new and maybe more than a little unpredictable this weekend.
CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Although you don't think of yourself as a role model, your ability to make a tough decision at this time sets an example for others, who admire your courage.
AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) You need to move any remaining obstacles out of your way before you can take on a new challenge. Seek advice from close, trusted friends and associates.
PISCES (February 19 to March 20) A career change appears increasingly likely to happen during the next several weeks. It's a good idea to start now to prepare, so you can be ready to make the move when the time comes.
BORN THIS WEEK: You have a strong sense of obligation to justice, which inspires others to follow your example and do the right thing.

INVITATION TO BID

CITY OF QUINCY, MASSACHUSETTS
Department of Public Works

INVITATION TO BID

The Department of Public Works for the City of Quincy, Massachusetts will receive sealed bids for Micro-Resurfacing, until 10:00 AM local time on Wednesday, October 29, 2003, in the offices of the Commissioner of Public Works, 55 Sea Street, Quincy, Massachusetts 02169, at which time and place all bids will be publicly opened and read aloud.

Micro-surfacing is a tough and durable thin overlay material which can restore the original surface properties to worn but structurally sound pavements. Its properties are based on a blend of select crushed aggregate and a sophisticated chemical formulation of asphalt cement, cationic emulsifiers, adhesives, and latex. This specification covers all materials, equipment, construction and application procedures for surfacing of existing paved surfaces. The micro-surfacing shall be a mixture of cationic latex modified asphalt emulsion, mineral aggregate, mineral and field control additives, and water, properly proportioned, and mixed and spread on the paved surface in accordance with this specification and as directed by the Engineer.

All work under this contract shall be completed within thirty days (30) calendar days. The City understands that the work under this contract is temperature sensitive. Therefore, the work may be delayed until the such time as the outdoor temperature is sufficient to support the work.

A non-refundable deposit of $5.00 in cash or check payable to the City of Quincy shall be required for each set of Contract Documents. Bidders requesting Contract Documents by mail shall also include an additional non-refundable mail fee of $5.00 in cash or check payable to the City of Quincy. The Contract Documents may be obtained during the business hours of 8:30 AM to 3:30 PM at the Department of Public Works, 55 Sea Street, Quincy, MA 02169 on or after October 15, 2003, 8:00 am - 3:00 pm.

Each bid shall be accompanied by a bid security in the amount of five percent (5%) of the total value of the bid in the form of bid bond or certified/treasurer's check.

The bidding and award of this contract shall be in full compliance with Massachusetts General Laws, Chapter 30, Section 39M, as last revised. All Federal, State and City of Quincy regulations in relation to Minority Work Force, Equal Employment Opportunity, Employment of Quincy Residents, Responsible Employer and Minimum Wage Rates shall be complied with. The City reserves the right to waive any informality in or to reject any or all Bids when such an action is deemed in the best interests of the City. Non-responsive and/or unbalanced bids may be rejected.

REPLICA of the old slave-ship Amistad forms the backdrop as Vandi Braima of Brockton, a descendant of the Mendi captives that mutinied aboard the ship and were freed when John Quincy Adams pleaded their case before the Supreme Court. The ship arrived at Joseph Moakley Courthouse Pier in Boston Tuesday and will remain until Oct. 26.

been authorized by two acts of Congress and after signing the final piece of legislation President George Bush said, "The Adamsses contributed enormous good to the United States of America. It is fitting and appropriate that America establish a memorial in Washington to honor this extraordinary family."

Pulitzer Prize-winning author David McCullough will lead this celebration as its keynote speaker.

The Quincy Partnership, the Adams National Historical Park and the Adams Memorial Foundation have joined together to make this evening an unforgettable success.

It begins at 6:30 p.m. and lasts until 10 p.m. Between 6 and 9 p.m., guests can tour the Amistad which will be moored outside Moakley Hall at Moakley Courthouse Pier, which is part of the new and beautiful Federal Courthouse in Boston.

Guests will be served from a number of food stations and will be able to take advantage of "open seating" in Moakley Hall. Those groups purchasing tables of 10 will have reserved seating, if requested. The speaking program will begin at 7:30 p.m. and end at approximately 8:15 p.m. On display will be the Mendi Bible given to John Quincy Adams by a grateful group of Mendis.

For information on how to purchase tickets to this event, call the Adams National Historical Park at 617-773-1177. Tickets cannot be purchased at the door because of federal courthouse regulations. Receipts from this event will go to complete the Quincy Partnership's Fountain to be located in the Formal Gardens of upper Merrymount and also to the Adams Memorial Foundation.

History could not have envisioned that one day a Mendi and an Adams would walk hand-in-hand onto the deck of this Amistad to celebrate one of the greatest epics in American history, and to celebrate the beginning of a new chapter in the history of the Adams family, that of building a memorial to the Adams family so that, in the words of Senator Ted Kennedy, "John Adams will soon assume his rightful place among Presidents Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln as an American hero..."

Gas Company Starts Work On Beach Street

Key Span Energy Delivery began work has begun on the expansion of its gas distribution system in the area of 145 to 303 Beach St., Wollaston.

The work will be performed Monday through Friday from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. and will last about seven weeks.

The road will be open to the public but parking may be limited. A construction foreman will be on site to address parking needs through the duration of construction.

The work may require some digging near the foundations of some homes and the foreman on site will notify customers of any interruption in service.

There may be some lag between temporary and permanent restoration of the street and sidewalk, depending on the weather and ground conditions.

Any questions about the project should be directed to Lynne M. Holton, community relations coordinator, at 781-466-5100.

State's Fiscal Crisis 'Does Not Bode Well'

Morrissey Sounds Alarm On QHS Fate

By WILLIAM TRAYNOR

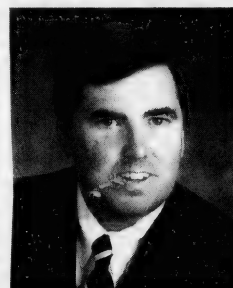

After receiving "strong indications" that reimbursement levels for the School Building Assistance (SBA) program will be reduced, Sen. Michael Morrissey is raising concerns once again about the fate of the new Quincy High School.

In a letter to Mayor William Phelan, Morrissey said the state's current fiscal crisis has forced legislators to re-examine and possibly reduce a number of programs, including SBA.

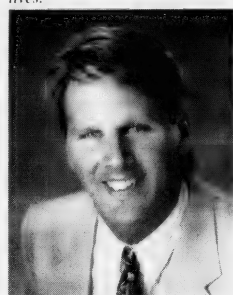

During the summer, the city council approved Phelan's $110 million financing package for the school project, which includes the construction of the new high school, renovation of the existing high school, construction of parking garages, road and water system upgrades and extensive site preparation.

The city has been guaranteed a 90 percent reimbursement rate if the new high school is built on Faxon Field, next to the existing high school.

Although the city has been approved for the 90 percent reimbursement rate, it has not obtained the necessary environmental permits to build on the site. Obtaining the permits is still months away, according to city officials.

More Than 350 Could Be Eligible

Council Gives Mayor OK To Offer Early Retirements

By WILLIAM TRAYNOR

By a 7-2 vote, the city council Monday night gave Mayor William Phelan the authority to offer another early retirement incentive to municipal employees.

But the mayor's Executive Secretary, Thomas Largey, said Phelan is undecided about whether he will offer it this year.

"The mayor has not made a decision at this time," said Largey. "But it keeps that option open in these times of fiscal uncertainty." The mayor has until Nov. 1 to make a decision.

The city council adopted the early retirement incentive that was approved by the state earlier this year. Under the act, the mayor has broad discretion on how to tailor the incentive to employees. Group 1, 2 and 4 employees would be eligible if the mayor decides to offer the incentive. The mayor, however, has the right to limit the number of retirees by group or exclude a group in its entirety.

If offered, more than 350 municipal employees would be eligible to take the early retirement option, according to city officials.

Largey said the city received a "tepid" response from municipal employees after conducting a preliminary survey about the early retirement incentive. Human Resources Director Roberta Kety said the survey revealed that approximately 34 employees had a strong desire to take advantage of the early retirement incentive this year.

Largey said employees appear much less enthusiastic about taking the early retirement than last year, when approximately 100 employees opted to take advantage of it. According to Auditor Richard Fitzpatrick, the city saved approximately $1.3 million by utilizing the incentive last year.

Councillor Frank McCauley voted against the measure, saying the city does not need another round of early retirements at this time. "There is no need for it, and why buy a pig in a poke? Eventually, we will have to hire some of these people back," he said.

Ward 5 Councillor Doug Gutro cast the other dissenting vote.

"At some point there is the law of diminishing returns and the potential for brain drain," said Gutro. "After hearing the auditor, it sounds like we are right where we should be."

Fitzpatrick said there is less of a need to offer the incentive this year, because the city's financial situation now stands on firmer ground.

At The Church of the Presidents Wreath Laying Ceremony Oct. 28 Celebrates John Adams' 268th Birthday

In celebration of former President John Adams' 268th birthday, a Presidential Wreath Laying Ceremony will be held on Oct. 28 at noon in the Church of the Presidents, 1306 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

Representing President George W. Bush will be Commander John C. Bozeman, Commanding Officer of the Naval Reserve Center in Quincy.

Other officials scheduled to attend the ceremony are Lt. Gov. Kerry Healey; Secretary of the Commonwealth William Galvin; Rear Admiral Roger T. Nolan, Commander Naval Reserve Readiness Command North East; Commander Lewin Wright, Commander USS Constitution; Peter Boylston Adams, treasurer, Adams Memorial Foundation; Emma Barber, Class of 2004, Woodward School; and Mayor William Phelan.

The annual tradition began during President Lyndon Johnson's term of office whereby a wreath is sent to the burial place of all deceased presidents on their birthdays.

Adams, the nation's second president, will receive a wreath presented by the White House by the United States Navy because Adams was president when the Navy was established.

Two Police Officers Promoted To Sergeant

Two police officers were promoted to the rank of sergeant in a swearing in ceremony held last Friday in Mayor William Phelan's office.

Officers Robert P. Gillan and Timothy E. Sorgi were administered the oath by City Clerk Joseph Shea. Phelan, Police Chief William Falco, Capt. Robert Crowley and family members of the officers attended the ceremony.

Phelan praised the officers for their years of service to the city.

"I am confident that they will serve the city and the citizens of Quincy very well," said Phelan. I know the City of Quincy will be well served in the future with the promotions of these two individuals."

Phelan also took time to praise Chief Falco.

"He cares deeply about the police force and he leads by example," Phelan said of Falco. "The City of Quincy is very fortunate to have him."

Officer Gillan, a Lieutenant Commander of the US Coast Guard, was appointed to the police department in 1997. He has worked in the patrol unit and marine unit during his tenure. He was instrumental in obtaining the 41-foot vessel used by the marine unit, according to the mayor's office.

Officer Sorgi was appointed to the police department in 1985. He was served in the patrol unit, the Special Operations Unit in the Motorcycle division and the Community Police unit. Sorgi has been commended on several occasions as a result of his community policing efforts in the West Quincy and Houghs Neck areas.

Also, Sorgi has served in various capacities, including president, on the Executive Board of the Quincy Police Patrol Officers Association.

Will Work 'To See Our Flag Raised' Vietnamese-Americans Still Hopeful To Fly Flag At City Hall

By COURTNEY
PAQUETTE

Following objections from some veterans and other residents, the former flag of South Vietnam was not raised at the Vietnamese-American Appreciation Day celebration outside City Hall Saturday.

Members of the Vietnamese-American Community said they wanted to fly the flag next to the American flag on Constitution Common to thank Quincy for welcoming them to a new home.

The City Council had unanimously passed a resolution introduced by Council President Daniel Raymondi to recognize Saturday as Appreciation Day and to have the South Vietnam flag raised alongside the American and Quincy city flags.

The Appreciation Day ceremony went on but because of the criticism Mayor William Phelan requested the organizers not to hoist the flag.

Instead, Vietnamese-American women in traditional Ao Dai dress held the red and yellow South Vietnamese flag at its four corners. Next to it four more held the American flag.

Participants, mainly Vietnamese-Americans, waved paper replicas of American and South Vietnamese flags.

A wreath, with flowers representing the colors of the American and South Vietnamese flags, was placed in front of the World War II Memorial Statue. The New England Homeless Veteran's Shelter Color Guard presided at the ceremony.

"We will be going to the mayor to ask for a public hearing for support from the Quincy residents and all the Quincy city councilors. We will make it happen," said Dr. Hai Van-Ha, chairman of the Vietnamese American Community of the New England region.

"We respect the mayor and we will work with the people of Quincy and the City Council until the day we see our flag raised in the city of Quincy," he added.

Saturday's ceremony was led by Nam Pham, former president of the Vietnamese-American Community, and included remarks by Phelan, Raymondi, School Committee candidate Ronald Iacobucci and Duan Q. Tran, vice president of the Appreciation Day organizing committee. A translator re-stated each man's remarks in Vietnamese.

"We are disappointed we could not raise our flag, but we are encouraged that there are so many of us here and hopeful and optimistic that very soon our Freedom Flag will be raised in this historic city," said Pham.

Phelan said he was "grateful for the understanding of the wishes of the city to postpone the raising of the flag."

Later he said, "The purpose of today's ceremony is to signify unity; we embrace that unity and I embrace that unity as mayor of Quincy." He said he thought the criticism surrounding the flag-raising ceremony was borne of misunderstanding.

"I hope we can further understand today's event as one of celebration of democracy and freedom and not meant in any manner to be divisive," he said.

Raymondi said, "This Italian-American wishes to thank these people, my fellow Americans, for their thoughtful and kind gesture."

(Cont'd on page 28)

A WREATH IS placed in front of the World War II Memorial Statue at City Hall by Minh-Phuong Bui and Diem Ha during Saturday's Vietnamese-American Appreciation Day ceremony. The wreath was adorned with red, white and blue flowers, and red and yellow flowers representing the American and the former South Vietnam flags. The South Vietnam flag shown in the foreground being held by members of the Vietnamese-American Community of the U.S.A. Northeast Region was not raised.

"Is it too late for me to refinance?"

(The surprising answer? Probably not!)

If you just go by what you hear or read in the mainstream media, you might think that the refinancing "window" has slammed shut. But that's a simplification that's simply not true. Here are the facts: Mortgage rates are still bouncing around near 50-year lows. So if you want to refinance for whatever reason — to be mortgage-free before you retire, to pay for tuition, to consolidate other loans and debts or just to lock in a low rate before the window does close — you still have time. But possibly not much. So don't wait. Come see us or call 617-471-0750.

The Pope's Mass: A Night To Remember

As Pope John Paul II marks the 25th anniversary of his papacy, fond memories for many of us go back to a rain soaked Boston Common on that historic night in 1979.

It was Oct. 1 and he was the new pontiff — elected just the year before to succeed Pope John Paul I who died suddenly only a month as leader of the Catholic church.

And he was here, the first pope to set foot on U.S. soil, to celebrate an historic Mass on an historic visit.

Today, at 83, he is frail and wracked by the Parkinson's disease he developed in the 1990s and which is now rapidly taking its toll. Time is running out on him and his tenure sometimes controversial.

But that night, he was a young 59, vigorous and energetic. And that is the way we who were there will like to think of him.

It was a night to remember.

The rain had threatened most of the day and when it arrived just around the start of the 5 p.m. Mass, it came down heavy and chilling.

But it couldn't dampen the spirit of the 400,000 or more jammed on Boston Common who smiled good naturedly as each soon looked like he or she was standing in a shower bath with their clothes on.

But few, if any, would have swapped places with anyone sitting comfortable and dry in a living room watching on television.

There was Pope John Paul II — not in a TV newsclip on a balcony in Rome but there in person, moving about on a modernistic altar right there not far from you.

Incidentally, a Quincy firm, Antonelli Iron Works, was selected to do the iron work on the special platform for the altar which became a labor of love for the late Larry Antonelli and his son-in-law, James Stearns.

Arthur Tobin, who was Quincy mayor at the time, his wife, Shirley, brother, Tim, and I had arrived early. The best position at that time was standing a good 75 yards from the altar.

But an official and friend of Tobin came along just before the Mass started. He knew four guests were not going to be in the reserved section that night and invited us to take their seats. Our lucky day.

So, there we were in the reserved section just eight rows from the foot of the red carpeted, yellow flower banked altar.

"I greet you, America the Beautiful," John Paul was saying. "Beautiful even if it rains."

The crowd laughed and chanted "Viva il Papa."

Sitting to our right were Senator Edward Kennedy and his wife, Joan; Gov. Edward King, Henry Cabot Lodge, Congressman Brian Donnelly and their wives.

But you knew who the real star was that night.

Earlier, before the rain started, you noticed all the young people in this sea of humanity. You later learn that Pope John Paul himself had decreed that 10,000 tickets be given to the young. And they were listening, hanging onto his every word as the rain continued to come pelting down.

"Tonight, in a very special way, I hold out my hands to the youth of America," the pope said.

Up went one of the biggest roars of approval from the crowd followed by cries of "Long Live The Pope!", "Long Live The Pope!" from the thousands of young people.

"He's my pope, he's my pope," cried a young nun behind me. And as I stood, she hopped onto my chair to flash a picture because the elevation offered a clear view of the altar.

"Umbrellas, down in front" went up the chant from those standing behind the reserved section. "You in the reserved seats have got to suffer a little."

The umbrellas came down.

A Lebanese priest said to several teenage girls standing behind the ropes: "You know, you would think with all the clergy that is here we would have a little influence on the weather."

"Not in New England," he was told.

"Tonight, I want to repeat what I keep telling youth," Pope John Paul was saying. "You are the future of the world and the day of tomorrow belongs to you."

More roars from the crowd — both young and old.

"I'm glad he remembered us," said a teenage girl behind us.

"He's so cute," said her friend, peering through the rain with binoculars for a close-up look.

The pope's homily lasted some 40 minutes and was interrupted by applause and chants some 25 times or more.

His words were strong, crisp and clear.

The crowd had started to gather at 5:30 a.m. that morning. Many had sandwiches, candy, cookies, etc. stuffed into their pockets or in lunch bags to nourish them through the long wait.

There was no sign of any liquor or beer.

Some brought playing cards. Some brought signs like "Protestants For The Pope" and "Our Hope For The Future Is Here."

That afternoon before luck brought us to the reserved section, you begin to spot a few familiar faces: Robert Chenette of Merrymount, heading up the Boston Police detective security; Richard Sweeney, Quincy funeral director, and his wife; Clement O'Brien of the Quincy Housing Authority, Don Almeida of the Quincy Savings Bank.

And you see a number of familiar faces among the 300 priests selected to distribute Holy Communion: Fr. William McCarthy, Fr. Daniel Graham, Fr. Joseph Connolly and Fr. William Wash of St. John's Church; Fr. Cornelius Heery and Fr. James Parker of Sacred Heart; Fr. Gerald Ostermann, St. Boniface; Fr. Lawrence Pratt, Fr. David Delaney and Fr. Mark Sheehan, formerly of St. John's.

And among the concelebrants of the Mass with 15 cardinals and 30 other bishops are two local former church figures: Most Rev. Thomas Daily, formerly of St. Ann's, Auxiliary Bishop of Boston, and Most Rev. Joseph Maguire, formerly of St. John's, Bishop of Springfield.

The rain turned into a steady, heavy downpour during Communion with the priests distributing wet, soggy hosts to the thousands making their way through mud to receive them.

For such a huge crowd and the drenching rain everything seemed to go off without a hitch. There were no problems or incidents to mar the historic occasion.

Some 400,000 or more people of all ages and religions jammed together in chilling rain, their clothing soaked to their skin. And, no problems.

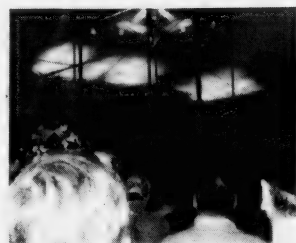

You couldn't help wondering what it might have been like if this had been a rock 'n' roll concert under the same circumstances.

The Mass, which lasted an hour and a half, was now over. And the crowd started filing out orderly, singing in the rain.

But not before one more rousing cheer went up for John Paul II, the first pope to ever visit here and to celebrate a Mass here.

It was a night to long remember for those who were there. A night to long cherish a wonderful feeling of togetherness rare today.

You were there and you were a part of it. And you won't forget.

POPE JOHN PAUL II celebrates Mass on rain soaked Boston Common Oct. 1, 1979.

ENROUTE TO THE Boston Common to celebrate his historic Mass, Pope John Paul II waves to many of the estimated one million who lined Boston streets to catch a glimpse of him.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1910 postcard view of the sewage pumping station in Merrymount Park in Wollaston. It was located behind the tennis courts off Fenno Street and was pretty much hidden from view by trees even with its 80-foot chimney. Built in 1892 by the city, it was sold a few years later to the newly formed Metropolitan Water and Sewerage Board to serve as part of the High Level Sewer line serving the suburbs of Boston. The MWRA has rebuilt this station over the last few years and all the activity and the attractive new structure with landscaped grounds continue to be mostly out of view. This old building and its chimney have been demolished.

Don't Let The Constitution 'Go Up In Smoke'

In a recent letter titled "Time For City Council To Take Stand On Smoking Issue," the writer stated he was in support of the proposed ban on smoking in the restaurants and bars of Quincy. He said people do "have a right to smoke or not to smoke," but added you should "keep your smoke to yourself."

This seems to be the famous stance from anti-smokers. You can smoke if you want but keep it away from me. Others say if you want to smoke, go outside. Myself, I say if you don't like the smoke, why don't you go outside?

This has become a constitutional issue. If you go and buy a pack of cigarettes, paying the tax, you are in turn purchasing a legal product. For someone to then tell me where I can use this legal product violates my privacy and, as granted in the Fourth Amendment, the "right of the people to be secure in their persons."

In the 1832 case Capen v. Foster, the courts clearly found that the legislative power could not exercise any action that would "restrain the right itself." By enacting a ban on smoking in certain establishments, the lawmakers will have done just that. If we are no longer allowed to use our legal product in a legal manner when and where we feel fit, our right to be left alone by the government, cited by Supreme Court Justice Louis Brandeis as being the most fundamental constitutional guarantee, will have been erased.

The writer of the aforementioned article cited several of the communities surrounding Quincy have passed a smoking ban. The writer went on to ask the question, "How far will Quincy patrons drive to smoke at dinner?" If the ban is not passed, the residents of Quincy can enjoy their meal right here in this great city, free of persecution.

With this issue pending and the livelihood of the small business owner on the line, we can only hope that when the time comes to vote, our councilors look no further than the grounds of the First Congregational Church of Quincy and to the resting place of a constitutional framer, President John Adams. Let's send the message to Beacon Hill that we embrace our rights and our freedoms. Don't let the Constitution go up in smoke.

Appreciates Buckley's Comments On Good Sportsmanship

The Mansfield Youth Basketball Association recently held a clinic for our volunteer basketball coaches. Our main speaker was Quincy resident Brian Buckley. In addition to enhancing the basketball knowledge of our coaching community, Mr. Buckley's comments on positive encouragement, good sportsmanship and role modeling were well received.

The 250 volunteer coaches and 1,200 players in our program are the beneficiaries of Mr. Buckley's wisdom.

Waiting For The Formal Garden

For some time now while driving on Hancock Street in Wollaston I've passed the sign for the "Formal Garden at Upper Merrymount" next to the stadium.
